b. The vision of Peter (vv. 9-16). While Peter was praying (v. 9) he saw a certain vessel containing clean and unclean animals let down from heaven, and heard the command, "Rise, Peter; kill, and eat." Peter protested that he had never eaten any unclean thing. God replied, "What God hath cleansed, that call not thou common." This vessel, let down and taken back, indicated that both Jews and Gentiles were accepted on high.

2. A messenger sent from Cornelius (vv. 17-22). Peter was greatly perplexed over what he had seen, but not for long, for a messenger from Cornelius made inquiry at the gate for him. The Spirit informed Peter of the matter and bade him go, nothing doubting.

3. The meeting of Cornelius and Peter (vv. 23-33).

a. Peter took six witnesses along (v. 23 cf. 11:12). In a matter of so great importance he must have witnesses.

b. Cornelius waiting for Peter (v. 24) called together his kinsmen and near friends.

c. Cornelius, about to worship Peter (vv. 25, 26), was told by Peter that he himself was but a man.

d. The reciprocal explanation (vv. 27-33). Peter explained how God had taken from him his Jewish prejudices. Cornelius explained how God had instructed him to send for Peter.

III. Peter's Sermon (vv. 34-43).

1. The introduction (vv. 34, 35) showed that God is no respecter of persons (see Golden Text).

2. His discourse (vv. 36-43) touches briefly upon the mission of Jesus, showing that he was qualified for his work as a Mediator. He then exhibited the work of Christ.

a. In his life (vv. 36-39). He went about doing good, even casting out demons, as a proof of the fact that God was with him (v. 38).

b. In his death (v. 39). The just suffered for the unjust that he might bring us to God (I Pet. 3:18).

c. In his resurrection (vv. 40, 41). God raised him up the third day, showing openly that Christ was his Son (Rom. 1:4) and that his sacrificial work was satisfactory (Rom. 4:25). In this discourse Peter sets forth

(1) The basis of salvation—the sacrificial death of Christ (vv. 39, 40) (2) The scope of salvation—"whosoever" (v. 43). (3) The method appropriating salvation—"believeth on him" (v. 43).

IV. The New Pentecost (vv. 44-48).

As the gospel was entering upon its widest embrace the Holy Spirit came in new power.

V. Peter Vindicates His Ministry to the Gentiles (11:1-18).

Being called to account for visiting and eating with Gentiles Peter's defense took the form of logical argument, showing how God had set his seal on the work by the miraculous gift of the Spirit.

Religion of Love

Self-confidence is good, and one can do very little without it, but it is something that needs watching, in order that its tendrils do not overgrow 'the vital'; and one of the things in life which are vital is love, and from love springs happiness.

As a Little Child

"When Israel was a child, then I loved him," (Hosea 11-1). Aim to be ever this little child, contented with what the Father gives of pleasure or of play.

OVER 4,000 BOYS HAVE REGISTERED FOR THE ATHLETIC PROGRAM

Birmingham, Ala. — Alabama now has its first state-wide coordinated recreational system in the American Legion-Macfadden Athletic program. This program is now completely organized, firmly established and satisfactorily operating. This project has been made possible through the joint cooperation of the American Legion, State Aviation Commission, Alabama Relief Administration and Bernarr Macfadden, internationally famous publisher, philanthorpist and physical culture leader, who is financing all expenses of organization, supervision and equipment.

The program is well distributed in the state, giving a balanced and representative layout, touching every section of the state and providing a comprehensive coverage.

More than 4,000 boys have been actually registered and it is estimated that more than 6,000 boys have participated in the program at one time or another since January 1st. Weekly attendance has ranged as high as 10,000. By spring, when the program has become fixed in the daily life of the communities and better operating conditions prevail, weekly attendance should run as high as 15,000 and registrations should exceed 10,000. Nearly 100 leaders and assistant leaders are now at work directing the program.

More than 60 towns have applied for the program and efforts are being made to extend it beyond the present quota of 40.

In each town the program is supervised by a Macfadden committee of the local American Legion post. The total membership of these communities in the various towns exceeds 120.

The program is receiving most enthusastic support and cooperation in the various towns. The city council of one has made a special appropriation to broaden its local program. A gymnasium is being built in another town. Athletic fields are being specically prepared or improved. Additional facilities are being provided in many of them. Nearly every town has done something special for it.

Now that the program is in full swing, plans are being made for its enlargement. Consideration is being given to a state-wide boxing tournament, state-wide standard athletic tests, radio programs, field days, etc.

Field organization work is being handled by William Cather and Andrew Hudson, two experienced athletic directors, who have been connected with the program since it was first startde on an experimental basis.

When the Townsend old-age pension plan goes into effect, there is going to be a great demand for old maids with leathery necks and plenty of bridge work.

The wonder is not that $1,540,000 vanished in Wall Street, for that is where money has cultivated the vanishing habit in a big way, but rather that there was that much money susceptible to the lure.

To what extent, however, is the recovery due to governmental expenditure? If the greater part of the fuel that is being pumped into the engine comes from the federal treasury, acceptance of the proposals of the conference for a stoppage of emergency, expenditures might have serious results. All the country can safely do is to experiment cautiously and gradually to reduce the outlays for public works.

Governor Lehman has proposed an additional 4-cent gasoline tax in New York, and the New York Automobile Club has sent out a questionnaire to motorists asking, "Are you in favor or opposed to this additional tax?" This sounds like a foolish question until you stop to think how crazy some motorists are.

After hearing the Rev. Father Coughlin's scorching charges against the new dealers, in which he charged them directly with communizing the nation, especially private property, one would say that Dr. Wirt is a piker.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

One of the most disappointing—and to some the most surprising—developments of the past several months has been the failure of American export trade to increase according to predictions. We were told that we might expect a great many things in our foreign commerce. The days of isolation were over, it was declared. Experts told us that the devaluation of the American dollar would be a boon to our exporters, because this would enable us to sell more cheaply abroad. There was a great deal of talk about increasing our foreign trade through reciprocal tariff agreements. Therefore, it is easy to see that the failure of our foreign trade to increase as rapidly as predicted is very disappointing, at least to those who believe in Santa Claus.

Things have not worked out as expected. In some lines, notably cotton, there is less foreign trade than ever before in spite of all efforts to increase it. The new policy of Hitler in Germany is to make the country as self-sustaining as possible and this has not helped our exports to that country. In fact we have recently been told that the effort to make a cotton barter deal with Germany is dead. Germany proposed to buy our cotton, pay 25 per cent cash and 75 per cent in goods. Then the question arose whether this flood of German goods to America might be called "dumping" and disarrange our local manufacturing schedule.

Our ballyhooed foreign trade with Russia has been a complete flop. She will not buy from us unless we lend her money to make the purchase, or take in exchange such Russian products as timber and oil, of which we already have more than we need. In fact, it is now claimed in some quarters that the Reds no longer want long term credit alone but actually a cash loan of $100,000,000. The communists may hate business men but as business men they are much better than anyone they may have an opportunity of hating. Recognition of Russia has been a flop from an economic standpoint. Only those who had faith in Santa Claus had believed that it would ever amount to anything.

The much heralded plan of reciprocity trade agreements seem to be falling hard, too. With the German cotton deal a failure, now the New England fish industry is beginning to express alarm. It is reported that in any prospective trade agreement with Canada we will be called on to import a lot of Canadian fish. What this will do to the American fishermen is obvious. Already it is said representatives of the American fishing industry are preparing to protest at the hearings on any Canadian reciprocity pact. If it is proposed in addition that we take in any Canadian grain or dairy products such as butter and cheese the yell will be such a one as can be heard as far south as Muscle Shoals.

One of the most promising fields for a trade agreement was said to be with Brazil, for the reason that we take the majority of that country's coffee crop and have comparatively little need of a tariff against Brazil. Yet that trade treaty doesn't seem to be going so good and as a result of this and other things some of the old time free traders are beginning to threaten a general assault on the tariff. When this comes, if it does, the fight with its scrambling and "alibying" will be worth looking at.

The fact is that it is difficult for us to make trade treaties with other countries without giving them the best of it. That is what they are always looking for when they deal with Uncle Sam. His is the first address on their sucker list and he will remain there until our internationalists discover that Europe deals with something a little more potent than Chrishmas cards when it plays international poker.

THEY WILL KEEP AT IT

Now that the World Court has been defeated by the senate, so far as American adherence is concerned, and we are being told that it is shelved for a long time, it is well to pin to one's memory a paragraph from that sturdy exponent of nationalism, the New York Sun. Here it is:

"In the hour of rejoicing over the defeat of the World Court resolution, there is an important thing to remember. The protocol is beaten, but it is not yet dead. Its supporters will return it to the pigeonhole and hope for a more favorable day. Many of them are not going to give up, for they depend upon the League propaganda for prominence, if not for money. The foundations, the paid secretaries, the well-rewarded orators will not surrender. They have had great success in marshalling to their banners a large number of respectable persons — clergymen, college professors, members of women's clubs and closely held bar associations—who have been led to think after the manner of the internationalists. Win or lose, these organizers find it profitable to go on with the effort. Vigilance will be needed to prevent them from keeping the World Court idea alive."

Here is something which every American who is against foreign entanglements ought to keep strictly in mind. The League of Nations and other organizations of international politics have been decisively turned down every time they have been brought before the American people. It is true that political platforms have favored an international tribunal, but what they have advocated has been a real court of law and justice, not a political organization like the socalled World Court of the League of Nations.

After the recent defeat of American adherence to the World Court by the Senate some internationalists attempted to explain away the result by stating that the majority of the people in the country and the majority in the senate favored the World Court, which was defeated only by a wilful minority group.

Nothing could be further from the truth. In the last two or three national elections senators were chosen on national issues and the World Court and League of Nations were scarcely mentioned. Had internationalism been in the foreground, the results in many cases might have been quite different.

It is true, as the Sun has well expressed it, that the internationalists will keep on with their organizations seeking to involve us in international entanglements. Real Americans should see that the next time they have no chance to get away with any statement to the effect that the majority of our people favor the League or the World Court. If the question becomes acute again let us have a referendum on it. The result will be quite conclusive and America will still be the country of Washington and Jefferson.

TAXES UPON TAXES

How many income taxes? Residents of New Castle County in Delaware will pay three kinds of taxes on their incomes this year and next. Governor C. Douglas Buck has signed a bill for the imposition of the county's income tax to finance its relief program for two years to come. The people of the county, in which is the city of Wilmington, probably will not suffer under a unique distinction as they pay their assorted income taxes. Residents of New York City will be likewise called upon to pay a local income tax unless the levy is repealed between now and March 15, and such action is said to be unliqely. Again demands for relief have brought about an unusual tax.

The amendment to the federal Constitution conferring upon congress the right to tax incomes was ratified in February, 1913. States were similarly looking to personal and corporate incomes as a source of revenue. Wisconsin made their taxation part of its progressive legislation. Massachusetts in 1915 followed the example set by the national government. The state constitution was amended. New York's personal income tax system dates from 1919. More than one-quarter of the states of the Union now have income taxes. In the twenty-one years during which the federal amendment was attaining its majority it became a member of a family in which were many little brothers, and the family is still growing.

Many thousand Americans have become accustomed to filling out two sets of income tax blanks and paying two kinds of income taxes. Now a third tax is imposed. It is a county tax in Delaware; a municipal tax in New York. When shall we read of the state in where they are both county and city income taxes in addition to income taxes state and federal? There are many political units which enjoy taxing powers, or upon which they might be conferred. How many income taxes? The question suggests a March crop of tax returns as abundant, if not as pleasing as the flowers that bloom in the spring.

SPREADING THE BLIGHT

"Few die and none resign." This ancient proverb applied to government commissions and bureaucracies is the keynote of the recommendations of the Interstate Commerce Commission for the further extension of government transport control. A commission to consist of sixteen instead of eleven members with their attendant examiners, secretaries, statisticians and just plain clerks will be necessary to regiment the activities of goat lines and wharfingers, pipelines, trucks, transportation brokers and airways in a manner comparable with the present government management of railways. Such control is absolutely necessary "in the public interest" according to the studies of the coordinator as reviewed by the commissioners.

"The great defect in present federal regulation of transportation is that it does not cover the field . . . It subjects the railways to most rigorous supervision, but puts no restraint on competition," avers the commission in its report. In plain English, the failure of the government's transportation plan of 1920 to gouge from traffic a fair return for our overbuilt railway system may be traced to the fact that Yankee ingenuity produced an automotive form of transportation that has placed a ceiling on rate levels. This condition the commission now proposes to "correct" through placing unwarranted restrictions on competitors that have yet to show any of the abuses that would justify government interference. The essence of the recommendation is a deliberate attempt to extend to other forms of transportation the same stultifying influence that has already nearly ruined the railways.

Shippers, farmers, manufacturers, miners and shipbuilders—here is a thinly veiled government conspiracy to deprive the American people of the benefits of invention and ingenuity rather than to release in the smallest degree tyrannical control of our over-regulated railways. If there is no well planned system of private distribution under consideration, congressmen should be informed by their constituents that common carriers were conceived to serve commerce and not commerce to support transportation. Substantial increases in freight costs will admittedly follow regulation of the activities of waterway and highway carrers, else no need for such regulation would appear. — Chicago Tribune.

Man In The Moon

THE WAR IS OVER—

The liquor war is over, for the present, at least. And to say that the result is a surprise is putting it mild. Of course, the most of us expecteed our Chilton County to go dry, but had I been a gambler with some money to wager, I would have been minus said money right now, for I most certainly would have bet that the state would go wet. A move is already on foot, however, to give the three big liquor counties what they voted for. We will not worry about that though. In fact, I'm willing for anyone who wants a drink to have it. So far as that is concerned, I'm even willing for all who want to get drunk to do so, providing they will keep their feet on the ground. But I know, from past experience, that this is out of the question. In 99 cases out of 100, when a man or woman gets "tight" the first thing he or she thinks of is a steering wheel. A steering wheel doesn't fit the hand of a drunk—it is too big, but the drunk never realizes it until he winds up in a ditch or a smash-up with another car. And I most certainly do not relish a game of hide-and-seek or leap-frog with a bunch of drunk drivers out on the highway—somebody might get hurt. A wet tells me that there is now as much whiskey as there would be if it were wide open. Then why does he want the law modified? If I had a mule hitched to a buggy, I know I had rather have some kind of a line on him, even if it was a weak one, than to have the bridle off. That's a pretty fair parallel.

Now, my compliments to the Jacksons for their earnest attempts in trying to teach people and prove by the Bible that the holy book is against prohibition — even COMMANDS drinking. It was a pretty good argument, but just a bit preposterous. That's why it didn't stick. Nearly everyone reads the Bible some, and these folks couldn't twist the Bible around to make it fit the case as the Jacksons would have it do. One wet told me that their argument hurt the wet cause here in Chilton county by its lack of reason. Said he: "I am against the prohibition law, but the Jackson letters turned some votes against my side, and I know it. They couldn't have had a worse effect if it had been known that they were concocted by imps, boiled down in the cauldon of hell, and spewed out of the mouth of the devil himself." I couldn't use language that strong. I like my Jackson friends too well for that.

STANFORD'S LAUGHING TEAM—

Once again the University of Alabama football team has gone west and made the best team that section of the country can boast look like an old fragment that the cats had drug in. This last trip to the slopes of the Pacific has just about convinced the rest of the United States that southern teams (and Alabama in particular) are well nigh invincible. Already former teams had made the country sit up and take notice of the South, and the game on January 1st, 1935 has added that convincing touch. Of course, there are some in the for north who still cling to the idea that Minnesota is the best in the country, but throughout the mid-West and the West ask anyone who the best football team in the country is, and they'll tell you right off: "Alabama." How those westerners do believe in Alabama! They would bet the skin right off their noses on that Tide team from Tuscaloosa. Here's a sample of the way they feel, as voiced by one man I talked to, on the day after the game. Said he: "They can talk to me about Minnesota until they are black in the face, and they cannot change my idea of what the result would be of a game between them and that bunch from Alabama. 'Bama would win, and I'd like to get a chance to bet some good hard cash on it. Why? The answer, to me, is that those boys from the South don't know how to lose. With a loss staring them in the face, they fight ever so much harder. I don't know how they manage to do it, unless they just don't study anything but football, but the fact remains that they know all there is to know about every phase of the game. They don't seem to take up one certain kind of game and perfect it—instead they seem to be perfect on every kind of play. What they lack in power they more than make up in resourcefulness. You can't beat a team like that. Alabama is great, and they will continue to be so."

That's the kind of reputation the teams from the University of Alabama have built up for their school, their State and their section of the country. As a result, Alabama schools are seeing a flock of students pouring into the State from all sections of the country, and Alabama profits thereby. "It pays to advertise," if the advertising is good. Stanford was called the "laughing team." It was said that they "laughed themselves right by the best teams in the West, and right into Rose Bowl." Well, they may have laughed themselves into the Bowl, but 'Bama's Tide gave 'em the dry grins once they were in there. They couldn't laugh themselves out.

During that last week of training, the sports editors on the coast had much to say about the difference in the way the two teams and their coaches went about their last-minute preparations and practice. Thomas and the Tide took their work seriously, working like beavers to perfect their game to the Nth degree. On the other hand, Coach Thornhill and his Stanford "Indians" were reported to be taking things rather easy, going through their "laughing practice" daily, and getting a great kick out of it all. But once the old ball game was under way Mr. Thornhill must have felt that things mught have been better if he had taken matters a bit more seriously himself. Like a good sport, though, he offered no alibis. In the next morning's paper he stated that Alabama had the best football team it had ever been his pleasure to see, and that he really enjoyed watching a perfect team work.

And as to the fighting spirit of the Alabamians, Will Rogers had the following to say: "I can't see but one mistake that Stanford made. They made that first touchdown too early in the game. They should have waited until the game was almost over, and then the boys from Alabama couldn't have had time to do all their dirty work. Why, when Stanford made that touchdown, it was just like putting a sand-burr under a Texas pony's tail. Those Alabamians didn't stop buckin' until that sand-burr of a touchdiwn was removed." If Alabama ever goes back to the coast again, you can trail along with them, and feel perfectly safe that you will be among friends out there. How they do love Alabama and her football teams, in California and the West!

THE COST OF WAR—

With war clouds hovering over Europe, and the whole continent like a powder keg with the fuse already lighted, chances to avert war during the next few years looks slim. And, with Uncle Sam considering entrance in the World Court, the chance of our participation in another world war, if and when it comes, looked very sure. With these high probabilities in mind, I think it would be worth every reader's time to glance at the cost of the last world war, just to refresh your memory, in case you may have partly forgotten the horrors of it all. Here are the figures. The following nations had losses in men, as noted:

Allies:—		The Huns:—
United States	107,284	Germany	1,611,104
France	1,427,800	Austria	911,000
Great Britain	807,451	Turkey	436,924
Russia	2,762,064	Bulgaria	101,224
Italy	507,160
Belgium	267,000	Total	3,060,252
Serbia	707,304
Roumania	339,117
Total	6,925,180	Grand Total	9,985,432

Add to all this another 20,000,000 wounded, from which there is no way to tell how many have died during the years since the war. Then there are the thousands upon thousands of non-combatants—women and children and older people, who had no part in the fighting, but who suffered and died from the ravages of war. And then there are the thousands who are now insane from shell shock or physical wrecks from poison gas—men who pray that death may come and ease their misery. Think of the widows and orphans—some of the latter yet unborn when their fathers fell in battle. They had no fight, yet we cannot say that they had no part in the war. Rather, they are the greatest sufferers of all from the ravages of war, for it has robbed them of their rights and protection, even before they were born. What chance has war left them?

It seems that the diplomats of the world might think of all these things as they gather around their council tables and prattle of war. And too, there is the material cost. In round numbers, the World War cost the nations about three hundred and fifty billions of dollars, or about two hundred millions a day for every day the war lasted—several times all the money in the world. Is it not worth while then that the officials of our nation take every precaution to keep us out of any entangling alliances which might lead us into war? Americans are a courageous people, but we have no fight to pick with any nation. I am sure Americans are willing to pay until it hurts to place our country in such a powerful position that other nations cannot afford to open war upon us, but none of us can see the use of deliberately sticking our heads in the noose. Certainly Americans still subscribe to that famous phrase: "Millions for Defense," and we are willing for Congress to vote money with which to build up our defense, but we cannot see the wisdom of "joining up" with European nations, which as I said before, are literally sitting on a powder barrel. In fact, we will be safer from a chance of war with a strong defense system than in a weakened condition. Let's hope that our officials will pay no heed to so-called "pacifists," but, looking to the best interest of our own people, will place our country in its rightful place among nations as one of the most powerful in the world—not for the purpose of waging war, but as insurance against such a calamity.—Man In The Moon.

FAILURE OF THE NRA

One of the principal topics of conversation recently has been the fate of the National Recovery Act and its future program. There have been several schools of thought on the subject. One has been composed of those who believe that the act should be repealed at once, and that we return as rapidly as possible to "first principals." This procedure has been advocated not only by those who believe in rugged individualism in principle, but those who feel that they have received all the benefit they could get out of the NRA and are now willing to go it alone.

Another group believes that the life of the act should be extended for two years at least. In this group are those who would like to make the NRA a permanent institution, and some who, while disappointed in what the act has accomplished, believe that in another year or two it can be worked out successfully.

Still another group believes that some of the features of the act, especially those concerning child labor and minimum wages should be retained, and the rest of it be permitted to die. President Roosevelt has recently asked Congress to continue the life of the act for two years, and has recommended some modifications.

Just what the future holds for the NRA no one, of course, can predict with accuracy. It is likely that the president will have his way with Congress and secure an extension of the life of the act. There are other elements at work, however, and no mere legislation can withstand the currents of natural economic laws which are much more powerful.

Certainly there have been some startling changes in the public aspect of the NRA during these few adventurous months. At first, the Blue Eagle was almost as doughty a bird as the American Eagle itself. He was to be found everywhere, in shop windows, in private homes, on stickers on automobile windshields, and nearly everywhere that space was available. Enthusiasm seemed to run high. To be a chisler was almost as bad as becoming a kidnapper, and men were threatened with jail for cutting the price a few pennies for pressing a pair of pants. Now the Blue Eagle is getting to be rarer, we hear very little about chiseling, and General Hugh Johnson, who was counted on to put it over with a bang, has resigned and is sharply critical of some of the developments of the recovery program.

No wonder the public is confused when it comes to consider the present status and the future of the NRA. There has been so much fulsome praise and sharp criticism that the truth of what is happening today is a little difficult to get at. The NRA has sought to accomplish a great deal, perhaps too much. Certain phases have sought to curtail production and at the same time increase employment, to raise prices and at the same time create more purchasing power, to increase our exports and at the same time unconsciously stimulate foreign production by raising the price of the domestic product. No wonder there is some confusion of mind. The following remark of George Soule, in February Current History explains some of the doubt about the NRA and its future:

"Under the NRA, industry after industry was given the power to restrict output and fix prices directly or indirectly, for the benefit of profits. As a result, prices of industrial products have been held too high to encourage a great enlargement in the volume of purchases by farmers, wage earners, builders or others who may invest in capital goods. In these crcumstances the extra money put into the hands of farmers and wage earners by government policy does not and cannot do the work expected of it.

"It is very necessary, if production is to increase, for construction and the heavy industries to be revived. Must we wait for this until the frozen real estate debts are liquidated and another construction boom arises from private speculation? Or shall we attempt to stimulate it by government expenditures on such things as high quality but low cost housing?"

The groundhog this year saw his shadow and went back in his hole. The stock market seems to have been doing the same thing.

The rich man in politics may get a run for his money, but there's no doubt that his money gets a run.

The Congressional Committee on unAmerican Activities has just wound up and has made its reports to congress for legislation to curb communism. This is about the tenth investigation by congress and therefore the tenth report with recommendations. Our guess is nothing will be done by Congress. But it has afforded many a congressman a nice tour of the nation with all expenses paid.

The ideal raido would be one which blew a tube every time the broadcaster lied about the product he was advertising.

The government, which now proposes to take southwestern Kansas farm land out of cultivation and convert it into an immense cow pasture, must have forgotten that it came out here only a few weeks ago and shot all the cows.

GIVES VERSION OF THE SHARE-TENANT CONTRACT

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to say a few words to the farmers who are renting land for the fourth that are under contract.

According to the rules of the contract if a man is cultivating land for the fourth, the share-tenant is entitled to one-half the rent according to the number of acres his crop is reduced.

Furthermore, if the producer furnishes his own work stock and all the fertilizer he has a right to cultivate the rented acres in corn or feed stuff rent free, according to the contract.

There are landowners who have two or more farms under one contract and takes all the rented acres out of one body of land and rents the balance of the land out for the fourth, which robs the tenant of cultivating any land rent free, and when his rental check arrives, he takes all the rent, claimng there is no land rented out of the tenant's crop. Although the tenant is forced to reduce and gets a small allotment and gets no benefit at all.

That is a violation to the contract and has caused much dissatisfaction among tenant farmers, especially those who are renting for the fourth. I believe there is a way whereby the tenant farmers can get their share of the government rent which they are justly due.—H. C. Jones.

BAKER SCHOOL

Doctor, we want you to come to see us again.

The sixth grade pupils have been writing letters about important places in the United States. Catherine Coe's letter was selected to be the best.

This is a copy of the letter:

Cheyenne, Wyoming, Mar. 5, 1935.

Dear Sixth Grade:

I am sure enjoying my vacation this summer. I have been visiting the Yellowstone National Park. While we were there one of the guides shouted, "Stand back, she's a-coming!" After a while Old Faithful shoots her spout. Her spout shoots about one hundred and sixty-five feet high. The Yellowstone Lake is one of the most beautiful mountain lakes in the world. Flowing from the Yellowstone Lake is the Yellowstone River, which flows over a precipice twice as high as Niagra Falls. There are more geysers in the park than in any other geyser region in the world. It is also noted for its petrified trees, its failing lakes, hissing hot springs, scalloped terraces down which their waters flow. In the wilderness, protected from hunters, roam deer, antelope, bears and other wild creatures.

One of the most famous sights is the great white cave, several hundred feet high. This consists of terraces, beautifully scalloped basins, streaked with red and yellow, caused by the algea that live in the water. The water issues at the summit at nearly boiling temperature and gradually cools as it flows to successive basins at lower levels.

This is the largest and most celebrated national park in the United States. The park was set aside in 1872. It is an ideal summer visiting place for tourists. The park has four entrances, three of which have railroad connections. I hope through this little information I have given you, you will choose to go there on your next vacation.—Your friends, Catherine Coe.

NEGRO NOT BURIED AT HIGHLAND

We are glad to offer this explanation and extend our apologies to the people of Highland for our error.

"Outcast Lady" Keenly Etched For Social Drama

Constance Bennett at Her Best As Innocent Victim of Scandal

There is a lilt, a swing, an irresistible power to the drama of "Outcast Lady," which M-G-M opens at the Wadesonian Theater Thursday night, March 7th.

Undoubtedly ninety per cent of its great impetus as an entertainment comes from the splendid romaticism of its two principal protagonists, Constance Bennett and Herbert Marshall, the newest notable pair of screen lovers.

Miss Bennett and Mr. Marshall are perfectly cast as the "Iris" and "Napier" of Michael Arlen's great bit of emotional writing. There is a terrific sweep to Arlen's treatment of these two, with their amazingly tangled love affair, a sweep excellently preserved for the talking screen by Scenarist Zoe Akins and Director Robert Z. Leonard.

An exceedingly strong supporting cast aids to keep the tempo of the emotionalism at a high pitch. Henry Stephenson fresh from his triumph in "Little Women," is fine as the stern Sir Maurice. Alec B. Francis has a beautifully done part as an old family retainer. Robert Loraine is splendid as an unrequited lover.

ALABAMA COUNTY AFTER $10,000 PRIZE FOR 4-H CLUB PROGRESS

Monroe County, named outstanding in the state for progress in 4-H club work the past year, is entered in a national contest for a $10,000 completely equipped community club house to be given by Sears Roebuck as a contribution to the upbuilding of a better American rural life.

Three prizes each of $1,000.00 cash will be awarded the next highest national winners, announces the national committee on Boys and Girls club work which is conducting the contest in cooperation with extension leaders. Winners are to be named March 15, and the club house built this summer.

A scrap book of 155 large pages submitted by Miss Lucille Garrett, home demonstration agent in charge of 4-H work, contains photos, newspaper clippings, and statistics revealing activities which touch the life of every person in the county. The 1934 membership of 1,736 represents practically every section in the county and is embraced in 6 health clubs, 24 boys and 30 girls clubs.

Many noteworthy achievements are recorded the past year. Seventy-eight teams made 33 demonstratoins in livestock and 45 in clothing; 63 judging teams took part in 53 contests; 1,525 members received health examinations; 16 leadership schools held with an attendance of 650; Sunday school and church attendance were greatly increased; school lunch service extended; 28,000 pieces of reading matter collected and distributed, and a county circulating library launched; successful farm exchange conducted; largest delegation at state annual meeting; supplied delegate to national camp.

Attendance of 2,533 was recorded at picnics, camps, tours and rally days, and 3,988 participated in contests, exhibits and achievement programs. Cooperation was received from practically every adult organization in the county and leading business establishments, and valued aid was received from the state extension office. Two assistants were supplied a total of 3½ months.

Improvement in rural practices are more and better canned foods, better meals, and generally raised standards in living; widened social and religious opportunities, and an improved morale; marked improvement in the production of farm crops, livestock and poultry and a better organized agriculture.

Monroe County 4-H club work is directed by the home agent and assistants, the latter devoting over two-thirds of their time to the work. They are assisted by 53 adults and 58 junior leaders. Average tenure of membership in 1934 was 2.5 years and 7 per cent of the members completed their subjects.

The county is to receive a fine engraved plaque from the donor and each competing county a handsome certificate of honor.

We failed to get our piece in the paper last week. However, we are still going with our Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. We had a large crowd last Sunday and everyone seemed to get a blessing out of being at Sunday school. We also had a splendid program in our B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. We are glad to see so many getting interested in church work, and we want to urge each of you to be on time next Sunday and bring someone with you.

We are glad to say that we folks around Pleasant Hill have service at our door now as Mr. S. J. Twilley has put in a grist mill and a full line of dry goods and groceries. I guess we won't have to worry about going to town on Saturday. Nevertheless let's not forget to go to Sunday school next Sunday.—Reporter.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

The Last Supper.—Jesus directed his disciples to prepare the passover, and when evening came, He sat down with the twelve. "And as they did eat, He said, Verily I say unto you, that one of you shall betray Me. And they were exceeding sorrowful, and began every one of them to say unto Him, Lord, is it I? And He answered and said, He that dippeth his hand with Me in the dish, the same shall betray me. The Son of man goeth as it is written of him: but woe unto that man by whom the Son of man is betrayed! it had been good for that man if he had not been born. Then Judas, which betrayed Him, answered and said, Master, is it I? He said unto him, Thou hast said."—Matthew 26: 21-25. Christ then blessed and brake the bread and gave the bread and wine to His disciples, an action from which the modern Communion service is derived. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

KEEP TREE ROOTS DAMP WHEN PLANTING THEM

Montgomery, Ala.—Tree planters are urged by the Alabama Commission of Forestry to see that the roots of the seedlings and saplings be kept constantly damp while being transported and handled preparatory to planting. According to information issued by the commission, the drying out of root systems is responsible for a very large proportion of planting failures.

Experiments with coniferous evergreens indicate roughly that if the roots of the trees are permitted to dry out for as long as ten minutes there will be a death rate of 5 per cent in the planted stand. A twenty minute exposure to the sun or drying winds will result in a loss of approximately 10 per cent; thirty minutes, 70 per cent; forty-five minutes, 90 per cent, and a full hour of exposure to drying influences is apt to cause a total loss. For these reasons the regular planting procedure requires that the seedlings of pines and other conifers be carried about the work in a bucket with the roots immersed in thin wet mud. The seedlings should not be removed from the bucket until the planting hole is dug and they are ready to be placed immediately in the ground with the damp earth pressed firmly about the roots.

Hardwood seedlings and saplings will endure more root drying than will the conifer. However, the only assurance of uniform survival of most tree species is to keep the roots in a damp condition by packing them in earth or wet shavings or wrapping them about with damp burlap. Both hardwood and conifer planting stock that is being transported from point to point preliminary to planting should be packed in this way.

AFRICAN MISSIONARIES FOURSQUARE VISITORS

Rev. and Mrs. M. L. Sigler, Foursquare missionaries to the Belgiam Congo, were visitors at the local Foursquare church last Saturday evening, Sunday and Sunday evening. The Siglers are on furlough at present, and are visiting a number of Foursquare churches before returning to their work.

On Saturday evening, Rev. Sigler gave a short lecture on conditions in the Congo, illustrated by a series of lantern slides.

Sunday morning, Rev. Sigler preached a sermon on "Faith," using as illustrations instances during the hunt when he killed his first elephant.

Sunday evening the new church was packed. After a short sermon, Rev. Sigler gave another series of pictures, showed numbers of African souvenirs, among which were elephants ivory tusks, wild cat skins, leopard and antelope skins, horns of water buffalo, antelope and the African jungle goat. Besides this, he showed the skin of a 16-foot python that he shot while on one hunting trip.

Rev. Sigler held the interest of his audience with a wierd story of the simple faith and knowledge of the black men. He told of their mode of living, what they eat, what they wear (when they wear anything), showed samples of their handiwork in basket making, etc., brought out a tribal drum, and gave an imitation of the African war dance.

After the service, numbers of people stated that they had a new conception of foreign missions, the hazards, the tropic conditions in Africa, and the real worth of the mission post.

Asked if he would return to Africa, Rev. Sigler stated that he did not know if he would go there or to Portugal. If he visits churches in the east, he will not sail before next January, but if not, then he and Mrs. Sigler will sail next August. He has consented to write a number of articles about Africa and his work there, for publication in The Union-Banner, when he gets back "home." Watch for them.

NEGRO DEMOCRAT TOURING STATE

Recorder of Deeds At Washington and Editor of Only Negro Democrat Paper

An interesting negro personality of the Mississippi Valley who is on a tour of Alabama, as well as other Southern states, is Dr. William J. Tompkins, recorder of deeds of the District of Columbia, and editor of the only negro Democratic newspaper published. There have been a total of 611 negro democratic newspapers, but only The Kansas City American, edited by this negro physician and surgeon, has survived to tell the tale.

Dr. Tompkins is on a good will tour through the South. He has made many addresses to colored and white citizens, one of which was recently delivered at Old Ship Church in Montgomery. Friday night, it is said, he spoke to more than 3,000 people in Birmingham.

"It is my first trip South," said the Missouri negro leader, "but I am delighted. Everywhere I go people of both races are cordial to me. I seem to get along as well with whites as with blacks, probably because I thoroughly like both races.

"I am interested in arousing interest in the negro's cultural history, not alone among negroes, but whites. I am interested in arousing the negro's political sense and especially am I interested in getting the negro to vote the Democratic ticket and abandon his blind attachment to the Republican party.

"Thomas Jefferson, founder of the Democratic party, emancipated his personal slaves 80 years before Lincoln was president. He wrote most of the anti-slavery articles which Lincoln subseqeutly used as his own on the stump." Dr. Tompkins visited the state capitol Saturday and made a special point of standing on the Jefferson Davis star.

"Mr. Davis was a remarkable, sincere leader of his people and is worthy of all respect, and admiration," said the recorder of deeds.

"Out our way, that is to say, in Missouri, most negroes, you might be interested to know, are Democrats. Fortunately, after the war between the states, the Democratic leadership of that state put its arms around the negro and looked after him intelligently. The result is that there is a unique political situation in my state with reference to the negro. As for myself, my background is all southern and all Democratic. General Sterling Price was the Confederate commander in Missouri. He escaped capture by a hair's breadth. It so happened that he and one or two others in his party hid in the hut of my old grandmother for a long period and were protected by her.

"I was a mascot at the age of 8 of a Democratic club. I've always been a Democrat. I do not know what it is to be anything else."

Regarding President Roosevelt the negro surgeon and editor says: "He is the greatest president we have had, in my opinion."—Montgomery Advertiser.

CHILD WELFARE DEPT. MOVED

Miss Nolen Meroney announces that her division of the Child Welfare Department has been moved to the courthouse. Anyone having business with her will find her at her new quarters there.

Dr. H. C. Nickson Starts Health Unit

Will Carry On Program Until Permanent Health Officer Is Named

Dr. H. C. Nickson arrived here on Tuesday morning from Montgomery to take up temporarily and carry on the work of county health officer until such time as the State Board of Health can arrange for a man to fill the place permanently. Dr. Nickson was accompanied here by Dr. W. H. Y. Smith, of the State Health Department in Montgomery.

Upon his arrival here Dr. Nickson took up temporary quarters in the Potts Building adjoining the courthouse. His first work, it is said will be to take up and carry on with the public health program that has already been instituted in a limited, though highly effectual manner, through the schools of the county. Out of this program the health department, when it becomes fully organized, will launch into the full scope of work which is the regular set-up of all time health units in the counties of Alabama.

When the permanent health officer is designated, the establishment of the health unit will call for the appointment of a trained nurse, a sanitation inspector, and sufficient clerical help to carry on the program of work, both inside the office and over the whole field of public health work in the county.

Mr. Ralph Jones and Miss Elizabeth Leslie of Birmingham were the week end guests of Mrs. Willie P. Jones.

Middlebrooks, after which the remains were carried to Selma, where last rites were observed at Jud Breslin Funeral parlors, with Rev. Middlebrooks officiating. Burial was in Selma cemetery Wednesday afternoon with J. Mell Martin & Sons, of Clanton, in charge.

Active pallbearers were Leonard Buffington, E. W. Lott and Billy Taylor, of Selma; Lester Jones, Ralph Johnson and Arthur Burnett, of Clanton. Honorary pallbearers, Dr. P. B. Moss, Jay Rimes and Van Friday, of Selma; Luther Little, U. H. Abrams, and Dr. E. E. Upchurch, of Clanton.

Miss Campbell had been a member of the Clanton Grammar School faculty for the past three years. Before coming to the Clanton school she taught at other places in the county, including Stanton and Enterprise.

She was a sweet and lovely young lady, a most excellent teacher, and has made hundreds of friends and admirers whereever she has had occasion to spread the sunshine of her friendly and charming disposition. The grief that is cast upon the hearts of her friends because of her untimely demise is not expressible in words. Her going is a loss to our community and school that will be hard to fill. She had already been chosen to keep her place on the Grammar School faculty for next year.

GROOM STORE ROBBED BY TWO BANDITS TUESDAY NIGHT

Two unknown white men are reported to have entered the store of Mr. Joe Grooms, at West End, Clanton about 7:30 o'clock Tuesday night, drew their guns on the proprietor, and took about five dollars in cash from him.

A lady is said to have entered the store to make a purchase while the bandits were holding up the place. They made her change for her and she went away unaware that the robbery was being perpetrated.

In addition to the cash, the bandits also carried away a quantity of cigarettes and cigars.

No clue or identification has been obtained as to who the robbers were as they made their escape complete before officers could get behind them.

BIRTH REGISTRATIONS IN CHILTON COUNTY

Montgomery, Ala. — Baby census cards numbering 269 have already been received by the state board of health from Chilton County in response to the state-wide "register your baby" campaign states Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer. In 1933 a total of 628 babies were registered from this county.

A large force of clerks are busy at the board of health office sorting, counting and checking the returns of the baby census; a total for the entire state of 19,863 being enumerated to date. The total state birth registration in 1933 was 59,240.

"This campaign gives parents the opportunity of registering their baby's birth with the minimum of effort. We want every card that applies to a birth within the past twelve months filled out and returned, even if the birth has been registered," says Dr. Baker.

The campaign is a joint undertaking of the board of health, the federal bureau of the census and the Alabama Relief Administration, to check the efficiency of the state's birth reporting system.

Dr. Gragg Is Glad And Surprised At State of Alabama Voting Dry

Dear Editor:

Some strange things happen. I was sure our good county would go dry, but I was surprised at the entire state doing so. However, it makes me have more confidence in my fellowman. I hear some criticism of the man who would take a drink and yet vote dry. I think that should be to his credit. He, at least, shows that he has good intentions even if lacking in will power.

Next, I want to compliment Judge Smith and his court for their unanimous passage of the health unit. By it, many, many bad tonsils, adenoids, bad teeth, hookworms, and other diseased conditions that ruin our children will be found and weeded out. Many "rehabilitated" school children will make a grade in a year when it has required them two.

Now, just a word about the row they seem to be having in Washington over relief measures. I do not think a "dole" or free gift should be made to anybody who is mentally and physically able to earn a living. Last year many able bodied men on the dole list were afraid to work, and frankly said when offered work, "I had better not do that job for you; they may take me off the list." Many able bodied men lived off the tax payers and Red Cross on that theory. Another thing was the relief wage of $2.40 per day was entirely too high as a relief wage. Comparatively few received it while the majority went without being able to get work at any price. Another thing was that it placed the wage scale where a farmer could not pay for labor. It is my opinion that one could not hire all the work done on the best farm in Chilton county and pay a dollar a day the year around for the kind of work he would get. If there is one farmer who can do that, let's hear from him.

I believe the government should care for its feebleminded, feeble bodied, and sick, who are not able to care for themselves. I think that is an absolute duty.

I also think the government should furnish the jobless, everyone of them who are able and want to work, a living job. However, it should be at a low wage. I learn from a most reliable source that it cost $100 to dig up a certain tree in Clanton, and $36 to put a foot log across Walnut Creek. That, to my way of thinking, is highway robbery of the taxpayers. Give all who need work a job. Work the roads, build school houses and beautify school grounds, and do dozens of other useful things.

The biggest and best project in Alabama that I can visualize is making the Coosa River navigable. From below Gadsden to well up in the State of Georgia, and from Wetumpka to the Gulf, it is already open. Here even with us the three large dams of the Alabama Power Company have solved the greater part of the remaining problem; and a liberal appropriation by Congress to be carried out with relief work, would solve the unemployment problem and, at the same time, open up one of the greatest waterways in the South.

Then think what it would mean for paper plants and similar industries running up into the millions of dollars, to be located up and down the banks of the Coosa River, with their thousands of employees to spend money with our business men, to purchase thousands of dollars' worth of food stuffs from our farmers.

The opening of the Coosa is favored by our Governor and many other men of ability. Why not strike now while the iron is hot and it can be done at a low cost and do great good by relieving the unemployment situation

If I am right, good people, put your shoulder to the wheel. Use your influence and let's get it going now.—V. J. Gragg.

Detroit Officers Take Bernstein

Police Sargeants, Harry O'Brien and Lawrence Sheehy, of Detroit, came to Clanton last Thursday and carried back with them Ray Bernstein, who had been confined in jail by city authorities, following his disorderly conduct and display of guns while traveling as a passenger on the bus through here early last week.

According to statements made to Mayor Jones by the Detroit officers, Mr. Bernstein is a business man of good reputation and many years service as credit manager for one of the largest department stores in that city.

About three weeks ago, they stated, Mr. Bernstein had a nervous breakdown, supposed to have been caused from shell shock which he suffered in the World War as a member of the Rainbow Division. He was ordered by his doctor to go to Florida for a few months rest.

He went to Florida, but apparently he grew much worse and became totally unbalanced mentally. He was on the bus going to Detroit, when he was taken in charge by officers here.

Work Begins On New City Hall

Ground was broken Monday morning preparatory to making excavation necessary to the construction of Clanton's new City Hall. The work is in charge of Algenon Blair, contractor, of Montgomery. Foreman of the job is Mr. Wilbur Stanley, of Clanton.

Materials for the building are being rapidly assembled, and the job is expected to be well under way in the next few days.

The contractor in charge of extension of the waterworks system has already begun work on his job. Ditches are being dug and pipe laid as rapidly as weather conditions will permit.

Funds for these two municipal improvements were provided by a bond issue of the town, through provisions of the Public Works Administration. Labor is being furnished through the local office of the Federal Employment Service.

Leroy Martin, came home Tuesday night suffering an attack of appendicitis. He underwent an operation at Central Alabama Hospital Wednesday morning.

C.C.H.S. GRADS MAKING GOOD

Records Reported On Students Who Are In Colleges This Year

One method of determining the scholarship and academic success of a high school graduate, is whether or not he succeeds in college.

The senior class of 1934 stands out as one of the best prepared that has ever gone out from Chilton County High School. Of the twelve students who went to college last September, the college freshman entrance examinations and intelligence tests reveal that every one not only passed, but a number of them ranked high at the close of the first semester's examinations in all their courses. Not only have these students met the college requirements in a very admirable manner, but a number of them have already achieved honors both in scholarship and extra curricular activities. Joe Moore made the college glee club the first year at the University of Alabama, which is a rare thing for a first year student. Dan Smith won a silver loving cup in a competitive debating team at Auburn a few weeks ago. He was also chosen to represent the freshman class of Auburn at the Southern Baptist Convention, which met in Memphis, Tenn., last October. In addition, the official registrar's records reveal that Dan made an average of 93.1 per cent in English, which is the highest average made by any member of the entire three hundred and eighty-one students composing the freshman class of Auburn.

Another student who is making a brilliant record in college is John Ezell, who made 90 per cent in all of his courses at Wake Forest College, North Carolina. This young man showed such thorough background in such courses as English, chemistry and mathematics, that he was honored with a scholarship in teaching and coaching students who were weak in mathematics.

Roberta Cochran made above 90 per cent in all her work at Huntingdon College, Montgomery. Virgil Robinson and James Dennis have not made below 85 per cent in any of their work at Auburn.

The above information is official from the institutions attended by the students. Chilton County High School feels justly proud of its products, and stands ready at all times to help any one who attends our school.

Miss Dorothy Sessions, who is attending school in Montevallo spent the past week end at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Sessoins.

Miss Cuba Keith spent the week end in Jemison with the Langstons.

HOSPITAL OFFERS CONTRACT PLAN

Three Weeks Treatment May Be Had For Payment of $12.00 A Year

Announcement is made this week that the Central Alabama Community Hospital Service is now available to people of this vicinity, whereby for the payment of the sum of $12 a year a person or any one of his or her dependents may secure hospital care in the Central Alabama Hospital for a period not exceeding three weeks.

This service includes board, bed, operating room fee, laboratory, minor dressings and nursing care. It does not include X-Ray or special nurse.

For some time this service has been contemplated by members of the medical profession here and the directors of the Central Alabama Hospital. It has been carefully planned, both from the standpoint of the hospital and the benefits it will offer to those subscribing to the service. There seems no doubt that it will fill a long-felt want, and will enable many people of limited means to secure hospital service where they never would be able otherwise to do so.

Subscribers to the service will receive a membership card setting out all the details of the contract, and enumerating all conditions and requirements on the part of the subscriber and the promoters of the service. The cost will be $12 a year, payable in advance. This will entitle a holder or anyone of his dependents (who are named on the card) to the services stipulated on the contract.

Sale of membership cards will begin in the next few days. Agreement for carrying the sales plan out in the county has been made by the promoters of the service with Mr. Buford Lawrence. Mr. Lawrence expects to build up an adequate sales organization whereby the benefits can be made available to each and every family in Chilton County.

Several doctors in the county have already expressed their interest in the movement, and will become active in presenting its advantages to the people.

ELIZABETH HARRIS HURT IN WRECK SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Miss Elizabeth Harris, daughter of Mr. Grover Harris, letter carrier on Clanton Route 3, was severely injured late last Saturday afternoon in an automobile wreck one mile south of Clanton.

She was driving south on the highway alone in her father's V-8 Ford. As she passed a car, she said her own machine got off the pavement and began to skid. When she sought to apply the brake, she accidentally pressed down the accellerator. This done, the car assumed such speed that she lost control of it and it turned over three times. The young lady sustained painful cuts and bruises.

IN MEMORY

On October 22, 1933 God planted a beautiful flower in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Dunlap. For sixteen short months it blossomed in all its beauty. Then God transplanted it from earth to Heaven.

How deeply we feel the shadow cast upon us when one so sweet has been called away. A golden link in our family is broken, a place vacant which can never be filled. God only can understand the aching void in our hearts. But there's a brighter side. It is just through the thin veil where Christ is and where she is too, sweetly sleeping in the arms of Jesus.

We shall miss her since she went away, but we will strive to meet her in a better world some day.

She leaves to mourn her loss her mother, father, one sister, one brother, and a host of relatives. Brislin Bros., of Selma, prepared the body. Funeral services were at Highland, Bro. A. C. Trice officiating.

Her grave was banked with exquisite flowers. Lovely, thought they were dimmed in comparison with the lovely flower sleeping beneath.

Our darling is sleeping
Beneath the silent clay,
But if we live as we should
Some day we'll meet little Ila Mae.

A. A. JACKSON

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in your paper to reply to Mr. Wet, who hid behind your Man in the Moon last week to belittle the Jackson letters that appeared in The Union-Banner recently condemning the present prohibition law.

Mr. Wet, you said they, the letters, couldn't have had a worse effect if it had been known that they were concocted by imps, boiled down in the caudron of hell and spewed out of the mouth of the devil himself. Mr. Wet, I don't know who you are but my first guess is that you are a bootlegger or a two by four preacher. I do not believe the Union-Banner has one reader that believes you are against prohibition unless you are a bootlegger.

If the Jackson letters were so hellish and devilish, why did you hide behind a man made moon to say so. We ask you to be a man and come out from behind the moon and tell us in what way was our letters out of line with the Bible. In failing to do so, we will have to brand you as a coward who is afraid of your own statements. Did you get mad because I called your bootleg liquor rattlesnake stuff?

Now, if you are a preacher, did you get mad with me because I told off on our churches that during 1930 we Methodists and you Baptists furnished more prohibition criminals for Kilby Prison than all other churches combined, including all people who belong to no church?

Now, if either of you are mad with Gus and Joe, come out of your hiding and be real men and let us reason together thus saith the Lord. We are not mad.

In conclusion, let me suggest that Chilton County build a large stockade and our good sheriff, Mr. Hardy, organize his forces and inforce the prohibition law on all, high and low, rich and poor, and there will be enough caught to furnish labors to build a concrete road to every man's door in Chilton County and that will bankrupt the county, and won't leave enough of us Methodists and you Baptists to keep the weeds and grass out of the church yard, and what will become of our good preachers?—Yours for temperance, A. A. Jackson.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The writer has just returned from Mel Trotter's Bible Conference in Grand Rapids, Mich. He was there eight days and spoke on the conference program twice a day. While in Grand Rapids it was my great privilege to shake hands with thirty-two people who told me they were converted in my revival in the city of Grand Rapids eighteen years ago. Of the thirty-two who shook hands with me, three are successful ministers of the gospel. This is most significant for two reasons. First, people tell you that revivals do not abide. Second, at the close of the Grand Rapids revival eighteen years ago a leading minister preached a sermon against the meeting and called it mob psychology and said that there would be no lasting results. It is a great joy to travel over America and meet the hundreds of people whom we have had the joy of leading to Jesus Christ. Winning men to Christ is the biggest business in the world. It s bigger business than running a bank, or a manufacturing plant, or being governor, or a United States senator, or president of the United States.

Mel Trotter is one of the most unique religious leaders in the United States. He was reared on the banks of the Mississippi river in a saloon. When he was a young man he was a notorious drunkard. He got into some trouble and "skipped out" to Chicago. He went down the street by Pacific Garden Mission and Harry Monroe, that prince of mission workers, called him into the hall. Mel was gloriously converted. During my recent visit to Grand Rapids Mel Trotter celebrated his thirty-eighth birthday. He has been a Christian for thirty-eight years. He is about sixty-five years of age. For thirty-five years he has conducted a mission in Grand Rapids and has conducted evangelistic meetings throughout the United States. He has been around the world twice. It is wonderful what God can do in the heart and life of a man.

"Do you believe in miracles?" I am often asked that question. Certainly. Why shouldn't I believe in miracles? I have seen Jesus Christ in my life time do things just as wonderful as raising the dead. It took a miracle-working God to deliver Mel Trotter from the slavery of whiskey. "I couldn't quit," said Mel. "Over my baby's coffin I swore I would never touch another drop and I was drunk in two hours after the baby was buried. I didn't want to drink. There was nothing I could do for myself. Jesus set me free."

Within the last few weeks I have been in a number of the leading cities of America. Practically everywhere I go I find young men and young women in dining rooms drinking cocktails and smoking cigarettes. This is tragic. These young people are poisoning their systems while they are young with nicotine and alcohol and they are reducing their chances for success and they are cursing their unborn children. We are sowing the wind and we are going to reap the whirlwind.

Don't you believe that women have as much right to drink and smoke as men?" somebody inquired. "No," is my answer. I don't justify men smoking and drinking, but men have nervous systems which are different from the nervous systems of women. The effect of alcohol and nicotine on women is bound to be worse than it is on men. I have known the sons of drunken fathers to make good in life, but I have never known the son of a drunken mother to succeed. Motherhood is sacred. When God came down from heaven to earth to live among men He came by way of a woman's body. God touched into the glory and dignity the body of a woman when Jesus Christ was born of a virgin. What a pity it is for young women to pour nicotine and alcohol poison into their blood streams and into their lungs and hearts and all other organs of their bodies!

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—Dr. Colin G. Fink, distinguished research electrochemist and head of the department of electrochemistry at Columbia University, is the next eminent speaker scheduled to appear at the University of Alabama. Dr. Fink is being brought to the University on Tuesday, March 19, under the auspices of Sigma Xi Club, a group of men who were initiated into chapters of this honorary scientific fraternity on other compuses. There is not a chapter at the University.

Dr. Fink will describe his work in restoring coins, vases, water jugs, wine vessels and other metal objects dug from the sites of ancient civilizations. Often when these objects are unearthed, they appear to be mere formless greenish objects. Many of these relics he has been able to restore completely. In the case of the coins, the inscription may often be read easily after Dr. Fink has finished them. During his lecture, he will use colored slides to show the unearthed objects before and after restoration.

Most of this work has been done for the Metropolitan Museum of Art. Curios restored by Dr. Fink include many from Pompeii, Egypt, Greece, Asia Minor, Assyria as well as from numbers of other sites of ancient civilizations.

Dr. Fink has been eminently successful in his electrochemical work. He had much to do with work in bringing about the modern incandescent lamp with its drawn tungsten filament. He spent two years in Chile and is responsible for a marked improvement in the technical processes of the Chile Copper Co. He has also done much to perfect the process by which automobile fixtures are chromium plated. He has been employed in the Edison Lamp Works, and as a research engineer by the General Electric Co. He was awarded the Edwin Goodrich Acheson medal for distinguished work in the field of electrochemistry, and the Perkin medal in 1934.

Dr. Fink took his A. B. degree at Columbia University, and subsequently took his M. A. and Ph.D. degrees at Leipzig. After this he remained for some time as an assistant in electrochemistry. In 1922 he went to Columbia, where he has been ever since. At the same time he works as a consulting engineer. His lectures, in class as well as out, are said to be interesting and easily comprehensible even to persons of an unscientific turn of mind. This lecture on the restoration of ancient relics is expected to appeal particularly to those interested in art.

Effective the coming week, Ottokar T. Cadek of Birmingham will become artist instructor in violin at the University of Alabama, Mrs. Harry N. Eddins, head of the department of music announces.

Mr. Cadek was born in Chattanooga, Tenn., where his father, a native of Prague, Czecho-Slovakia, established the Cadek Conservatory of Music. He went abroad and graduated from the Conservatory of Zurich with highest honors. He has had private instruction with Sevcik, Aner and Kneisel.

In 1919 Instructor Cadek was offered the responsible positon of first violin in the newly formed New York String Quartet which has since become one of the leading exponents of chamber music in this country.

Since the death of his father in 1927, the younger Cadek has directed the policies of the Cadek Conservatory of Music and has conducted master-classes in violin every summer. He has held similar classes in Birmingham, and in Harrisburg, Pa., and numbers among his pupils leading violinists and teachers in other cities as well.

A revision of "The Law of Torts", by the father of Prof. William Hepburn of the University of Alabama will come from the press in April. The elder Hepburn was professor of law at the University of Indiana until his death four years ago and the revision was directed by the Alabama Law professor and by Prof. A. H. Throckmorton of Western Reserve University.

One of the outstanding features of the new edition is the incorporation of nearly 75 sections of the Restaurant of the Law, together with 450 new cases, particularly selected from the records of the Alabama courts. In preparing the new edition the local professor reviewed approximately 3,000 cases from which the best and most representative have been selected. The work will be used next session in the Alabama Law School.

Mrs. Jack McMurray (Exie Baker) of Cullman, has been visiting Mrs. J. M. Curlee in Clanton for the past few days.

"Why Don't You COME UP and See Us Sometime?"

"I'D LIKE TO,"—replied Reddy Kilowatt, "but if I did that I'd lose a lot of friends my Company and I now have because of the low price we ask for electricity, so they can cook and heat water and refrigerate and do a lot of other things electrically for very little money. And, too, if I should come up to see you sometime I'd break faith with Mr. S. A. Bolen, of Jackson, Alabama, who wrote:

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY
"I'm glad to learn that there's at least one thing that seems to have been going down in price ever since I can remember—and that's the price of electricity. Everything else always seems to be going up."
S A Bolen
Jackson, Ala.

Alabama electric rates are the lowest ever—and among the very lowest in the Nation. Compare that with what's happening to the prices of food, clothing, rent and other necessities.

IF your physical let-down is caused by a lowered red-blood-cell and hemo-glo-bin content in the blood—then S.S.S. is waiting to help you... though, if you suspect an organic trouble, you will, of course, want to consult a physician or surgeon.

S.S.S. is not just a so-called tonic. It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying hemo-glo-bin of the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone... if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetising food... sound sleep ...steady nerves... a good complexion ...and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the uproad today. © S.S.S. Co.

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Legitimate tobacco dealers of the state are showing a fine spirit of co-operation in carrying out the provisions of the Tobacco Tax law, according to Henry S. Long, president of the state tax commission. Receipts from the tax on cigars, cigarettes and smoking tobacco are showing a healthy increase since the state launched its drive to break up the cigarette smuggling which has been hurting the honest dealer and cutting down the public school revenue. Proceeds from the tobacco tax go to the educational trust fund, and constitute an important factor in supporting the state school system.

"We are very much gratified with the response from the legitimate dealers," Mr. Long stated. "At the same time we intend to continue a vigorous warfare against the cigarette bootlegger. This particular type of tax-dodger is cheating the school children of the state and subjecting the law abiding dealer to unfair and illegal competition. We appreciate very much the fine spirit manifested by the honest tobacco dealers who constitute the great majority of those in the business. The State Tax Commission assures them that we will continue the fight against our common enemy until the bootleg business is definitely and completely eliminated."

The state tax commission recently adopted a new type of tobacco revenue stamp designed especially for attaching to cellophane, which is a marked improvement over the old style of stamp.

The state tax commission has issued a warning to all holders of foreign securities that on the first of April it will open an intensive campaign to enforce assessments of all such securities which have not been registered with the commission. In a recent statement the tax commission called attention to the necessity for owners of foreign securities to avail themselves of the opportunity of registering their ownership upon payment of a low privilege tax and thus obtain exemption from ad valorem tax. The response to this warning was very gratifying. It is known, however, that a great many such securities have been withheld from record. The Commission expects to make a systematic and intensive campaign to see that all such securities are properly taxed. Where unregistered securities are found, they will be assessed for ad valorem tax, including all penalties.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—With the view of ultimately converting the states gulf counties into a "winter playground," Gov. Bibb Graves announced shortly before his departure for Washington that efforts are being made to obtain federal funds for establishing a migratory waterfowl refuge in South Baldwin County.

The governor said he was acting at the request of Game Commissioner I. T. Quinn in the hope that Alabama may get a share of the broad migratory waterfowl restoration program that has been undertaken by the federal government.

This project is closely tied in with the government's soil erosion, submarginal land and national parks program and after a conference with Thad Holt, Alabama Relief Director, and Col. Page S. Bunker, state forester, the governor stated, "I am inclined to think there is a good chance of getting it through."

The duck restoration program is in the hands of the U. S. Bureau of Biological survey and includes the reestablishment of breeding and nesting places in the north and the location of resting and feeding grounds in the south. J. N. Darling, chief of the bureau, asserted during his winter visit to this state that southwest Alabama is ideally located for the establishment of winter feeding grounds for ducks.

"If we can get a sanctuary established around that chain of fresh water lakes in South Baldwin county it will be a big step toward converting this section of Alabama into a winter playground and resort," Governor Graves said. "We want to have such a place for migratory waterfowl to rest and feed so they will stop in Alabama and not go on to Louisiana or some other state."

PETER DELIVERED FROM PRISON

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:1-19.
GOLDEN TEXT—But prayer was made without ceasing of the church unto God for him. Acts 12:5b.
PRIMARY TOPIC—How Peter Was Freed From Prison.
JUNIOR TOPIC—How Peter Was Delivered From Prison.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Prayer Helps.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Power of United Prayer.

The young church had met and overcome some serious difficulties. She first had to face religious persecution at the hands of Jews. Then came internal troubles as to the support of certain widows. The separating wall of Pharisaical legalism was broken down in the admission of Gentiles into the church, but finally she had to meet the naked sword of civil authority. Through all these tests she was more than conqueror.

I. Peter's Imprisonment (vv. 1-4).

1. By whom (v. 1). Herod, the grandson of the wicked Herod who slew the innocent children of Bethlehem. His half-sister, Herodias, secured the death of John the Baptist.

2. The reason (v. 3). It was to gain the favor of the Jews. Herod was not a Jew but an Edomite. Therefore, he knew that his success was dependent upon his having the good will of the Jews. He seems not particularly to have hated the church, but to have loved popularity, for the sake of which he manifested a deep sympathy for degenerate Judaism. Since the church had so developed as to be a successful rival of Judaism, he saw an opportunity to curry favor with the Jews by putting forth his hands against it.

3. The method (v. 4). He was arrested, put into prison and guarded by sixteen soldiers, one group of four for each watch of the night. Humanly speaking it was impossible to escape. They had doubtless heard of Peter's escape from jail before, so they thought they would take no risks this time. However, they reckoned without God.

II. The Church of God in Prayer (v. 5).

The church was at a crisis. James, one of the brethren of the church, was dead, and Peter, the most prominent of all, was in prison. In this desperate strait, they betook themselves to prayer. This was a noteworthy prayer.

1. It was unto God. All true prayer is unto God.

2. It was united prayer. There is peculiar power in the united prayer of God's people.

3. It was more than unceasing prayer. It was the intensely earnest desire of the soul stretched toward God.

4. It was definite prayer. They specifically offered prayer to God for Peter.

III. Peter Delivered by an Angel (vv. 6-11).

This occurred the night before Herod's plan to make a public display of him.

1. Peter sleeping (v. 6). This shows that he was not disturbed over the matter. The Lord keeps in perfect peace those whose minds are stayed on him (Isa. 26:3).

2. Peter leaves the prison (vv. 7-10). A heavenly light shone in the prison. The angel smote Peter on the side. The chains fell off. Peter put on his clothes and passed by one guard after another, through the iron gate and into the city. The whole transaction was orderly and leisurely, showing that God is not in a hurry.

3. The effect upon Peter (v. 11). Although the matter was so wonderful to Peter who thought himself in a vision, when he came to himself he knew that God had miraculously delivered him from Herod's wicked hands.

IV. Unconscious Unbelief (vv. 12-19).

1. The behavior of Peter and the church (vv 12-17). Peter went to the house of Mary and knocked. The knock was answered by Rhoda, who was so overjoyed that she forgot to open the gate, and went right in and told them that Peter was at the gate. The disciples were not prepared for such good news, even accusing her of madness. She, undaunted, insisted. They offered as an explanation that perhaps it might be Peter's guardian angel in his likeness. Peter rehearsed unto them the Lord's dealing with him.

2. The behavior of the soldiers (vv. 18, 19). There was great agitation among them as to what had become of Peter. This was a serious matter, since they were responsible for him. Not being able to account for Peter's escape, Herod commanded that they be put to death. After this, Herod went down to Caesarea, where he was adored as a god. Because he arrogated this honor to himself, the Lord smote him. Herod died, but the word of the Lord grew and multiplied.

How to Love God

To love God is to love his character. For instance, God is purity. And to be pure in thought and look, to turn away from unhallowed books and conversation, to abhor the moments in which we have not been pure, is to love God.

Good Rules of Life

It is a goodly thing to die with the blessed consciousness of never having taken advantage of another's infirmity, or poverty, or ignorance; to die able to say that one has not extended the empire of evil on the earth.

TWINS AND TRIPLETS ARE AMONG ALABAMA BABIES

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama does not boast of any quintuplets, but the "register your baby" campaign now in progress throughout the state has disclosed a number of sets of twins and one set of triplets.

The triplets, one dainty little lady and two husky boys, arrived January 23, of this year to gladden the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hipp, who live on rural route 7, near Birmingham.

These three new Alabamians will be assured that when they reach the school age, six years hence, that they will not have any trouble entering school, for they will be provided with their school matriculation papers, certified birth certificates.

The "register your baby" campaign is a joint undertaking of the State Board of Health, the Federal Bureau of the Census and the Alabama Relief Administration with a double goal, getting every child born within the past twelve months provided with the proper birth registration and to check the efficiency of the state's vital statistics reporting system.

INFANT BURIED AT SUNSHINE

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Obie Moates of Providence community was buried at Sunshine cemetery Wednesday, March 6.

The child was born March 1st and died March 5th. The family extends thanks to friends for their help and sympathy.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

The Agony at Gethsemane.—"Then cometh Jesus with them unto a place called Gethsemane, and saith unto the disciples, sit ye here, while I go and pray yonder. And He took with Him Peter and the two sons of Zebedee, and began to be sorrowful and very heavy. Then saith He unto them, My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with Me. He went a little further, and fell on His face, and prayed. And He cometh unto the disciples, and findeth them asleep, and saith unto Peter; What, could ye not watch with Me one hour? Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak. He went away again the second time, and prayed, saying, O My Father, if this cup may not pass away from Me, except I drink it, Thy will be done. And He came and found them asleep again: for their eyes were heavy. And He left them, and went away again, and prayed the third time, saying the same words. Then cometh He to His disciples, and saith unto them, Sleep on now, and take your rest: behold, the hour is at hand, and the Son of man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. Rise, let us be going: behold, he is at hand that doth betray Me. And while He yet spake, lo, Judas, one of the twelve, came, and with him a great multitude with swords and staves, from the chief priests and elders of the people."—Matt. 26: 30-47. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

POPLAR SPRINGS

The people of this place seem to be regaining some of the interest that has been lacking for the last month or two. We had a small crowd at Sunday school Sunday morning, but a fine lesson was discussed. Everyone present seemed to take an interest in the discussion. The Sunday school decided to meet back Sunday night and re-organize our B. Y. P. U., which has not met for several Sunday nights. Although there was not a large crowd present, we called to order and carried out a program.

We take this means in letting the people around here and elsewhere know of this new step and invite all that are interested to come and help us out. We are going to meet every Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock and have choir singing before B. Y. P. U. There is expected to be special music from time to time.

As health of this community is improving we hope to see those absent faces present again very soon.

Perhaps by staying out of the World Court, Uncle Sam will not have to help decide who got a chip knocked off his shoulder in Africa.

You read quite a great deal about meetings of "Good Citizens", but generally the good citizen stays at home at night and looks after the baby.

EXPECTS TO FOOL US AGAIN

The English and the French are wondering why the United States declined to come into the World Court. They simply can't figure it out. It's amazing—no less! Some people over there think it may have been due to the spots on the sun or to the fact that so many Americans thought the World Court was in Central Africa or on an uninhabited island in the South Seas and that it would take too long to get there. But never for a moment is anybody over there going to think that the refusal of the United States to come over and play with them had anything to do with their welching on the war debts. At which, over in England, they'll say, "But America surely didn't expect anybody to pay her: Why, nobody ever pays America. It simply isn't done!" NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

In view of the terrific amount of foreign propaganda and the great foreign activity to which the United States has been subjected in the past several years, there is considerable interest in the recommendation for salutory legislation by the McCormick Committee recently in the national House of Representatives. This committee, it will be remembered, was appointed to investigate foreign activities in the United States under the chairmanship of Representative John W. McCormick of Massachusetts.

There has been all sorts of foreign propaganda afloat in the United States since the days of the World War, when we were fairly flooded with it from most of the European nations. Such propaganda has been slipped unawares into our newspapers and periodicals; it has come to us through lecturers on public platforms in the United States, and some has been spread by some organizations which were interested in getting help from the United States for some European nation or other. A great deal of propaganda has come to us through foreign press dispatches written by European correspondents who are principally interested in getting the people of the United States to believe what they want us to believe. It is worth remembering also that in South America the Europeans have been propadangizing against the United States to turn the Latin Americans against Uncle Sam. The object of course has been to divert Latin American foreign trade from the United States to Europe.

There has been of course a great deal of subversive activity in the United States on the part of foreign influences. The McCormick committee investigated principally alleged Nazi and Communist activity in the United States. The committee reports that the millions of Americans of German descent in the United States paid little attention to alleged Nazi propaganda and were not influenced by its purported program. It was intimated, however, that the Communist activity in the United States had become increasingly active. The committee recalled the pledge that Soviet Russia had made when America recognized her, to cease red activity in the United States, and added that a month afterwards the Communist International approved a program for the overthrow of capitalist classes. In reference to communist activity the committee stated that there ought to be protective action against foreign penetration in the United States and the following recommendations for legislation were made, as summed up by the Associated Press.

1. That all publicity, propaganda or public relations agents of foreign governments, foreign political parties or foreign commercial firms be required to register with the Secretary of State.

2. That the secretary of state be empowered to shorten or end the stay in this country of a temporarily admitted foreigner if he disseminates propaganda or engages in "political" work.

3. That the United States negotiate treaties with other nations for the deportation of undesirable aliens to their native lands.

4. That it be made unlawful to advise soldiers, sailors or reserves to disobey their laws or regulations.

5. That the United States attorneys be empowered to prosecute persons who refuse to testify before congressional committees.

6. That it be made unlawful "to advocate changes in a manner that incites to the overthrow or destruction, by force and violence, of the government of the United States" or any other state.

Foreign propaganda and foreign activities in the United States as well as European propaganda against states in Latin America deserves serious consideration and some protective action. Let us not wait until it is too late.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Under the above title, Robert L. Archer writes interestingly in the current issue of the National Republic on the formation of the Federal Reserve System in 1913.

"Our banking and currency systems have been the source of more or less grief to our citizens since the earliest days of the republic," says Mr. Archer. "First there was the great mass of Continental currency issued under authority of the Continental Congress and the various colonies for the purpose of carrying on the Revolutionary War. Much of this (more than three hundred million dollars) was allowed to expire in the hands of its holders, and as Thomas Jefferson said "universal congratulations took place on seeing this gigantic mass quietly interred in its grave.'

"Then came the first bank of the United States, chartered in 1791 with currency issuing functions, the creature of the brain of the then secretary of the treasury, Alexander Hamilton. It continued in existence only for its charter term of twenty years. Renewal of its charter was refused largely on constitutional and political grounds. The bank had been managed so efficiently that it paid its depositors and noteholders in full and returned to its shareholders more than they had invested in the stock of the bank.

"The country was then forced to a dependence on the state banks, many of which were organized with insufficient or ficticious capital. Circulating notes of many of them passed at a discount, in some cases as high as twenty-three per cent. Almost all of them suspended specie payments during the War of 1812.

"Such unsatisfactory conditions resulted in a demand for a second United States Bank, and such an institution was authorized by Congress in 1816 and the second United States Bank opened for business in January, 1817. It had a stormy existence. The emissions of state bank currency continued until there was an enormous currency inflation. The currency emissions of the United States Bank were modest and well controlled.

"Its charter expired in 1836, and the political opposition led by President Andrew Jackson was such that a renewal of its charter was refused. Then followed another era of state banks and their currency emissions that continued for a quarter of a century, or until the adoption of the National Bank Act in 1863. During that period it was necessary for bankers, merchants and others to have possession of a little booklet issued monthly which gave the approximate rate of discount on the issues of currency of the many and various state banks. Under the provisions of the National Bank Act the state bank currency was taxed at the rate of ten per cent per annum, which had the effect of forcing its retirement. The currency authorized under the National Bank Act was secured by United States Bonds. It proved to be a safe and sound circulating medium and we still have it with us.

"The National Bank Act was one of two measures adopted during the trying days of the Civil War as measures of necessity. It had the double objective of providing a well secured circulating medium, and at the same time providing an additional and larger market for the sale of government securities at a time when such securities were difficult to float. The new law accomplished both of these objectives, and has proved to be a bulwark of strength in our banking system ever since.

"The second measure was the act authorizing the issuing of non-interest bearing treasury notes to be used as currency. These were issued during the war to a maximum amount of $433,000,000, and still form a part of our circulating media to the amount of $346,000,000. During the war their value as expressed in gold suffered a considerable shrinkage, but with the resumption of specie payments by the Treasury Department in 1879 all of our currency was on a gold value basis.

"However, notwithstanding the improvement in our banking and currency systems the country still suffered from banking and commercial 'panics.' For many years there was much discussion of means of guarding against and preventing these recurring financial and commercial disasters. Among other things it was urged that our banking system was not unified; that our reserves of coin were not centralized, and that our circulating medium was not elastic, that it would not expand and contract with the demands of trade. These discussions finally led to the appointment of the National Monetary Commission authorized by the Act of Congress in 1908. This commission consisted of nine senators and nine representatives, and was headed by Senator Nelson W. Aldrich as chairman and Representative Edward B. Vreeland as vice chairman. It conducted exhaustive studies and surveys of the banking and currency systems of the leading nations of the world."

WHAT'S MY DEBT?

The President's budget message and the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury both indicated that we are now in debt nationally more than 28 billion dollars and that we will be in debt by the end of the next fiscal year about 32 billions. This is a difficult sum to comprehend. Perhaps a very good way to get an idea of it is to think of the total retail business of the United States for a year That for last year is estimated to have been approximately 30 billion dollars. Therefore, every dollar that was spent last year for goods to be consumed or used by the ultimate buyer was offset by a dollar of national debt.

In other words, the national debt in terms of each family of the United States is equal to the amount of things they bought last year. Some families may have spent $500 a year, some $5,000, some more, some less. But whatever it was, that was about the part of the debt that each family will have to pay sooner or later, or keep paying the interest on it.

It is proposed to increase this debt about four billion dollars a year for the next two years at least. This is almost 15 per cent added to the debt, or in other words, just add that to the amount spent the past year and it will represent how much more in debt you will be at the end of each of the next two years.

This, mind you, is for the national debt alone. It takes no account of the state and county and city and school debts which often will foot up more than will the national.

A great many people have an abhorrence of running into debt personally, but do not think much abut it when it is done collectively. They get into the habit of thinking of the government as something else than themselves. But it is not. The government is not something outside ourselves. It is a partnership in which we may be either a willing or an unwilling participant, an active or silent partner, but none the less a partner who assumes his part of all obligations. In that respect it is just like a partner in any business. Each partner is responsible for the obligations of the other.—Centerville (Ia.) Citizen.

Uncle Sam and the Russians have agreed to disagree.

Man In The Moon

TO THE VICTORS

"To the victors belong the spoils". That's an old Democratic post-election cry, which, I must admit, has been taken up and adhered to by Reublicans, too, in recent years. It is to say that when Democrats are elected, Democrats, naturally, expect to get all the soft jobs. And when Republicans are in power, the same is true on their side. During the last election, many Chilton County Republicans "jumped the fence" for various reasons. Some of them went over for personal reasons; some went for political reasons; it is rumored (but no one seems inclined to vouch for this rumor, and I certainly can't) that some went over for the good cold hard cash they got for so doing. And then there were some who went over for the sake of "a job", if the Demmies were elected. I am told that there were quite a few of these. And now, it is just a bit amusing to watch these backsliding one-time Republicans as they wait for the promised jobs. Yes, they are waiting—and I very much fear they will keep on waiting, for quite a while, yet. They are beginning to get a little suspicious though, some of them. They have seen some mighty smooth jobs slip away to regular Democrats. And, as one fellow told me: "That job was promised to me", some of the boys are becoming a little displeased with the way things are going. But the boys should have thought of this angle of the business before they jumped. They should have remembered that old story of the wary old steer in the stockyards who always took the lead of the herd right up to the slip-gate to the slaughter pens, but always stepped aside at the gate, allowing his followers to pass through to their death while he always stepped aside to safety. They should have remembered that there are plenty of old-line Democrats to fill all the jobs. They should have remembered, too, that although erstwhile Republicans are responsible for the Democrats being in power, that Democrats would have first call on the jobs; the Democrats won the election, although these disgruntled Republicans did the electing. The Democrats, then, were the victors, and they should have remembered that "to the victors belong the spoils", and the spoils in this case were the county jobs. Our Republican friends who jumped have no reason to feel bad at the Democrats for not giving them jobs although they supported them in this election; the Democrats who are getting the jobs are, for the most part, good, life-long Democrats, while these "new Democrats" have been such in only one election. Right down to brass tacks, now—isn't it right for the old-timers to have the jobs, rather than these new Democrats which are not yet dry behind the ears from their new political birth. My brother Republicans, you have no kick coming. Just remember, "to the victors belong the spoils", and vote right next time.

AS REGARDS TRAITORS

From the very beginning of time, traitors have been despised, hated, and ultimately punished. The serpent in the Garden of Eden betrayed his Creator, and was cursed to forever crawl on his belly in the dust. Ham betrayed his father, and his children have had to bear the sting of his curse of a black skin for all time since. Brutus betrayed Caesar, and today the name of Caesar stands as one of the greats of all time, while that of Brutus serves only to remind one of something despicable and loathsome. Judas betrayed his Christ, "and straightway went and hanged himself". Benedict Arnold betrayed the American army, of which he was a part, and today the name of Benedict Arnold is remembered only because he is considered as one of the lowest of his order. Yes, there have been traitors since the beginning of time, in every walk of life, but there is not one whose name is hallowed because of his treason. The term "traitor" is considered by an American as a fighting term. It is even worse than to be called a coward. There have been traitors of all kinds, too—even political traitors. I do not refer to the man or woman who through honest change of convictions changes his party, but to the man or woman who, through personal grudge or from disappointed aspirations, will forego his or her honest convictions in order to wreack vengeance on their enemies, even though they be political brothers. Some Democrats over this county say that our Republican party is dead, but there are others—the wiser ones, too—who know that it is the smoldering fire which breaks out when least expected. No, the Republican party in Chilton County is NOT dead! It will rise again "in newness of life" to bring forth leaders — true ones — party patriots, as it were—who will stick with the party and its people through thick and thin, through victory and defeat, to rule with justice in victory, and to work WITH and FOR their party with vigor in defeat. To those of the latter type we of the Republican party of Chilton County offer an invitation to come and be with us and one of us. But to those who do not themselves know their own hearts, who are not sure that they can bear the disappointment of defeat as gracefully as the elation of victory, there is no place. We welcome all "true blues", and heartily despise a traitor.

REPUBLICANS AND REPEAL

Since the referendum on repeal of the state prohibition law, or modification thereof, on February 26, the repeal leaders have been hunting frantically for some reason to advance for the loss they suffered. First, they said it was a loss to the preachers and the bootleggers. Then they mulled over various other reasons. But it remained for The Montgomery Advertiser to come forth with the prize winner, as reasons go. The Advertiser has again lived up to its record of forever getting the cart in front of the horse.

In its issue of Thursday, March 7, The Advertiser carried a front page article, headed as follows: "State Can Thank Republicans For Prohibition Vote". The article carried further statements calculated to lead its readers to believe that it was a referendum between Republicans and Democrats of Alabama, and that the Republicans won.

Further, The Advertiser comes out in its issue of March 8, and names 29 south Alabama counties which "gave modification a total" of so many thousand votes. However, a check-up shows that 18 of these 29 counties ACTUALLY GAVE PROHIBITION A MARGIN! What kind of propaganda is this that The Advertiser would have its readers believe? To what limit would The Advertiser distort the truth? Is there any limit to which those in charge of The Advertiser would confine themselves in the light of decency and veracity and fair dealing?

For many years, in fact ever since the Civil War, Alabama has been Democratic by a big majority, as everyone knows. Many, many times The Advertiser has issued the statement that "Alabama is so 'preponderantly' Democratic that the Republican forces of the state will never be able to become much of a menace to our Democratic cause". Now, The Advertiser would have its readers believe that Republicans are the sole cause for the loss of the wet forces in the recent referendum. I feel sure the Republicans might well feel proud that they are given this distinction, yet it is a bit hard to understand how a state so "preponderantly' Democratic would allow the few Republican voters to "slip one over" on the Democrats, as The Advertiser would have us believe.

The Advertiser editor mentions several of Alabama's counties with fairly large numbers of Republican voters, (although only one of them has a set of Republican officials), and offers these as the reason for the wet loss. But there are quite a few other counties, "preponderantly" Democratic, which also gave the drys nice margins, which, for some reason or other, he failed to mention. Just to keep history straight in the matter, I'll name a few of the Democratic "dry" counties, which The Advertiser's editor evidently overlooked.

He mentioned Cullman, dry by 310, but failed to mention Bibb, which, though very much Democratic, likewise was dry by 366. He mentioned Chilton, dry by 943, but missed Cherokee, just above it in the list of counties, which was dry by 950. He could see Blount and its dry margin of 1,095, but completely overlooked Limestone, dry by 446, and Monroe, by 474. He found Clay, dry by 1,104, but didn't notice that Pickens was dry by 790, and Talladega by 583. He saw Fayette, dry by 1,372, but so was rock-ribbed Democratic Lamar, by 1,390, and The Advertiser didn't notice that Franklin's margin of 862 hit him right between the eyes, but he lost sight of Democratic Calhoun, with its dry margin of 908. He saw Jackson, dry by 1,388, but not Morgan, likewise dry by 1,826. He saw Marion's dry margin of 1,342, but not that of Lawrence, 872, nor that of Geneva, 459. Marshall's dry margin of 1,529 so filled his eyes that he couldn't see the dry margins of some other Democratic counties, such as Wilcox's 235, Washington's 220, Hale's 221, nor Henry's 185, although all the latter polled small votes, and gave the drys wide margins. He saw Randolph's 1,589, but not that of Chambers, 1,466. He saw little Shelby's dry 418, because thert are quite a few Republicans up there, but not wholly Democratic Butler's 530. He was quick to mention Walker's 1,671, and completely ignored Coffee's 617, Dale's 405, and Elmore's 409. He had big eyes for Winston, the "lone wolf" of the Republican fold in Alabama at this time, with her dry margin of 1,002, but didn't notice Lauderdale's 520, Tallapoosa's 311, nor Tuscaloosa's 315. He talks big of the doings of Republicans as DeKalb cast a dry margin of 2,794, but does not state that all of this comes right on the heels of a general election, when Democrats filled the offices of that county.

The Advertiser, and the wet leaders must surely be hard put for a reason for their loss, to dig up the one they have advanced. Is The Advertiser trying to tell us that Alabama is not "preponderantly" Democratic any more? Is "Grandma" telling us that some of these counties which haven't had a Republican official within the memory of anyone now living have suddenly gone Republican? The wets won in 15 counties, and lost in 52. Is the Advertiser trying to tell its readers that there are enough Republicans in these 52 counties, nearly all of which are "preponderantly" Democratic, that they can whip the Democrats in their own back yards?

All these years, The Advertiser has bragged of the "staunch Democratic majority in Alabama." How then, can this newspaper come to its readers and tell them "you have the Republicans to thank for the prohibition vote?" Has The Advertiser no regard, whatsoever, for veracity of its statements? Is it so steeped with hatred for Republicans and their party that it would seek to cast a shadow on them on ANY pretext? I cannot believe but that it should be considered an honor by the Republican party, as a whole, to be considered the champion in the fight against the liquor traffic, but The Advertiser would leave with its readers the impression that to vote dry is some kind of unpardonable sin. And, so reasoning, lay it at the door of the Republicans.

If The Advertiser did not wish to cast a shadow (in the editor's estimation) on Republicans, then why are only counties with a good per cent of Republicans in them named, while rock-ribbed and "preponderantly" Democratic counties which cast even larger dry votes go unmentioned? If the Advertiser's editor had wanted to be fair, he might have added up the margins of the counties which give a fair Republican vote, and balanced them against the total of the Alabama counties which are so "preponderantly" Democratic. Then he could have told his readers where the real dry margin came from. Perhaps he did, and found it on the wrong side of the ledger. Then all there was left for him to do was to twist the facts and dump them in the lap of the Republicans.

It all boils down to this. I am told that Alabama is Democratic by about 5 to 1, at least this is what the Democratic papers of the state have been telling us for lo, these many years. Then we would like for The Advertiser to explain to its readers how each of these Republicans could out-vote 5 Democrats. Alabama's Republicans must be awful strong voters, or there are some awful big liars connected with some of Alabama's papers. You be the judge.—Man in the Moon.

STORMY WATERS

More and more it is becoming apparent that the national administration is entering upon an area of waters which are much stormier than anything yet encountered. So far as Congress is concerned, especially the United States Senate, it is evident that the days of complete cooperation are over. First came the blow to the administration prestige when the present Senate refused to follow the President's lead and to put the United States into the World Court. The next time the Senate showed independence was when it disagreed sharply with the President on the $4,800,000,000 relief program. It was the administration's plan that relief employment be gived at rates less than the prevailing wage. Many powerful senators, especially some of those aligned with the so-called liberal forces, held that relief work should draw the same wages as those paid to employes of private industy. When the matter came to a vote in the Senate those believing in the higher wage rate won.

Without going into the merits of the controversy, it is evident that the victory of the so-called insurgents was a serious blow to the prestige of the administration and Congress. Ajax defied the lightning and still lived. Perhaps it will be easier for him to do it in Congress the next time or at least to have more nerve. Just now the relief bill is hanging fire with the administration leaders trying to build up a back-fire in the country which will help the administration program by raising a demand for this new relief work. It is believed in many quarters, however, that more trouble is coming and that some of it will develop in the bonus and pension act.

In the meantime the courts have not been so kind to the New Deal as was anticipated by many of the young men who created it. Following the reverse of the New Dealers in the oil controversy came the divided decision on the gold clause. While some of the New Dealers in the oil controversy came the divided decision on the gold clause. While some of the New Dealers claim a victory in this, just what the future developments may be remains clouded in doubt.

In the meantime the New Dealers have been given a severe jolt by Judge William I. Grubb, in the Federal District Court of Alabama. This decision maintains that there is no Constitutional authority for the government to manufacture power and sell it to private utilities.

If this decision is maintained by the Supreme Court, as some believe it will be, it may spell the end for the entire government program of power production in the Muscle Shoals area. Some of those who have studied the situation say that if Judge Grubb is upheld it will be just too bad for the much publicized T. V. A. program. Friends of the program believe that the Supreme Court will overrule Judge Grubb but admit that if it does not the T. V. A. program will go into the discard.

Closely following this decision the federal courts ruled against Section 7-A, regarding organization in the N. R. A., and sustained an injunction against the Coal code, both of which were regarded as blows at some of the theory and practice of the New Deal.

It is likely that the N. R. A. program will be prolonged for two years by Congress. Just what will happen to it, however, when it gets to battling with economic laws out in the country remains to be seen.

COOLIDGE'S WARNING

At this time when most of the states of the Union are in financial difficulties and when several of the state governments are in constitutional jams, and when states are looking to the federal government for aid in solving many of their problems, warning once given by the late Calvin Coolidge deserves repetition. In his annual message to Congress in 1925, President Coolidge said:

"The functions which the Congress is to discharge are not those of local government but of national government. The greatest solicitude should be exercised to prevent any encroachment upon the rights of the states or their various political subdivisions. Local self-government is one of the most precious possessions. It is the greatest contributing factor to the stability, strength, liberty and progress of the nation. It ought not to be infringed by assault or undermined by purchase. It ought not to abdicate its powers through weakness or resign its authority through favor. It does not at all follow that because abuses exist it is the concern of the federal government to attempt the reform.

"Society is in much more danger from encumbering the national government beyond its wisdom to comprehend, or its ability to administer than from leaving local communities to bear their own burdens and remedy their own evils. Our local habit and custom is so strong, our variety of race and creed is so great, the federal authority is so tenuous, that the area within which it can function successfully is very limited. The wiser policy is to leave the localities, so far as we can, possessed of their own sources of revenue and charged with their own obligations."

The depression brought a national emergency which virtually compelled the national government to expand tremendously the field of its activities, to assist state and local governments and private citizens in their battle against the economic storm. In this respect the depression has frequently and pertinently been compared with a war. Theories, no matter how sound, must sometimes be temporarily abandoned in crises. Nevertheless, the Coolidge idea of government is fundamentally correct. Its logic speaks for itself. President Roosevelt himself has referred to the importance of state and local responsibility in regard to relief. Experience is showing that we need a fresh recognition of the need of preserving and strengthening our state and local governments.—Worcester Telegram.

The most valuable university which America could have would be one teaching common sense. Unfortunately it cannot be done.

TVA WILL CARRY APPEAL FROM THE GRUBBS DECISION

James Lawrence Fly, General Solicitor of TVA, today auuounced the inteneion to carry the appeal from the recent decision of Judge W. I. Grubb, of Birmingham, Ala., to the Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans. At the same time it was stated that no application would be made to the Supreme Court for a writ of Certiorari which, if allowed, would take the case directly to the Supreme Court. Mr. Fly pointed out that the last sitting of the supreme Court this spring will begin on April 29th and it would be impassible to perfect the appeal, prepare and file the record, present the application for the writ of Certiorari and, after ruling there upon, get the case set down in time for hearing before the summer recess. It was also noted that the appeal will probably be completed in the Circuit Court of Appeals before the summer recess and hence there would be no delay in reaching the Supreme Court in either event.

Mr. Fly said: "Under the statutes and the custom long prevailing, the Supreme Court has relied upon the Circuit Court of Appeals to thin out the appeals coming up from the lower courts and to clarify and restrict the issues of those which may later be heard by the Supreme Court. The granting of a Writ of Certiorari which would by-pass the Circuit Court of Appeals is an extraordinary measure and one which is not expected the Supreme Court will favor for more general use. This is particularly true in cases involving extensive records and complicated issues of fact, to which the Circut Court of Appeals can give detailed attention, and to this extent relieve the Supreme Court of a heavy task. In a case which involves so many issues of fact and of law as ours the regular and orderly procedure of going through these responsible and highly respected Court of Appeals readily commends itself."

FOOD Economy

ALL over the world thousands of housewives are saving food, time and money with the Superfex Oil Burning Refrigerator. And while they're saving, their meals are better too, with less work and fewer hours in the kitchen. It costs less than $10 a year to achieve these gratifying results, because Superfex derives its power from kerosene, the cheap fuel that is conveniently available everywhere.

Thorsby Institute News

Monday morning at chapel Jack Higgins, president of the Senior class, of Thorsby Institute, presented the school with a large new flag on behalf of the class. This came as a surprise gift and is very much appreciated. On pleasant days it will be seen flying from the flag-pole in front of the school building.

Saturday night an interesting program was given by the Helen Keller Literary Society. The boy's quartet sang "Duna". This was their first appearance. Their voices blended very well. The girls' trio also made their first appearance. The Cassitae club sang in their new costumes of blue trimmed with white. They sang "Where Go the Boats?" "The Star" and "Tinkle-oo". After the club, a short Indian pageant was given in which J. W. Pouncey gave as a reading part of "The Song of Hiawatha." He represented "Hiawatha" and Ines Jackson was "Minnehaha" She sang very sweetly "By the Waters of Minnetonka' as a solo. The last number on the program brought in Earl Pate as Leopold and Mary Francis Harris as Mozart's sister and Mae Perl Sorrell as Mozart in his youth.

Term examinations will be on Thursday and Friday of this week.

On Saturday morning Miss Jenkins, Miss Lois Primm, Louise Mims, Blanche Morgan and Sarah Green motored to Montevallo to see the screen version of Victor Hugo's "Les Miserables." VERMONT SCHOOL

The Chilton County Post, the American Legion will join the Legion Auxiliary in holding their meeting at our school next Friday night, March 15, at 7:30. They extend a cordial invitation to everyone who might be interested to be present. Candies, sandwiches and drinks will be sold by the Jr. High boys and girls. A good time is expected for everybody. Come.

Our Parent-Teacher Association met in regular session last Thursday night. Seventy parents were present. There was also a large group of the younger set and friends of the school present, among them being Rev. J. S. Johnson, pastor of the Antioch Methodist church. The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Johnson. He then made a four-minute talk regarding the merits and value of our P.-T. A. We fully appreciate his words of kindliness and encouragement, and extend him a most gracious invitation to be with us again at our final meeting April 4.

Mrs. Bertie G. Johnson, third and fourth grade instructor, presented her classes to the P.-T. A. in quaint Holland ways. Various scenes, poems, songs, plays, depicting the quaint customs of the Dutch people were rendered very appropriately by the third and fourth graders. Another little scene which was very unique and instructive was the rendition of a ten-minute playlet in which different members of the classes impersonated the customs and manners of the Chinese, the Eskimo, the Indian, the Dutch, the Mexican, the Japanese, and the Americans. The characters were dressed in costumes very similar to those worn by the children in the above countries. In connection with the same program, Miss Manning, primary instructor, presented some of her little first and second graders in that charming little play "Hans and Gretel."

This week a general discussion has been carried on in all the rooms by the entire teaching force, regarding forest protection against the ravages of fire. If we American people continue to disregard the potential value of our few woodlands, we might as well prepare now to face the same pitiful experiences which our neighbors across the Pacific, China, are now, and have been for several centuries, beset with. The choice timber resources of this great state of ours are gone, and they can never be reclaimed by this generation unless we eliminate some of our present short-sided policies especially the one of constant burning off of the wooded sections. Is it any wonder that we suffer from droughts, dying trees, shortage of bird life, loss of fertility, erosion of land surface? Further, is it any wonder why many springs and streams, once regular, are now dry, and can we not understand why our creeks and rivers flood the land after heavy downpours of rain We've no right to expect that the older generation will provide ample forest resources, because they alone must shoulder the blame for the reckless way in which our trees have been handled in the past, thus it becomes the duty of every boy and girl in this great country of ours to stem the tide of forest destruction. We Americans take great pride in revealing our patriotism. Will we reveal this patriotism in the cause of beautiful trees, clear running brooks, crystal springs, attractive bird-life, wild flowers, and nature as a whole? If our answer is yes to the above, then we'll step in line and fight every forest fire within our range.

Miss Cagle and Miss Manning spent the week end with their parents.

Several of the students are making preparations to present an interesting bird day program. Following this will be another program relating to our wild flowers. Each of the Junior High school boys have pledged themselves to build a bird box and encourage our insectivorious birds, such as the blue bird, black martin and wrens to make their homes close to us.

Miss Cagle (to Cleve in health class) —Did you ever see a house fly?

Cleve—Yes'm, On March 21, 1932, when the tornado went through.

The young people of the Sardis community met at Sardis church last Wednesday night to organize a singing society. They invite everyone interested in the cause of good singing to meet regularly with them.

Plans are pending towards having the Liberty Hill quartet render us another of their programs. Further announcements relative to this will be forthcoming later.

Our attendance for the sixth month has greatly exceeded that of the last month.

We regret the absence of our school and class mate, Gertrude Carter, who has been suffering the past two weeks from an attack of flu. We hope she gets back in school this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson spent the past week end with his uncle and aunt, Dr. R. B., and Miss Elizabeth McNeill, of Jemison.

Don't forget the Legion meeting tomorrow night.

IN MEMORY OF DADDY

On March 4th, about 8:30 o'clock a.m., God saw fit to take from us our beloved father. He was 82 years old, was born in Chilton County and lived here until God saw fit to carry him to that bright home above.

He joined the church in early boyhood and lived a true consecrated Christian life until his death. He was married about 45 years ago to Miss Georgia Alice Retherford, who preceded him to the grave seven years ago. He leaves to mourn his loss one brother, Martin Giles, of Clanton; four sisters, Mrs. Polly Gore, Mrs. Ada Glass, of Jemison; Mrs. Susie Wagoner, of Bessemer; Mrs. Amandy Tracy, of Clanton; four children, Jim, and Will Giles, Mrs. Minnie Moates, Mrs. Pearl Carroll, all of Clanton, and a host of relatives and friends.

Weep not, dear ones, just think of daddy as not dead but sleeping in the arms of Jesus. — A Daughter, Mrs. Pearl Carroll.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

AAA OFFICIALS ADVISE A 35 PER CENT REDUCTION

Auburn, Ala.—If farmers follow the advice of AAA officials they will reduce their cotton acreage 35 per cent and produce 11,500,000 bales of cotton this year.

By reducing their acreage 35 per cent farmers will be taking advantage of the maximum rental payments permitted under the cotton contracts, they declare.

In emphasizing the importance of farmers making the maximum reduction, C. A. Cobb, chief of the cotton production section, says:

"A crop materially larger than 11,500,000 bales would unduly depress the market in 1935 and make it difficult to reduce the carry-over to a desirable figure by August 1, 1936, and in this way would affect the 1936 price as well as the 1935 price."

RENTED LAND USED FOR MAKING TERRACES

Auburn, Ala.—Lands rented to the government may be used in building terraces.

County agents of the state have developed a plan where by the farmer may have his terrace lines run before planting and then leave a strip 25 feet wide for building the terrace during the spring and summer months. The land in the strip will be counted as part of that rented to the government. Should the terraces be constructed in time, the farmer may plant the strip to food and feed or soil improvement crops.

ACID MAKES THIN POCKET BOOK

Farmers have had to cut down their acreage of certain crops. If they are to make a fair profit next year every acre planted must be brought through to maturity with big yields of high grading crops. Too much acid in the soil is one of the biggest obstacles to bumper crops on many farms. Such soils cannot be expected to produce big, profitable yields until they have been properly limed. Until then, the excess acid in the soil will make for a thin pocketbook.

Acid in fertilizer should also concern farmers. Experts say fertilizer which release acid in the few handsful of soil around the plant roots prevent the crop from getting the full benefit of the plantfood applied. Certainly farmers can't afford to use any fertilizer in which acid prevents all of its plantfood being used to best advantage by the crop, especially since non-acid forming fertilizer (physiological neutral) can be bought for the same prile.

And of further importance is the fact that it also contains added magnesium and calcium, and other important plantfood elements. These, authorities claim, are necessary to grow best crops, and that many soils show a very low content of them.

STEEL FOR FARM USE

The increased farm income during 1934 created the largest demand for steel for agricultural purposes since 1929.

Reliable sources estimate that 1,400,000 tons of steel went into farm equipment last year—more than seven per cent of the finished steel produced. This is reported to be the largest percentage of the total production required for agricultural uses in any recent year.

FARMERS HELP THEMSELVES CONTROLING SOIL EROSION

Montgomery, Ala.—Maintenance of the forest floor on the woodland portions of the farm is an important factor in control of soil erosion, points out J. M. Stauffer, technician in administrative charge of the state's C. C. C. camp engaged in this work in cooperation with the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. "The building of terraces, terrace outlets, soil saving dams, check dams, etc., and similar improvements, comprise rather expensive features in an erosion control program and constitute the mechanical means of controlling the runoff on agricultural land," says Mr. Stauffer. "Improvements of this character however, are not entirely effective and must be augmented by plant and tree growth. In other words, it is only a very shortsighted policy that entails great expense in construction and fails to include the protection of the woodland immediately adjacent," continues Mr. Stauffer. "That the maintenace of a forest cover and the protection of the forest floor is of prime importance in the control of runoff has long been recognized by agricultural and forestral authorities, but such measures are too often overlooked by landowners. The burning of the forest floor does a great deal to defeat the good accomplished by the mechanical and structural erosion control improvements.

"Landowners will find it very much to their benefit to determine a well rounded policy of land management. It obviously is of little avail to save at one point and waste at another. The farmer who goes to the expense of building dams and other soil erosion structures and at the same time permits his woodlands to burn over, destroying the natural means of runoff, is depriving himself of the benefit possible from the former features.

ALABAMA'S ALLOTMENT IS 930,544 GROSS BALES

Alabama's allotment under the Bankhead Act is 930,544 bales of 500 pounds gross weight each. The allotment for the entire south is 10,938,264 bales.

"The county allotments under the Bankhead Act are now being completed and will be announced soon," reports Secretary Wallace. "Individual allotments will then be apportioned upon the recommendation of the county committees."

Each producer who desires to receive an allotment is required to make application through his county committee. The county committee will have the necessary forms for these applications within a few weeks, report AAA officials.

"As no final allotments to individuals can be made until all applications have been received and adjusted in accordance with the terms of the bill, producers are urged to make their applications for allotments as soon as the forms are available," they advise.

J. H. JACKSON

Editor Union-Banner:

Just a few lines to the Moon Man and his wet pal, please.

Yes, the prohibition war is over for the present. It was retained by less than one third of the popular vote of the state. You know that the preachers have been popping their prohibition whip over their members for several months. They were well trained, but I hold no ill will against them. It's their privilege to advocate any thing they choose. But I'm proud that my hands are not stained with that unjust law.

Now, son, you spoke as we, the Jacksons, twisted the Bible to try to defeat the prohibition law. I think you should point out the chapter and verse where we twisted it. I have no desire to mislead anyone. As the old saying is, I have no axe to grind. I'm not trying to build a creed that I may serve as pastor for hire. If I were to I would feel like I was bootlegging the gospel, which would be more dishonorable than the whiskey bootlegging.

Now, just a word to your wet pal and the many the Jackson letters drove from his side. I don't think that you know of but one. I think I know who he is, and I think I know you. If we should have advocated legalized drunkenness and adultery no doubt it would have suited you two better. If I'm not mistaken in the two you have no more use for the Bible than a hog has for a wrist watch. You have no room in your heart for the truth. That is why you hate to hear it quoted. But we will forgive you for your slang. I guess that is all you had for us.

A person usually gives such as they have. But we have something better for you than you gave us. We take the Bible for our man of counsel and trust the spirit for guidance, and my advise to both wet and dry is to do the same, and not to be enslaved to creeds and parties.—Yours for the righteous laws and obedience to same, J. H. Jackson.

New Manager At E. L. Klinner's

Mr. J. B. McRae Comes Here To Take Place of Mr. Herbert Klinner

Have you met Mr. J. B. McRae, the new manager of the E. L. Klinner Furniture Company, in Clanton? If not, you want to meet him. He is a most affable and friendly gentleman, a fellow you will like from the very jump. We are glad to have him in Clanton. If we do not miss our guess very widely, he is just the kind of a business man and citizen we should be glad to welcome to our town.

This is not the first of Mr. McRae in Clanton by any means. He has been coming here off and on for several years. He was here for a brief time when the store of E. L. Klinner Furniture Company was opened about two years ago. He relates some interesting details of his experiences of about thirty years in the furniture business.

Commenting upon his connection generally, he said: "I have seen something of Clanton now and then for several years. I like the town and the county. I like the fine people I have met. I want to meet and know more of them. I feel like we will get along fine together. I just know we will, because I know I have learned one thing in my long experience as a salesman, and that is how to get along with folks and gain and hold their friendship and confidence.

"Of course, I expect to sell something to the people of this community as we go along. I must do so to make a living. But the first thing I expect to sell them is a conviction of the truth of my honesty, sincerity, and supreme desire to be friendly and to give a square deal in every transaction I make. I want the people of Clanton and Chilton County to come to see me and lets get started as soon as possible on what I believe is going to be a long and pleasant relationship between us."

New Things At Mazar's Store

Mr. I. S. Lavine, manager of Mazar's Store in Clanton, stated Tuesday that Mr. Mazar has been in the markets of several Eastern cities for the past few weeks, buying spring and summer merchandise for his stores.

In his statement it was said that Mr. Mazar has bought three car loads of drygoods, shoes, clothing, ready-to-wear, and that a portion of his purchases will come to the Clanton store to supply the needs of their customers in this territory.

"We expect the first shipment of this spring and summer merchandise to arrive in Clanton on train No. 9 Thursday morning of this week," said Mr. Lavine. "This will be in time for us to place many of the newest things in our bargain counters for this week's Bargain Department specials."

Since coming to Clanton a month ago to take over the management of Mazar's, Mr. Lavine has made many improvements and changes in the store. He has built up a fine selling organization, and his offerings have brought a steady stream of buyers to the store every week. "We are delighted with the trade we have received," said Mr. Lavine, and we expect to keep our merchandise and our service up to the highest standard."

Dead Line Near For Tax Payers

Warning Again Issued By W. G. Culp, Tax Collector of Chilton County

Renewing his warning of a few weeks ago, Tax Collector Will G. Culp this week again calls attention of the public to the fact that taxes must be paid before the first of April in order to avoid the addition of extra costs and penalities.

Explaining the situation further, Mr. Culp repeated his statement published on February 7th, which said:

"The law under which extension of time for payment of taxes has been made for the past two years has expired. It was a special act of the legislature which was made for only two years duration.

"The collection of taxes now goes back under the regulations of the old law which was in operation before the special law was enacted.

"Under the provisions of the old law, which will apply this year, about April the first will be as long as extension of time can be granted. Therefore, all taxes not paid before that date will have to become subject to penalties and extra costs provided by law.

"All taxpayers are given this notice in order that they may know of the regulations to be imposed by law, and have an opportunity to take care of their taxes without having the extra costs and penalties of delinquency applied to them.

"I will give every favor I can under the law, but it is not possible for me to make extensions as I have done in the past two years."

LITTLEFIELD DIED OF STAB WOUND

George Bolton In Jail To Face Charge of First Degree Murder

Barney Littlefield, age 45, died last Saturday night in a Birmingham hospital, as a result of being stabbed with a knife at the hands of George Bolton more than two weeks ago. Mr. Littlefield was carried to the hospital in Clanton immediately following infliction of the wound, where he remained until he was removed to Birmingham last Saturday.

The body was brought back from Birmingham by Martin, and buried at Blow Graveyard Monday afternoon. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. W. S. Cox. Pallbearers were Herman Lowery, Leverne Littlefield, H. D. Hilyer, Paul Honeycutt, Honrie Little and Rasmond Sammons.

Mr. Littlefield is survived by his widow, Mrs. Cora Littlefield; two sons, Winford, age 13, and Dwinard, age 9; his father, Mr. Tom Littlefield; four brothers, Manuel, John, Fate and Cleve; four sisters, Mrs. Nola Sasnett, Anniston; Mrs. Ola Blow, Mineral Springs; Mrs. Dora Glass and Mrs. Flora Little, Clanton.

George Bolton, charged with stabbing Littlefield, was arrested and committed to jail immediately following the affray. He has been confined in jail awaiting the outcome of Littlefield's wounds. Since the fatal outcome Bolton will have to answer a charge of murder in the courts. Preliminary hearing will be held within the next few days. A warrant charging him with murder in the first degree was sworn out by the father of the dead man Tuesday morning.

ALA. SCHOOLS DIVIDE $717,865

Apportionment to the respective counties on the basis of school population of the $717,865 released from the state treasury Monday for the use of the public schools in Alabama, was made public yesterday by John W. Crump, chief clerk of the department of education. Chilton County's share of the total is $7,098.19.

High School Play On Friday Night

"For Pete's Sake" Will Be Staged With Cast of Local Student Characters

Laughs! Thrills! Spooks! Ghosts! A laughing hit, traveling at express speed—that's what the Sr. II class is giving you tomorrow night at the C. C. H. S. auditorium at eight o'clock sharp. Come out and prepare for two full hours of clean and wholesome fun. Between acts you will hear and has the best talent in the county, singing, dancing, readings, and, last but not least, the big event you have been waitingt for. Miss Chi-Co-Hi, the prettiest girl in Chilton County High School will be formally presented to the public.

"For Pete's Sake" has a story and a cast that will interest you throughout. Lying as a fine art certainly calls for a strong head, a stout heart, and a good memory, and Peter Pepperidne has all these qualifications to fit him for a magnificient liar. When his exasperated aunt, in an effort to discipline him, starts on a summer tour of Palestine without him, he rents her mansion, against her expressed desire, to her dearest enemy, the mother of his ladylove, and masquerades as her butler, disguising his pal, Bill, as her garner, and Muggsy, the despised college grind, who is supposed to tutor him all summer, as her housemaid. However, Aunt Sara spoils everything by suddenly canceling her trip and coming home. Peter and Bill are in a fix. How do they manage to get things straightened out? Come out and see for yourself.

APARTMENT HOUSE NOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Work is going forward rapidly on construction of a brick duplex apartment residence for Miss Bertha Margolis. The location is on the property formerly owned by Mr. Aldridge on the Selma Road near the railroad bridge.

This building will be a welcome addition to Clanton's residence facilities for which there has recently been a demand far greater than present residences can supply.

PAINTING IS EASY WITH GOOD MATERIAL SAYS LESTER JONES

When you consider that you can paint a good sized kitchen for very little money in about four hours, that a breakfast set can be decorated in a beautiful, lasting enamel for a trifle over a dollar, and be dry in four hours, there seems to be little excuse for looking at dirty walls and chipped furniture.

Woodwork, floors, bathrooms and bedrooms all require less expense and time to beautify than you realize and you need no painting experience if high grade paint is used.

It is true that cheap paint applied by an expert painter will show brush marks and laps and will not completely cover the surface because of lack of pigment and use of substitutes in its manufacture, but all of these difficulties can be overcome by using high grade paint.

Mr. Lester Jones, of Farmers Hardware Co., asks you to turn to his big adv. on Sargent Paints in this issue of The Union Banner. Do what that adv. says and he will be satisfied.

If you need financial help in the painting enterprise, Mr. Jones refers you to the Federal Housing Act, which will gladly lend you the desired aid. He or Amon Jones or Lonnie Richardson will be glad to go over the details with you.

BESWICK TALKS ABOUT TEXTILES

Expert From England, Now With Alabama Mills, Visitor Here Last Week

The meeting of Clanton Kiwanis Club last Thursday night was the seventh anniversary of the organization of the Club in Clanton. The charter of the Clanton Club was presented by the Selma Club. It was hoped that the Selma Club could come here last week to present the anniversary program, but they were unable to make the necessary arrangements.

Mell Martin, past president of the Clanton Club, and a charter member of the organization, made a short talk reviewing briefly the history, and activities of the Club since it was founded. Out of the total present membership of 25, there are eight who were charter members. Three of this eight have been members constantly without interruption in their activity throughout the whole seven years.

In addition to the anniversary features, the program included a short address by Mr. W. Beswick, assistant to the president of Alabama Mills. Mr. Beswick is an Englishman who has had over thirty years experience in textile mills in Lancashire. He spoke in very interesting and positive terms of the distressing situation of American textile mills in world competition with English and other industries. He showed that American mills are putting their products on the world markets at a production cost much higher than other concerns. The result, he pointed out, is that foreign made goods are taking the markets away from American manufacturers.

"There is but one of two solutions for the future of American cotton textiles," he ponited out: "The federal government may throw off all control measures and leave the manufacturers free to meet their competition in their own way; or else the government may set up tariff protection that will keep the foreign manufacturers from selling their products in American markets cheaper than American manufacturers can do."

Dr. Nickson, temporary health officer for Chilton County, was introduced to the Club, and received with loud applause from the membership. Establishment of the full time health unit was acclaimed as the accomplishment of one of the major objectives of the Kiwanis Club for this year and an expression of thanks was made to the Commissoners Court for its authorization of the work in Chilton County.

Chilton County Radio Program

Will Be Broadcast Over Birmingham Stations Next Friday Night

Clanton and Chilton County will be presented to the world on a radio program through the Birmingham broadcasting stations on Friday evening, March 29th. The Kiwanis Club has accepted the invitation of Birmingham Chamber of Commerce to put on the program, details of which are being worked out by a committee of the club headed by Percy Pitts, chairman of the program committee.

This will be a part of a state-wide program of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, in which a radio salute is being given to various cities, towns and communities. Already a number of similar programs have been presented on the air through a hook-up of all broadcasting stations in the city.

The Clanton program will be a salute to Chilton County, "The Heart of Alabama." A number of interesting short sketches will be prepared and presented by local celebrities. Mayor C. Fenn Jones will give a short talk on Clanton. County Agent, J. W. Fant, will spread his remarks out to cover the whole of Chilton County agriculture. Music and other features will be made a part of the program.

The Chamber of Commerce desires as many Clanton and Chilton County people as possible to come to the city for this occasion. The whole group will be entertained at a dinner given by the Chamber after the radio broadcast has been completed.

Chairman Pitts announces that full details of the program to be presented will be worked out and announced in next week's papers.

Culver Succeeds Matthew Wagner

Night policeman, Matthew Wagoner, handed his resignation to Mayor C. Fenn Jones Tuesday morning. At the meeting of the Council Tuesday night his resignation was officially accepted.

The Council at the same time employed Mr. R. F. Culver to take the place of Mr. Wagoner on the night force.

Mayor Jones stated Wednesday morning that the Council has plans to extend the water mains and provide fire protection for some property in the city limits beyond the contract of Mr. O'Toole. As one instance of this extra extension the Mayor mentioned the cotton gins at the south end of Sixth Street. The mains will be laid to the gins, and the property owners will install the water pipes from the street lines into their buildings. This, it is pointed out, will give the gin owners a very material reduction in the cost of insurance each year.

Another interesting fact about the waterworks extension was explained by the mayor. He said the new mains were being laid in the direction of certain districts with a view to further extending water service to those districts when they are included in the city limits.

Chances Good For Strawberry Crop

If Good Weather Continues Picking Will Start By the Middle of April

We are afraid to brag about it because anything can happen in the way of weather during the next month. It would be no surprise to see a storm or a freeze any day. Such a thing as a hail storm is not beyond the impossible, as we have seen in the past.

But the point we are approaching is to say that present indications are mighty fine for the spring strawberry crop in Chilton County this year.

Growers from all parts of the county report that their plants are extra fine, now in full bloom, and barring interference of the weather, harvesting the crop will be well under way by the middle of April.

Of course, if the weather should go wrong, as we have seen it do to our sorrow, that would mean the first crop of fruit will be killed off, and the plants will have to put out an entirely new crop.

I remember a few years ago Dief took me one fine spring morning to see his patch. It was the finest I ever looked upon. Literally millions of young berries just poking their heads above the straw.

In the early afternoon of the same day he carried me back to the patch. Not a berry could we see; not even a plant. The whole area was a field of ice. Hailstones covered the field to a depth of perhaps four inches. In spite of the damage, the plants came out, put on another set of buds, and made a good crop of berries, though much later than would have been without the hail.

Farmers Going On Auburn Trip

Next Monday Is Day Set For Event by Kiwanis Club of Clanton

A select and representative group of farmers of Chilton County will be carried to Auburn next Monday, March 25, according to plans announced by the Kiwanis Club Committee on Agriculture, of which County Agent, J. W. Fant is chairman.

Details of the arrangements were outlined last Thursday night, and all members of the Club pledged their cooperation in carrying out the plans of the committee.

Mr. Fant is busy this week getting the final arrangements made. Those farmers who are invited to go will be notified personally by Mr. Fant, and given instructions as to how they will be transported to the Experiment Station for a day of study and observation.

Acceptance of the engagement has been received from Auburn, and officials of the college and experiment station will be ready to furnish entertainment for the day. This will be a very valuable opportunity for those farmers who make the trip. A similar trip has been made heretofore, and it proved to be one of the most worthwhile projects the Club has ever sponsored in the interest of agricultural development.

The trip to Auburn is one of the major objectives of the Clanton Club for this year and Mr. Fant and his committee hope to make it the best of its kind ever carried out. Various members of the club will provide automobiles to carry some of the farmers. In addition, a large bus will be provided to carry those beyond the capacity of the automobiles.

L. & N. Expands Freight Service

Approximately $25,000 will be expended for additional storage, loading and passing tracks at Bay Minnette, Ala., and loading points on the Foley Branch, which will call for 25,000 to 30,000 man hours of employment, also the purchase of approximately $6,500 worth of cross ties. The announcement is of general interest as indicating the growth of the movement of fruits and vegetables from these points on the L. & N. Railroad in south Baldwin County, which last year amounted to approximately 4,500 cars, and the continued growt of the territory is indicated in the provision of these extensive improved facilities.

Coincident with the announcement arrangements were made to begin work immediately on the following improvements:

Bay Minnette, 80 car storage track.

Loxley, 80 car passing track and 45 car storage and loading track.

Summerdale, 295 feet extension of combination house and team track.

Robertsdale, 225 feet extension of house and team track.

Foley, 965 feet equipment track.

The splendid address of Mr. Jarman was received with hearty applause by the large audience, which was a fine assemblage of the people of Vermont community. Mr. Jarman was accompanied by the charming Mrs. Jarman, who was introduced to the audience at the conclusion of the program.

Miss Irene Smitherman Holds Important Place With Health Unit

As announced last week, Dr. H. C. Nickson is here in charge of preliminaries of organization of the personnel, and making advance surveys necessary to beginning the program in earnest. Office space in the Potts Building has been assigned to the health department.

Miss Irene Smitherman has been appointed county health nurse. She arrived in Clanton this week and has begun her new duties.

Miss Smitherman comes from Jefferson County, where she has been doing private nursing since her graduation from St. Vincent's Hospital in July, 1933.

COUNTY MAKES ROADS BUDGET

Expenditures Each Month Will Be Strictly Limited To the Appropriations

At a special meeting of the Commissioners Court called by Judge J. Lee Smith, last Thursday, the court set up a budget of expenditures for county roads by the month from now until the first of July.

After calculating as nearly as possible the amount of funds that will be available for road purposes over the period, the sum of $1,120 per month was allotted to Mr. Duke's district, and $960 for each of the other three districts per month.

The budget for expense of gasoline oil, and upkeep of road machinery for the entire county was set at $1,500 per month.

The Court set down firmly upon the agreement that when the amounts of the various budgets was spent, they would stop right there and incur no further obligations until funds were available.

Under the budget plan adopted the stipulated amounts for each District will be set aside for each month: In case a Commissioner does not spend his allotted amount one month it will be held over for his district and may be applied to the following month.

All who are familiar with county government affairs agree that the commissioners have acted wisely in adopting a definite budgetary arrangement to be followed strictly in matters of road work. It can be determined with reasonable accuracy in advance just how much money the court will have to apply to road work. It is only good business to anticipate such a reasonable amount of income, and gauge the amount to be expended according to the income. We congratulate the commissioners and Judge Smith upon this action and we believe their strict adherence to the plan will be to the bst interests of the county in the end.

Sid Plier Favors Larger Clanton

He Is Another "Outsider" Who Does Not Object To Being In City Limits

Editor Union-Banner:

On my last visit to Clanton some days ago I heard quite a lot of discussion about the proposition of extending the limits of Clanton to include the people who are now really a part of Clanton, have business in Clanton, making their living off of Clanton, but legally they are not in Clanton, and Clanton gets no credit in population for their presence.

I bought some property several years ago in the "Willis Addition" because it was so close to Clanton. I believed some day on account of the growth of Clanton the property would be worth much more than the price I paid for it. Had this property not been near Clanton I would not have been interested in it at all. Clanton is not only a benefit to me and my property, it is also a great financial benefit to every person who resides in the improved section nearby.

I am for the extension for many reasons. Clanton would have a better standing before the entire country if we can show a population of 3,000 or 4,000 people instead of just 1800. It would be more attractive to people looking for a new home, or location, or to establish industires many of which Clanton affords a splendid opening and opportunity. Let's try to influence and attract these prospects to come to our town by letting them know who we are and what we have to offer them. Then, too, I am personally opposed to taking the SELFISH position, before my friends and the public, of being willing to receive benefit from Clanton each day, and not be willing to give something back to Clanton through taxes for this support and material gain I receive.

Why not come together, play the game fair, and all strive to make Clanton a larger and better town instead of trying to hold it within the very small area it now occupies. Clanton is a very important part of Chilton County and every person in the entire county should be interested in making it a city of many thousand people.—Yours very truly, M. S. Plier.

Q. C. Meroney, mail carrier at Verbena, was a visitor in Clanton Tuesday.

"THE HOME OF QUALITY"

Clanton, Alabama

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

HOW TO OBTAIN GREATEST PROFIT FROM FARM LEGUMES

Auburn, Ala. — Alabama farmers have found that they make the greatest profit from hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas by turning them when the green tops, cut from an area 10 x 10 feet, weigh 15 to 20 pounds.

"Farmers have found it desirable to cut green tops from a representative area 10 x 10 feet and weigh them as soon as rapid growth begins," says J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist. "When the tops weigh 15 to 20 pounds the crop should be turned," he advises.

"Hairy vetch and Austrian winter peas are easily turned with a two horse plow and a twelve-inch rolling coulter. It is a mistake to delay turning winter legumes until the growth is so large that turning cannot be done with a two-horse plow and a rolling coulter.

"A sulky plow with a rolling coulter attached and drawn by three mules is one of the most satisfactory implements for turning winter legumes.

"Corn or cotton should not be planted until at least two weeks after the vetch or Austrian peas are turned.

"The county agent should be consulted about the proper time to turn winter legumes."

MORGAN COUNTY WOMEN CANNED 33,000 LBS. BEEF

Hartselle, Ala.—By filling approximately 11,000 No. 3 cans, one hundred Morgan County women last year canned about 33,000 pounds of beef, according to Erien Rowe, home demonstration agent.

Mrs. J. W. Lynn, Somerville, R. 3., led with over 300 cans weighing nearly 1,000 pounds.

Miss Rowe reports that over 200 pressure cookers and 125 sealers have been purchased by women of the county during the past season. They are used principally in canning meats and vegetables.

RENTAL PAYMENT SCHEDULE

Auburn, Ala.—The rental payment on each acre rented to the secretary of agriculture this year will be 3½ cents per pound on the average yield of lint cotton per acre, with a minimum rental of $18 an acre, announces the agricultural adjustment administration.

Farmers will also receive a parity payment of 1¼ cents a pound on the farm allotment for each farm under contract.

Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service, estimates that Alabama cotton farmers will receive over $10,000,000 in rental and parity payments during the year. The total for the entire south is expected to be approximately $130,000,000.

The rental payment will be made in two installments, the first to be paid this spring and the second in the fall. The parity payment will be made late in the year.

FOREST FIRE HAZARD ACUTE

Montgomery, Ala., Landowners are advised by the Alabama Commission of forestry to be particularly alert for woods fires during the month of March. This month, on the average, has a greater amount of rainfall than any of the others, but the succession of reversals from wet to dry periods is very marked. The rains are likely to come in heavy downpours lasting not to exceed a few hours followed by drying winds which quickly exaporate the moisture from the dead ground vegetation.

During this season the warm air heated through the lengthening days by the more direct rays of the sun is contending for position with colder and heavier air from the northern regions which tends to crowd the warm light air out of place by flowing in underneath it. This process results in very strong winds which not only dry out the forest floor after the rains but also drive woods fires quite rapidly over the surface.

The usual cycle appears to be a few days of increasing warmth followed by a rain which in turn is followed by a cold wave and fair dry weather. Forest owners bearing in mind these circumstances usually can readily estimate about when the fire hazard will become quite high. Increased watchfulness for the occurrence of fires and prompt action toward their suppression may save the landowners and the state many hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Judge Fieldelson of Washington, D. C., was a business visitor in Clantol a while last week.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, Minister

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach the last sermon in the series on the problem of human suffering. The question will be "How May We Use Suffering?" At 7:00 Dr. D. P. Slaughter of Selma will speak. The public is invited to these services.

The Board of Christian Education met Wednesday night. Plans for organizing classes for our younger adults, 25-40, were discussed. We want all of this age who are out of church school to enroll in these classes. This is the Wesley Fellowship Department of the Adult Division. The board made plans for the standard training class the pastor will teach the week of April 7.

Look forward to Palm Sunday. On this day you will bring to the morning service your Fellowship League of Sharing envelope with your offering for world service. If you failed to get an envelope ask the pastor for one. Special plans are being made to make this the biggest day of the year in our church. Babies will be chistened. Candidates for church membership will be received into the church on this date. This is a part of the program. Look forward to Palm Sunday.

THE STUDY OF DEPENDENT, AND DELINQUENT CHILDREN

The following statement appeared in The Birmingham News Sunday, March 17th:

"The immensility of the problem faced by the state child welfare department this year in providing for the care and proper upbringing of neglected, delinquent and in many cases destitute children throughout Alabama, is illustrated by figures made public on a survey recently completed under the supervision of Mrs. A. M. Tunstall, department director, in 29 of the state's 67 counties.

According to the census taken in 1930 there were in that year, 1,243,196 children in Alabama under 19 years of age, 497,079 of this total residing in 29 counties the survey included, namely Colbert, Lawrence, Morgan, Madison; Jackson, Marshall, Cherokee, Etowah, Calhoun, Cleburne, Talladega, Tuscaloosa, Fayette, Lamar, Sumter, Marengo, Hale, Chilton, Chambers, Lee, Wilcox, Butler, Pike, Barbour, Conecuh, Covington, Houston, Escambia and Baldwin.

Of the 497,079 children under 19 years of age in these 29 counties it was found that 12,935 were dependent, neglected or delinquent. With 2.6 per cent of the children in the counties named dependent, neglected or delinquent, it is estimated that there were 32,323 such children in need of care in the State of Alabama as a whole."

In Chilton County there were found to be 289 dependent, neglected and delinquent children who need special care. Two hundred and forty-three of these children are white and 46 colored. Twenty-one of the 289 were found to be dependent, 272 neglected and 6 delinquent. Thirty-four were attending school, 218 were not attending school and 37 were under school age.

This is not an absolutely accurate picture of the situation because a number of cases have been called to the attention of the child welfare superintendent, which were unknown to her or to the relief administration at the time of the survey. Some of these children are crippled, many are undernourished, a few are blind and many are suffering from defective vision. Some are mentally deficient.

These figures are startling and should be a challenge to every citizen of Chilton County. What are we going to do about it?

VIRGINIA COUNTY WINS THE 4-H CLUB $1,000 CASH PRIZE

Augusta County, Virginia 4-H clubs made the best showing in 1934 of any southern county entered in the national 4-H progress contest, and will receive a $1,000 cash prize, announces the National Committee on Boys and Girls Club Work. A committee of five club leaders judged the entries.

Honorable mention was given Monroe County, Ala., Fulton County, Ga., and Hinds County, Miss. Five other southern states entered a county: Arkansas, Louisiana, North Carolina, Oklahoma and South Carolina. Fine plaques will be presented all competing counties. The 8 counties had an average of 748 boys and girls enrolled in 4-H clubs, and an average of 74 per cent completed their projects.

The grand prize, a $10,000 community club house provided by Sears Roebuck with the other prizes, was won by St. Louis County, Minnesota. Its 4-H enrollment in 1934 was 3,434.

Augusta County was chosen by state club leaders from 11 in the state to represent it in the national contest. The county had 527 members enrolled which completed 95 per cent of the projects begun. Eighty members engaged in demonstration projects and livestock judging team won first in the state and high rank in the na- 405 in judging work, 330 took part in contests or made exhibits at local fairs and club days; and the county's tional contests. Club work is credited with having done much to promote a closer bond between town and country and raised the level of farm practice, living standards and social life.

Augusta County club work was administered by the home demonstration agent with the assistance of the agricultural agent and 33 adult and 23 junior leaders.

Business and education adult groups and the state extension service also rendered valuable aid.

Mr. Hiram Kelley was carried home from Central Alabama Hospital Monday. He was about recovered from injuries sustained last Wednesday when his wagon was struck by a fertilizer truck belonging to Mr. Tom Kemp.

LeRoy Martin and Miss June Cox, who underwent surgical operations for appendicitis at Central Alabama Hospital last Wednesday, are reported well on the way to recovery.

Dr. V. J. Gragg and Dr. J. P. Hayes left last Saturday night for Miami, where they will spend a couple of weeks on a vacation.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—The state game and fisheries department is interested in knowing just how early the martins arrived in Alabama this year.

By now martins, no doubt, have been sighted in various parts of the state, but at the suggestion of George B. Ward, Birmingham bird fancier, the department is polling its field staff to determine which locality was the first to see a martin.

Much interest is attached to the arrival of the martins which generally is early in March. They not only are useful in destroying insects, but they fight hawks.

Vestavia, Mr. Ward's beautiful home on Shades Mountain, is a bird sanctuary. Last year the martins put in an appearance there on March 8th. This year the first martin scout arrived one day earlier.

Julian Rice, Montgomery ornithologist, reported the first pair of his colony of purple martins arrived this year on March 5th. This is a little earlier than usual but not a record, he said.

Another martin fan is Pope M. Long of Cordova, who has protected a colony of martins at his home for more than 40 years. He recalls the martins arrived at his place in 1931 on March 2nd, but last year they didn't appear until March 9th.

Mr. Pope required each farm tenant to erect a pole of gourds for martins on every farm owned by him. He uses poles about 25 fet high and places from 12 to 16 gourds on each pole. He says martins prefer gourds and that English sparrows will use them only as a last resort.

LECTURE ON TUBERCULOSIS TO BE AT MONTGOMERY SOON

Announcement is made of a lecture Thursday evening, March 28th, eight o'clock, at the Baldwin Junior High School in Montgomery, by Dr. Arthur Meyers, of Minneapolis.

Dr. Meyers is a nationally known authority on tuberculosis, and his coming to Alabama for this lecture is regarded with much interest by the medical and health authorities throughout the state.

Through Mr. J. L. Bowman, secretary of the Montgomery Medical Society, an invitation is extended to the people of Chilton County to attend the lecture of Dr. Meyers. It is hoped that a large delegation of citizens and health workers will attend.

An infant of Jim Rutherford died at the family home at Chelsea in Shelby County Saturday morning. The remains were shipped here and buried at Mt. Springs Sunday at 11 o'clock.

Hugh Taylor, of Cooper, member of the mercantile firm of Taylor and Calloway, was a business visitor to Clanton Monday.

Mr. Thad Holt, director of Alabama relief administration, of Montgomery, was a visitor to the Chilton county relief office one day last wek.

Lesson for March 24

PETER DESCRIBES THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 3:8-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear. I Peter 3:15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Pleasing Jesus Every Day.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Way of Living.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Living Like a Christian.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Practicing Our Christian Profession.

Having given instructions to citizens (2:13, 14), servants (2:18), wives (3:1-6), and husbands (3:7), Peter now sets forth the attitudes and motives which are required for the perfection of all the relations of human life.

I. Characteristics of the Christian Life (vv. 8-11).

These find expression in personal attitudes and manner of living.

1. Toward fellow believers (v. 8).

a. "All of one mind." This means unity of thought and feeling. Christians being united to the one Lord Jesus Christ, animated by the one Holy Spirit and governed by the one Book, the Holy Scriptures, will inevitably come into possession of like mindedness.

b. "Having compassion one of another." This means more than sympathy in times of sorrow. It means the sharing of joys as well as sorrows.

c. "Love as brethren." Being of the one family, a common affection should dominate its members.

d. "Be pitiful." This means tender heartedness, expressing itself in sympathy toward the helpless and needy

e. "Be courteous." This means friendliness, Christian politeness.

2. Toward the world (vv. 9-11).

a. "Not rendering evil for evil." Positively expressed, this means doing good for evil. The natural man renders evil for evil. The believer has been called thus to manifest the spirit of Christ.

b. "Eschew evil and do good" (v. 11). This means to shun or turn away from evil. It means the bending away from one's course at the approach of evil and the positive doing of good.

c. "Seek peace, and ensue it." It is not enough for a believer to refrain from conflict. He must bend every energy in the direction of peace.

II. Incentives to Christian Living (vv. 12-14).

1. "The eyes of the Lord are over the righteous, and his ears are open unto their prayers" (v. 12). God not only takes account of their efforts to live righteously, but his ears are open to hear their cries for help.

2. "The face of the Lord is against them that do evil" (v. 12). God will surely visit in judgment those who depart from the way of right living.

3. God will protect and keep those who will bend their energies to the doing of good (v. 13).

4. Happiness in suffering (v. 14). This means the suffering which results from the pursuing of the ways of righteousness.

III. How the Christian Life Can Be Lived (vv. 15, 16).

It cannot be lived in the power of human strength. A divine dynamic is provided.

1. "Sanctify the Lord God in your hearts (v. 15). The Revised Version says, "Sanctify Christ as Lord," enthrone Jesus Christ as the Lord of life.

2. Be ready to give a reason for your hope (v. 15). A Christian should have an understanding of his faith, such as to give a reason to the inquirer. The Christian's faith rests upon the highest reason.

3. Live a conscientious life (v. 16). One's life should be so lived that the consciousness that actions are consistent before God and man is possible. Such a life will put to shame evil men who falsely accuse and despitefully use the believer.

IV. The Issue of the Christian Life (vv. 17, 18).

Christ said to the disciples that they would receive the same treatment that the world accorded him. Paul says, "All that will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution" (II Tim. 3:12). If God wills that we suffer for well doing, let us rejoice, looking to Christ as our supreme example.

Greatness and Humility

I believe that the first test of a truly great man is his humility. I do not mean by humility doubt of his own power, hesitation of speaking his opinions, but a right understanding of the relation of what he can do and say to the rest of the world's doings and sayings.—Charles Spurgeon.

Helps to Better Faith

Every noble act of devotion to truth every pure life unstained with evil every word of pity, every instance of forgiving goodness, helps us to a better faith in that divine and eternal goodness which has no variableness or shadow of turning.—Dr. J. F. Clarke.

Try It Yourself

Whatever may be said of the philosophy of Coleridge, his proof of the truth of Christianity was most simple and conclusive. It consisted in the words, "Try it for yourself."

C. E. Cagle, disabled World War veteran, of Stanton, was a visitor to Clanton Monday.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—The program in nursing education which was successfully introduced last summer in the University of Alabama Summer school will again be available this summer, Dr. John R. McLure, director, announced. Dr. McLure added that Miss Katherine Dick, registered nurse and B.S. in education, will return as instructor in nursing educaton. As was the case last summer, the program is made possible through the cooperation of the Alabama state nurses association.

The courses to be offered during the first term of the summer session from June 10 to July 19, include supervision in schools of nursing, principles of teaching in public health and nursing specialties, and the essentials of phychiatric nursing. The last two named were not offered last summer.

These courses will be open to registered nurses and graduates of approved schools of nursing. Nurses who cannot present a certificate of graduation from an accredited high scrool but who are twenty years of age or more, on application may be accepted as special students, authorities pointed out. In addition to the professional courses, appropriate courses in other fields of study will be available to nurses attending summer school.

Miss Dick, who will conduct the courses, is now connected with the Bloomingdale Hospital at White Plains, N. Y. She is a graduate of Southwest Teachers College, the St. Joseph School of nursing, St. Joseph Hospital, Chicago, and the University of Texas. She served for three years in the St. Joseph School as assistant director of nursing service, and for two years was instructor in nursing the St. Joseph School of nursing, Houston, Texas.

The committee on education of the Alabama State Nurses Association, which has cooperated with summer school authorities in making this work available to Alabama nurses and in the preparation of courses for the 1935 summer session includes Miss Ann Beddow, Birmingham, chairman; Sister Valoria, St. Margaret's Hospital, Montgomery, vice chairman; Miss Zoe LaFarge, director public health nursing service, Jefferson County, Birmingham, and others.

Mary Randolph Phelps, Bluefield, W. Va., was chosen president of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet at the University of Alabama at the annual election of officers. Anne Calhoun of Eufaula was elected vice president, and Mary Tabb Lancaster, Tuscaloosa, was selected secretary. The election for treasurer has not been finished, and there still are two candidates in the running for the office. They are Connie Wright, Springville, and Mary Chapman, Eclectic.

The Y. W. C. A. was voted the most helpful organization on the campus by the girls of the freshman class at the university. Activities of the organization for the past year include the sponsoring of freshman week and of the University Red Cross drive, and putting on with the Y. M. C. A. the annual Christmas party for the county poor children.

Dean D. S. Lancaster, dean of men at the University of Alabama, opened the first annual conference of the Southern Conference on Swimming with the hope that the conference would be made an annual affair. The conference, being held at the University of Alabama, is under the direction of Frances Greenwood, chairman of the southern water sports committee, and instructor n swimming at the University.

Visitors at the conference were welcomed by Dean Lancaster, Dean Agnes E. Harris, dean of women at the University; Dr. Ethel Saxman, head of the department of physical education, and Miss Greenwood. Following this Miss Greenwood outlined the purposes of the conference, to secure standardization of swimming strokes and to consider the problem of status officials.

Following this Miss Alfroda Moscrop, head of the department of the physical education at Alabama College, discussed the work and rating of swimming officials. "An official's job," she said, "is to make the competition enjoyable and fair to all who are taking part in it." The good official is one who knows how to handle situations and make decisions under stress.

The second day of the conference was devoted to demonstration of swimming strokes, skills and diving. After the demonstration a round table discussion was held to work out the points of difference. The session closed today with a swimming party in the morning and a special luncheon.

Dr. Stuart J. Lloyd, dean of the medical school at the University of Alabama, and president of the Tuscaloosa County Medical Association, and James A. Mayfield, secretary of the Tuscaloosa County Association, have been elected delegates to the annual meeting of the medical association of the state of Alabama.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Christ Betrayed by Judas' Kiss.—The betrayal of Christ by Judas is told in Matt. 26, Mark 14, Luke 22, and John 18. Luke describes the meeting of Jesus and Judas as follows: "And while He yet spake, behold a multitude, and he that was called Judas, one of the twelve, went before them, and drew near unto Jesus to kiss Him. But Jesus said unto him, Judas, betrayest thou the Son of man with a kiss?"—Luke 22: 47-48. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

CLARA MAE ROGERS LEADS IN C. C. H. S. BEAUTY CONTEST

The popular song, "Beauty Must be Loved," is being proved, only the Jr. class of C. C. H. S. has found a better way than saying it with mere music. Gee whiz! You and I are also saying it, get me, and with votes, in the Sr. II's "Search for Beauty."

This contest is exclusive as well as hotsy-totsy. It includes blondes, brunettes, titians, Harlows, Garbo's, or what have you? Each, in her own charming way, seeks to entice you and oh, that mouth, those eyes and that nose makes you dig deep in the "ole stockin'," and rake in the change.

Only one penny for one vote.! What a break! It affords a chance for you to name your favorite lass, Miss Chicohi.

How can you resist those utterly tempting posters 'round town that speaks too plainly of the pulchritude, the appeal, the exotic charm and the angelic sweetness of these devastating heart snatchers.

Place your votes at Alred Drug Co. If you can't figures out the most georgeous, why play square and put a couple hundred per capita?

Incidentally, boys, how would you like to be prince consort to a famous beauty? Girls, don't you ache to have her in your class? Mother, dad, family, wouldn't your home be brightened by her golden loveliness?

EXPECT TO CONTINUE GRAMMAR SCHOOL FOR ONE MORE MONTH

Present indications are that the efforts to continue the Clanton Grammar School another month will be successful. The seven-months term expires Friday of this week, but plans are made by the trustees to definitely determine by that time if the necessary money to continue another month can be raised.

The Town of Clanton has contributed $400 for the purpose of helping to keep the school open. More than a hundred students have pledged to pay three dollars each for the term extension. A canvass of the citizens of Clanton will be made this week to raise the balance of the money necessary.

It is thought reasonable to assume that announcement can be made Friday that the pupils can come back again next Monday and continue for another month in school.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

J. W. FOSHEE DIED THURSDAY

J. W. Foshee died at his home in South Clanton about 11:20 o'clock, March 14. He had been sick for several weeks bearing his affliction with patience. How comforting to the bereaved ones to remember the words he left behind. His place will ever be vacant in the home, and the memory of his life will always be with us.

His genial disposition was always used to make friends, for himself. He not only made friends, but kept them, and was loved by all who knew him.

In addition to his wife, he is survived by eight children: Mrs. Della Thomas, of Cook Springs; Mrs. Zora Belle Walker, of Birmingham; Mrs. Junie Simpkins, of New Orleans, Harvie, Sie and Luther, of Clanton; Wornie of Birmingham and Dewey of Las Vegas, Nev., two brothers, B. G. and Charlie of Clanton and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Burnette, of Elmore; and Mrs. Laura Maddox of Clanton.

The funeral was held at Clanton Baptist Church, conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell and Rev. Honeycutt. Interment was made in Clanton cemetery, with Martin and Sons in charge. To the bereaved family we can only say "Thy will be done."—His Niece.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Our singing society met last Sunday afternoon with a very small crowd. We had a few visitors which we were really proud of. We are sorry our singing wasn't any better but the books were new and our crowd was small, and we did the best we could. Visitors, don't get discouraged, this is the first time we have had a failure since our singing society was organized, and we hope to have a better singing next time, and we want you all to come back and bring someone with you.

The opening song was led by our chairman, Mr. E. T. Weldon, after which prayer was led by Mr. J. M. Parrish. Directors for the afternoon were as follows. Coy Lockhart, Fonzie Coe, Houston Melton and Miss Gladys Wyatt. Pianist for the afternoon was Miss Dessie Wyatt. Closing prayer was led by Mr. Sovereign Dickey.

Don't forget, we have our singing every third Sunday afternoon. Everybody come next third Sunday and let's try to make it the best.—Secretary.

CAUTION TO MARK ANY U. S. MOVE ON EUROPEAN CRISIS

Washington, March 19.—A protest against Germany's violation of its peace treaty with the United States was held under consideration Tuesday by the Roosevelt administration but against this was balanced a keen desire to avoid any entanglement in the latest European crisis.

This country's diplomatic chiefs were known to feel that there were grounds for representations to the German government, since Adolf Hitler's defiance of armament clauses in the Versailles Treaty also disregarded similar provisions in the German-American treaty. But it was reiterated officially that no communication had been dispatched to the Reich.

President Roosevelt continued conferences with Secretary Hull and Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, and officials conceded privately, that it was a safe assumption that this government was provoked by Germany's abrupt action.

At the White House it was made clear early in the day, however, that the president would not be rushed into any precipitate action involving the United States in European affairs until the entire situation had been thoroughly analyzed. — Birmingham Age-Herald.

DIXIE'S VETS MAY MEET AGAIN

Nashville, Tenn., March 19.—Though for a time it seemed their own Southland had turned a cold shoulder to the United Confederate Veterans, Gen. Harry Rene Lee Tuesday felt confident they would have a reunion somewhere this year.

Following an announcement from Jackson, Miss., recently that the Mississippi Legislature would be asked to appropriate $15,000 for expenses for a convention in that city, the 89-year old chief of staff of the U. C. V. was more optimistic about the matter than he had been for some weeks.

He estimated it would cost between $15,000 and $20,000 to get the aged men together once more, wearing their old gray uniforms and sitting about in the sun swapping war yarns.

There's a possibility that New Orleans as well as Jackson may open its arms to the old soldiers. Lee had had from the Louisiana city everything but final confirmation of an invitation, he said. Mayor A. Semmes Walmsley informed him some time ago he would like to have the veterans meet there.

"We'll go somewhere," Gen. Lee said. "I'm not uneasy." At one time a total of 14 cities had issued invitations. Some were too small to accommodate the crowds. One by one the others fell by the wayside, notifying the U. C. V. office they could not raise the necessary money.

Expenses were estimated on the basis of the cost of the meeting at Chattanooga last June where 746 veterans 72 of their wives and 307 widows were entertained. The cost was more than $20,000, but Lee said it need not be so much this time.

He believed that either Jackson or New Orleans would draw big attendance because of accessibility to states west of the Mississippi River. "We can count on 1,000," he said. But others pointed out that veterans are dying off rapidly and many of them are unable to travel.

COTTON POLICY OPPOSED

Selma, Ala., March 19.—More than 1,050 letters, already in hand, will be sent to Alabama's congressional representative protesting the present cotton policy of the government, according to C. W. Crook, of Selma, member of the Cotton Industries Association.

The protests oppose further government loans of a price-fixing nature; further operation of cooperative associations financed by the government in competition with private business, and further continuation of the Bankhead act.

According to Mr. Crook, the association claims the yearly production has been decreased to a point where the price of cotton is pegged above the world price, thus freezing millions of bales out of regular trade channels into a government surplus or carryover.

The association favors tariff adjustments, and domestic allotment plan which would permit normal production at world prices, like that proposed by the state commissioner of agriculture for Texas.

OBITUARIES — IN MEMORY

It becomes necessary for us again to call attention to the fact that we make a charge of one cent per word for all obituaries over 150 words published in The Union-Banner. So, if you want an obituary, or in memory article, published about a departed friend or relative, it must be confined to not over 150 words, or else money order for the remainder should be included if sent by mail, as outlined above.

If obituaries are sent in containing over 150 words and no money accompanies same, it will be either omitted entirely or, if possible, condensed to come within the requirement, and published.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

Although fifteen months must elapse before national political conventions must be held again, there is already a great deal of discussion and prophesy as to what the issues will be and what strategy will be adopted. It is already being conceded that there has been a great political change since November, 1934. At that time the President gained an endorsement in the election of an overwhelming Democratic Congress. In this biennial election the administration received the benefit of sentiment growing out of the public works projects and federal relief. The campaign also was very skillfully handled by the Democratic national organization so that full benefit was received from these political assets. But what is fully as important is the fact that Mr. Roosevelt except in a very few instances received the solid support of the socalled liberal forces in the country.

Now, however, the picture has changed. The radicals or liberals, call them whatever you please, are no longer presenting a solid front in support of the administration. It is reported, for instance, that Senator Norris of Nebraska, while personally loyal to the President, by no means endorses the entire administration and all of its acts. Several other liberal senators are more or less mildly critical of the administration, Senator Huey Long, of course, is on the war path, which was to be expected, as he loves war paths. Some criticism on the part of the "left' has been inspired by the belief that the administration may be turning to the right. This belief is strengthened by some of the recent developments in the AAA program.

All of which has led some political prophets to pedict that the President's real political danger in 1936 will come from the "left" where he at first received the most enthusiastic support. Many of them believe that there may be a third party, made up of liberal exponents. Since the President, last year, received practically the solid support of the liberals, if a new liberal party is formed or a liberal movement developed the votes will have to come from the present Democratic Party. They cannot easily come from the Republican because in 1932 and 1934 the Republicans received few "liberal" votes. For example, the millions of voters who supported the Republican candidates last year when they knew they faced certain defeat will be inclined to vote their ticket under any circumstances. Not many of them can be counted to stray away into a liberal movement.

The deductions have led some observers to believe that with a third party made up of "liberals," Democratic leaders may assert the President is the last hope of the consertatives, mild and otherwise, and call on them to support him to save the country from socialism. In this way they might hope to attract many Republican votes.

Whether or not this would work remains doubtful at this time. The Republicans are going to have a candidate and it will take a pretty bad scare to turn rock-ribbed voters of the G. O. P. away from it. The plan might work two ways. There would of course be no law against the Republican candidate's calling on conservative Democrats to support him in order to save the country from socialism. Just what will really happen nobody ought to dare to predict at this time. This is one of those occasions when it is safe to say that anything may develop. A great deal, of course, depends on how much of his personal popularity the President has retained by the time the 1936 campaign rolls around.

THE HALF-WAY MARK

The half-way mark has just been reached in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt. The Chief Executive came into power at a time when American morale was very low. The low point of the depression was reached, according to business indices including the New York Stock Exchange, on July 3, 1932. From that point forward there was a gradual recovery until the fall campaign slowed it up. Following the election there was a parind of uncertainty and slow decline due principally to the banking situation, which crystalized later in the winter in the bank panic which seemed to have started with financial troubles in Detroit.

Since March 4, 1933, a great deal of water has gone over the wheel, political as well as economical. Just how much improvement there has been depends on the point of view and the amount which the expresser has been improved. There have been at least two revivals in the so-called consumers goods industry, due to a demand which has followed the shortage of these goods due to deferred buying. As one old country philosopher used to say, "a depression lasts as long as two pairs of overalls." The inference of course was that the average man possessed two suits and other things in proportion, and that when these were worn out buying would start and the depression would be over. These spurts in consumers goods are usually followed by a revival in the heavy industries such as steel, lumber and other building materials. Unfortunately this has not yet been the case this time and the depression will not be over until there is such a revival. Perhaps the uncertainty of our policies concerning money and industry have tended to create uncertainty in the heavy industries.

No matter what success we man think we have made since March 4th, 1933, the fact remains that we are now $13,000,000,000 more "in the red" than we were at that time and there are now more than 22,000,000 people depending on federal relief—the greatest number in the history of the country. There has been, of course, gains in public confidence and increases in the cost of living. Unfortunitely however higher prices have not brought prosperity as they have at times in the past. Perhaps this is due to the fact that prices were stimulated artificially and natural economic laws were not permitted to have free play.

During nearly two years of this administration, Roosevelt seemed almost all powerful and the majority in Congress bent easily to his will. Now, however, there is a marked change. The President lost the battle in the World Court and is now confronted by a revolting Senate on the Work-Relief bill. It is likely too that there will be trouble over the bonus, silver, inflation and other questions.

At the half-way mark in his administration physicians tell us that President Roosevelt is in fine physical shape and has not lost his optimism. This will be a source of sincere satisfaction to all Americans, regardless of party. There is also a general belief that the President will need all of his reserve strength and all of his good humor to control the delicate situation which may develop from this time forth.

FUTURE OF THE NRA

There is of course considerable difference of opinion of what should happen to the NRA. The New York Post is one of many influential newspapers which believe that the National Recovery Act should be discontinued. Under the caption, "Abolish the N. R. A.," The Post says editorially:

"The Post believes Congress should act at once, and abolish N. R. A. before it carries us further backward in our fight for recovery. The Post believes we must substitute the fundamental economic protection of a minimum-wage law and a maximum hour law—with labor left to stand on its own feet and business left to stand on its own feet. Labor then will be free to fight its battles without government interference. Industry likewise will be free to solve its problems—on the basis of open competition, which is the essence of capitalism."

At this time there is a bill in Congress providing that the NRA be extended two more years. Without such legal sanction a great deal of it will expise in a few months by statutory limitation. Just what the fate of this bill will be semains to be seen. President Roosevelt favors it and has recommended its passage. A year or so ago this woold have meant without question that the NRA would be given two more years of life. Of late, however, Congress has been more and more inclined to buck, and political students give the act but little more than an even chance to pass.

In spite of this, however, and assuming for the moment that the act does pass, there is still considerable doubt about the future effectiveness of the National Recovery Act. Federal courts have been dealing pet administration rules and regulations some heavy blows during the past few weeks. Even this however does not tell the entire story. A great many political students have told us that provisions of the NRA in some instances transgress natural economic laws and that they will sooner or later become inoperative. If this is true then functions of the NRA may become ineffective whether or not the life of the law is extended. Without going into the question as to the economic logic of some provisions of the act it must be asserted that many of them sem contradictory in purpose at least. One may well ask whether it is still possible to stimulate the purchasing power in the country by reducing wages and jobs through curtailment of production and raising prices by the same method.

Certainly the thing to be accomplished now is to restore confidence as far as possible by outlining a clear-cut economic policy and by steering our course in accordance with the economic laws of nature. Unless this is done there seems to be serious prospect of a bigger deficit, higher taxes and more government relief than ever.

TWO LEFT TO PAY THE BILL

Scott Shessler, tax authority and accountant of Indiana, and YOU will pay all the federal taxes, if the Townsend Act and the Child Labor Amendment are passed and government employment continues. Here is how Mr. Shessler figures it out:

Population of United States	124,000,000
Eligible for Townsend (old age) plan	50,000,000
	74,000,000
Prohibited from working under child labor laws and those working for U. S. agencies	51,624,998
	22,375,002
Unemployed on relief	22,375,000
Total remaining to produce nation's goods and pay the tax bills (Shessler and You)	2

The administration forces in Congress have slowed up the relief works bill until the opposing congressmen can hear the voice of public sentiment. Perhaps it wouldn't be a bad idea for the administration leaders to do a little listening too.

Man In The Moon

AMERICA AND THE WORLD COURT

Again the question has come up in high cricles: Shall the United States enter the world court? Happily for the American people, congress has seen fit to stay out. Let us call back a few years. When President Wilson went over to Europe, he came back to sell the United States the idea of entering the League of Nations and the World Court. But at that time the war was fresh in the minds of the officials and the people of America. We had come to know war at first hand, and were well acquainted with its ravages and terrific cost. Gone was the glamour of trim looking uniforms and glittering badges. The war was over, yet on every hand we could see the stark evidence of it in the pinched faces of veterans who had been through hell and lived to tell the story. The martial music of military bands, which had stirred us a few short months before, now merely served to remind us all over again that it was such that had led the flower of America's manhood to the edge of war's yawning chasm and shoved them over into the bloody abyss from which thousands were never to return, or, at best, came back to suffer a living death. In short, America was sick of war. And, in this frame of mind, our officials turned thumbs down on any entangling alliance which by any stretch of imagination MIGHT lead to another war. Our people and our congress acted wisely on this occasions, and we have never had cause to regret that we kept out of the League and the Court. Lately our officials had to decide this thing all over again. Some of them thought we should "join up", to try to keep world peace. They told us that we could join and have a hand in handling the affairs of other nations, but that if a question concerning our own interests should arise, we would not be forced to abide by the ruling of the Court. Is that reasonable or sensible? Is it not reasonable that if we partake of the feast we must eat what is put before us? I think America should look out for Americans—first! If the people of Europe want to go to war, let them fight. However, as for us, let us stay at home. If they want to bring the fight to us, let us be so prepared that we can give them a warmer reception than they reckoned for—with hot lead—but if they want to fight among themselves, I see no good reason why we should become worked up over it. Let's stay out of the League and the Court. Let's stay at home, and fight at the same place, if we have to do any fighting. I believe our national officials who turned down the "joining" idea have acted wisely.

WHOSE CHESTNUTS ARE BURNING?

Before the election last fall, local Democrats and "near Democrats" were promised jobs galore. Jobs, jobs, jobs! That's all you could ycar. They promised jobs to everyone but Abrahem and Isaiac, and I suppose they would have promised them, too, if they had been in position to vote. All of these jobs depended on the election of the local Democratic ticket. It has been rumored that even Governor Graves gave assurance that if the local jobs gave out, he would see to it that the State would take care of all "defenders of the faith" and staunch followers of the distinguished Order of the Jackass and Rooster. Hundreds of jobs were promised—hundreds and more hundreds of them. It was a simple matter to promise. The sad part of the whole affair is that many voters took all these campaign promises seriously—the most of them are still waiting and hoping. True, most of the boys have seen their bubbles burst, and have made preparations to steer "old Beck" or one of the 1934 model Roosevelt mules around again this year, but there are a few who are still hanging on, foolish enough to believe in those promises yet, though they see very little chance and have less hope that they will be made good. Another sad slant on the matter is that the "State jobs" as promised by MISTER Graves seem to hold nothing in common with appointments being made by GOVERNOR Graves. From observation, we have always noticed that Gov. Graves is a man who always looks forward to his own best interests. If he sees one of his own chestnuts burning, he generally manages to get it out of the fire, but he isn't so long on getting himself singed in looking out for the other fellow's chestnuts, once he gets what he wants. We just wonder if "Uncle Bibb" will look out for the boys around here to see that they get a job. At present there are some chestnuts burning—really scorching—but as yet we see no outstretched hand from Billy Goat Hill to "take care" of the boys here in Chilton. How long will it be before we see this, if we do? How long, oh Lord, how long?

WHAT A DIFFERENCE

Officials of Alabama might look about them and pick up a few good pointers on how to manage the state's affairs. They might compare a bit, also, to advantage. For instance, when the new legislature of Arizona met in the early part of this year, the governor met with them, and in his opening talk made 18 recommendations, and of these the first four were for continuation of existing tax measures which were due to expire automatically, or moves for new tax measures to be enacted. On the other hand, when the Georgia legislature met, Gov. Talmadge made recommendations for further cuts in taxation, and for measures calculated to save in state government. Why so much difference in the two state systems? There can be but one answer. Georgia must certainly have a better system of government, or more efficient officials. For some time past Gov. Talmadge has demonstrated that he knows how to get the most out of each tax dollar, and the taxpayers are enjoying the result—tax cuts. Not long ago when the legislature of Alabama met, a sales tax was suggested. The bulk of Alabama's people cannot really understand just how bad and hateful a sales tax is, because they have never had to contend with it. But if they will remember the years just after the World War, when we had a "war tax" to pay on everything, that will give them some idea of it. If you can't remember that, you should write to some of your friends in Mississippi, and get them to tell you what they think of the sales tax. I have talked to many people in that state, and if these people could have their way about it now, the sales tax would be short lived. Imagine having to pay a special tax on everything from an all-day sucker for the baby, on up to an automobile. It is just another way of shifting the tax load to the "little man's" shoulders. Another thing, there is a big graft to it all. Say the tax rate is 2 per cent on each dollar or fraction thereof; a merchant makes 25 sales in a day, averaging $1.25 each; the sum would be $31.25, gross sales, on which he would pay a gross sales tax of 63 cents, while his customers would have actually paid him $1.00—4 cents on every sale, leaving the merchant an actual profit of 37 cents on the sales tax alone—over a third of the tax collected. Do you think Alabama needs a sales tax? I think it will be up to the voters to decide before long.

CAMPAIGN PROMISES

It has often been pointed out that the weak place in our American political system is infidelity. In plain words, it is the well known fact that politicians and political bodies are quick to promise anything and everything that people want, for the purpose of getting into office, and then promptly forget all about these promises. No better example of this can be found than the action of the national Democratic party and its candidates during the campaign of 1932, and since the election of that year. One of the most widely discussed promises of the National Democratic Campaign Committee, and, in fact, the very FIRST article in the platform, read as follows: "The Democratic Party solemnly promises an immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus, and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the cost of Federal government". Has ONE part of this promise been kept? They know it hasn't, and you know it, too. Instead of abolishing any commissions or bureaus, dozens of new ones have been set up—bureaus never heard of in the history of our government. Instead of consolidating departments, existing consolidations have been broken down on every hand, necessitating numberless new departments, and each of them carrying fat salaries. Instead of eliminating extravagance, Democratic leaders, themselves, state that the present set of officials have practiced the most high-handed extravagance ever recorded. And, as for saving in the cost of government, any grammar school pupil reads the newspapers enough to know that the government has been plunged into debt faster than in any period before, even during war times. You KNOW these facts are true, whether you be Democrat or Republican, or of any other political faith. You KNOW there has been a complete reversal of the "solemn promise" made to the people of the nation in 1932. Furthermore, I quote from the campaign speeches of Franklin D. Roosevelt, during the 1932 campaign—he made the following statement on numerous occasions: "The platform of our party is a PROMISE, BINDING ON THE PARTY AND ITS CANDIDATES. I have accepted the platform WITHOUT EQUIVOCATION and WITHOUT RESERVE. Let us have the courage to STOP BORROWING to meet continuing deficits. STOP THE DEFICITS!" It seems to me that word "binding" is taken very lightly in Mr. Roosevelt's case. If they figure they have carried out their "binding" pledge, I shudder to think what they might have done if they had not had the pledge to live up to. And he wanted to stop borrowing. Then why didn't he do it? He had everything in his hands, with nothing to hinder him from doing anything he desired. His spineless congress had given him all power. That bunch of so-called congressmen should go down in history as the most notorious mob of nincompoops and weak-kneed jellyfish who ever pretended to represent America's people. Even a rabbit will run for its life—those fellows didn't even try to run, but gave up without a scrap—just caved in, so to speak. Maybe they were too lazy to run, and too spineless to fight for their rights and those of their people. And so, without restraint of any kind to contend with, with no one in the way, our mighty Czar Roosevelt went his way. But did he conform to the pledges which were so "binding"? I'd like for someone to show us just ONE place where he kept the pledge, insofar as money matters were concerned. Just ONE! The pledge called for more economy, more saving, less cost, less borrowing—a saving of 25 per cent in the cost of government. What President Roosevelt has given us is as near a complete reversal of this pledge as could be imagined. If he has ever thought once of economy, his actions have never betrayed that thought; instead of saving, he has thrown government money to the four winds; costs have mounted daily, and they speak of and roll out BILLIONS of dollars as nonchalantly as former administrations have handled thousands. Instead of stopping the borrowing spree, they have added fuel to the fire, until today the United States government is not only broke—it is something over 30 billions of dollars in debt, and so that much worse than broke. Campaign promises? Just like pie crusts to the super-intellectuals who rule our country—made to be broken.—Man in the Moon.

ANOTHER SHOWDOWN COMING

Developments in East Africa seem to be rapidly assuming the shape of another showdown for the League of Nations. The last one which the League had in the Orient was none too enjoyable. This time the threatened trouble involves Italy and Abyssinia. It may be said by way of beginning that Abyssinia has been an independent and sovereign state for about four hundred years. It has been a member of the League of Nations from almost its beginning, and the natives of the country are known for their fighting policy if not for their diplomacy.

The first real sign of trouble for Abyssinia as far is the world in general knew came when Italy and France joined in an alliance, and France, in exchange for Italy support in Europe, agreed to stand behind Italy in her African adventures. What Italy wants, of course, is a free hand in northern Africa and especially in that part around Abyssinia.

By way of a starter, and in order to keep her own skirts as clear as possible, Italy announced to the world that the Abyssinians were enchoaching on the rights of the Italian colonists. Immediately preparations were made to send Italian troops and war munitions to Africa to enforce the Italian "rights." Then the Abyssinians played what they might well consider their trump card. They appealed to the League of Nations for arbitration and they no doubt felt that their country, because it was a loyal member of the League, ought to get justice. They may get this if the question comes before the League, but it will be "justice" that France and Italy want, regardless of the real facts in the case. The voice of the League, as it is at present constituted, is a voice trained by France and Italy, ably assisted by their satellites in the League. It is more than probable, however, that the African question will not come up for adjudication for the very reason that the European powers do not want to drag it into the limelight. But if the Ethiopians insist on their rights, there is apt to be another showdown after the manner of the one in the Orient, and a great deal of embarassment.

Some of the apologists for the League in the United States are getting ready to say that the reason for the failure of the League to settle this question satisfactorily if it comes up, will be that the United States is not a member of the international organization and will not use its influence, men and money if necessary to enforce a just decision. It is to be remembered, however, that when the League failed to accomplish anything in China the United States government was behind it one hundred per cent. Yet nothing was accomplished.

LINCOLN AND OLD VINCENNES

"Lincoln's interest in this Indiana city extended over a period of forty years. His first glimpse of the old Indiana frontier was at the age of eleven," says Francis Marion Van Natter, in the current issue of the National Republic.

"For a period of almost forty years, at various intervals," continues Mr. Van Natter, "Abraham Lincoln visited Vincennes (Indiana) and correspond with that historic old town's leading population. It was along about 1820 that Lincoln, a tall, gangling boy of 11, saw for the first time this romantic capital of the old Northwest Territory. He and his boyhood neighbor, Henry Brooner, had come seventy miles through the Indiana wilderness, from down in Spencer county, to buy a rifle-gun. Vincennes must have greatly interested young Lincoln, for along the Wabash River waterfront there still lay the ruins of the stockaded fort which George Rogers Clark and his 'Big Knife' frontiersmen, back in 1779 had captured from 'Hair-Buyer' General Hamilton and his red-coated British soldiers. Clark's victory at Vincennes had not only made possible the victorious ending of the Revolutionary War for the thirteen seaboard American colonies, but had also made possible American sovereignty west of the Allegheny Mountains.

"Doubtless Lincoln stood gazing at the old fort's ruins and saw moving about the town's broad, quiet streets African slaves—and that in spite of the Ordinance of 1787, governing the territory 'northwest' of the river Ohio, which specifically states 'There shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude in the said territory.' Nevertheless, in 1820 there were in Indiana 190 slaves, the majority of whom were in or near Vincennes. As late as 1830 'a local census of Vincennes, taken by order of the Board of Trustees' showed '32 slaves then held at that point, 12 males and 20 females.'

"Perhaps Lincoln, though then only a boy, was familiar with the jist if not the details of the following ordinance passed May 15, 1815, by the Board of Trustees of the Borough of Vincennes, which was intended to discourage slaves from running away: 'that if any slave or servant shall be found within the Borough (whose master employer, or owner, lives out of the bounds of the corporation) without a pass; or some letter whereby it may appear, that he or she is proceeding by authority from his or her master or owner, it shall and may be lawful for any person to apprehend and carry him or her before a Justice of the Peace to be by his order punished with stripes not exceeding 35. * * * and be it further ordained that all riots, unlawful assemblies and seditious speeches of any slave, within the bounds of this borough shall be punished with stripes at the direction of a Justice of the Peace.' But little did Lincoln think that 101 years later, at the very spot he was then standing, a memorial bridge of concrete, granite and bronze would span the Wabash in his honor—he who had freed the slaves and saved the Union. So Lincoln and Henry Brooner took their new rifle-gun and reaurned to their wilderness home in southern Indiana.

"Seven years went by, and then William Jones, a native of Vincennes, moved to Lincoln's Spencer county neighborhood and opened a store. Jones was a whig and an admirer of Henry Clay. Young Lincoln went to the store, talked, listened and learned. Dennis Hanks says, 'Abe turned Whig in 1827-28—Think Col. Jones made him a Whig.' So loyal was Jones to Lincoln that when the Civil War broke out while Lincoln was President, William Jones went to the war, became a colonel and was killed at the Battle of Atlanta.

"Three years passed in the Indiana wilderness; then the Lincoln family, setting out for Illinois, left Spencer county and made comp in Vincennes about March 5, 1830. Lincoln wrote, 'having just completed my twenty-first year, my father and family with the families of the two daughters and sons-in-law of my step-mother, left the old homestead in Indiana and came to Illinois.' He added that their 'mode of conveyance was wagons drawn by ox-teams, and I drove one of them'."

NOT THE ONLY SKINNER

The capitalist is not the only skinner who broke the moral laws in the years of universal dissipation which followed the war; the industrialist who overcapitalized his enterprise, feeling that the golden era would last forever, was no more responsible for the crisis than the salaried father of a family who after earning as much as ten dollars a day during the war, had nothing to show for it at the Armistice but a car and a player-piano, and who is now living on direct relief. But our good press stresses the misdeeds of capitalism and says little of the improvidence of all classes of society indiscriminately.

Result of Survey For Hookworm

SHOWS OVER 33 PER CENT POSITIVE OVER COUNTY AMONG WHITE CHILDREN

A survey of school children has been made in Chilton County in order to determine the amount of hookworm infestation that existed. This survey has shown that one out of every three children in Chilton County have hookworm. This is quite a high rate for a county so far north in Alabama, since previous surveys have shown that the heaviest hookworm infestation is in south Alabama. The survey also showed that some schools had more than 50 per cent of the children infested with hookworms. Every child that has been shown to have hookworms has been given the treatment. It is to be hoped that every chld who has received the medicine will take the drug and rid themselves of hookworms. Follow up work will show how many children have actually been ridden of these worms.

Birmingham Post Offers Cash Awards To Farmers

Owner Or Share-Cropper Showing Greatest Progress In 'Plant-To-Prosper Campaign' To Be Selected For Participation In Total Of $1450

Offer of a total of $1450 in cash prizes to Alabama farmers making the greatest progress in a live-at-home program in 1935 was announced this week by The Birmingham Post.

With the object of reducing the amount of food and feedstuffs imported into Alabama, now estimated to total nearly $145,000,000 a year, The Post is sponsoring a statewide competition to see which farmers make the greatest progress in intelligent diversification.

The campaign, The Post announces, is in co-operation with the Auburn Agricultural Extension Service and a group of Birmingham firms which believe the state's prosperity will be materially helped if farmers get into position to produce all the food and feedstuffs used in the state.

Every farmer, regardless of whether he cultivates his own land or works on shares, is eligible.

The Post is introducing a system to place all farmers on the same basis in competing for the awards. No farmer need feel because his farm or home is not to be compared with that of a more fortunate neighbor, that he is handicapped in the contest, as the judges will consider chiefly the relative progress made during the crop year.

County winners will be chosen by county committees which farm agents will be asked to head. District and state winners will be selected from county winners by a committee which Gov. Bibb Graves and R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, will name.

Grand Prize Of $500

For the grand prize of $500 every farmer in the state is eligible to compete. In addition prizes of $450 are offered in each of three districts into which the state is divided by the Extension Service.

In addition to the cash prizes, the farmer adjudged the winner in each of the state's 67 counties will receive an invitation, along with his county agent, to come to Birmingham this fall for the first annual Plant-To-Prosper banquet. Each county winner will also receive a Certificate of Merit.

BASIS OF AWARD

The basis on which the award will be made follows:

Progress made in producing food and feed consumed on the farm, 60 points.

Progress made in soil improvement, 10 points.

Progress made in increasing comfort and healthfulness of the home, 10 points.

Progress made in improving livestock on farm, 10 points.

Sense of civic and community responsibility, 10 points.

The campaign will be carried on in co-operation with the county agents and with the help of county papers in each county.

RULES OF CONTEST

Here are the things expected of each farmer who enters the Plant-To-Prosper competition:

1. Fill out an entry blank and mail it to the Plant-To-Prosper Bureau in care of The Birmingham Post.

2. File with the county agent not later than June 1 a farm inventory showing what was produced on the farm in 1934 and what the farmer has—land houses and all—on June 1, 1935.

3. On July 1, Aug. 1 and Sept. 1, give the county agent in accordance with his directions a brief summary of what has been produced each month on the farm.

4. On Oct. 1 give the county agent a complete list of what has been produced on the farm during the year, compared with the previous year and showing to what extent food and feedstuffs produced and saved will make the farm self-sustaining for the coming year.

Fill out the accompanying entry blank today and mail it to The Plant-To-Prosper Bureau, Birmingham Post, Birmingham, Ala., and receive a leaflet containing additional information and pointers.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Here is a press story from Albany, N. Y., which appeared about the middle of February. A delegation of attractive Vassar girls, bundled in expensive furs and puffing cigarettes, told the New York legislature that it should defeat a bill requiring students to pledge allegiance to the Constitution. These girls were smoking cigarettes, which was in violation of the senate rules, but the girls smoked and got away with it, rules or no rules. They probably got quite a thrill out of the occasion. They did not want any law to require students to declere allegiance to the Constitution. I wondered when I read this news story if the average American realizes how significant that is.

About the same time this story came from Albany big headlines in the paper said, "Striking Students at Franklin, Indiana Accuse Officials." A story came from Madison, Wisconsin, to the effect that communism is rampant at the University of Wisconsin and in nine teachers' colleges in the state. A newspaper story from Georgia says that a judge charged the grand jury to investigate communism in two institutions of that state, one of which is a church school. A committee in Arkansas declared that there is communism in an institution in Arkansas. There was a story to the effect that two hundred university students in one of our southern states, who, because the manager of a theater would not let them in free, mobbed the theater.

I am calling your attention to these matters because you plain, every-day Americans had just as well realize now that the educational drift of this nation is communistic and atheistic. Boys and girls have been taught to "blow off," to do just what they want to do, to do as they please; and they are coming to believe that whatever they want they have a right to have. Many of them are against all authority. That explains the modern rebellion against the Bible. The Bible is an outhoritative book. It says "thou shalt" and "thou shalt not," and modern man does not want anybody, not even God, telling him what to do.

NATION AND STATE WANT RECORD OF ALL BIRTHS

Montgomery, March 16.—"Every baby a registered one" is the object of the Alabama "Register Your Baby" campaign.

The dictionary defines a baby as "an infant of either sex," but every mother knows that a baby is a small creature made up of about equal parts of sweetness and temperament. Each mother thinks there is no baby quite like her own, and no matter how many she has, she could not spare a single one.

Uncle Sam wants to help parents protect the future of their children by having a complete record of the facts pertaining to the child's birth, both in the federal bureau of census at Washington and in the state board of health at Montgomery.

The "Register Your Baby" campaign is being carried on by the federal bureau of the census, the Alabama state board of health and the Alabama relief administration.

"Parents owe it not only to their children but to themselves, to fill in and mail the baby census card; also they owe it to their state and federal governments. Parents who have not received one of these cards or have lost or mislaid it, may secure one from their local post office, the relief field worker in their community, or by addressing the 'Register Your Baby' Campaign, care of the state board of health, Montgomery. A card should be filled in and mailed for every baby born within the past twelve months, even if the attending physician is known to have registered the birth," said Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer.

Among the Clanton people attending the funeral of Miss Nita Campbell at the Methodist church Wednesday of last week was the grammar school faculty, composed of Mrs. Tom Searcy, Mrs. Curry Thomas, Mrs. Barney Burnett, Miss Lucile Sheerwood, Miss Ada Holcombe, Miss Jennie Robinson, Mrs. Dick Hayes, Mr. Abrams, Mrs. Gandy, Miss Morris and Mrs. Samuel Martin.

Mrs. Dewey Smith of Wetumpka was the guest of her parents here, Prof. and Mrs. H. L. Davis, last week.

Miss Virginia Dennom of Montgomery spent Tuesday of last week in Clanton at the relief office.

Thirty departmental meetings, most of which are scheduled for Friday, March 29, will be held at the Phillips High School and other nearby buildings.

The opening session on Thursday afternoon will be featured by addresses by state superintendent J. A. Keller and President Dowling. The only speaker scheduled for the Thursday evening session is Dr. G. Bromley Oxnam, president of DePaw University, Greencastle, Indiana. He possesses an unusually fine stage presence and is speaker of world-wide reputation.

Governor Bibb Graves and Dr. Edwin Mims, of Vanderbilt University, will speak on Friday evening. The address of the governor at this particular time is awaited with intense interest by the hundreds of laymen interested in schools as well as by the teachers themselves.

One unusual feature of the evening will be a fun and fellowship program immediately following Dr. Oxnam's address on Thursday evening, directed by the department of physical and health education, H. A. Flowers, hairman. This feature is provided primarily for the visitors and guests of the A. E. A. In addition to a grand march and a seres of songs and stunts the program will include general dancing. One of Birmingham's best orchestras is beng employed for the evening.

Walter Jenkins, of Houston, Texas, the official song leader for Rotary International, has been engaged to lead the convention singing. In addition to being a world-famous leader of songs, Mr. Jenkins is a distinguished soloist.

Joe W. Foshee Died Last Week

Was Lifelong Resident and A Prominent Citizen of Chilton County

Mr. Joe W. Foshee, widely known citizen, and native son of Chilton County, died last Thursday at the age of 83 years. At the time of his death he resided one and a half miles south of Clanton.

Funeral services were held Friday at the Baptist church in Clanton, conducted by Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, Rev. S. J. Ezell assisting. Burial was in Clanton cemetery, with Martin & Sons in charge.

Surviving Mr. Foshee are his widow, Mrs. Argie Foshee, and eight children. Five sons, J. H., Sie, and Luther, of Clanton; Warnie, of Birmingham, and Dewey, of Nevada; three daughters, Mrs. Della Thomas, of Cook Springs; Mrs. Zora Bell Walker of Birmingham, and Mrs. June Simpkins, of New Orleans. All of the children were present at the funeral, except Dewey.

He has two surviving brothers, Bazz and Charley Foshee, of Clanton; two sisters, Mrs. Laura Ann Maddox, of Thorsby, and Mrs. Mary Burnett, of Elmore.

It is a remarkable fact that the death of Uncle Joe is the first death in his family within the recollection of any of his children.

During his long life, Mr. Foshee was never out of the State of Alabama but one time, when he made a trip to Texas while a small boy.

Speaking for the family, Mr. J. H. Foshee said Monday: "We wish to most sincerely thank each and everyone of our friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness, death and burial of our father. Especially do we thank Dr. N. S. Johnson, Dr. V. J. Gragg and Mr. Samuel Martin for their kind attentions."

HUNDREDS FLEE FLOODS

Memphis, Tenn., March 19.—The usually tame Cache River broke through its levee 15 miles north of Devall's Bluff, Ark., late Tuesday and surged over 10,000 acres of farmland.

This break—the latest development in a major Mississippi Valley tributary flood—drove 200 families from their homes and threatened to cause serious damage to a new dirt fill on the Memphis-to-Little Rock Highway.

As the St. Francis continued to rise in the vicinity of Monette, Ark., 100 miles northeast, water backed up against State Highway 139 and Sheriff Houston Johnson, of Craighead County, heard reports that some residents planned to dynamite the highway to send the water on eastward.

The sheriff ordered armed deputies to the scene and warned that "there will be no dynamiting if we can help it."

More than $15,000 persons were said to be homeless in the Southeast Missouri-Northeast Arkansas flood sections alone.

BRO. BRYAN WILL BE AT FRIENDSHIP FIFTH SUNDAY

Definite announcement as to others to take part on the program will likely be made in this paper next week.

Mr. Lonz Parrish, who sells used cars for the Carr Motor Co., in Selma, was in Clanton the first of this week.

FARMERS MAKE TRIP TO AUBURN

Two Hundred Spent Monday Inspecting the Alabama Experiment Station

In response to the invitation if the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, an even 200 farmers of Chilton County assembled in Clanton about six o'clock Monday morning ready to make the annual pilgrimage to Auburn for a day's study and observation of things at the Alabama Experiment Station. County Agent, J. W. Fant, chairman of the Kiwanis Committee on agriculture, had charge of arrangements for trip. He invited 200 farmers, and received acceptance of 200 to make the trip. Fant says that convinces him our farmers have a mighty good batting average.

To carry the Chilton County group on the trip Monday it required 20 automobiles and two big school busses. Eleven of the automobiles and the two busses were furnished by members of the Kiwanis Club. Nine automobiles were furnished by other interested citizens and business men. Every part of Chilton County was represented in the delegation.

As a sample of the way farmers were mixed up in different groups, it is cited that one automobile contained a farmer from Mars Hill west of Jemison, one from Union Grove east of Jemison, one from Fairview west of Clanton and one from Maple Springs south of Clanton.

The entire group arrived in Auburn between 10:30 and 12 o'clock. As they arrived there groups were formed for making the tour of the experiment station. Each group was in charge of an expert of the Auburn staff.

Visits were made to the departments where demonstrations were studied on subjects of farm flock poultry, forestry, fire prevention, cover crops, soil building, soil erosion, livestock, and trench silo.

From one to two o'clock the farmers were assembled for lunch, after which they were arranged in a group for a picture to be made. The tour of inspection was continued as late as five o'clock for some of the sections.

County Agent Fant pointed out that the Chilton County group that visited the experiment station included not only farmers from every corner of the county, but also representatives of the 4-H Club work, the three department of vocational agriculture in the county headed by the three vocational teachers; two members of the Court of County Commissioners and two members of the County Board of Education and the County Superintendent of Education and the Tax Assessor-elect.

The negro farmers were not to be outdone altogether. Benjamin Anderson, vocational teacher at the County Training School, made the trip and carried five negro farmers with him.

Upon their return to Clanton Monday night many of the farmers making the trip were heard to declare that it was the best event of the kind ever pulled off. Mr. Fant said the first inquiry made of him after the crowd got to Auburn was how many counties those men represented. When he told the inquirer they were all from Chilton County the fellow appeared astonished at the turn-out.

The highest price for peas and soy beans comes from selling them to the soil.

The cow that jumped over the moon was probably looking for a better pasture. Let's cooperate with her by improving our pastures by sowing lespedeza, carpet and dallas grass on all bare places.

John Dorminey Injured In Wreck

Foot and Leg Crushed When Truck Met With Accident

John Dorminey, age about 35 years, resident of Montgomery, was seriously hurt in a wreck of his truck near Dothan Monday night. He was placed in the Frazier Hospital at Dothan for treatment of his injuries, which were found to be a crushed foot and leg broken below the knee.

Mr. Dorminey is the son of the late William Dorminey, of Union Grove. He is married and has two children. His wife is a daughter of Mr. T. J. Martin.

Accurate details of how the accident happened are not available. Mr. Dorminey was engaged in the produce business operating a truck out of Florida. He was on one of his regular trips of this kind when he was hurt.

During the World War John Dorminey was in the United States Army, serving with the Rainbow Division in France.

Play At C. C. H. S. Was Well Presented

Miss Clara Mae Rogers Was Winner in Beauty Contest

The Senior II class of Chilton County High School deserves the hearty commendation accorded them by a capacity audience on last Friday evening at the presentation of their class comedy-drama, "For Pete's Sake."

It was the unanimous opinion that the players showed the finest training and the best talent that has been witnessed at the high school in a long time. The boys and girls who played the parts actually put themselves in the class of professional dramatists.

A review of the play could scarcely do justice by pointing out any particular ones of the actors for special mention. Each and everyone of them were so nearly perfect that not a single bobble was perceptible to the audience.

The special features of the program between acts of the play included novelty dances, readings, and athletic stunts.

They were of a high class and indicated the same thorough and efficient training as the cast of the play.

Concluding the program the result of the beauty contest and designation of Miss Chi-Co-Hi brought a fitting climax to an event that had occupied the intense interest of the school and many other people for the past two weeks.

When the tally was finally cast up, all of the entrants representing the different classes were presented as follows.

Senior 3, Alice Petty; Senior 2, Sara Lawrence; Senior 1, Geraldine DeLoach; Junior 3, Clara Mae Rogers; Junior 2, Theda Wyatt; Junior 1, Frances Wood.

With all the girls standing with their escorts on the stage the seal was broken on an envelope containing the name of the winner. Announcemnet of the honor to Miss Clara Mae Rogers brought forth a roaring cheer from the large audience.

Miss Rogers was presented a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Miss Margaret Kendrick was given a vase of beautiful flowers by the class in expression of their appreciation for her faithful services in coaching the play and handling the program.

MULE KILLED BY FALLING IN DITCH TUESDAY NIGHT

Mr. Enoch Traywick, of Lomax, was driving his team of mules out of Clanton towards home Tuesday night after the big rain. As he went down the hill near Ellis's Filling Station one of the mules slipped into the ditch recently dug for the new water main, and was killed.

The ditch had already been filled up after the main was laid, but the big rain had settled the new dirt back into the bottom of the ditch leaving the place about four feet deep where the mule slipped in. It is reported that the animal's neck was broken.

MRS. AMANDA GREAR DIED

Mrs. Amanda Grear, age 85 years, died last Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Tom Lowe, in Birmingham. She had been in ill health for many months.

The body was brought to Clanton by Spigener and prepared for burial, after which the remains were carried to the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. D. Foshee.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at 3:30 at the Clanton Methodist church, Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating. Spigener was in charge of burial at Clanton cemetery.

Mrs. Grear was the widow of Mr. E. F. Grear, who died several years ago. She is survived by four children: Mrs. Sallie Eiland, of Montgomery; Mrs. T. H. Lowe, of Birmingham; Mrs. M. D. Foshee, Clanton; and Mr. Jesse Grear, of Augusta, Ga.

TWO NEGRO CHILDREN DIE FROM DRINKING WHISKEY

Rules Adopted By Berry Ass'n

Three Chilton Organizations Join Adoption of Uniform Regulations

At the request of Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, business manager of the Clanton Berry Growers Association, we call to the attention of all who may be interested, certain rules and regulations recently adopted by the berry associations of Thorsby, Clanton and Jemison.

The following rules and regulations were adopted at a meeting of the three Chilton County strawberry associations at Thorsby March 21st, 1935:

1. No berries will be accepted after 7 p.m. for that day's loading, unless weather conditions are such that berries cannot be picked and brought to loading point by 7 p.m.

2. That the three associations pay 1½ cents per quart for picking berries.

3. At the start of the season and during car loading every member must bring his or her berries to the association for sale. Violation of this rule will forfeit membership in the association.

4. For car loading berries must be packed in new clean crates, and must not be picked wet.

5. If any member belongs to one or more of the three associations, he must ship all of his berries through the association he starts shipping with.

6. The above rules and regulations were adopted by the members of the board of directors of the three Chilton County Strawberry Associations.

SPECIAL MUSIC TO BE AT THE BAPTIST S. S. NEXT SUNDAY

Superintendent L. C. Ross wishes the announcement published in The Union-Banner that there will be special music for the closing exercises at Clanton Baptist Sunday school on next Sunday. Everybody is invited to attend Sunday school and remain for the closing; and for preaching too, of course, Dr. Ezell would add.

AYERS SALE SATURDAY

Next Saturday morning at 11 o'clock an administrators sale will be held at the A. A. (Dock) Ayers place, about three miles northwest of Clanton when all possessions of Mr. Ayers will be sold. Among the articles to be sold are one second hand car, and a number of different kinds of farming implements. A. H. Collins will do the selling.

Law Violators In City Court Fined

Mayor and Policemen Want To Maintain Law and Order On Our Streets

Mayor C. Fenn Jones, had a rather busy start for the week on Monday morning, when he took up and disposed of three cases of law violations that were garnered by the city police force over the week end.

In two cases charged with public drunkenness the mayor imposed a fine of $5 together with costs of the court procedure. One case of disorderly conduct was given a fine of $10 and costs.

Police Chief, John Browder, frequently reasserts his interest in maintaining law and order in Clanton. It is commendable that we have so few violations, especially during the rush of events and the big crowds of people who come here on Saturdays. However, there are a few occurrences that demand the attention of the police, and Mr. Browder usually shows up about the time he is needed to straighten out somebody who has let his foot slip a little too far.

Mayor Jones manifests the right sort of disposition on the subject of law and order in Clanton also. He wants everybody to come to Clanton when they want to; but he also wants every person to respect the rights of other people. When cases come before him where persons have not respected the law, he is very firm in extending such a reminder as will cause them to think in the future.

TO CLEAN OUT DITCH

Judge J. Lee Smith stated Wednesday morning that Commissioner C. D. Duke has organized a work program for cleaning out and removing obstructions in the drainage ditch in Walnut Creek east of Clanton.

Foreman, Tom Wyatt, who had charge of digging the ditch last year, will also have charge of the crew that is to work on the present program of Mr. Duke.

Work was to have started Wednesday morning, but had to be postponed on account of the large amount of water from the heavy rain Tuesday night.

Judge Smith in his statement voiced the hope that during the coming summer additional work could be instituted to extend the drainage ditches into other areas of the swamps around Clanton.

Farms And Motors

A Talk Given on the Ford Sunday Evening Hour, February 24, 1935, by W. J. Cameron, Broadcast over the Nation-Wide Network of the Columbia Broadcasting System from Orchestra Hall, Detroit.

Friends of the Sunday Evening Hour: The farmer's job used to be keeping the nation's dinner table supplied. He has extended that to supply materials for industry. People worried a little while ago about how the world would live when natural resources were exhausted—the minerals and fuels that were laid down ages ago, the forests that took generations to mature. But today the annual produce of the field provides a greater source of material than we had ever known before. Yesterday the world made vegetable wood and mineral wool; tomorrow it will be making vegetable glass and metal. The growing things of the field, new every year, are serving mankind in most wonderful ways. Stockings are made of vegetable substances, dresses of wood fiber. Substitutes for rubber come from the cornfield. We paint Ford cars with soy beans. One night we shall discuss this new tie-up between factory and farm; tonight we simply look at the part the farmer plays, with things as they are, in making such a product as, for example, the motor car. Fields, pastures, wood lots are all used by modern industry.

To fulfill its announced intention of making a million cars this year, the Ford Motor Company will purchase many products of animal husbandry. That number of cars will require 3,200,000 pounds of wool, and that quantity of wool will require more than 800,000 sheep to produce it. The wool goes into upholstery, floor-coverings, lubricants and anti-rust preparations. And then comes the part the cow plays. The production of glues made from hides, glues made from milk, stearic acid, greases, glycerine, soap chips, and 1,500,000 square feet of leather for upholstery, will utilize 30,000 cattle. The hog also enters the picture. For lard in oil lubricants, oleic acid and bristles for brushes, 20,000 hogs will be used. Even the goat yields his quota; for in making the pile fabric used in upholstery, 150,000 pounds of goat's hair—mohair—will be needed, which means shearing 87,500 goats. Beeswax is not so much used as it was, but it still serves in electrical imbedding compounds, and the tons of beeswax used in making a million cars will require the labor of 93,000,000 industrious honeybees.

Turning to cultivated fields we come first to cotton. Every four-door Ford sedan uses 70 pounds of cotton. A million cars will require over 69,000,000 pounds of cotton — 25,000,000 pounds in tires; 34,000,000 pounds in batting, cloth, brake linings, battery box, timing gears and safety glass. It will take 433,000 acres of cotton to produce this material. King Motor is a strong ally of King Cotton. The cornfield also is laid under tribute. Some half million bushels of corn will be needed for butyl alcohol and starch used in manufacture. This will bring the product of 11,280 acres of corn to the Ford factory. Flax growers will furnish 2,400,000 pounds of linseed oil, and to produce this they will cultivate 17,500 acres of flax. Even the fields of sugar cane help build the Ford car; for they furnish the 2,500,000 gallons of molasses from which come solvents, anti-freeze and shock absorber fluids, and it will take 12,500 acres of sugar cane for that. Growers of the castor bean will supply 240,000 pounds of castor oil for lacquers and artificial leather.

All this from the ordinary farm. From farther afield come jute and hemp and sisal and manila fiber for carpet backing and ropes.

The trees make their contribution. We shall need 112,000,000 feet of lumber mostly for packing purposes and 5,000,000 feet of paper board, and that provides a market for 20,500 acres of timber. The pitch pine will supply 2,000,000 pounds of turpentine for solvents and paints and adhesives. Rubber trees, whose product is used in 203 parts of the Ford car, from tires to tops, will supply us with 35,000 tons of rubber. Cork trees will yield a quarter of a million pounds of cork. And because we shall use 728,000 gallons of tung oil, which 16,000 acres of tung trees will produce, a new tree industry is being encouraged in the United States.

This is only to mention the ordinary materials. Another time we shall deal with more recently developed uses for the annual crop of the farm. But this will indicate how great a farm market our company is. The motor car is not a kingdom in itself; it must buy something of nearly everything that is grown on the farm and that is made in other industries—for, of course, most of the products named here reach us after much labor has been spent on them in other industries. The motor car is a good customer of everybody. The farmer helps to build motor cars, just as the motor manufacturer helps to make farming more efficient and convenient. They help each other and that helps the country.

Dr. Arthur Johnson Died Last Thursday

Prominent Young Physician Succumbed to Illness of Short Duration

Funeral services for Dr. Arthur Johnson were held at his residence last Saturday morning, with Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating. Burial was in the Clanton cemetery with Martin in charge of arrangements.

Dr. Johnson was born in Clanton February 17, 1888, the son of Dr. Sam Johnson, one of the pioneer residents of Chilton County.

Graduating from Vanderbilt University with high honors in 1909, Arthur Johnson immediately began the practice of medicine in Clanton. He enjoyed a most successful career in his profession, ranking among the best physicians in this section of Alabama. Being one of a family which has produced many noted doctors, it was but natural that Arthur Johnson should inherit those traits of character and disposition which would fit him for a successful career in medicine.

He was married in 1910 to Miss Mabel Hall, of Owensville, Indiana. He is survived by Mrs. Johnson and two sons, Arthur, Jr., 21, medical student at University of Alabama; and Joe Hall, student at Gulf Coast Military Academy, Gulport, Miss.; two brothers, Dr. N. S. Johnson, Clanton, and Dr. Sam Johnson, Pensacola, Fla.; one sister, Mrs. J. Earle Gowan, of Clanton.

Several months ago Dr. Johnson's health began to fail to the extent that he was forced to limit his activities in the practice of medicine. He was stricken ill with pnumonia about two weeks ago, and was carried to a hospital in Birmingham, where he died last Thursday afternoon.

Pallbearers at the funeral last Saturday morning were John C. Page, Grady Reynolds, Hance Alred, Frank Callen, Hosea Downs and Mack Broadhead.

Dr. Johnson was widely known throughout Chilton County, having come into contact with people constantly and intimately during his wide practice. He was universally loved and admired by those who knew him.

Will Be Broadcast Over Three Birmingham Stations On Friday Evening

Mr. Percy Pitts, chairman of the program committee of Clanton Kiwanis Club, announces that all details of the Clanton and Chilton County program have been outlined, and Clanton is ready to go on the air Friday evening of this week from 6:30 to 7 o'clock.

The presentation is to be made under auspices of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, and will be broadcast over a hookup of all three Birmingham broadcasting stations, WAPI, WBRC and WSGN. This will be one of a series of radio broadcasts by the Chamber of Commerce in its effort to make the surrounding towns of Alabama better acquainted with the city of Birmingham.

Numbers on the radio program will be presented by a group of local people. Three short speeches will be made. Mayor C. Fenn Jones, County Agent J. W. Fant, and John Hollis, superintendent of Mitchell Dam, will have parts in the speechmaking. In between the three speeches Mr. Pitts has arranged for some musical numbers, including selections by a Clanton quartet and some solos.

The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce extends an invitation to all Chilton County people who will to come to the city for this occasion. All who attend will be entertained at a dinner by the Chamber of Commerce after the radio broadcast. Clanton and Chilton County should rally to the opportunity to make a fine showing on this occasion. All who may wish to go are urged to get in touch with Mr. Pitts.

YOUNG MAN SUICIDE AT BILLINGSLEY SUNDAY NIGHT

Only meager details were available concerning the suicide of a young man, Ross Hughes Friday, age 18, which occurred about eleven o'clock last Sunday night at the home of his brother, Earle Friday, near Billingsley.

It is said that the young man went out in the porch of the home alone, placed the end of a shot gun in his mouth, and literally blew his brains out. He is said to have left a note to his brother, the contents of which has not been given out.

Burial of the young man was at Bethsalem cemetery Monday. He was a son of Mr. Wade Friday.

Legion Rally At Talladega April 13

Alabama Department to Stage Two-Day Gathering For Boosting Membership

The department of Alabama, American Legion will hold a Spring Rally April 13th and 14th in the Wren Memorial at Talladega. This rally, according to Adjutant D. Trotter Jones, formerly of Talladega, is being planned to help stimulate interest in membership.

To encourage Legion officials to work a little harder in building up their membership during the next four weeks, the department is offering prizes to post and department officials. Every post commander and adjutant securing twenty per cent of his post's 1934 membership between March 18th and April 14th will be given either an officer's ceremonial badge or an officer's cap insignia. Every department executive committeeman and vice-commander who has twenty per cent of his district's 1934 membership reported during the above period will receive a Legion uniform.

The Talladega meeting on Saturday night, April 13, will be a social affair, followed by a dance. The Sunday session will climax the rally and a special program is being arranged.

Every post in the State is urged to send representatives to the meeting. The Wren Memorial was erected in memory of Ed (Shorty) Wren, who served in the Rainbow Division and was department commander of the Legion at the time of his death.

The New Salem Social Club held its meeting the 14th of this month at the home of Miss Loutisha Bean. An enjoyable afternoon was spent by those attending.

The treasurer of a well known company burst into the office of the president. A collection of papers was in his hand. An animated smile hid for the moment the deep lines of his countenance etched by worry.

"We're out of the red!" he exclaimed excitedly as he laid the evidence before the chief executive.

"We're out of the red? Then why have you used red ink?" queried the hard-to-be-persuaded president.

For a moment the smile vanished, but it flashed back again as the treasurer exclaimed: "If we had bought black ink to make this report, we would still have been in the red."

FORD V-8

In A Class By Itself

THERE is no way to compare the Ford V-8 with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

It takes eight cylinders to give the modern performance you need these days. The Ford is powered by a V-8 — the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.

FORD MOTOR COMPANY

PLEASANT HILL

Health of our community seems to be good except a few cases of measles, and they are doing fine. We hope they will all be able to be out again soon.

We had a large crowd out for Sunday school Sunday and everyone seemed to have gotten good out of being in another good Sunday School.

And listen, just as long as we put something into our church, we are sure to get something out of it.

We also had another large crowd out for B. Y. P. U. Sunday night with several visitors. We invite them back again.

We are planning to have an Easter program at Pleasant Hill, which will be the third Sunday in April. If you would like to spend a part of that day in a real good service, try to be with us. We will make it worth your while.

Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cleckler and Mrs. Cecil Giles of Clanton were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Twilley.

Miss Jessie Cleckler spent a while Sunday with Misses Daisy and Elizabeth Martin.

Mrs. Luvenia Bialock has returned to her home in Birmingham after spending several days at the home of her brother, Mr. S. J. Twilley.

Mr. P. M. Cleckler made a business trip to Auburn last Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Blow and children spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Blow of Thorsby.

Quite a few from here attended the singing at Friendship Sunday afternoon, and reported a mighty good singing.

Let's not forget our Sunday School every Sunday. Visitors are always welcome.—Reporter.

ADMISSION 10c and 25c

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

Christ Before Caiaphas.—After the soldiers had taken Jesus, according to John, they led Him before Annas, at Jerusalem. "Then the band and the captain and officers of the Jews took Jesus, and bound Him. And led him away to Annas first; for he was father-in-law to Caiaphas, which was the high priest that same year. Now Caiaphas was he, which gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people. The high priest then asked Jesus of His disciples, and of His doctrine. Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing. Why asktest thou Me? ask them which heard Me, what I said. Now Annas had sent him bound unto Caiaphas the high priest. And Simon Peter stood and warmed himself. They said therefore unto him, art not thou also one of his disciples? He denied it, and said, I am not. One of the servants of the high priest, being his kinsman whose ear Peter cut off, saith, did not I see thee in the garden with Him? Peter then denied again; and immediately the cock crew."—John 18: 12-27. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

POOR OR

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

CROTALARIA PROVES PROFITABLE LEGUME

Auburn, Ala.—Many farmers are this spring planting crotalaria to improve their soils during the summer months, reports Dean M. J. Funchess of the Alabama Experiment station, who advises farmers regarding the crop as follows:

"There are many varieties of crotalaria but of those tested in north Alabama the most promising one has been the early strain of crotalaria spectabilis. The late strain makes a larger vegetative growth than the early but does not mature seed in all years.

"Crotalaria may be planted alone or in alternate rows with corn. The land should be well prepared. The rows should be 3 to 3½ feet apart. The seed should be planted at the rate of 7 to 10 pounds per acre and covered very lightly, not over three-fourths inch. The ordinary planter with a sorghum seed plate may be used. This plate will put down 7 to 10 pounds of seed per acre. It should be planted about the usual time of planting corn and cotton and when there is abundant moisture in the soil. Moisture sufficient to get a stand of cotton or corn is not sufficient to get an even stand of crotalaria.

"Broadcast seeding alone or in corn middles frequently fails. This method may be used when seed are plentiful and cheap but where seed are expensive it is too liable to failure to be recommended. When this method is used the seed should be sown at the rate of 25 to 35 pounds per acre.

"Fertilization is not generally practiced though it may be profitable to use 100 to 200 pounds of superphosphate or 300 pounds of basic slag at planting if the soil is very poor. Inoculation is not necessary."

A man who climbed a tree to escape an angry bull rammed his head into a hornet's nest.

FARMERS URGED GROW SOYBEANS FOR SEED

Auburn, Ala.—With the present high prices of soybeans, the production of seed this year on lands taken out of cotton production is urged by J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist at Auburn.

"One-half acre of land as a soybean plot will produce sufficient seed for the average two-horse farm," he advises.

"Also soybeans planted between the hills of a few acres of corn when it is planted will give a good supply of seed. This plan has been followed very successfully by many farmers of this state, especially in producing Otootan seed.

"Another method," he continues, "is to plant rows of soybeans between watermelon rows, between rows of first-year kudzu, or on terraces. Plant when danger of killing frost is past and by the first of June. If planted alone, have rows wide enough to permit one or two light cultivations.

Apply either basic slag or superphosphate when planting the soybeans.

SPRAY WILL PROTECT FRUITS

Auburn, Ala.—By beginning to use summer sprays on their fruit trees now and continuing throughout the season, Alabama farmers will this year harvest peaches, plums, apples, pears, and grapes free of diseases and insect damage.

Effective control of diseases and insects requires that the proper materials be used and that the spraying be done thoroughly and at the correct time," advises L. M. Ware, head of horticulture and forestry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, who advises farmers to see their county agent for information on the kinds and amount of spray for apple, peach, plum and pear trees and grape vines.

FOREST PROTECTION CONCENTRATING WORK

Montgomery.—In conformity with the principle that financial resources can be spread over too large an area of forest land, resulting in less effective protective measures, the Alabama Commission of Forestry is concentrating its field work in 1935 in those areas on which the landowners and local public agencies are contributing substantial efforts and funds in their own behalf. In a statement issued by the Commission it is pointed out that when the funds available per acre fall below a certain minimum it is better to reduce the area covered in order that the expenditures per acre may be somewhat increased, assuring more effective returns.

Where the State is a large landowner, as is the case in a number of counties, its expenditures, of course, are on the same basis as those of other landowners. In such instances, substantial protection measures are maintained in conformity with the law requiring the Commission of Forestry to act as field custodian of State lands. Altogether, the area covered by the direct field work of the State Commission of Forestry in 1935 is approximately 7,500 acres of net forest land.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., March 27. — The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports to the State Game and Fisheries Department that the coyote, "wild dog of the western plains," is moving east and that Alabama is one of the states being invaded.

Tourists in the west often purchase coyote puppies and bring them east, the report states, but in addition to the artificial plantings, the animals are said to be pushing eastward of their own accord.

At various intervals coyotes have been reported in Barbour, Marengo and Autauga counties and some were reported sighted several years ago in the Cherokee Bluff section of the state.

Home to the coyote is wherever he digs his den. He migrates easily and multiplies rapidly. Although coyotes are scavengers and, in addition, destroy many rodents, they are all too likely to find it easier to obtain their living by killing poultry and young pigs, lambs, and even calves.

The paid-hunter system is advocated by the Biological Survey as the best method of keeping coyotes under control, while some of the western states have been very successful in trapping them.

"The Old Family Physician"

Dedicated to the Doctors of Chilton County.

"How often we hear it said that 'the old family physician of the days of our youth is rapidly passing away.' He it was who came into our homes and hearts, was a part of our lives, our confidant in health, our hope and trust in sickness, and an all sustaining and mighty power in time of trouble and death; to whom we trusted our lives and characters without doubt or question, knowing that our confidence would be held inviolate. In him we had a friend indeed.

He came to us in our hours of extremity, his very presence was a benediction, and his cheery words and sunny smile carried rays of hope and sunshine into our weary hearts and peace to our troubled souls. A ministering angel he seemed to us sometimes, in whom we placed a god-like trust, believing that if he could not stay the grim destroyer's hand, then we were lost indeed.

Many such men as these are being preserved to this generation. Never lost sight of the truth that they are members of the noblest profession on God's footstool, and are messengers carrying cheer, hope, consolation, peace and ease to suffering humanity. The young practitioner of today is the old family physician of tomorrow.

Around that name clings tender recollections of kindly deeds performed. May God bless that old physician who has journeyed onward to the day when the rays of his sun, slowly sinking toward the horizon, fall aslant, and the shifting shadows along the pathway lengthen and grow broader, and the starry twilight deepens into the shades of night.

The old doctor, once proud in the God-given strength, and spirit and vigor that quickened his young manhood now broken with the trials, toils and vicissitudes of long years of ministering to the sufferings of his fellow men; with the shadows growing deeper upon his understanding, but with soul unconquered and heart undaunted, trembling, he stumbles onward to the shore of that sea where, borne upon the slowly ebbing tide, the gently lapping waves soothe and lull into that everlasting sleep where pain and parting are no more.

Oh, may the work that he has done go on and on, until the hour when o'er the low Judean hills there bursts the golden light that heralds the coming of a better morn."

"My Boy," said the magnate to his son, "there are two things that are vitally necessary if you are to succeed in business."

"What are they, dad?"

"Honesty and sagacity?"

"What is honesty?"

"Always—no matter what happens or how adversley it may affect you—always keep your word once you have given it."

"And sagacity."

"Never give it."

Dead Line Near For Tax Payers

Warning Again Issued By W. G. Culp, Tax Collector of Chilton County

Renewing his warning of a few weeks ago, Tax Collector Will G. Culp this week again calls attention of the public to the fact that taxes must be paid before the first of April in order to avoid the addition of extra costs and penalities.

Explaining the situation further, Mr. Culp repeated his statement published on February 7th, which said:

"The law under which extension of time for payment of taxes has been made for the past two years has expired. It was a special act of the legislature which was made for only two years duration.

"The collection of taxes now goes back under the regulations of the old law which was in operation before the special law was enacted.

"Under the provisions of the old law, which will apply this year, about April the first will be as long as extension of time can be granted. Therefore, all taxes not paid before that date will have to become subject to penalties and extra costs provided by law.

"All taxpayers are given this notice in order that they may know of the regulations to be imposed by law, and have an opportunity to take care of their taxes without having the extra costs and penalties of delinquency applied to them.

"I will give every favor I can under the law, but it is not possible for me to make extensions as I have done in the past two years."

'BURNING OF WOOD RANK WASTE' SAYS FORESTER LYLE BROWN

Why burn the woods? is a question that farmers should ask themselves every day.

The practice of burning off woodlands is one of the most harmful customs we have inherited from the days of frontier farming.

Fires burning through the timber lands kill young seedlings, seriously damage saplings and check the growth of large trees, destroys humus and leaf matter, exposing the bare soil to leaching rains as well as excessive drying out. Big fires kill many mature trees each year.

He says "Burning off broom sedge does not make pasture lands produce earlier or better grazing, but does deplete the soil of valuable plant food. Burning fence rows drive birds out in the open, where they fall prey to their natural enemies and to the mowing machine.

Many times brush can be put to better use by placing in gullies to help stop washing even if it has to be hauled instead of being burned.

In the older countries, everything on the farm that will decay readily is carefully saved and put back into the soil. People who fail to do this pay dearly for their wastefulness."

Save the covering and you save the soil.

It is better to have a small fertile farm than a large plantation of poor burned over and gullied land.

The best farmers not only make hay while the sun shines, he makes repairs while the rains fall.

OBITUARIES — IN MEMORY

It becomes necessary for us again to call attention to the fact that we make a charge of one cent per word for all obituaries over 150 words published in The Union-Banner. So, if you want an obituary, or in memory article, published about a departed friend or relative, it must be confined to not over 150 words, or else money order for the remainder should be included if sent by mail, as outlined above.

If obituaries are sent in containing over 150 words and no money accompanies same, it will be either omitted entirely or, if possible, condensed to come within the requirement, and published.

THE UNION-BANNER.

ABSENTEE VOTING

There can be no better argument for the abolishment of absentee voting than the action of the Democratic Legislature and Governor Graves in the disputed election in DeKalb County.

Some of the Republican candidates for county offices undoubtedly would have been elected if the votes had been counted accurately and in accord with the absentee voting law as it had been previously interpreted.

By the counting of absentee votes irregularly cast the way was paved to give all the offices to Democratic candidates. If the the DeKalb episode is an index to how absentee ballots will be manipulated if allowed in future elections, then the pending bill to abolish absentee voting should be passed.

It may appear harsh for a citizen to lose his vote simply because he is away from home on election day, but presumably the opposing candidates would suffer proportional losses by the abolishment of absentee voting.

At any rate it would be better to deprive a few election day travelers of their ballots rather than to run a risk of throwing the whole election into question.—Birmingham Post.

STATE BEING INVADED BY PACKS OF COYOTES

Montgomery, Ala. — Coyotes, wild dogs of the western plains, are invading Alabama.

Just a word about the SERVICE at the MOLTON HOTEL

FIFTH AVENUE AND TWENTIETH STREET

THERE'S a pleasant, friendly atmosphere about the Hotel Molton—a delightful informality and unobtrusively efficient service that appeals to discriminating guests. While Molton service is punctilious, it is entirely lacking in that stiff formality one often finds in larger metropolitan hotels. That's why the guests who stop here once, feel like they're coming home when they return to see us.

NET PROFIT OF WARS

Certainly to go deeper and deeper into debt is not the way in which to bring about an economic recovery. NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

A great deal of American attention so far as diplomatic affairs are concerned, has been centered of late on the situation in Europe and Africa. Newspaper dispatches have told of the trouble between Italy and Abyssinia and how this has been affected by the alliance in Europe between France and Italy, with Great Britain looking in an approving fashion. We have been told quite properly that this is no business of the United States and that we are not a member of the World Court if the vexing question should come up to the League of Nations for settlement.

It is becoming evident, however, that there is another very active nation in Europe in diplomatic affairs just now and that is Soviet Russia. Although communism is a program calling for the destruction of all capitalist nations, the Reds in Europe are not adverse to playing with certain capitalist nations against others. This may be with a view to destroying ultimately our economic society. But it is more than likely that at the present time Russia is doing its scheming to preserve its own integrity in the hope that it will first be able to maintain the present communist autocracy, in the land of the Great Bear.

Russia believes that she has political troubles with Japan on one side and Germany and Poland on the other. She claims to believe that she may be attacked either in Europe or Asia and that she may have all these three nations as enemies. The Soviet diplomats therefore are seeking to get an agreement with France, Italy and Great Britain for a pact which will guarantee the present territorial status of eastern Europe. In return they promise to help guarantee the present territorial status in western Europe.

It is reported that France is already in favor of such an agreement. Her interest lies in western Europe especially along the Rhine, and she is anxious to have as many allies as possible since Hitler has put on his rearmament program. Italy, with its present relations with France, would undoubtedly be willing to sign the agreement, too. In other words, France and Italy doubtless are willing to guarantee the status quo in eastern Europe if Russia will help guarantee the present territorial situation in western Europe, which she is willing to do. This puts it up to Great Britain. John Bull is ready to enter into an agreement which will prevent war and keep things as they are in western Europe, because western Europe is near Great Britain and John Bull is anxious not to have anything happen so near home. But when it omes to entering into an agreement about eastern Europe, John Bull is not so eager to sign. The Eukraine is a long way from home and the British are not at all anxious to agree to put men and money into eastern Europe to protect something which Russia now possesses. This is why Russian diplomats are using every effort to line up British diplomacy with them for an Eastern Locarno. It is a vital matter for them. For if Great Britain does not go into a direct agreement, France and Italy will not be so anxious to do so.

The Russians are just as concerned about the situation in the Orient, too. They credit Japan with having ambitions in Siberia and China and they are fearful that if they get into war with Japan, Poland and Germany may take advantage of the situation in Europe to grab off something which Russia now owns or claims. Great Britain does not like Japan's policy. Neither is she anxious for Russia to dominate the Orient. The Soviet's present problem therefore is to line up France, Italy and Great Britain in case trouble breaks out either in eastern Europe or the Orient. That explains the many moves now being made by the Red diplomats who formerly declared they were against all capitalist nations.

SOME POLITICAL CHANGES

One of the most significant political developments in America during the past few months has been the increasing rift between the leaders of the administration and the leaders of the so-called "left" or radical movement. Personalities have flown thick and fast but this does not disguise the fact that the differences are fundamental and cannot be permanently healed by compromise.

From the statements of some of the critical "left" leaders we would be led to believe that the present administration "has turned to the right." This would presuppose, of course, that the administration had started out by moving toward the left. At any rate, the present situation emphasizes the truth of a statement often made that there is little chance of satisfying the radical. The leftest movement feeds on its own success. It is like a snowball rolling down hill. The further it goes the bigger it becomes, and the bigger it becomes the more it demands. You cannot satisfy it unless you go the whole distance. Radicalism seems naturally to lead toward socialism, political or otherwise, and those who have studied the question tell us that the active socialist is headed toward communism. A communist, so the saying goes, is little more than an impatient socialist.

Be that as it may, it is undoubtedly true that every victory they achieve only spurs the leaders to the "left" to more drastic accomplishment.

This is why any political movement which starts out to placate the "left" but to remain in the middle of the road, usually ends up by losing the support of the "left." The time comes when the middle of the road will no longer satisfy the extremists. They will demand a sharp turn to the left. Any effort to keep the machine in the middle of the road is hailed by the leftists as a turn "to the right," and they immediately begin to criticize and denounce, and to plan a new political movement. That is the phenomenon we are witnessing today.

One may be permitted to speculate what might have happened had the administration in 1933, instead of treading new paths, devoted its efforts to carrying out the 1932 platform on which it was elected. This would have called for sound money instead of currency manipulation, a balanced budget instead of deficits, and an attempt at restoring prosperity through saving rather than spending. The liberals, so-called, would undoubtedly tell us that such a course would have brought us to revolution. On the other hand others would maintain that a liquidation of the banking situation, followed by time-tried measures, might have put us on the high road to prosperity by this time, so that employment would have increased rather than decreased and resulted in a much stronger national financial situation than is now the case. They might have based this assertion on the belief that we had reached the low-spot of a normal depression in the summer of 1932 and were ready for the long climb up hill anyhow.

Of course we will never know what would have happened if things had been different. Political strategists will tell us that huge public expenditures for relief and for public works had a pronounced political effect last year. That may be true, but this is another year now, and the future is not clear. At any rate, it is being learned that it is difficult to satisfy the "left" by leaning to the left and yet maintaining a "middle of the road" policy.

Man In The Moon

JACK'S RECORD

Jack Hayes, Clanton's contribution to the national pastime, and second baseman for the Chicago White Sox, is rounding into shape nicely in spring training this year, if reports from the Sox training camp at Pasadena, California, are right. Manager Jimmy Dykes has signified his intention of starting the season with Jack at his second base post. In an interview a few days ago, Dykes stated that he felt his club was stronger "down the middle" than it had been in years, with Luke Sewell behind the bat, Hayes at second, and Simmons in centerfield. For the benefit of Jack's many friends in and around Clanton, this column will carry a weekly record of his work this season, both fielding and batting. We started to do this last year, but injuries came along to put him out of the game so much that we stopped it. We hope for better luck this year, however. If you are one of Jack's fans, watch for this each week. He should have a great year.

WONDER OF WONDERS

It doesn't happen very often, so I believe in taking advantage of every chance I can get to agree with the editor of The Chilton County News on something. And, wonder of wonders, I have—not one chance, but two in which to agree with him. The first is the editorial The News carried last week about the advantages to a town of having a band. We heartily agree—a band is something great for a town. And I would like to go further and say that Clanton CAN and SHOULD have a band. The Kiwanis Club is always on the alert for worthwhile projects to work for. I believe it is just the job for the Kiwanis. The other instance in which I can agree with The News editor (whoever that may be) is in commending the county governing fathers for putting the county's road business on a budget. That is a good move, in fact, one of the best that has been effected in this county in years. Some of these days that News editor is going to get right, in spite of himself and his bad political environment.

ARE YOU LEGALLY REGISTERED?

Politics certainly bring about strange situations, and make people do curious things. Take, for instance, the action of the Board of Registrars of Chilton County. During their last meeting for registration of voters, this board registered people WHO WERE NOT 21 YEARS OF AGE AT THE TIME OF REGISTRATION, making for themselves a construction of of the law regarding registration that is in direct violation of the specific words of the law in this regard, and in contrast to the ruling of the Attorney General concerning the law. The Board of Registrars maintain that a person may be registered if he or she "will become 21 years of age before the date of the next election," and have registered applicants for registration coming in this class. On October 5, 1929, the Attorney General of Alabama gave an opinion on this point of law. Hon. R. L. Mullen, Chairman of the Board of Registrars of Talladega County, Ala., had written to the Attorney General, asking the following question: "Whether or not the Board of Registrars is authorized to register applicants who will reach the age of 21 years before the next election?" The Attorney General answered: "Boards of Registrars are not authorized to register applicants who will be 21 before the next election, but APPLICANTS MUST BE 21 YEARS OF AGE AT THE TIME HE OR SHE MAKES APPLICATION FOR REGISTRATION as a voter". The Attorney General also cited Section 177 of the Code of Alabama, which makes the rules of procedure for Boards of Registrars quite plain. Whether this error on the part of the local Board of Registrars is willful or unwitting I do not know, nor care, although it would seem that the former is the case, inasmuch as the members of the Board did not take the trouble to ascertain their correct duty. But the fact remains that an error was made, that the error is on the part of the Board of Registrars, and they are ones who should correct it, in fairness to those whom they have illegally registered. If these, gentlemen were honest in their error, they will be glad to correct it—if their action was willful, then they will very probably do nothing about it, unless forced to do so. If the Board was trying to accommodate these new voters, they should realize that they have done them an injustice, rather than a service, for, in years to come, these people so illegally registered might be embarrassed if a question regarding their registration should be raised. So, all newly registered voters would do well to check up on themselves. If they were not 21 years of age AT THE TIME THEY MADE APPLICATION, they are illegally registered.

THE ABSENTEE BALLOT

At last some people are waking up to the evils of the absentee ballot. This system of allowing the counting of absent voters' ballots could have been a good one, and more than likely those who put the law through the legislature intended well by their action. Yet, like many other things meant for good, the absentee ballot has fallen into bad company. It has been known for years that it was a big chance for crooked work in elections. In fact, it has been common knowledge for some sime that the absent voter privilege was being abused, and on several occasions recommendations have been offered that the practice be abolished. However, nothing was ever done about it. Of late, though, there has been agitation again that it be done away with, and just now it looks as if we may see some action on it. Abuse of the absentee ballot must certainly have gotten to a bad pass when the Alabama Democratic machine advocates its removal, for in the past this outfit has demonstrated that it will hold its nose and put up with most any kind of rotten stuff, just so long as it gets the desired results. They point out numbers of cases over the state where such abuse has been practiced, and open boast made of it. And, my brethren, we have a pretty fair idea of what happened in our own county during the last election. At least a week before election day last fall, I heard a Democrat as he stood on the street and told the world at large: "We have this old election sewed up. I know what I'm talking about. I know that there are over 300 absentee ballots up there (pointing toward the courthouse) and THE ARE MARKED RIGHT!" How could he KNOW so much? One might say he didn't know, but for the fact that his prediction as to the number was absolutely correct. To me that proves but one thing—somebody knew too much about the contents of the "sealed" envelopes containing those ballots, and had been "talking out of school". Who that somebody was, I am not able to say, but I have sense and judgment enough to know that the man in the street can't know what is in a sealed envelope under lock and key unless he has received some pretty straight information from someone who has seen the contents of those envelopes. I would be glad to see the absentee ballot law kicked out. Would that it had been done before the last election. The Republican party of Chilton County has everything to gain and nothing to lose when it is done away with. The quicker it goes, the better.

"GRANDMA" CALLS A HALT

Along back in 1932, while The Literary Digest was conducting a nation-wide straw vote in the presidential campaign, the Southern Democratic newspapers howled with glee as the returns came in and were tabulated and reported in The Digest. One of the most hilarious of these was The Montgomery Advertiser. For some strange and unaccountable reason The Digest's polls have a way of forecasting elections to a surprisingly accurate degree, and the 1932 case was no exception. When they showed that Roosevelt was in the lead by a comfortable margin, these Southern Democratic newspapers pointed to the figures with pride and joy. Now, however, the same Democratic newspapers, especially The Montgomery Advertiser, or "Grandma", as it is known in the press world, would like to have a law passed to forbid the practice of conducting such straw votes. The Advertiser says that lots of people wait to see "which way the procession seems to be going, and then get on the band wagon". No doubt this is true. But what I would like to know is why The Advertiser has had such a quick change of heart about The Digest's straw vote. In 1932, The Advertiser said The Digest was "doing the voters a real service in letting them know how the rest of the country felt about the business of electing a president". Now the same editor comes back and says such a straw vote in the coming presidential campaign would be a "distinct disservice", in that it would affect so many of the "band wagon riders". Why this sudden and complete reversal of opinion on the part of The Advertiser? I can see only one reason. Maybe The Advertiser has been reading between the lines, as some of the rest of us did, in the elections over the nation last fall. In 1932, the Republicans polled only about 41 per cent of the national popular vote; but in 1934 they polled over 46 per cent of it, a straight loss of over 5 per cent for the Democrats in two years. If the Republican cause should gain as fast in the next two years as it did in the last two, then things might be entirely different when the totals come in. And maybe The Advertiser isn't so sure that this very little thing might happen, maybe in even greater degree, with dissension in the Democratic ranks showing up, the relief program breaking down, and numbers of other things of kindred nature which would work no good to the Democratic cause showing up in the picture. Any way, we would like to have The Advertiser explain why it has decided to change over so suddenly, if this isn't the couse.

WHO RATES?

Up at the capital at Washington, the big brainy boys and others closely connected with the administration had a chance to see how high they really rated a few weeks ago. The chance came when the time rolled around to buy new official cars for all the cabinet members, special officials, and others. Were some of those faces red? Some of the big guys, of course, drew their usual $3,500 limousines. Then there was a class who thought they were really "some punkins" who had to be content with an old $3,000 bus. Then came the lesser lights, trailing along with $2,500 affairs. There were others, big and little, and some who thought they were big cats, but proved to be "little minners", who rated even lower. But it remained for Secretary Wallace, of the Agricultural Department, to draw the black eye from the whole gang. They shoved him off with a lousy old $1,500 truck wagon. It may be that they thought that was all he rated as an official, and were trying to show him in a nice way that they didn't think he was so hot at handling the affairs of farmers of the country. And then again, maybe they took into consideration the fact that he was tangled up with farmers, and so should be treated as such; and, inasmuch as farmers have a habit of getting the ragged edge of everything, they may have decided to treat him likewise, so that he might the better know how a farmer feels when the very good things are passed around and he draws "the littlest piece of pie". Take it any way you like, the fact remains that the Secretary of Agriculture got the sorriest car in the drove, no matter what the cause. Figure that out for yourself.—Man in the Moon.

A BELATED RECOGNITION OF

Plainly the NRA is entering a period of sober second thought and careful action. Gone is the time when the cry of "emergency!" justified, or was taken to justify, extreme courses. The effort to stride forward as with seven-league boots, and force miraculous results by the sheer power of stern and dramatic commands, has been found more suitable to the course of life in a fairy-tale than to realistic and vastly complicated problems of business and industry.

The principles and objectives which Donald Richberg now describes as desirable for the NRA, apparently with President Roosevelt's approval, show a studious regard for the established law of the nation and a careful limitation of the NRA program only to such results as seem truly possible of attainment. The outstanding feature of this new policy is the declaration that NRA codes should hereafter be restricted to trades and industries actually engaged in interstate commerce, or those "affecting it substantially" and not merely in theory. Here the administration shows, above all, that it has recovered serious respect for the Constitution and gained a realistic sense at last of the need to keep itself clear of adverse decisions by the Supreme Court. This shows that the close shave in the gold cases, and the recent Federal District Court decision in the Weirton case, have not been without healthy effect. Although Mr. Richberg has consistently battled for moderate policies and due legal restraint in the conduct of NRA, the course of actual events in the courts has done much to uphold his hands.

The significant value of the respect now shown for the Constitution does not lie merely in formal allegiance to the courts and to due process of law. That should be taken for granted. What it signifies is the truth that when such a tribunal as the Supreme Court of the United States finds a law unconstitutional, you may be sure that the work which the government is trying to do under that statute is something for which not only the Constitution but also the minds and judgments, the existing practices and needs of the people of the nation are not yet prepared, so that they find the government's efforts repugnant. Now the NRA is prepared to recognize that any ruthless attempt to force results, regardless of that fact, can only come to grief. It is beginning now in 1935 to proceed as it really should have begun in 1933. For such a "recovery" of poise and moderation the country will be highly grateful.—Boston Transcript.

DIRECT SUBSIDIES

According to press reports of present plans at Washington we are to have a regular ship subsidy of from eighteen to twenty millions of dollars to keep the American flag flying on the seas. President Roosevelt has stated that he prefers direct mail subsidies, and the present indication is that these may be adopted.

It will be recalled that those familiar with the shipping situation that favorable mail contracts were awarded to American ships sailing over certain routes. These were in effect mail subsidies given to our shipping companies to keep the American vessels afloat. Although a direct ship subsidy had been recommended from time to time, so much opposition developed in Congress that it was found possible to provide only for the favorable mail contracts.

Now, however, with public relief said to be costing $58 per second and with billions used for public works, it is prorable that the objection against a federal subsidy for shipping lines will not be so pronounced.

Some objection arose from those who did not understand the situation to the favorable mail contracts given to American shipping companies to keep them alive, and this objection is said to have led the administration to come out for plain and unvarnished subsidies. Should Congress fail to enact these it is said the present mail contract system will be continued at least for another year.

Americans who realize the importance of our merchant marine to every American citizen are not so much interested in the form the federal aid will take as in the assurance that adequate aid will be granted. The necessity for an adequate merchant marine is now as pronounced as ever. Although most of the sentiment for a government aided marine has come from the states near the coasts American ships are as important to the people living inland an to those near the coasts. We need the merchant ships to assure transportation and fair costs for our shippers in time both of peace and of war. We need the marine also as an adjunct to our navy in case of war.

The need is now better known by the American people than formerly as we are becoming ship conscious. Many of the important advantages were emphasized recently by Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts. Pointing out the dangers of the present situation Senator Walsh well said:

"Were war to break out tomorrow, it would be necessary for the United States navy to take over a large part of American merchant shipping for auxiliary work. Even then this arm of our national defense would be far short of our requirements. Our national defense would be seriously endangered by a lack of certain types of merchant vessels which naval authorities declare are absolutely essential to the waging of successful warfare.

"In 1933, the last year for which official figures are available, ships flying the American flag represented only about 8 per cent of the total tonnage of all countries participating in international trade.

"This failure on our part to occupy a prominent position in world shipping is due to a gravely erroneous impression. The argument is repeatedly and regularly advanced here and abroad that there always will be enough foreign vessels to take care of our requirements. This assertion is fallacious and dangerous to our national welfare. The price of such a policy is too big to pay, as has been conclusively demonstrated prior to and after our entry into the World War.

"It is true that in peace times foreign vessels generally may be obtained to carry American goods, but at what a price! An official report made by the Secretary of the Treasury in 1915 estimated that agriculture and industry paid foreign ship owners in increased freight rates during that one year alone a total of $311,684,400. It was estimated that our people were taxed over a billion dollars during the three years before our entry into the World War for transporting their products through increased rates. This vast sum went mostly into the pockets of foreign ship owners."

ENOUGH OF THE NRA

It may be recalled that when General Johnson retired—with the administration's tacit approval—great things were to be done for NRA. One-man rule was to be supplanted by commission control. The structure's creaking timbers were to be replaced and strengthened. These things were done, but to what avail?

The senators report receipt of a flood of complaints, charging that under NRA small businesses are oppressed; that reactionary elements control some codes; that rights of workers are being subordinated; that code authorities have usurped the legislative function, have assumed the power to tax industry, have undertaken to rule by force. These accusations are not new, but the fact they persist, following valiant efforts to rebuild NRA along more liberal lines, may be significant.

The Recovery administration still has to its credit the conquest of child labor and the establishment of progressive principles of work and pay. Undoubtedly, also, some industries have gained through its generally restrictive measures. Yet it is quite plain that the NRA is in no condition to be recommissioned by the President for another two years' service.

It may be that the senators will decide to drydock the NRA for a general overhauling. But when the examiners get to work it is not inconceivable that they will find it advisable to save a relatively small part of the frame-work, and scrap the rest.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

If Russia and Japan war in China the situation will be brought too close to Uncle Sam. It will take real diplomacy to keep us out of trouble and that is where we want to be kept.

Chilton County Radio Program

The Birmingham Chamber of Commerce is saluting some city of Alabama each Friday at 6:30 to 7:00 p.m., over a three station hook-up of WAPI, WBRC and WSGN. The city being saluted furnishes all the program, music and speeches telling the advantages of that city and there is nothing said about Birmingham but a two minute welcome to the visiting city. No propaganda by Birmingham, but the sky is the limit for the visiting city and we want you to tell the rest of Alabama and the world about your city and invite them to visit you and establish business or, what have you?

These broadcasts are made from the Cathedral Studio of WAPI, Birmingham. The broadcasting party should be in this stuhio one hour before the broadcast for rehearsals, voice tests, etc. At 7:30 following the salute, the members of the broadcasting party from the visiting city are the guests of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce at a dinner at one of the local hotels. Everything at this dinner is fun and fellowship—again no business. Everything is free to the guest city. All we ask is that you furnish the program and bring the participants to the studio.

Some cities offer prizes in connection with their program for the best essay of not more than 300 words in "What I Learned About ....., Alabama." Essays to be sent to your Chamber of Commerce. This gives you an excellent mailing list to be followed up with literature if you so desire. The awards to be announced on the following week's program.

It may be that many of your citizens would like to come to the studio and see and hear the broadcast first hand. Radio studios are always interesting. Many of our local people attend and help in the applause which isn't bad for your radio audience.

The purpose of these salutes is to:

1. Create good will and bring about a better understanding between cities of Alabama.

2. To advertise Alabama cities to the rest of the United States.

3. To make Alabamians more Alabama conscious as well as more loyal to local institutions.

ISABELLA F. F. A. NEWS

The Isabella chapter met at their regular meeting date, Wednesday, March 20. The meeting was called to order by the president. The business that was brought up was on stocking the F. F. A. library with a number of new books. We also finished planning for the public speaking contest, that is to be Tuesday night, March 26.

After the business being attended to the president asked all new members to give a talk on why they joined the F. F. A. There were twelve new members to give talks. Everyone, to their surprise, made a fairly good talk. Eight of the boys just took the initiation the Tuesday night before.

On account of the misfortune that the Isabella community had by the school burning, we thought at first the chapter's throat was cut, but after missing two meetings we started back with full force and have had regular meetings ever since. All the members own manuals except the new ones that have just joined. We are expecting to put in an order for them in the next few days. We have increased our membership of the previous year from 16 to 27, and are expecting to increase it more between now and the end of the school term.

We are also planning to put on a radio program at a future date over WAPI in Birmingham. The chapter and Mr. Locke together sponsored a weiner roast Friday night, March 22. There were approximately 65 members of the chapter and guests who attended the social. The evening was enjoyed by a number of games and plenty to eat.

Six members of the chapter visited Auburn Monday, March 25, with the prominent farmers of Chilton County, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Clanton. We also provided ways for six other agriculture boys outside the chapter, to stir up the interest of them toward F. F. A. work.—Reporter.

Plans for rebuilding our school are moving forward more rapidly. Arrangements have been made for the purchase of a building site where the grounds will be adequate for all purposes. A delay of several weeks has been caused by the deadlock in the United States Senate over the passage of the public works bill. With this deadlock broken in favor of a plan acceptable to the president, hope is running high among our people that our new building will be better than the old one. They believe things will begin to move within a few days.

FERTILIZERS have added millions of dollars to crop values every year by increasing yields and improving quality. Yet, because most fertilizers left acid residues in the soil, crops could not make maximum use of the plant food in the fertilizer.

Improved Red Steer Non-Acid Forming Fertilizer (physiologically neutral) does not leave harmful avid residues. Plants can use every ounce of the plant food in growing to an early, big yielding maturity. Besides being made Non-Acid forming this year, Red Steer now contains new plus values—added calcium, magnesium and other important plant foods that improve yields and quality. Lesson for March 31

REVIEW

Lessons From the Life and Letters of Peter.

LESSON TEXT—I Peter 5:6-11; II Peter 3:14-18.

GOLDEN TEXT—But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. To him be glory both now and for ever. II Peter 3:18.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Peter Was Old.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Learning With Peter.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Peter Became a Great Leader.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Peter Did to Spread Christianity.

The method of review is always determined by the grade and capacity of the class and the genius of the teacher. The suggestions made largely apply to the senior and adult classes. A good method of review will be to cast up to view the following great experiences in Peter's life:

I. Peter's First Meeting With Christ (John 1:40-42).

This involves his conversion and call. As a result of the Baptist's testimony two of John's disciples left him and followed Jesus. Andrew, one of these, when he knew Christ because of having abode with him, brought his brother Peter to Jesus. Andrew desired that Peter should have a knowledge of Jesus, not merely through his testimony, but through personal experience. Andrew did a great piece of work, for Peter became one of the pillars of the church. Later Peter was called with Andrew to become fishers of men (Mark 1:16-18). The first call of Jesus was for salvation. Because he heeded the call to salvation, he now is called to definite service.

II. Peter's Great Confession (Matt. 16:13-28).

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard his wonderful words and witnessed his mighty works. And since Jesus was soon to go to the cross, it was necessary for the disciples to have a true conception of him. In order to help them into the right conception, Christ provoked this confession from Peter as the spokesman for the group of disciples. Peter confessed Christ's messiahship and deityship. The burning question then, as well as for the present hour, is, "What think ye of Christ?"

III. Peter's Denial (Mark 14:27-72).

A better statement would be "Peter's Downfall." Peter's confession showed him to occupy a high position. From that lofty eminence to the depth of emphasizing a lie by means of foul oaths is a long way. The steps are clear and should constitute a solemn warning to all today:

1. Over-weening self-confidence (vv. 29-32).
2. Sleeping at the post of duty (vv. 32-37).
3. Neglect of prayer (v. 38).
4. Service in the energy of the flesh (v. 47).
5. Following Jesus afar off (v. 54).
6. Seeking comfort among the Lord's enemies (v. 67).
7. Open denial (vv. 68-72).

Peter's trouble really began when he shrank from the way of the cross.

IV. Peter's Restoration (John 20:1-10; 21:11-19).

As there were seven steps in Peter's downfall, so there were seven steps in his restoration.

1. Christ's prayer for Peter (Luke 22:31, 32).
2. The look of Jesus (Luke 22:61, 62).
3. Christ's message through the women (Mark 16:7).
4. A personal interview with the risen Lord (Luke 24:34).
5. Peter's open confession of love (John 21:11-17).
6. His work given back (John 21:17, 18).
7. Willingness to suffer for Christ (John 21:18, 19).

V. Peter at Pentecost (Acts 2:1-42).

Peter, with the rest of the disciples, came into a new experience at Pentecost. They came to know the outpouring of the Holy Spirit as the fulfillment of Joel's prophecy (Joel 2:28-32).

VI. The Conversion of Cornelius (Acts 10:1-48).

While Peter had the definite experience of Pentecost, he had not yet come to know the real meaning of the church. He was ignorant of that which God revealed through Paul (Eph. 3:1-5). He knew that a tremendous change had come. He saw the old order passing. It required the visitation of God to him by means of the sheet let down from heaven to show that the middle wall of partition had now been broken down and that Gentiles who accepted the finished work of Jesus Christ were accepted on high the same as the Jew.

Searcheth Out Perfection

Surely there is a vein for the silver, and a place for the gold where they fine it. Iron is taken out of the earth, and brass is molten out of the stone. He setteth an end to darkness, and searcheth out all perfection: the stones of darkness, and the shadow of death.—Job 28, 1-3.

UP!

Food, Clothing, Rent and Everything Except Electricity in Alabama

Back in pre-depression days, folks thought a lot about the means of living high. Now they're bothering about the high cost of merely living. And rightly so. Ham and eggs, clothing, rent—in fact most everything in the family budget is going up, UP, UP. And take it from the "powers that be," the end is not yet in sight. Recent press dispatches out of Washington say the high cost of living is actually going to jump considerably more these next few months.

But there's one exception to the general rule of higher prices. That's electricity in Alabama. Almost every home in Alabama is getting electricity today lots cheaper than a year ago. And the end is not in sight. With increased use of electric appliances—ranges, water heaters and refrigerators—average rates in Alabama for electricity—already the cheapest item in the household budget—will keep on going down, DOWN, D O W N. Which is pleasing to a lot of Alabama folks. As for instance these customers, who have been kind enough to write us.

Mrs. A. G. Westbrook, Demopolis, Ala., writes: "I have just learned that a further reduction in your residential rate for electricity is now in effect, and naturally, I am very much pleased, especially since the prices of all other commodities which go into the usual household budget have been steadily rising during the past year or so."

"I have read a lot about low rates in other places, but it seems to me that Alabama is the real place to look for low rates," writes Mrs. Eugene Smith, of Ozark.

Sam D. Daily, Centreville, Ala., wrote: "I wish everybody would start a crusade to make taxes as low as your prices for electricity—maybe the reason some of us don't use any more electricity than we do, cheap as it is, is because we have to save all our spare change to pay taxes with."

"I wish the price of other necessities of life we have to buy were as cheap as electricity," says Mrs. H. O. Hinton, 711 14th Ave., Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Wish we had space to print more of the scores of letters we have recently received. We'd surely like to hear from readers of Power News what they think about the cheap electricity they buy from us.

IT WONT BE LONG NOW

Hot Weather's on the Way. Is Your New Refrigerator?

Something tells us that it won't be long now before those sizzling summer days are with us once again. It's been an early Spring and that usually means a long, hot summer.

But nowadays summer in the South can be quite livable, in fact enjoyable, provided people are prepared to give hot days the proper greeting. The best imaginable aid to summer comfort is good refrigeration, now within the easy reach of almost any pocketbook. First requirement of good refrigeration is a good refrigerator—ice or electric. This season there are many improved makes and models of both electric and ice refrigerators, which enable you to make those tasty summer treats—frozen salads, and desserts—appetite tempters on hot days and nights. Which reminds us to tell you that our Spring sale of electric refrigerators begins—no fooling—on April 1st. Won't you come by and see them?

Guard Your Eyes Urges Helen Keller

World Famous Blind Woman Makes Eyesight Appeal to Boys and Girls

Miss Keller, who was born in Tuscumbia, Ala., was deaf, dumb and blind when 19 months old. Today she is an authoress famous throughout the world. Recently she wrote, "My message to you, dear boys and girls, is this: Be careful of your eyes, guard them as you would your most loved possession. When you read or study make certain you have plenty of glareless light, so that your eyes will not be subjected to strain. Remember, an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Surveys show that not one home in ten is well lighted, according to new scientific knowledge. In the majority of homes, children are actually becoming near-sighted because parents don't realize how much light they need for studying. To give you the benefit of this new knowledge about light and eyes, we are offering a new free service. Telephone and our lighting experts will come to your home and measure your lights with a SIGHT METER, the remarkable little instrument that measures light and tells whether there is enough of it.

MARVELS

III

Nero, the Roman Emperor, had slaves bring snow from the mountains to cool his wines. Alexander the Great had trenches dug for storing snow. Sir Walter Scott told how Saladin, leader of the Mohammedan armies, sent a frozen sherbet to Richard the Lion Hearted, much to the amazement of that famous monarch. What a marvel ice was in the "good old days"! But now—it's a necessity. With hot weather just around the corner of the calendar, isn't it about time to think about that new electric or ice refrigerator?

IV

It gets mighty hot in South Africa. But there's going to be at least one place where the weather man will be compelled to behave. Three huge machines have been made by the Carrier Engineering Corporation, Newark, N. J., to cool the air for the world's deepest gold mine, Robinson Deep, in South Africa. Cooled, conditioned air will be sent down to the depths of the mine workings—8,385 feet—over a mile and a half. Down there the temperature is close to 100 degrees, and men work at less than 30% efficiency. In many Alabama plants, and stores and offices, efficiency of workers can be likewise increased by air conditioning. Our engineers will gladly show you how.

V

Fog has always been the greatest enemy of safe transportation on sea, air and land. But modern science bids fair to conquer it. Not long ago near Dayton, Ohio, a cloud seven miles long and almost a half mile thick was banished from the sky in seven minutes! A new and improved electrically operated mechanism, tried out in Buzzard's Bay in one of the year's densest fogs, cut out of that fog a clearing 100 feet wide, 2000 yards long. Some folks are "foggy" about the cost of electricity in Alabama. That kind of fog can also be cleared away—electrically. All such people need is to start using complete electric service—cooking, water heating, refrigeration, etc.—to learn how really cheap electricity is in Alabama, because the more you use the cheaper it is.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

All Day Singing Sunday

Next Sunday, March 31, there will be an all day singing at the county training school. Many glee clubs, choirs quartettes, etc. are expected. Among those to appear on program are the Coosa singers, the Maplesville Quartette, the Melody Four from Mulberry, Bryant Brothers and Brown Brothers from Clanton. We hope to make this all day singing the best we have had yet. Everybody is invited.

In connection with the singing there will be plenty of good eats. Fried fish, barbecue, ice cream, lemonade and everything refreshing will be on sale on the grounds. The proceeds will go toward helping to pay the long past due school note at the People's Savings Bank. Come out and enjoy yourselves and lend us your aid in helping to put the program over.

Rehabilitation Families Moving On

Work with the rehabilitation families is well on the way. These people have been asked to plant gardens and raise as many vegetables as possible in order to have some for immediate purposes and also some to can. With the vocational instructors from the county training school working with them, giving them some much needed instruction in home gardening and other problems that confront the housewife, many of these families are encouraged to go on and they look forward to these visits each week.

Those families who do not own land or who have not rented land already are urged to rent a small space, put it in cultivation and raise some of the needed foods for the home.—Benj. Anderson.

FLOYD NEWS

We have organized a singing society to meet every third Sunday but we have called it in on account of the annual singing at Poplar Springs the third Sunday in April.

Our Sunday school is progressing very nicely. We are very glad to have visitors and we cordially invite them back to be wth us.

POOR OR

JOHN W. HAYES FAMILY REUNION

A family reunion was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Hays at Jemison last Sunday, honoring Mr. Hays' 75th birthday anniversary.

The morning was spent in a general round table "get-together." Old times were talked over, and many stories of the days when "the children" were growing up were told.

At 11:00 o'clock all went out to the nearby church, where short sermons were delivered by Revs. Green and Honeycutt. These two messages were quite touching to all the listeners, and time after time tears welled to eyes as word pictures of the home were drawn by the speakers.

At the noon hour, a 30-foot table was built in the yard, but this would by no means hold all that had been prepared for the birthday feast. After all had eaten, the table looked almost as full as before.

In the afternoon, Mr. Hays got his real kick of the day. He called all his grandchildren who were present out into the yard, and taking a large bag of pecans, strewed them over the yards and watched the kiddies scramble for them. Mr. Hays laughed loud and long over their antics.

At another time, several of his sons called him into the house, and informed him that he was about to be initiated into the " 75 club." But when the box was opened, which was supposed to contain the paddle with which Mr. Hays was to be initiated, instead of a paddle there was a new suit of clothes. He was told to put them on, and then was led out on the porch. There all the ladies present were lined up—daughters, daughters-in-law, granddaughters, and visiting ladies, and he proceeded to kiss every one of them.

In the afternoon a short singing session held, after which three pictures were made. The first was a group picture of all people present. There were 106 of them. Next was a group picture of all members of the immediate family who were present. The third was a picture of Mr. and Mrs. Hays. In this one, each held a cake. Mr. Hayes held a large white cake on which were the words "Happy Birthday." Mrs. Hays held another white one, on which green candles were so arranged to form the figures "75".

John W. Hayes was born March 29, 1860. On June 19, 1879, he was married to Miss Celia Collins. She is now 72 years of age. They are parents of 14 children, 12 of whom are living; 8 were present at the reunion. Two girls, Mrs. Melvia Benson, and Mrs. Cora Mims, died a few years ago. Present at the reunion were 8 children, 57 grandchildren, 17 great-grandchildren, and 29 "in-laws."

After a day of rejoicing all left for their respective homes, wishing for Mr. and Mrs. Hays many more happy years of life.

The writer has known Mr. Hays for many years. To me he has always been known as "Uncle John". His friends are numberless. Always full of joy himself, he meets everyone with a smile and a hearty hand-shake, and to know him is to love him. Despite his 75 years, Uncle John is as spry and lively as if he were about 25. His has been a life of sobriety and usefulness. One of his hobbies is singing, of the "old-time" kind, and at all singings of this kind, Uncle John is always on hand. When his sons gave him the new suit last Sunday, they requested that he wear it to the old time singing to be held at Center Hill next Sunday, March 31. He will be there, too, for the loves to sing.

In talking with Mr. Hayes, he had the following to say: "I have always heard that a person is as old as they feel. If that is the case, then I am a very young man, yet. I have never felt better in all my life. My life has not been a bed of roses, by any means, but I have always tried to look on the bright side of everything, and I must admit that I have gotten a lot of fun out of living. Life is still good to me, too, and, the Lord willing, I expect to live and enjoy life for many years to come."

One can believe that he will do just that, too. Uncle John doesn't look to be 75. His face is ruddy, and he is glowing with health. When we left, we all wished him continuance of good health, and long life. And, somehow, it seems out of place to say that we wish for him another birthday, for we know there will be more birthdays, and many of them for him. Life is what one makes of it, and Uncle John's life has really been worth living.

Lots of luck, long life, and happiness to "Uncle John" and "Aunt Celia".

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., March 27.—One of the new features of the forthcoming session of the University of Alabama Summer School opening June 19 will be the course in Girl Scout Leadership, Dr. John R. McLure, Director of Summer School, announced Saturday. The course is to be offered in cooperation with the national office in Girls Scouts, Inc., and will be taught by Miss Elizabeth Junken, member of the National Field Staff for the Dixie Region.

Miss Junken is a graduate of Goucher College and holds the master's degree from New York University. After completing her postgraduate work, Miss Junken served for some time as young people's worker with various New York churches. In 1933 she joined the Girl Scout National Staff and received her training in the national training camp, Camp Edith May, at Briarcliff Manor, N. Y. She is now serving as field representative in the Dixie Region V, which includes the states of Alabama, Tennessee, Mississippi, Louisiana and Arkansas.

The training provided for next summer includes a special course in the plan of organization, the activities, the aims and objectives of Girl Scout work. Special emphasis will be placed is the course on problems of troop management and the activities program. Arrangements have been made with leaders of Girl Scout work in Tuscaloosa for the use of the local Girl Scout camp, Camp Cherry Austin, in connection with certain parts of the work of the course. In addition to the special course, Miss Junken will deliver special lectures, conduct demonstrations, and will be available for personal conferences.

The main purpose of the work at the University this summer, Dr. McLure said, is to train and equip young women to be of greater service in community work and to take the leadership in the organization of the out-of-school activities of girls from eight to eighteen years of age. During recent years, the Director points out, there has been growing recognition of the value and importance of Girl Scout work in a sound program of education for girls.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Communism is making inroads in labor organizations," a man said recently. I replied, "You need not worry much about communism and labor in America. A large percentage of the members of labor organizations are old-time, orthodox Christians. You better look out for communism in the schools and colleges of America. If this nation ever becomes communistic, labor will not be to blame. You may blame the modernists in your pulpits and your modernistic college professors."

On February 19 Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., made a radio speech in which he said, "The growth of communism and left-wing socialism, its half brother and sister, is more rapid and extensive in American colleges than in any other sphere of Communist activity. It is a sad and tragic commentary on American life and our institutions that in edifices of learning the younger generation of Americans should be taught that everything is wrong, rotten, corrupt, and oppressive in free America, and everything peaceful, beautiful, humanitarian, and prosperous in Soviet Russia. Our leading universities such as Columbia, N. Y. University, College of the City, N. Y., Chicago, Wisconsin, California, Washington State, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Oberlin, Harvard, Wesleyan, Smith and Vassar are the worst offenders and are honey combed with Socialists, near Communists, and Communists teaching class hatred, hatred of relgiion, hatred of American institutions, including the American flag." I absolutely agree with Representative Fish. I am not guessing. Communism and Atheism are doing deadly work in many educational institutions in this nation. I appeal to the old-time, plain, middle-of-the-road American. If we don't do something about it these educational leaders will wreck our country. The hope of this nation is in the plain, every-day, honest-to-goodness Christian American.

WORLD IS TOLD ABOUT CLANTON

Mayor Jones, J. W. Fant and John Hollis Speeches Are Broadcast in B'ham

The world at large and Birmingham in particular really "got told" about Clanton and Chilton County last Friday night when Mayor Jones, County Agent Fant, and John Hollis turned loose over the combined hook-up of radio stations WAPI, WBRC and WSGN.

According to prior announcement the Kiwanis Club of Clanton had accepted the invitation of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce to present a Clanton and Chilton County program, as one of a series of similar events being extended to the various towns by that organization. Mr. Percy Pitts, chairman of the program committee of the Kiwanis Club, had charge of arranging the program for the radio broadcast. The tremendous success of the occasion is evidence of the splendid manner in which Mr. Pitts handled his part of the job.

The selection of the speakers could not have been better. Mayor Jones told of the fine things about Clanton. Mr. Fant broadened his remarks to take in the whole of Chilton County. John Hollis presented very fittingly the position of Chilton County with respect to being the heart, core and center of Alabama's hydro electric industry. The speeches of these gentlemen are reproduced in print elsewhere in this paper.

Supplementing the addresses referred to above the program included some beautiful musical selections furnished by a quartet of Clanton singers composed of Mr. Percy Pitts, Mr. Herbert Lowery, Mr. Ed Glasscock and Mr. Evan Parrish, with Mrs. Pitts at the piano. Miss Jane Roberts rendered a beautiful piano solo.

After the radio broadcast was completed the Clanton delegation numbering about twenty-five people, was carried to the Redmont Hotel and entertained at a banquet as guest of the Brmingham Chamber of Commerce. This proved a most interesting occasion, with more speeches by several Clanton people and a number of distinguished Birmingham citizens and business men. It was indeed a most impressive salute to Clanton, and all of us who attended were made to feel more warmly the kindly spirit that abides for us in the hearts of our big brothers in Alabama's Magic City of humming industry, far-flung commerce and brotherly love for all of Alabama.

EASTER SINGING WILL BE HELD AT POPLAR SPRINGS APRIL 21st

April 21st, the third Sunday, being Easter, the annual all day singing will be held at Poplar Springs church, three miles southeast of Clanton. All singers and lovers of music are invited to attend. It is hoped that this will be the best singing ever held at this place. We urge you to help us make it so.—G. B. Jones and W. M. Devaughn, Committee.

Farmers Hdwe. Changed Hands

Corporation Will Operate Business As Big Four Hardware Company

Mr. A. E. Reagan, of Thorsby, and Mr. C. C. Conway, of Jemison, have bought out the Farmers Hardware Company, of Clanton, and will immediately assume charge of the business, which will in the future be known as the Big Four Hardware Co., Incorporated. The purchase of the business by Mr. Reagan and Mr. Conway was made from Lester Jones, representing the estate of the late E. M. Jones.

Both Mr. Reagan and Mr. Conway are well known in business circles of Chilton County, and especially to the hardware trade. For twelve years Mr. Reagan was manager of the Thorsby Hardware Company. During the past year he was manager of the Taylor Dry Goods Store in Clanton.

Mr. Columbus Conway has been in the hardware business at Jemison for many years. For a long time he was a member and chairman of the Chilton County Board of Education.

Mr. Reagan stated Wednesday that the store will be closed for the balance of this week for the purpose of taking stock and completing all details of the new organization. They will be open for business next week, and will be ready to greet all their friends and serve their needs with a most complete hardware business.

The location of the Big Four Hardware Store will be the same as has been occupied by the Farmers Hardware company, the old Pinckard Building on the corner of the intersection of Second Avenue and Seventh Street.

FIRST STRAWBERRIES SOLD

The first quart of ripe strawberries for 1935 were brought to Thorsby on Tuesday morning by W. J. Bean of Collins Chapel and sold to Mr. L. E. Goddard, waterworks superintendent, for fifty cents.

JEMISON GIRL AND ISABELLA BOY SPOKE AT TEACHERS MEET

Miss Josephine Adams, who graduated from Jemison High School last year, spoke before 300 college presidents, high school principals and teachers, at the Tutwiler Hotel in Birmingham last Friday night, during a session of the A. E. A. The meeting was in the interest of trades, agriculture, home economics, etc. Miss Adams' subject was "What Vocational Home Economics has Meant to Me." This young Chilton County lady attained much credit and honorable mention among those attending the meeting for the splendid manner in which she handled the subject before her. Mention was made of having her make the speech before the state legislature.

At the same meeting another Chilton county product also did himself honor by speaking before the gathering. This was Marvin Durbin, prominent young man of Isabella community. He spoke very interestingly on "What Vocational Agriculture Has Meant to Me."

Chilton County should and we feel sure does feel proud of the record made by these two young citizens of our county. They are to be complimented.

REBATE ON INSURANCE RATES IS NOW POSSIBLE FOR MANY

Mayor C. Fenn Jones directs attention of property owners affected by the recent extension of city water mains and fire protection facilities to the fact that a considerable portion of the property benefitted by such extension is now entitled to an adjustment in fire insurance rates.

Mr. Jones states that the fire insurance policies now paid and in effect on such property are subject to a rebate, and will carry a lower rate on future policies. He urges holders of policies to contact their insurance agents about this matter.

The new rates are effective on and after April the first, he said, the date upon which the contract for extension of the water mains was officially completed.

THORNTON-DUKE

A wedding of much interest, but very surprising was that of Mr. Hollis Thornton to Miss Carrie Bell Duke which took place at the home of Rev. Alex Murphy on Tuesday evening, March 26th, about 6:30 o'clock.

The gang wish them a long and happy life together.

Clanton Cotton Mill May Be Enlarged

Rumor Says Alabama Mills Considering Moving One or Two Units From Other Towns to Clanton

Business circles and citizens in general have become aroused with much interest during the past week over the unofficial report that officials of Alabama Mills Incorporated, are considering the removal of two units of their operations from other towns and bringing them here as an addition to the Clanton mill.

Mr. H. A. Redmond, of Birmingham, president of Alabama Mills Incorporated, was in Clanton for a while on Monday. It was not determined whether or not his visit had anything to do with the purported intentions of his company to bring additional operations to Clanton. He did not make any statement about the matter.

It is estimated upon good authority that if the bringing of two additional units of Alabama Mills here should materialize it would bring the number of mill employees up to a total of more than 750 and would increase the weekly payroll to around $10,000.

From a business standpoint this sounds mighty good to people of Clanton, and doubtless the officials of the company will receive an enthusiastic approval of our people if they should be seriously considering such a move.

When Alabama Mills established their first unit in Clanton they were exempted from county taxes for a period of five years. When the rumor got afloat concerning the annexation of other units to the Clanton mill the county commissioners were quick to act in offering exemption privileges.

The question was presented to the court Monday by former Probate Judge L. H. Reynolds, whereupon the Court unanimously adopted the following resolution:

"Whereas, it has been reported that Alabama Mills, Incorporated, is contemplating moving or establishing another cotton mill or unit in Chilton County, be it therefore, resolved by the court of county commissioners of Chilton County, Alabama, that said Alabama Mills, Incorporated, be respectfully requested to move and locate said mill in Chilton County, and the people of the county and all other taxing agencies are urged by the court to be as lenient as possible, and to encourage and cooperate in every way possible with Alabama Mills, Incorporated, to locate said mill in Chilton County; and if said mill is located in Chilton County, the court will exempt them, Alabama Mills, Incorporated, from taxation, as provided by law."

It is the general understanding that officials of Alabama Mills are highly pleased with the manner in which they have been able to get cooperation from the people of Chilton County in the past. This fact, it is stated, in contrast to the difficulties they have encountered with some of their units in other towns, accounts for their disposition to consider getting out of one or two other places and bringing the operations to the more favorable surroundings here.

One local authority on the cotton mill business, discussing the subject said: "It is a mighty big proposition to talk about moving a cotton mill plant. With present conditions facing the industry, it appears likely that the cotton mill operations are in for a mighty hard time to even keep up their existence. Therefore, it is doubtful if any mill would consider moving just at this time. However, the industry might work out of its distress. It is to be hoped for anyhow. If that could be done, then there might be a likelihood that Alabama Mills would consider moving to Clanton with other units."

The present payroll of Alabama Mills in Clanton is between $2,000 and $3,000 a week. It is estimated that the mill, during its entire period of operation here, has paid out a total of a million dollars as wages and salaries to its employees.

BURNS AND TUNE WRANGLERS TO APPEAR AT JEMISON SOON

The public in general is urged to attend, enjoy the splendid program and thus help out a worthy cause.

Dr. Gragg Makes Explanation Of Group Hospitalization Contracts

So many people are asking questions about the Central Alabama Group Hospitalization that I feel it necessary to try to meet their inquiries with some further explanation of this work.

By paying $12.00 per year, the entire family, whether one person or a dozen, is entitled to the hospital service not to exceed three weeks per year. This is for hospital service and not for the doctor's bill. The patient selects his own doctor and makes his own trade with his doctor and the hospital service places no restrictions on that part of it other than that the doctor is expected to be a doctor in good standing in his medical society.

Among the many advantages of this Community Hospital Service, two of the most prominent is that the patient has his hospital bill paid as provided on the membership card and therefore is free of a large hospital bill which might otherwise draw heavily on his finances and oppress him while suffering the trouble and privations common to sickness in the family.

From the doctors' standpoint the outstanding advantage is that the hospital bill already having been provided for, the patient is in much better position to pay his doctor and other bills with the funds that would otherwise have been paid for a hospital bill, had he had not been a member of the Hospitalization Group.

Even before the depression, millions of families were too poor to pay their hospital or doctors' bill when illness entered the home. Since the depression it is a problem which is continuously growing in both size and seriousness. It is estimated that around 70 per cent of all American families are unable, with the present low income, or entire lack of income, to meet the necessary cost of medical and hospital care. This unfortunate situation gravely affects both the doctor and those who are ill. In some parts of the country, physicians have quit their practice and are driving taxies and such other work in order to make a living.

It is estimated by the state health commissioner of New York that 50,000 people are yearly in that state for lack of hospital and medical care, and this estimate would probably hold good as an average over the entire United States. This indeed is a grave situation and we should put forth every effort to solve this problem in a way to help both the patient and the doctor. And when we have such a solution we should not hesitate to make the best of it.

You will bear with me for calling attention to the fact that today, just today, I operated on a case, a man's wife. He had contemplated taking membership in the community service, but had just delayed the matter and now has both a doctor bill and hospital bill to pay where there would have been no hospital bill had he taken the membership fifteen days ago.

So far as the patient is concerned this plan is not only possible, but is much easier than the old way. The cost is spread out over so many people for only $12.00 for an entire year, instead of one individual having to pay a large hospital bill in one lump sum in one day. It is also better for the doctor because the patient has his hospital bill already paid and has his ready cash to apply to his doctor bill.

I would most respectfully invite your serious attention to this matter and ask you if you are not vitally interested.

Yours very truly,
V. J. GRAGG.

BOY SCOUTS RE-ORGANIZED HERE IN CLANTON THIS WEEK

On Monday night, April 1st, the Boy Scouts opened their meeting in the basement of the Clanton Baptist church. It was opened by repeating the Scout oath. This was the first meeting of the year.

Discussion of the re-organiation of Troop 47. It was voted that a special meeting be called for Thursday night at 7 o'clock. Every boy is urged to be there.

The boys also voted to build a Scout cabin and camp near the river; this will afford a place for them to spend the summer. Plans are being made for a Scout baseball team. The team and cabin will cost a great deal. That brought about the question of how to raise the money.

Mr. Wade has consented to let us have a picture in the near future; so when we get it, we want the support of everyone. You will not only be helping the ones enrolled now, but the future boys of our country.

The time for the Scout jubilee is drawing near; so we want every boy to join us, so as to go with the troop. Be at the meeting in the basement of the Baptist chuch Thusday night.—John Thomas Marlor, Reporter.

COUNTY AGENT IS READY FOR LOANS

Necessary Blanks May Be Secured at Local Cotton Office

County Agent, J. W. Fant, gives notice this week that he has received the necessary forms for taking applications for government crop loans.

If you are interested in making a loan and can qualify under the regulations listed below, call at the office of the Alabama Cotton Cooperative Association, near Mr. Tom Kemp's store in Clanton, and make an application.

In making application for this loan, one must be able to prove that he is unable to secure a loan from any other source. Applicants who have sufficient security to get a loan from the Montgomery Production Credit Association, from the local banks, or any other source of credit, are not eligible for this Emergency Crop Loan.

An applicant must show his cooperation with the 1934-35 Cotton Acreage Reduction Program.

All applicants must be able to give a first mortgage on this year's crop. If an applicant is a tenant, his landlord will be required to waive his rent until the mortgage is satisfied. It will save time and inconvenience if tenants will bring their landlords with them when application is made.

As hertofore, applicants are required to furnish a legal description of the land they will cultivate this year. This description can be taken from the land deed or from the assessment sheet.

ERECTION OF NEW P.O. STARTS SOON

Waterworks Completed and The City Hall Will Be Finished in June

According to information given out Monday by Mr. H. W. Beers, contractor, of Atlanta, upon his visit to Clanton, work will be started not later than May the first on the construction of Clanton's new $55,000 federal building. Location of the new building will be on the J. C. Jones property at the southwest corner of the intersection of First Avenue and Sixth Street.

The structure will be built according to plans and specifications heretofore adopted by the postoffice department. Recently there arose some objection to the plans because an entrance to the building was not provided on the Sixth Street side. This objection, however, was withdrawn because of the danger of delaying the work if the plans should be altered at this late date.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announces the completion of the work of extension of the city water mains, which has been under way for the past two months. A total of 12,000 feet of additional mains has been laid, he says, in which 18 new fire hydrants were installed.

This extra fire protection, Mayor Jones points out, will benefit many property owners immediately by giving them a reduction in fire insurance rates, and a rebate on premiums for insurance already paid and now in force.

Another interesting phase of Clanton's construction program is the splendid progress being made on the new city hall. Mayor Jones says the contractors plan to have this job completed and ready for occupancy by the city's officials about the middle of June.

LEADERS OF WOMENS CLUBS MET FOR ANNUAL SCHOOL TUESDAY

Forty-two leaders representing 14 women's clubs of Chilton County assembled at the basement of the Methodist Church in Clanton Tuesday for the annual leadership school, under direction of Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent of Chilton County.

Two demonstrations of much interest to women were held by Miss Pardue. One was a demonstration of tailored finishes and the other was of style trends of clothing.

After studying these demonstrations the leaders in attendance will later give the same demonstrations to the members of their individual clubs, in cooperation with the home agent.

At noontime the group enjoyed a delightful lunch together, after which the business of the meeting was continued into the afternoon. Mrs. Zora Guy Smith, of the County Agent's office, was a guest of the assembly.

Mrs. Steve Stanley of Mitchell Dam is visiting the family of her brother, Mr. Frank Porch, in Atlanta, this week.

Municipal Gas Proposed Here

City Council Requests Opinion of Citizens About the Matter

Mr. J. E. Alexander, representing the engineering company of Craig & Alexander, gas utilities, of Troy and Dothan, Ala., met with the town council in their regular meeting Tuesday night of this week. A proposition of installing a gas plant and pipe lines for the town were presented to the town officials. The council, of course, took no action on the matter, but asked that they be given time to make investigations and see how their constituents felt about the proposition. The people of Clanton are asked to take the matter into consideration, and the council will likely be governed as to what they consider the wishes of the citizens here think of it.

The whole outfit, to cost $40,000 to $60,000 will be financed by a PWA loan, the plant and distribution system themselves to stand as security for the government bonds. Thirty per cent of the amount might be a donation by the federal government.

Mr. Alexander explained that the plant would use Butane natural gas, to be shipped her in tank cars and put in the storage tanks. Later, if the town wanted to, the system might be changed into a natural gas outfit; the distribution pipes could be used for that purpose, and that is by far the biggest part of the proposition.

For the proposition to be a workable one around 250 or 300 consumers would be necessary.

The citizens o fthe town should talk over the matter among themselves and with the town officials, and thus enable the officials to arrive at a decision on the matter. No election will be held for the issuance of the bonds.

This company has recently installed plants in Troy and Dothan, and are figuring on a proposition for Eufaula.

C.C.C. SAFETY PROGRAM

Montgomery, Ala.—The protection of the lives and safety of the enrollees of the Civilian Conservation Corps is of paramount importance to administrative officials concerned with the conduct of Emergency Conservation work, says Col. Page S. Bunker, state forester. Every possible precaution is taken to avoid accidents and every means employed to impress the men with the necessity of being careful at all times.

The safety program is in the charge of a trained safety engineer attached to the office of director Fechner. Numerous inspectors working out of that office circulate among the camps to see that the safety regulations are strictly enforced. Bullitens pertinent to the program are issued from time to time containing specific instructions regarding dangerous tasks and the methods required to avoid catastrophe.

Each CCC enrollee and member of the supervisory personnel is requirto take the standard course of 15 hours instruction in first aid as prepared and issued by the American Red Cross. First aid kits are carried in all trucks used on work projects and are taken into the field with the men. As a result, should an accident occur anyone of the men can render trained assistance to the injured person.

Probably one of the most stringent regulations in the whole program pertains to transporting the men to and from work. Only qualified drivers who have passed the driver's examination and have been issued permits are authorized to drive ECW trucks. In case there should be an accident, the truck driver is immediately removed from the truck driving job for a period of 30 days. If, after a thorough investigation, it develops that the truck driver is not at fault, he is reinstated; otherwise his permit is revoked and he is never permitted to drive another ECW truck. The men are required to be seated while the truck is in motion and are loaded and unloaded under the supervision of one of the foremen or leaders. Tools are carried in tool boxes, and equipment and supplies are transported in such a manner that the men riding on the same truck will not be injured by the shifting of the load.

Other potential sources of danger are covered by regulations every bit as stringent as those obtaining for the trucks: for instance, the handling of gasoline, the treatment of snake bite, poison ivy, sunstroke and heat exhaustion, the use of water crafts, and the handling and use of tools.

The men are appreciative of the safety program and endeavor to carry out the instructions given them and employ the training they have received. It is something they readily understand and are quick to grasp, since it definitely concerns their own safety and that of their fellow workers.

RESOLUTION OF RESPECT

Since the last assembly of the elder people's meting at Friendship church, God, in his infinite wisdom, has seen fit to call from our midst our beloved brother, Joe Thomas of Chestnut Creek church, to his reward. We regret the passing of our brother, but we bow in submission to the will of God.

To show our apperciation for the life he has lived, and our grief over his absence from our meeting, which he has attended so regularly throughout the past years, we adopt this resolution in his memory at this, our annual Elder People's meeting of March 31, 1935.—W. H. Wilson, G. W. Sessions W. T. Bean, committee on resolutions.

OUR LOVELY MOTHER

On Wednesday morning, March 13, 1935, at the hour of eleven, the death angel took our mother, Mrs. Rutha Bearden, away to heaven. She was 75 years old. We know that she is at rest for God knows what is best. No one knows their hour to come when on earth their work is done.

She leaves to mourn her loss five children, Miss Evie Jane Bearden, Mrs. Lillie Nicholas, Mrs. Litha Garner, Mr. Charley Bearden of near Lawley, and Mrs. Beulah Fowler of Bankston, Ala., also a host of other relatives and friends.

When the angel came there was no need to say just let us keep her another day. Her time had come to meet her God in heaven, to carry a golden rod. Though we have this consoling thought just a few days before she died, while stand by her bedside. She gave us a tender look and smile, as if to say, I have nothing against you child.—The children.

M. LOCKHART WRITES

Sylacauga, Ala., March 30.
Editor Union-Banner:

Just thought the people of the old home section might be interested to hear of the interest taken in the Clanton program given over WAPI at Birmingham Friday night. I am visiting by wife's people here in Sylacauga. They had no radio, so one was hustled up for the purpose of the program given by Clanton citizens, because there are scores here who are interested in the old home town and community.

I for one very much enjoyed the speeches of the following: Pitts, Mayor Jones, County Agent Fant, Hollis, superintendent of Mitchell Dam. I give this quotation by Fant, "Clanton prospers when the farmer prospers." —M. Lockhart.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our many friends for their kindness during the illness and death of our daughter, Mrs. Mattie Traywick, especially those that comforted her in her last hour. We hope to meet her in that world that shall never end, where sin can never enter. She had only paid the debt that we owe, and it won't be long until we will have to say farewell to all things here below. We only have one life here to live and we should make our calling and election sure, and live a life that keeps our hands clean and our hearts pure, then we can say, for now I am ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight. I have finished my course. I have kept the faith, henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day, and not to me only but unto all of them also that love His appearing.—J. H. Jackson and family.

SELMA BUILDER WILL DEFY NRA

Selma, Ala., March 28.—Warned by the state NRA code authority that drastic action may be taken if he builds an ice plant in Selma, J. A. Wade, contractor here, declared that he would continue work on the plant and would attack the legality of the code in the courts if pressed further.

The code authority contends that the two ice plants now being operated in Selma are sufficient to meet public demand.

Mr. Wade said he would stand on his constitutional rights, declaring that the code "restricts fair competition and trade."

Should the code authority interfere with the Selma contractor's building it is expected that the legality of NRA would be tested in Alabama courts.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—Gov. Bibb Graves Graves has invited I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, to go to Washington with him early in April to discuss plans for four work projects affecting the Alabama seafood industry and wildlife conservation with federal officials.

These four projects are:

1. Improving the oyster industry in Mobile and Baldwin County waters which recently was surveyed by the senate and house game and fisheries committees of the Alabama legislature.

2. Construction of one or more fish hatcheries in North Alabama which would serve to stock newly impounded waters and restock other streams of the Tennessee Valley.

3. Establishment of a wild waterfowl refuge in the fresh water lake area of South Baldwin County as a part of the biological survey's program to restore ducks and geese.

4. Development of a national park along the reaches of Little River on Lookout Mountain, a stream formed by underground springs in one of the most picturesque parts of the state. Between 20,000 and 40,000 acres are available for such a park.

One of the state's leading sportsmen, Governor Graves said he was anxious for Commissioner Quinn to obtain all of the benefits possible for Alabama's seafood industry and wildlife program and that he was merely acting as a "conservation counselor."

The governor himself planned to devote his time in Washington to securing the state's share of the $4,880,000,000 public works program which president Roosevelt expects to make available soon.

Governor Graves announced his plans on returning from the Boykin game preserve near McIntosh, in Washington County, where he killed a 17-pound turkey gobbler. It was his second big kill of the year, as he bagged a 292-pound buck on the same preserve in December.

County Farm Agent's Notes

OPTION CONTRACTORS TO ACT BY APRIL 20

Auburn, Ala.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace has fixed April 20, 1935, as the last date upon which holders of cotton option contracts, which have not been exercised because of the physical or legal incompetence of their holders, may be exercised, and notified authorities here accordingly.

These cotton option contracts were issued to producers as part payment for participation in the 1935 emergency adjustment program. The final date the secretary indefinitely exempted contracts held by persons physically or legally incompetent to exercise them before that date.

Between now and April 20, 1935, holders of cotton option contracts within the classificiation of this order may secure the benefits thereof by exercising their cotton through direct sale or through joining the 1933 cotton producers pool.

FARM EDITORS ENDORSE THE LAND-PURCHASE BILL

Washington, D. C.—Farm journal editors of the United States have endorsed the Bankhead bill proposing to finance tenants and share croppers in becoming landowners. The bill also has the endorsement of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace as "One of the most fundamental bills before Congress."

Tenants, landowners, share croppers, and others interested in seeing the bill enacted into law are writing their senators and representatives in Washington, states Senator Bankhead who expresses the belief that congress will pass the bill if those interested want it passed and act accordingly.

The bill proposes to set up an organization similar to the home owners loan corporation with power to issue up to $1,000,000,000 in bonds and farm it in their own right.

"I want the rentals now being paid by tenants and share croppers to finance the purchase of a farm," said Senator Bankhead. The bill would not put into cultivation additional land but would enable tenants to purchase land already in cultivation from present landowners.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for the sympathy and many acts of kindness extended to us during the death of our son, Ross. Also for the floral offering.—Mr. and Mrs. Wade Friday and children.

NIGHT SCHOOL BEING HELD FOR REHABILITATION WORKERS

Prof. J. P. Montgomery, vocational teacher at Jemison, and Miss Leacy Newell, home economics teacher at the same school, are holding evening schools at Mars Hill and Mineral Springs. The dates at Mars Hill are Wednesday nights and at Mineral Springs Thursday nights.

Instruction is given on cooking and gardening, for the benefit of those rural citizens who are engaged in the rural rehabilitation program under the relief administration.

Prof. Jack Locke and Miss Heflin, of the Isabella vocational department, are holding similar schools at some places in the western part of the county.

Mr. Montgomery reports that the attendance each night at Mars Hill and Mineral Springs is from 15 to 20.

MOST OF 1935 COTTON COVERED BY CONTRACT

Auburn, Ala.—Approximately 98 per cent of the cotton grown in Alabama this year will be under government contract, according to Walter L. Randolph, executive secretary in cotton adjustment at Auburn.

"Most of the farmers who did not sign the two-year contracts in 1934 have agreed to reduce their acreage this year, and it appears that the number of new contracts will be about 30,000." explained Mr. Randolph. "The number of signers last year, covering 1934 and 1935, was 117,000, and the total number of contracts is expected this year to closely approach 150,000."

Approximately two million acres will be planted to cotton this year in Alabama, which is 30 to 35 per cent less than the average cotton acreage planted in the state during the period 1928 to 1932.

All farmers participating in the 1934 and 1935 cotton acreage adjustment plan are receiving rental and benefit payments. The program is being administered through the offices of the county agents by county and community committeemen elected in January from among producers who are taking part in the program.

SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

(By REV. P. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Member of Faculty, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
©, Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for April 7

THE HEAVENLY FATHER

LESSON TEXT—John 14:8-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him. Psalm 103:13.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Heavenly Father.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Heavenly Father.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why We Call God Father.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Fatherhood of God.

The aim in the lessons of this quarter is to place before the pupils of the Sunday school some of the great doctrines of the Christian faith, as set forth in God's Word, with their practical application to the common relations of life.

I. Who Is the Heavenly Father (Gen. 1:1).

He is the almighty God who created the universe (Ps. 90:2). He was before all things. God is the infinite and perfect Spirit in whom we live and move and have our being. He is omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent. He was not only before all things, but the cause of all things.

II. What the Heavenly Father Does.

1. He created the universe (Gen. 1:1; cf. vv. 26, 27). The universe came into being by the will and act of the personal Being called God. Man himself is a creation of God.

2. He has provided salvation for lost men (I John 4:9). He gave his only Son, that whosoever believeth in him might live through him (John 3:16).

3. He preserves us (Ps. 103:1-14). The preserving mercy of God embraces the following gracious beneficent acts:

a. He forgives all our iniquities (v. 3). This he is able to do because of the righteous provision he made for sin in the atonement wrought out by Jesus Christ.

b. He heals all our diseases (v. 3). This healing refers to the body and the soul. He first renovates man's moral nature and then his physical nature.

c. He redeems the life from destruction (v. 4). Redemption implies the payment of all demands against the debtor.

d. He satisfies the mouth (v. 5). God satisfies all legitimate desires, so that youth is renewed like the eagle's. In redemption man's original capacities are restored to their native vigor.

e. He executes righteousness and judgment (vv. 6-12). The wrongs of life are righted and man is thus relieved of the burdens which they entail.

f. He pities his children (vv. 13, 14). The pity of an earthly father is but a faint suggestion of the sympathetic compassion of the heavenly Father.

4. He chastens his children (Heb. 12:5-11).

a. The fact (vv. 5, 6). Every one who is God's spiritual child experiences chastening, an unmistakable evidence of sonship.

b. How it should be received (vv. 6-8). It is the token of his love (v. 6).

c. The purpose of (vv. 9-11). It is to bring the child into subjection to induce reverence (v. 9). It is to produce holiness (v. 10). It is to develop fruits of righteousness (v. 11).

5. He cares for his children (Matt. 6:11, 25). The child of God who has come to know his heavenly Father as the almighty Creator and Preserver, whose very essential being is love, will trust the Father for daily bread without anxiety or fear.

III. The Heavenly Father Revealed in Jesus Christ (John 14:8, 9).

The supreme purpose of the coming of the Son of God was to reveal God (John 1:8). Only a being of God's essential nature could reveal him. Jesus Christ became man in order that he might reveal God to man. Only the one who knows Jesus Christ knows God.

IV. How Men Come to Know God as the Father (John 3:3-6).

It is through regeneration. The new birth is absolutely essential to a knowledge of God as the Father. We are children of God by faith in Jesus Christ (Gal. 3:26).

V. Our Responsibility to the Heavenly Father (Matt. 6:24-34).

The true child who has come to know his Father

1. Will give him undivided affection (v. 24). The child of God makes the unequivocal choice between the heavenly Father and the world.

2. He will not be anxious about food and clothing, as stated above.

3. He will diligently seek the kingdom of God and his righteousness (vv. 33, 34). He will subordinate temporal things to the things of the Spirit. This is not a warning against legitimate forethought but against anxious worry.

Fight Your Habits

The most truly religious thing that a man can do is to fight his way through habits and deficiencies, and back to pure, manlike elements in his nature, which are the ineffaceable traces of the Divine workmanship, and alone really worth fighting for.—Weiss.

Immortality

When, by nobler culture, by purer experience, by breathing the air of a higher duty, vitality at length creeps into the soul, the instincts of immortality will wake within us.

H. B. Oliver of Verbena was in Clanton Tuesday of this week.

PRODUCTION LOANS INCREASED

The number of loans to farmers by production credit associations in February showed an increase of over 115 per cent compared to January, according to a statement by W. M. Myers, farm credit administration governor. Loans during the month numbered 24,123 for $16,059,000 compared to 11,218 loans for $13,672,000 during January.

The large increase in the number of loans and in the demand for credit was primarily to the early start in crop financing by farmers in the southern and central states, Mr. Myers said. The largest increase was in the New Orleans district covering Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama, where $2,910,000 was loaned during the month.

CRIPPLE CHILDREN'S WEEK BEGINS ON EASTER SUNDAY

Under plans being carried forward by the Alabama Society for Crippled Children, the week beginning April 21st, Easter Sunday, has been designated "Crippled Children's Week" in Alabama.

During that week the society, with the cooperation of local groups and agencies in all the counties of the state, will stress the sale of seals, the proceeds of which will go to the aid of crippled children in the various counties.

Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare superintendent of Chilton County, is bringing the matter to the attention of the people here. Miss Meroney points out that two crippled children from this county have been sent to Selma and two to Birmingham for treatment.

The sale of seals here during Crippled Children's week, will be added to other funds being donated and provided, to defray the expenses of hospital treatment for these four children in correction of their physical infirmities.

"And when they had platted a crown of thorns, they put it upon His head, and a reed in His right hand; and they bowed the knee before Him, and mocked Him, saying, Hail, King of the Jews! CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Do not bring your Fellowship League of Sharing envelope next Sunday. The date on the envelope should be April 14 instead of April 7. The first date is Palm Sunday. So bring your envelope a week from Sunday. This is the Lenten Season, the period of special emphasis upon sharing and becoming more Christ-like. Your offering goes to your fellowmen at home and abroad as the church tries to carry the gospel of hope and love and life. Save one cent per meal and bring what the offering will total from March 3 to April 14 and share it with others for the sake of the Master and the world. Children not members of the church save a penny per day during this period and bring the offering on Palm Sunday. Plan to be at church that day for a very special program is being planned. Don't miss it.

The Board of Christian Education and the Workers Council met in joint session Wednesday evening at the seven o'clock supper meeting. Final plans were made for the Standard Training class which will have its first session Sunday afternoon at 2:30. The pastor will teach the course: "Principles of Teachings." Those completing the course will be awarded certificate issued by the General Board of Christian Education at Nashville, which award will be made a week from Sunday at the morning service. The class will meet each evening at 7:00 beginning Monday and continuing through Friday. We invite any church worker in this or nearby communities to enroll in the class. There will be no charge and no examination.

Dr. Middlebrooks will speak Sunday morning for eight minutes at the communion service on the theme: "The Winsomeness of His Towel." Sunday evening at 7:30 the theme is: "How Winsomeness Wins." The month of April is WINSOME MONTH in our church.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

I usually drive my own car, but on a recent trip when I had to speak from one to six times a day and had to drive some days as much as five hundred miles I took a colored boy with me as a driver. When we were leaving Atlanta one morning I said to him, "Will, where did you spend the night? Were you in a Christian home?" Will replied, "Dr. Jones, I stayed in a boarding house with a good old woman. There were lot of us colored people there and this old woman called us in and said, 'Boys, I always have family prayer before I goes to bed at night and I would like to have you come in.' Dr. Jones, you should have heard that woman pray. I never can get away from it." I thank God for the good Christian colored people in this country. The more I travel in the South the more I am convinced there will be a great many colored people in heaven. Many colored Christians will be in the front seats with shining faces because down here in a world of sin they loved their Lord and were true to Him.

The Communists have done a great deal in an effort to break down the loyalty of the colored people in the South. They have not been successful. The old gospel which was preached to the slaves by the great preachers in the South brings forth fruit today in the lives of the children and grandchildren of the old slaves. The greatest preachers the world ever saw since apostolic days were the preachers in the South from fifty to seventy-five years ago. This country needs more of the old time gospel power that characterized the ministry of those men.

New Church At Walnut Dedicated

Rev. J. S. Johnson Reports Things of Interest to M. P. Churches Here

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me space in your paper for a few words in regard to the work on Chilton Charge, Methodist Protestant Church. Our work is moving along nicely. The C. E. at Antioch is doing a very fine work; also have a good Sunday school both at Antioch and Pleasant Grove.

There has been a lot of sickness near Concord, Billingsley, but we learn that everybody is improving. We hope to have a goodly number out the third Sunday. That is Easter. The subject will be "Through the Gates."

The writer was a visitor to Walnut Creek last Sunday, where, under the leadership of Rev. J. W. Enfinger, the pastor, they have just completed a nice new brick edifice. The dedication sermon was preached by Rev. J. S. Eddings Sunday at eleven o'clock. While it rained on the outside the Lord wonderfully blessed on the inside of the church. Services were dismissed by Rev. J. P. Morgan, after which a bounteous dinner was spread.

About 1:30 p.m. we reassembled for the dedication service. Greetings were brought from the Macon Circuit by their former pastor, Rev. P. A. Lynch; from Chilton Circuit by the writer; from Birmingham First Church by J. J. Goddard. Then there were talks from Brother Lowery, of Clanton, Rev. J. P. Morgan, one of the old frontier preachers of the Alabama Conference gave an interesting address on the business side of the church. Mrs. Mims said many things congratulating the church. The pastor made a very interesting talk on the work and progress of the church.

The following took part in the dedication which was conducted by Rev. J. S. Eddings: Rev. J. W. Enfinger, Rev. P. A. Lynch, the writer, and Rev. J. P. Morgan led the dedication prayer. The congregation was led in song service by Mr. Lowery. Dismissed by Rev. Eddings.—Rev. J. S. Johnson.

ISABELLA NEWS

All the teachers from this school attended the A. E. A. and reported a nice time.

We were sorry to hear of the death of Mrs. Abby Foshee, the mother of one of our students, Marietta Foshee. We extend to her our most heartfelt sympathy.

F. H. A.

The F. H. A. met some time ago and elected new officers for the year. They are: Frances Sexton, president; Lora Deen Chambers, vice-president; Mary Carr Mims, secretary and treasurer; Maxine Oden, reporter. The social and program committee were also appointed at this meeting.

The Jr. III girls have been given the first part of the formal initiation and are now pledged members of the club. At the end of the year they will become full pledge members.

Since the new officers were elected several very interesting programs have been given, the last one being based on foods. Much interest is being shown in the club this year and all of the girls are striving to become third-degree members by the end of this year.

The Sr. II class met last Tuesday for the purpose of electing new officers. They are, Mary Carr, president; Frances Sexton, secretary and treasurer; Sara Calfee, Andrew Jones and Orville Wright, social committee; Edna Simms, reporter.

F. F. A.

The green hand members were entertained with a picnic on March 22, by Mr. Locke. The future farmers contributed and attended also. The trip to Auburn was well represented by this chapter. They feel more like pushing forward in agriculture after attending such demonstrations. Our greatest lesson was how to grow fence posts from black locusts and the injury to young forests by fire. This demonstration alone was worth the trip.

On last Friday those taking part in the public contest met and delivered their speech before the judges. The winners are Carson Williams, first prize; Raymond Oden, second prize.

The chapter has prepared more interesting programs for the future which we hope to put over with success.—Reporters, Lora Dean Chambers and Willo Dean Collins.

Charley Chandler of Vermont community was a visitor in Clanton on Tuesday. Mr. Chandler is considering moving his family to Clanton in the near future.

Mrs. Hubert Johnson and son, Leon, of Brundidge, spent Friday and Saturday in Clanton as the guests of Mrs. James Wade. Mrs. Wade returned to Brundidge with Mrs. Johnson to be her house guest for several days.

HIGH SCHOOLS OF COUNTY WILL CLOSE TERMS MAY 17

County Superintendent, Luther E. Little, announces that the high schools at Jemison, Isabella, Clanton, Maplesville and Verbena will close May 17, and all other schools of the county will close April 19.

Mr. Little states with reference to teachers salaries that the county has paid teachers through March 6th. Teachers' checks covering the period from March 7 to April 3 will be issued by federal authorities in Montgomery. Checks for the remainder of the school term will be issued likewise. Truck drivers, he said, will be paid as usual.

CLEARING HIGH SCHOOL PROPERTY IN THE SWAMP

J. D. and Claude Jones have contracted to buy the saw timber on the portion of the county high school property in the swamp east of the school building. They began this week to cut the trees and haul them away.

The trustees of the school plan to institute a program that will provide for cleaning off all brush and undergrowth from the property after the timber has been removed. This, it is true, will make a much better looking place than it has been heretofore.

DENNIS OFFERS SEED POTATOES AT A SACRIFICE ON SATURDAY

Attention is called to the advertisement of Mr. J. N. Dennis this week in which he offers genuine government certified seed Irish potatoes at a sacrifice price next Saturday.

Mr. Dennis bought a car load of these potatoes for sale to local growers this year in the hope of proving to growers that it is better for them to use certified seed. He cites that a summary of 11,000 tests showed that certified seed produced an average of 46 bushels more per acre than uncertified seed.

Mr. Dennis has a quantity of these seed left over at the end of the planting season, which is near at hand. But it is not yet too late to plant. You shrould investigate the special offer he is now making for Saturday of this week.

SIX POINT PROGRAM OF THE COMMITTEE ON EDUCATION

1. Continued use of federal funds to keep all schools open for a normal term until such time as general economic recovery reaches all parts of the nation.

2. Further encouragement of the present federal emergency educational program which embraces general adult education, nursery schools, vocational education, and vocational rehabilitation.

3. Distribution of a substantial sum to the states on an objective basis to rehabilitate the public schools of the nation and to place them on a sound financial foundation. The attack on this problem should be coordinated with such reorganizations as may take place in the future, in federal, state and local taxation policies.

4. The use of R. F. C. funds to refinance school district indebtedness in cases where an excessive proportion of current shool revenue is required for interest and the retirement of bonded indebtedness.

5. Continued use of federal funds for school-building construction with more liberal provisions for the construction of consolidated schools in rural areas and of buildings needed to relieve over-crowding in city schools. It is proposed that a minimum of $300,000,000 of any new appropriations for public works or work relief should be used for this purpose.

6. Continued aid to needy college students and the development of a comprehensive program providing for the care and education of out-of-school and unemployed youth.

The Chilton County Medical Society held its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night.

ALABAMA TORNADO MOVES HOUSE BUT THE FAMILY SLEEPS ON

Mobile, Ala., April 1.—The family of Mrs. Sidney Howland, of Creola, Ala., 15 miles north of here, was shaken up in the removal of their house by a tornado which struck the community Sunday night, but slept through the trip and landed unharmed.

The Howland residence, lifted from its foundations by the blow, was carried 50 yards, but settled so softly that none of the sleeping family was injured and the house was only slightly damaged.

A nearby school house was unroofed and one wall blown in. Many trees in the area were uprooted.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

We are hearing so much these days of impractical plans to divide up the wealth of the nation so everybody will have enough for a good time, that we may get the impression that we have entered into a new era in which demagogues and dreamers are in the majority. It seems that we are assailed on every side from the radio and the forum by orators and politicians who think it would be nice to take the money away from the rich and divide it among those who are not so well off so that there would no longer be any excuse for poverty. It would, of course, be fine if everyone could have a good living, an automobile and radio even if this had to be taken by the government, for them, away from the idle rich. Unfortunately, however, no air-tight plan has yet been devised whereby the scheme can be made to work. For example, it is difficult even for the government to provide a man with a good living and some luxuries of life, if he is not willing to earn money and save it for them.

Be that as it may it is cheering to know that all the visionaries and demagogues do not live in this particular era. The world has always had them and has always survived. It is pissible for one to gain comfort from this quotation which tell about demagoguery nearly a century ago. It is a familiar quotation from a speech by Daniel Webster delivered on March 12, 1838:

"There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations, and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results. They carry on mad hostility against established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. In a country of unbounded liberty, they clamor against oppression. In a country of perfect equality, they would move heaven and earth against privilege and monopoly. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else, they rend the air shouting agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer he is but an oppressed slave.

"Sir, what can such men want? What do they mean? They can want nothing, sir, but to enjoy the fruits of other men's labor. They can mean nothing but disturbance and disorder, the diffusion of corrupt principles and the destruction of the moral sentiments and moral habits of society."

In addition, an editorial writer on the San Francisco Chronicle, always an ably edited paper, recalls the fact that efforts have been made in years gone by to make the people prosperous by regulating their fortunes through government control. This writer has been studying Gibbon's Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire and he points out the number of laws which Diocletian tried to make over the country by government fiat. The Chronicle lists the following things which the Emporer did:

Abolish republican principles and made the Senate a rubber stamp.

Destroyed local self-government and centered all control in himself and three assistants.

Established universal codes of wages and prices.

Boosted taxes to the mountain tops.

Devalued gold, made copper the money standard.

Multiplied government commissions.

Put hordes of civil servants at the public trough.

Issued rabble-rousing edicts reprimanding the "money changers."

Took measures to curb "overproduction."

It is a lamentable fact that Diocletian's program did not work. Gibbons tells us that eventually nearly every other fellow was on the government payroll collecting taxes or doing something equally annoying. As the Chronicle puts it: "It was fine for the tax eaters while the money lasted. But the tax payers went broke. It was fine for public employees until at last their number got up to half the population. When half of the people were working to support the other half it turned out that no one had enough. The creators of wealth were crushed by taxes and fell with them. The empire was ruined."

While America survived the dreamers of Daniel Webster's day, it is true that Rome did not long survive a Diocletian whose reign seemed to give the country a shove downward. But the United States is much younger than Rome was at that time.

Let us hope that Uncle Sam will not only survive but will profit by Diocletian's example.

If we were going to run for President on a third party ticket next year we would promise every voter a new car, a tankful of gasoline and a ticket to the world series.

One way the government could increase its revenues would be to charge an income tax on what it contributes in the way of federal relief.

The Greeks are having a real revolution and maybe that is the reason that restaurant prices are going up.

Havana statesman demands an NRA for Cuba. Maybe we could help a little by sending them General Johnson.

Scientists have succeeded in inventing puncture proof tires, but nobody has yet succeeded in devising a puncture proof budget.

HEARST

It is hoped that the President will not veto the Patman bill for the bonus payment to veterans.

In the first place, billions are being distributed freely, liberally, almost recklessly, in every direction.

Why should not some of this money go to the veterans?

If the government were embarked upon a policy of rigid economy, in an honest effort to balance the budget, there would be some reason in the argument that this large amount of money should not be paid to the veterans at this time.

But the government has no intention of embarking on an economical policy.

The President is asking for an appropriation of five thousand million dollars without even an indication of what he is going to expend it for.

There has never been a time in the history of this extravagant administration when it was more disposed to be extravagant than it is today.

Its plan is merely penurious toward the veterans.

Why be penurious to them?

Certainly they have deserved well of the country; they have rendered the most signal service that citizens can possibly render to their nation.

And they are rendering the greatest service of the citizenship today. They are the defenders of the American faith, the protectors of American liberty, the maintainers of peace and order, the opponents of the enemy from without and from within.

Why not include those splendid citizens in the bounty that is being so freely distributed.

If we do not want to spend more money than proposed by the administration; if we do not want to incur greater indebtedness; if we do not want to impose heavier burdens upon the public than those already projected in the Presidential program, why not take two thousand million dollars from the President's five-thousand-million-dollar proposed appropriation and give it to the veterans?

We would at least know where thos etwo thousand million dollars were going.

We would know that they were going in a deserving direction.

Let us remember also that the government is not creating a new obligation in paying the veterans the promised bonus.

Some time or other it is going to pay the veterans this money.

It has pledged itself to that program.

Why not pay the money now when it is most needed, and have that obligation eliminated?

Why wait until later when the government might have no money with which to discharge the obligation if it keeps on at its present reckless rate of extravagance?

Why not give the veteran their money before the financial resources of the country have been sapped dry?

Why not discharge this obligation, actually incurred and patriotically due, and then very properly and wisely enter on an era of sensible economy?

Why not then return to the pledges of the Democratic platform?

Do you remember those pledges, citizens? They declared for:

"The immediate and drastic reduction of governmental expenditures by abolishing useless commissions and offices, consolidating departments and bureaus, and eliminating extravagance, to accomplish a saving of not less than 25 per cent in the costs of federal government."

They urge:

"Maintenance of the national credit by a federal budget, annually balanced."

Do you remember Mr. Roosevelt's personal promises when he was running for office?

He declared at that time:

"The platform is a promise binding on the party and its candidates."

"I have accepted the platform without equivocation and without reserve."

He dramatically exclaimed:

"Let us have the courage to stop borrowing to meet continuing deficits. Stop the deficits."

You citizens elected Mr. Roosevelt on the pledges of the Democratic platform and on his personal promises.

Why should those pledges not be kept?

Why should we not return to a program of sound and honest democracy—why not pay our debts, discharge our patriotic obligations, balance our budget, and then and thereafter conduct the country on a business basis?

However, we assuredly cannot continue our drunken-sailor policy of reckless expenditure, in every direction, and at the same time ignore our obligations to the veterans on the grounds of economy.—William Randolph Hearst, in Atlanta Georgian.

A lot of business men would like it better if all of the depressions were on the golf course.

Maybe some of the income tax payers don't like pink slips, but a lot of the girls are still fond of 'em.

A lot of politicians would jump on the band wagon earlier if they could be sure that it wasn't a trailer in disguise.

There are several so-called farm experts in Washington, but nobody is expert enough to harness the bull around there.

Iowa is now the state where the tall corn grows—in two out of every three rows.

Couldn't the archeologists stop digging up old cities long enough to tell us what they died of?

What father would like most to get out of his new car is the rest of the family.

Well, if we have to go to war along with the allies again, we can help Mussolini and Stalin make the world safe for democracy.

If the leaders over in Europe go to war again they may find that they are engaged in painting the continent red.

It doesn't seem to be so much a question whether the NRA will be extended for two years as how it will look if it is extended.

Wouldn't this be an excellent time for Mrs. Catt and some of her friends to try out their peace propaganda on Europe?

Now that the experiments with the "loss" motive hasn't worked, why not try the "profit" motive?

Andy, of the Amos and Andy team, can now say one billion, two billion, three billion without sounding ridiculous.

Man In The Moon

A CLOSE CALL

I've always heard that "an inch is as good as a mile", and I'm very glad that this saying is true, else there wouldn't be any "Man in the Moon" today. On Tuesday night, March 26, about 8:15, a bolt of lightning struck my home with a "boom" about like a dynamite blast, and for a second or two business was certainly picking up around and among the family. The bolt first struck a radio aerial, shattered both aerial posts to kindling wood, then followed the lead-in wire by the lightning arrester, burning it out on the way, continuing to the radio and burning out the electric unit of that, besides splintering up the cabinet pretty well. From the radio the bolt jumped a gap of some six feet to the steel bedstead on which I was lying. A hole about as big as a person's thumb was burned thru the mattress, and not over four inches from my nose. From there the bolt took off from the foot of the bedstead, burning a streak about five feet long on the floor and in a rug, as it went to the foot of a baby bed. Where the baby's bed was standing on the rug, a hole about as big as a 25-cent piece was burned in the rug. My baby daughter was sleeping on this bed, and was not awakened. Taking off from the opposite corner foot of the baby's bed, the bolt went to the ground just on the outside of the building, spattering mud high up on the wall and under the eave. On the opposite side of the house, some 30 feet away, a two-by-four stay post was splintered, and parts of the post thrown several feet, although there was no sign as to how the bolt got over to that side of the house. As the bolt struck, the whole house was lighted as bright as day, yet neither of the three of us was even shocked. Is that close, or IS THAT CLOSE? An inch may be as safe as a mile, but a close miss like that doesn't leave one's nerves in any better condition. I'm just lucky to be here—that's all.

HERE'S NEWS

You will remember the last few weeks just before the referendum. If you read a daily paper, you will remember reading the big full-page editorials, condemning the law and urging the people of the state to vote it out. You will remember, too, that at the bottom of each of these was a line telling that the space was contributed by the management of the newspaper in which it was printed. I know that they don't go around giving away space like that, not even for a principle—or, rather, in this case, for lack of principle. They can't afford it. None of them give away space, unless they have some hope for return in the future. This is especially true of the dailies, like The Birmingham News, The Birmingham Age-Herald, The Montgomery Advertiser, and others. Knowing this, I began to look around for a reason for all the free space. Don't think for a minute that any of these newspapers are so all-fired concerned over the "personal liberty of the people" that they would give away advertising space like that. Oh no! There was a reason for it all. Yea, brother, there WAS a reason! And here it is. At a recent convention of he distillers and brewers of this country they voted a sum of $19,000,000.00 to be spent for advertising in the newspapers of the nation during 1935. And here is the joker. The Alabama liquor law forbade the advertising of spiritious liquors in the state. That section of Alabama law was what the big dailies wanted out. It was not so much the personal liberty of Alabama's citizens they were worrying about—they wanted their share of the nineteen million bucks. And with that sentence in the law, they could see those big fat advertising contracts slipping right through their fingers. You can bet your right eye that those big dailies didn't care a tinker's damn whether you had personal liberty or not, or whether your child ever looked inside of a school house or not. What they were looking for was the cold cash from that advertising. Any time the Birmingham News and Age-Herald or The Montgomery Advertiser gets all "het up" over something, you can be sure they are looking out to their own interests—not yours.

ED'S "JUICE WAGON"

Not long ago I was meandering around town, and, looking up, a strange sight met my eyes. I rubbed my peepers and looked again. Yep, it was still there. Imagine—in this age of motors and gas and grease, there was a good old time horse drawn delivery wagon. I can't recall when I had seen the last affair of this kind. It was the "new" delivery wagon of the "Airport Dairy", better known as "Boss Miller's outfit", only in this case it was being driven by Ed Miller, Jr., sometimes known as "Big Ed", who was doing the driving. The rig was as unique and original as a motor delivery would have been some 20 or 25 years ago. Ed takes delight in driving his "cow juice hack" about the town making deliveries, and rightfully so. I don't know who hatched the idea of rigging up the outfit, but it's a good idea, any way. Two or three things good about it. It isn't so expensive, doesn't burn gas while Ed is off the wagon delivering milk; the customers don't have to keep such a sharp watch for the milk man, as they have plenty of time to catch him; you know, with motor delivery, if you are a few seconds late in getting out, you may have to catch your milk "on the wing", as it were; and if for no other reason, it's just good advertising, for everybody notices it. And advertising pays, don't let anybody tell you otherwise. Another thing, Ed keeps his hack spotless. It is painted white, and I have heard lots of people speak of it about like this: "Look how clean they keep that wagon. If they keep everything connected with the dairy as clean as that, I wouldn't be afraid to use that milk. It's clean." Ed is a pretty good business man. A good product and it well advertised, coupled with prompt delivery, makes for success. And Ed will see success crown his efforts.

THAT BIG POTATO

I don't believe I have derived any more fun from anything than from that big Indian potato which Rev. G. G. Williams brought to the Union-Banner office some weeks ago. The big fellow grew wild in Autauga County, and at the time it was brought in it weighed twenty-nine and one fourth pounds, just three fourths of a pound short of a half of a bushel, all in one hunk of potato. Where I get my laughs is in listening to what some of the people have to say about it, when they see it. They'll come in and read the sign on it: "Indian Potato," and then, with widened eyes, ask: "Is that a potato?" So many have done that until it has become funny. One fellow said: "It ain't a dooley is it?" Another was told that it was grown wild, and exclaimed: "Well, if it got that big growing wild, without any fertilizer, how big would it have grown if it had been well fertilized?" Another fellow looked at it and said: "I'll bet it didn't grow anywhere around where I live, because there are no places that big between the rocks." A boy was told that it was a hog potato, and, right up, (boy like), he chirped up with this question: "Well, how big do the hogs grow that eat them big potatoes?" Another time I was listening to two boys discussing it. One of them didn't believe it was a potato, and told his friend he believed it was a root of some kind. The other boy, contending that it was a potato, looked back, quite disgusted, and replied: "Well, what would you call a potato but a root?" That's just a few of the things I've heard about this big "tater," and I've heard hundreds of them.

GEORGIA REBELS AGAIN

Not so long ago the House of Representatives of Georgia committed the unpardonable sin, AGAIN. In fact, Georgia has been a kind of thorn in the side of the Democratic gang at Washington for some time. It was from Georgia that the first grumblings came in connection with the farm program of the New Deal. Several other things came up in Georgia that were not in "in line" with the administration's policies. Finally the State Democratic Committee of Georgia went on record condemning the NRA set-up "in its entirety," and notified the Washington officials so. What a stir that caused in high circles. But the president and his horsemen paid not the slightest attention. What if Georgia did rebel? That meant less than nothing to them that the people of the State of Georgia were not content to be treated as peons and serfs. Were these officials not firmly seated? Phooey on Georgia! That was the way the officials showed they felt about the matter. But the Georgians took notice of the snub, and recently, when Miss Frances Perkins, a member of the cabinet, let it be known that she would like to speak before the Georgia House of Representatives, that august body snubbed right back. A resolution was adopted, thanking Miss Perkins for her offer, but advised her, very politely, that her presence was not needed, nor desired. Miss Perkins, you will remember, is the lady who told the world in general that the Southland was "a great un-tapped market for shoes." Maybe the Georgia House of Representatives thought the lady might be astonished if she came down and caught the Georgia Senators and Representatives not going bare-footed. Again, maybe they wanted to show the lady that Southern people can snub just as well as "enlightened Northerners," shoes or no shoes. Gov. Talmadge is not in accord with the new deal policies by any stretch of imagination, and Georgians, all the way from senators to ditch diggers are standing firmly behind their fighting governor, who has sense enough to know a few things, and grit enough to tell the big shots at Washington where to head in.—Man In the Moon.

WHAT N R A IS FOR

Now that two years have passed since its inauguration, the Senate Finance Committee at Washington is investigating the code structure of the NRA and just what effect this has had on the nation.

One of the first witnesses was S. Clay Williams, chairman of the National Recovery Board, who declared: The primary objective of the NRA was the provision under which wages should be established as not below a fixed minimum.

"The effort was to guarantee to the worker that his wage would not be driven below a certain minimum living wage.

"From industry's standpoint that took wages out of the list of things that manufacturers compete with each other on."

If that was the fundamental purpose of the NRA, and many of its friends say that this is true, then it ought to be comparatively easy to amend the NRA structure and get back to fundamentals.

Certainly many people will believe that if this is what Uncle Sam needed for the restoration of prosperity, so far as his industries were concerned, then it would have been much simpler to pass a minimum wage law that would withstand the scrutiny of the courts and could depend for enforcement on the then constituted agents of the government.

Certainly such an act would have met with general approval rather than a storm of criticism. Certainly no real American believes in sweatshops and a European level of wages. That is the very thing our protective tariff seeks to get away from, so far as possible. If industry in one section of the country works harm to a similar industry in another section through absurdly low wages, then certainly the difference ought to be equalized in some way, and no American who regards his country as a nation could find sincere objection.

The trouble is that the NRA did not stop with fundamentals. Many college professors love experimentation, and in certain phases of the New Deal we seem to have had experimentation to the nth degree.

If the fundamental purpose of the NRA was to abolish sweatshops and unfair wage competition, the sooner we get back to the fundamentals the better and the less public criticism there will be.

OUR VANISHING TEXTILES

The closing down of 2,000 looms for an indefinite period by the Amoskeag Mills in Manchester, N. H., is a further reminder of the unsettled and depressed state of our textile industries. In this instance 1,000 workers are thrown out of jobs, and it is just one instance of a situation that tends to impoverish New England.

Various factors enter into a situation that may well give serious concern to New England business leaders. The differential that southern cotton mills now enjoy under the NRA is only one, and may not be highly important in itself when weighed against other factors that these mills can cite in defense. But the net result of influences developed within the last twenty-five years has been to occasion distress to northern mill centers and particularly Massachusetts, whose labor laws have reacted unfavorably upon those they were intended to benefit.

One factor especially that serves to depress prices below the point at which cotton goods can be made without loss in this section consists of increased imports of textile products sold on the basis of extremely low labor cost. Reports just made public reveal that Japan's sales of cotton goods in the United States in January of this year exceeded those for the entire year 1934. These goods are being sold so cheaply that they are even bought by firms dealing only in cotton waste and wiping rags.

Much was said in times past about the demoralizing effect of British textiles on our American market when the tariff was reduced, but Japanese competition is far more severe and her sales here and elsewhere in the Western Hemisphere are increasing by leaps and bounds. Her activity has the joint effect of invading American markets and encouraging production of raw material in countries that can sell it much below the prices possible under arrangements specially devised to force prices of American cotton to an unnaturally high level.—Springfield Union.

AMERICANISM ASSERTS ITSELF

The American Liberty League, a citizens' organization created to support American principles and institutions against the prevailing attacks upon them, has begun to establish chapters in the universities and colleges. Every loyal American who has observed the extent to which students are exposed to subversive theories and influences will welcome this project.

We do not doubt the majority of the faculties and student bodies in our educational institutions are loyal to the great traditions, policies and institutions of our country. But there are foci of subversive influence which are spreading a perverted criticism of American national experience, together with ideas drawn from European conditions and the radical revolt against them. Against this activity there has been too little open and emphatic assertion of American ideals and accomplishments, an injustice to youth which has a right to protection from subversive propaganda borrowing influence and seeming authority from the teacher's office.

This spirit of laissez faire, which natural enough among Americans, however devoted they are, indeed because they are devoted to American free institutions, is now being replaced by a sense of the need for a counter-attack upon subversive influences. One of the leaders of a movement for the association of loyalist students in the University of Chicago reports that hte movement is strong in colleges throughout the country. We do not know what part, if any, the Liberty League has played this development, but its participation in a common effort of patriotism should be acceptable and profitable.

While every tyrrany which despairing reaction has of late set up in the Old World carries on an elaborate system of propaganda in the guise of education a vigorous defense of the American order from reactionary attacks, whether of communists, state socialist or fascist origin, is overdue. This is of course the result of the older American's assumption that the merits of our institutions, demonstrated by a century and a half of unequaled general welfare and progress, need no defense. But this assumption has been shaken by the tribulations of the last five years. The impatient idealism and inexperience of youth expose it to the influence of the radical doctrinaire. Youth, perhaps inevitably, reacts against the standards and assumption of its elders and likes to feel it can better them. That is in the main a useful tendency, but it can be betrayed by false prophets and of them we have an overproduction in time of trouble. The American order deserves a better defense than it has had from those to whom we have confided the preparation of American youth for the use of the great heritage it possesses and should carry forward.—Chicago Tribune.

THE SITUATION CHANGETH

The second half of President Roosevelt's administration is now under way, and political commentators are beginning to draw a contrast between political conditions now and two years ago. Although the administration has enjoyed a public support rarely equaled in modern American politics, there are indications that more political troubles are just ahead than was deemed possible.

A comparison of the conditions now with those of two years ago is not without interest and significance. At the beginning of the administration the dramatic action in the bank crisis elicited full political and public approval. Congressional rulers vied with one another in doing the will of the administration, in turning over authority to the executive department without stopping to consider the constitutionality of the action. A statesman of either party who dared to question the action was regarded as a hopeless reactionary. The New Deal had brought us a new era in which rugged individualism had passed and the government was going to see to it that everyone who deserved was comfortable and comparatively as well off as his neighbor. The action and promises of the majority were greeted with unbounded enthusiasm by that considerable portion of our citizenry known as the "left."

Two short years have brought some interesting changes. There is no longer any unanimity of opinion regarding the adminsitration on the part of the so-called "left." The only symptoms are the rebellion of Senator Long and the bitter verbal warfare between General Johnson and Father Coughlin. Other liberal leaders have indicated that they are not exactly happy with the situation. The National Recovery Act, the enactment of which was hailed with such fervor that a failure to boost it was regarded almost as nefarious as failing to buy liberty bonds in the stirring days of the World War, is now under investigation by the Senate.

And most of the questions being asked of witnesses by examining senators are seemingly unfriendly to the NRA as now constituted. If the NRA is to continue after June, Congress must act to extend its life. The President has recommended that this life be prolonged for two years. And yet in spite of the personal popularity of the President among his followers, the temper of Congress is such that it is little more than an even bet whether the NRA will be re-enacted without having been so changed that its own political mother—whoever that may be—might not recognize it.

No matter what the action of Congress may be, the federal courts remain a "menace" to many of the provisions of the act which are regarded by many jurists as unconstitutional.

No matter what the final fate of this much advertised scheme of recovery may be, two short years have brought a great many changes both to political alignments and the official plans for economic recovery.

The House has decided not to tax patent medicines, and getting sick will be about the only thing left to do at the same old price.

By the time an unemployed man obtains work under the New Deal, he will not need it. Old age insurance will keep him.

POOR O

Speeches of Jones, Hollis and Fant Made Over Radio Last Friday Night

SPEECH BY MAYOR C. FENN JONES

I did not come to Birmingham to try to entertain you with a pretty speech that has no meaning, but I came to tell you a few facts about Clanton. Clanton is in Chilton County, Alabama, 60 miles south of Birmingham, 45 miles north of Montgomery on the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, and the federal concrete highway No. 31. It is 12 miles from the Alabama Power Company, Lay Dam, 16 miles from Mitchell Dam, both of which are located on the Coosa River where electricity is generated and transmitted to many cities and industries through the country. These two large lakes afford splendid fishing opportunities to Clanton people and others who enjoy that sport. It is an ideal place for rest and recreation, being reasonably hidden from the law enforcement squad.

Clanton was incorporated in 1897, 38 years ago, embracing an area one mile square, with a population at that time of about 400. The present legislature will pass a bill extending the corporate limits to include the people and business now properly a part of Clanton, which will increase our population to near 4,000.

Good roads lead into Clanton from every direction, and Clanton attracts some trade from Autauga, Elmore, Coosa and Shelby Counties. Clanton streets are paved in the business section, and paving in the residential parts is being considered. Clanton is now erecting a city hall at a cost of $23,000, and extending the water mains at a cost of $13,000. Material is being placed on the ground for a new theater building. The Peoples Savings Bank will remodel and enlarge their building this summer at a cost of several thousand dollars. An apartment house is being built now. A large two story wood business building was recently removed and plans are being drawn for a brick building to take its place at a cost of $15,000. The contract has been let for a $50,000 postoffice building on which work will begin in the near future. The Selma Highway is being paved from Clanton. A vacant business lot on Second Avenue sold a few weeks ago for $500 a front foot. Clanton did not have a bank failure during the depression, and not a bank failure in the entire county. There is not a vacant business building in the city, neither a vacant residence, and there is a demand for more homes for rent. Clanton has not felt the depression as keenly as other business centers of the state as is evidenced by its continued growth.

Clanton is supported by agriculture almost entirely, but the farm lands are divided ino small tracts, and as a rule is owned by the men who cultivate the land. This makes good trade conditions for Clanton. Clanton has three drug stores, three hardware stores, eight grocery stores, ten drygoods stores, two wholesale grocery stores, three furniture stores, one ice plant, a foundry, three automobile dealers, a laundry which gives employment to fourteen people, three beauty parlors, two weekly newspapers, fourteen white barbers are required to serve the local and visiting trade, two banks with a combined deposit of one million and forty thousand dollars, four cotton ginning plants, three lumber planing mills, one theater with seating capacity of 300, and well attended.

The Standard Oil Company, Sinclair, Good Gulf, Woco Pep, Shell, Texaco and Pan Am, all distribute their product from Clanton. The Alabama Mills Company cotton factory gives employment to 300. The Central Alabama Hospital receives patients sufficient to support the institution. The Chilton County High School has an enrollment of 290 pupils, the grammar school, 450. Eight automobile servive stations, two hotels, several tourist homes and cafes, and many other business establishments. Clanton has an airport and some of our citizens own planes. There are ten lawyers, six doctors and five dentists, but I cannot say all of these gentlemen are kept busy. Clanton has two funeral homes and I am pleased to state they are not very prosperous on account of our pure water and healthful surroundings.

Clanton people are religious and law-abiding. Clanton has a $65,000 Baptist church, free of debt, with 800 members. The Methodist, a building that cost $75,000, fully paid and 400 members. The Presbyterians are proud of their $6,000 building and increasing membership. The Christian Church, the Adventist and Four Square Gospel, all have comfortable buildings and their influence for good in cooperation with the larger churches send forth a Christian spirit and good fellowship which accounts in part for Clanton's prosperity and advancement.

Clanton geographically is in the heart of Alabama. When you are touring the country we want you to stop at Clanton. Our hotels and cafes will serve you well prepared and wholesome food at reasonable prices. Our policemen will be liberal with you, and give you all the assistance and information possible in a courteous manner. You who may wish to change your present location, or invest some money in a growing city with a bright future, among people who have a heart, I earnestly and sincerely invite you to investigate Clanton, Alabama.

MR. HOLLIS OF MITCHELL DAM

Among the many other distinctions which gives Clanton the right to claim to be one of the best towns in Alabama, is the fact that almost at its doorway are situated two of the outstanding hydro electric developments within the state, or for that matter within the Southeastern states, built, owned and operated by the Alabama Power Company.

Lay Dam, the first dam built by the company is only 13 miles from Clanton and is connected with it by a good gravel road. This dam was completed in January, 1914; is 1,543 feet long, 104 feet high and has a present capacity of 110,000 horsepower. It creates a navigable slack water pool 24 miles in length. The dam was named for Captain W. P. Lay, of Gadsden, the first president of Alabama Power Company and a pioneer in hydro electric development.

Mitchell Dam also on the Coosa River, only 15 miles from Clanton and connected with it by a good road was completed in August, 1923. This dam is 1,264 feet long and 106 feet high. It has a present capacity of 72,000 horsepower with an ultimate capacity of 120,000 horsepower. It creates a navigable slack water pool extending up stream to Lay Dam, a distance of 14 miles. This dam was dedicated to the memory of James Mitchell, the executive head of the company from the beginning of its active work in 1912 until his death in 1920. Upon a large bronze tablet affixed to a boulder weighing over 100 tons which was cut from a hill near the dam is the dedicatory inscription to Mr. Mitchell and a beautiful expression from the gifted pen of the late Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, which reads as follows:

"To gather the streams from waste and to draw from them energy, labor with brains, and so to save mankind from toil that it can be spared, is to supply what, next to intellect is the very foundation of all our achievements and all our welfares."

The scenery around both these dams is rugged, wild and beautiful. Every visitor to Clanton should take advantage of the opportunity to ride out and enjoy these veritable beauty spots of nature, inspect the dams themselves and see the generation of electricity by water power in its most advanced and technically perfect manner. Visitors will be cordially received by the operators at the dams and every opportunity given them for a thorough inspection. These dams represent an investment of many thousands of dollars and along with transmission lines and distribution systems create taxable values which pay annually large sums in taxes to the state, the county and towns therein.

These dams not only make available electric power for the homes and for industry in Clanton and other towns of Chilton County, but also through 70 miles of rural lines approximately 2,500 people on the farms of the county are served.

With the advantages of practically unlimited hydro power, delightful climate splendid schools and churches, stragetic location between Montgomery and Birmingham on a great trunk line railway, surely there is no reason why Clanton should not grow and expand. It is the purpose of its citizenship that it shall and every one who comes to cast his lot in Clanton shall receive a warm welcome and every assistance in the building a business or establishing a home within its confines. So I say to you Clanton is the best town in the state by two dam sites.

COUNTY AGENT J. W. FANT

Fellow Kiwanians and friends of the radio audience, I bring you greetings from Clanton, the heart of Alabama; a town surrounded by a farm-owning, home-loving, God-fearing, industrious farm people, who have the social urge to the extent that the population of the town is doubled every Saturday.

There are 4,197 farm families consisting of 1,550 farm owners, 1,636 share croppers and share tenants and 1,011 cash tenants, in the 16 beats composing the county. Clanton is located in the geographic center of Beat 4, which has an area of 54 square miles and a farm population of 987 families. Beat 4 is the geographic center of Chilton County. Chilton County is the geographic center of Alabama.

The development of agriculture in the county is very graphically given in the following quotation from John Temple Graves' "Book of Alabama and the South:"

"The survival and growth of products of the plow over products of the axe and the saw, which has featured so many of Alabama's Counties, is emphatic in Chilton. Before 1900, a timber and turpentine industry engaged the majority of the population, although agriculture was important. As the fine timber stands of hardwood and pine were cut off farming increased its relative importance and has been the principal source of revenue for more than 30 years."

Cotton was the sole cash crop for many years and is now the principal cash crop. Over 9,000 of the 12,500 bales produced in 1934 were placed in the hands of the Alabama Cotton Cooperative Association through its local office in Clanton.

The Alabama Extension Service had its birth in Alabama and Chilton County when Mr. W. H. Conway was appointed County Agricultural Agent in 1907. Through his leadership the farmers were persuaded to terrace farm land, to diversify their crops and produce a living at home. This program introduced other cash crops, such as grain, forage, poultry, dairying, livestock, truck crops, and fine fruits. Quoting again from John Temple Graves: "Fruit and berry culture is conspicuous in the vicinity of Clanton, Jemison and Thorsby. Strawberries are sold under cooperative auspices; watermelons are shipped in quantity; and the peaches of Chilton County are called unblushingly the largest in the South."

The following crops in addition to cotton were sold from the farms of Chilton County in 1934:

Strawberries, corn, truck crops, watermelons, fruit, poultry and dairy products, and beef cattle to the amount of approximately $175,000. A good portion of this produce was sold or loaded for shipment in Clanton. Much of this produce was sold at roadside markets along the highways.

In 1923, a department of vocational agriculture was established at Isabella, and one at Jemison in 1929, and one at the negro training school in 1926. This added three more trained farm leaders to the agricultural staff of the county. In 1933 Miss Ruth Pardue was employed as Home Demonstration Agent of the county. This gives the county a well rounded leadership service.

Under the leadership of the county and home agents and teachers of vocational agriculture, a live-at-home program has been emphasized. As a result of this program the farmers produced ample food and feed for home use and marketed $1,301,931.71 worth of cash crops in 1934.

Under the leadership of the Home Demonstration Agent, the farm women of the county made clothing, canned vegetables and meat, grew poultry products, made cheese, planted year-round gardens and saved the farmers approximately $17,500.00 in 1934.

I make the following comparison of farm income and bank deposits in Clanton to show the relation that agriculture has to the prosperity of Clanton:

In 1928, the year before prices of everything began to break, the farm income was $1,819,300.00. The bank deposits in Clanton were $927,503.72 March 27, 1929.

In 1932, when prices reached the lowest level during the depression, the farm income was $549,500.00. Bank deposits in Clanton were $635,760.23 December 31, 1932.

In 1934, we hope the last year of the depression, the farm income was $1,301,931.71. Bank deposits in Clanton were $1,039,583.80 December 31, 1934.

I think the industry and foresight of the farmers in establishing a live-at-home program is responsible for the fact that not a single bank closed its doors, very few bankrupts were declared, and very few farms were sold under mortgage in the county during the depression.

All this leads to believe that the progress and prosperity of Clanton is dependent upon the prosperity of the home-owning, home-loving, God-fearing, farm people engaged in scientific farming under intelligent leadership. Clanton prospers when the farmers prosper, and offers great possibilities for new industries, such as canneries, feed mills, creameries, textile mills, oil refineries, and other industries whose raw products are derived from the farm.

Clanton extends a cordial welcome to you. Come to Clanton any Saturday and watch the population double.

PATES CHAPEL

This community was saddened last Saturday when the death angel visited the home of Mr. Walter Maddox and took away the loving spirit of his wife, and also a kind mother and friend.

Mrs. Maddox was taken sick Friday evening while cooking supper. She only talked for about one-half hour afterwards. She had a stroke the Dr. said. All was done for her that loving hands could do, but God saw fit to call her home.

Mrs. Maddox was well known in this community and other communities around here. While living in this community for many years, she has proved a true Christian woman, and has made many friends.

She leaves to mourn her death, her husband; 3 girls and 2 boys; Mrs. Cleveland Channel, of Tuscaloosa; Mrs. Ralph Dinglestead, of Fostoria, Ohio; and Mrs. Grady Sewell, of Birmingham; Mr. Herchel Maddox, of Thorsby; and James, who was still at home. Her daughter, from Ohio did not get here, when they sent the word, she was in the hospital having her tonsils removed. Mrs. Maddox has been in bad health for about 3 years, but has held out faithfully, without grumbling. She will be missed by a host of relatives and friends.

She was laid to rest in the Pates Chapel cemetery, with Rev. Stanley, of Thorsby officiating, and with Martin and sons in charge.

Mrs. Grady Sewell, of Birmingham is spending a few days with her home folks, Mr. Walter Maddox, and son James.

Mr. and Mrs. Vastine Hayes, and son spent Saturday night with his father and mother and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Hayes.

Mr. Y. Z. Dale of Sylacauga came to see his wife during the week end, who before her marriage was Miss Lorene Cleckler. Y. Z. is hunting a job. We all hope him success.

Pates Chapel Baptist Church B. T. U. and B. A. U. will render a program for Highland next Sunday night at 7:00 sharp, if the weather permits.

Everybody remember every second Sunday is our regular preaching day.

Mrs. Tommie Maddox of Thorsby visited her sister, Mrs. Lee Hayes, of this community Sunday.

Next Friday night Rev. Paul Oden will be at Pates Chapel Baptist Church with his little show. Those who are interested come.

L. G. Posey, prominent farmer and citizen of Beat 14, was among the visitors in Clanton Tuesday.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

N. F. A. Sponsors Ham Show

A big ham and middling show is being planned for Friday, April 19, at the County Training School. Prizes will be offered for the best ham exhibits.

Last winter the N. F. A. boys sponsored a drive for better methods of killing and curing pork. The club boys assisted many different individuals in using the new method recommended by the experiment station at Auburn.

Any person interested in the show is welcome to bring his hams or middlings and take an active part in the show by arranging his own exhibit.

National Negro Health Week

Along with the rehabilitation program, the teachers of agriculture and home economics are sponsoring a better health and clean-up campaign in observance of National Negro Health Week. Their slogan this week is "Burn, bury and beautify."

Over forty years ago this movement was started at Tuskegee Institute by our great educator and leader, Booker T. Washington. Since that time it has become nation wide and is now being carried on under the auspices of the annual Tuskegee Conference, National Negro Business League, National Medical Association and in cooperation with the Negro U. S. Public Health Service, state, county and city health departments and other civic agencies.

It is eagerly hoped that each home in every community will be affected by this program. It is a good practice to generally clean at least twice a year, but many of us fail to generally clean at all.

Let us all clean up. Keep in mind the slogan, "Burn, bury and beautify."—Benj. Anderson.

FOREST FIRE DAMAGES IN ALABAMA ARE HEAVY

$3,000,000 Wasted Yearly, Says Report From Extension Chief; March and April Called Worst Fire Months

Forest fires destroy more than 3 million dollars worth of property in Alabama each year and prevent reforestation of countless acres fitted only for growing trees, declares Lyle Brown, extension forester, who warns farmers that "March and April usually bring to their height the wood fires which spread over Alabama."

The most conservative estimate now places the actual value of this damage at $3,000,000, but effects from these fires, not so easily evaluated, may run this figure much higher, he reports.

Light fires seen creeping over hill and vale with the sanction of the land owners or tenants are destroying the tiny seedlings from the previous year's seed crop and preventing the covering of the soil with trees for another timber crop and to prevent the loss of soil by erosion. Thinking landowners are planting trees on many such acres at costs possibly averaging $5 per acre, while thoughtless ones permit the destruction of such crops planted by nature at no cost.

"Astounding is the fact that the Southeast burns 15 acres of woodland for every one burned in the remainder of the United States. Pathetic is the fact that 98 per cent of these fires are man-made and preventable. It's a human problem. They can and will be stopped when the people in the communities decide and agree that the practice is folly. Leaders who shape the destinies of our communities, counties, and country will find it their problem and respnsibility to lead the fight. When they take up the fight this deplorable situation will be remedied. It can and will be solved by communities through their thinking citizens. We are paying an awful price for carelessness and neglect."

ADVICE TO WOMEN

Mrs. Annie M. Cape of 922 B. St., Meridian, Miss., said: "My health failed and I was just about ready to give up. I was too weak to do my housework, suffered with pains in my back and sides and headaches were frequent. I could neither eat nor sleep and my weight went down to 120 pounds. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as a tonic and was soon in the best of health." All druggists.

POOR O

STATE CAPITOL NEWS

Alabama's income tax will bring in over $800,000 this year, an increase of more than $300,000 over the amount collected during 1934, according to a conservative estimate by the state tax commission. Although the tax on 1934 income was delinquent after March 15, complete returns have not yet been made, some taxpayers having availed themselves of the privilege of making quarterly payments. Also, the drive to round up delinquents is still actively under way, and complete figures will not be available until this is done. Already, however, the cash collections are running in excess of those for the same period last year by 34.71 per cent. In addition to the collection of the tax on 1934 income, agents of the state tax commission are actively at work on the many delinquents from 1933.

Figures compiled by Gunter O'Rear, chief of the Income Tax Division, show an estimated total of $823,300 revenue from the income tax during 1935. Of this amount, $683,300 represents tax 1934 income, and $140,000 escaped taxes from 1933. Field agents of the tax department have already made assessments approximating $70,000 against 1933 delinquents.

The total of $823,300 for the year is a conservative estimate, more likely to be exceeded than to fall short. This compares with total collections in 1934 of $506,904.34, or an increase of approximately $316,000.

Income tax revenue goes to pay interest on the $17,000,000 of state refunding bonds. At 5 per cent, the interest on these bonds is $850,000, so that this year, for the first time, the income tax will be approximately sufficient to meet this obligation.

In the the income tax division, as in other branches of the state tax commission, the field force has been increased since the present administration took office, in order to collect the huge sums which the state has been losing owing to inadequate machinery for collection. In the income tax, as in other divisions of the tax commission, this policy is showing results in a heavy increase in revenue brought in, as compared with a year ago.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala.—Tom Garner, general alumni secretary at the University of Alabama, will represent the University at the meeting of the American Alumni Council which convenes at Washington, D. C., April 3 to 6.

A feature of the Council's session will be the series of dinners to be given by Washington alumni of 50 or 60 colleges and universities of the nation. These functions are being given through the suggestion of C. E. Lovejoy of Columbia University, president of the American Alumni Council.

The University of Alabama's Washington delegation will have its affair on Wednesday, April 3, at Hotel Hamilton and will be attended by secretary Garner. General Frank McIntyre will preside at this dinner, and Senator Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, an alumnus of the University of Alabama, will be the principal speaker. All University of Alabama men in the United States Senate and House of Representatives are expected to be present.

Members of the committee in charge of the Alabama dinner are Virgil O. Barnard, Hugh Dowling, Charles Sykes and John A. Elmore.

Dr. John C. Dawson, professor and head of the department of Romance Languages, University of Alabama, has been delegated to represent the University of Alabama and the department of Romance Languages at the diamond jubilee of Louisiana State University at Baton Rouge on April 5.

Dr. Dawson will also be present for French Day exercises when the cornerstone for La Maison Francaise (French House) will be laid. The French Ambassador to the United States, His Excellency, Monsieur Laboulaye, will attend these exercises.

Want to be healthy? Then eat four times the amount of Vitamin A your body actually consumes in order to function properly. This is the advice given by Dr. H. C. Sherman, famed Columbia University nutritionist, who lectured at the University of Alabama last Thursday, March 28. The foods containing Vitamin A are butter, egg yolk, cream, spinach, carrots, tomatoes, pineapple and prunes.

Dr. Sherman deplores deficiency of calcium in many people. The lack of sufficient amounts of this mineral is responsible for so many people having poorly developed teeth although normally developed otherwise. The Columbia professor said that skim milk contains great supplies of calcium, but it is difficult to get from the retail grocer because it costs more to put it in packages than it does to buy the skim milk itself.

Among those tapped for Omricon Delta Kappa, national honorary service fraternity at the University, on the night of March 28, were Carl Elliot of Vina, Joe Weaver of Cochrane, William Wade of Mintor, and Virgil Hampton of Fairfax. Robert Bell of the University faculty has just been elected province deputy of O. D. K.

Dr. John Hanby of Attalla, who finished his first two years of medicine, has been appointed to a two-year post graduate interneship in orthopaedic surgery at the hospital for the ruptured and crippled in New York City. Dr. Hanby is the son of Dr. E. K. Hanby and was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania Medical School in 1934.

Joe Weaver of Cochrane, Ala., has been named outstanding senior in the University of Alabama College of Engineering and is to receive the Theta Tau loving cup.

The seventh annual finals of the Alabama high school debating league will be held at the University of Alabama April 3 to 6. There will be four debaters each from 30 Alabama counties. Team members of the winning team from small towns will receive year scholarships to the University of Alabama.

Eighty-five professors and instructors, together with 19 administrative officials and other officers, will compose the faculty of the 1935 summer school of the University of Alabama, according to the new summer school catalogue which has just come from the press.

Included in the summer school faculty are 36 who have the doctor's degree; 32 with the mater's degree; and 17 with the bachelor's degree. Most of the faculty is composed of regular members of the University's teaching staff.

The new catalogue which is being placed in the mail describes a total of 348 courses. Of that number 210 are for undergraduate students only, while 138 are open to advanced and graduate students. The arrangements of courses provides 138 undergraduate and 90 advanced and graduate courses for the first term (June 10, to July 19), and 113 undergraduate and 67 advanced and graduate courses for the second term (July 19 to August 23.) This represents an increase of nearly 14 per cent over the offerings for last summer. Anyone interested may secure a copy of the bulletin by addressing Dr. John R. McLure, Summer School, University, Ala.

MANY RESPONSES TO RADIO PROGRAM OF LAST WEEK

Among the many favorable comments received by Mayor Jones upon the Clanton radio program broadcast from Birmingham last Friday night, was a letter from a lady in Little Rock, Arkansas, who stated that she and her family happened to tune in just in time to hear the announcement from WAPI that a speech was to be delivered by Mayor C. Fenn Jones, of Clanton.

Two things attracted the listeners. First the name of the place, Clanton, the former home of the lady; second the name of the Mayor, Mr. Jones; the name of the lady was Jones before her marriage. She was a member of the Jones family of Mulberry, a relative of Hugh Jones and Mrs. J. P. Hayes.

The letter assured Mayor Jones that she and her family were delightfully entertained by the nice things they heard about Clanton and Chilton County.

Rev. M. Lockhart reports that he was visiting in Sylacauga Friday night, where a large group of former Chilton County people listened to the program with much interest.

Many former Chilton County people, now residents of the Birmingham district, were present at the studio of WAPI and witnessed the broadcast in person.

An explosion during an insecticide demonstration badly damaged the office and showroom of the Alabama Power Company at Hartselle, but all employes escaped with only minor bruises.

Demands by farm owners for more rent than the farm rehabilitation committee feels justified in paying may prevent more than 200 Madison County families from obtaining benefits of the plan.

More stringent enforcement of the laws against dynamiting in Madison County streams has been adopted as an objective of the Madison County Game, Fish and Wild Life Conservation Assn.

Morgan County Board of Revenue has given farmers of the county three complete terracing outfits to use in terracing their land at actual cost. In addition, the farmers have purchased a complete outfit, making a total of four in the county.

A general investigation of the rates of the Southern Bell Telephone Company in Alabama was ordered by the Alabama Public Service Commission on its own initiative less than 24 hours after its March 4 order calling for a $300,000 reduction had been voided in Montgomery Circuit Court.

Miss Birtie Edwards went to Birmingham Sunday to see her sister who is in the South Highland Infirmary.

PASTORS WILL MEET MONDAY

The pastors of the Chilton-Unity Baptist Associations will meet Monday, April 8, at 10:00, in the Sunday School room at the Baptist Church, Clanton. It is hoped that all pastors who can will be present.

IN MEMORY

Many hearts were saddened last Monday, March 25, when the death angel entered the home of Miss Nannie Bone and quietly bore her spirit away. She had been ill only a few days with pneumonia.

Funeral services were held from the Shiloh Baptist Church Tuesday at 10 a.m. Dr. S. J. Ezell and Rev. W. S. Cox officiated. Burial was in the churchyard cemetery, Martin & Sons in charge.

This precious one is now at rest. God keep the silent sleeper, but let's not think of her death, just waiting over yonder in that fair and happy land with loving hands to welcome us there.—Her loving friends, Audrey and Edna Johnson.

WOMAN, 103, PRAISES HOOVER

Sunbury, Pa., March 30.—Mrs. Rachel Wynn Trowbridge, who celebrated her one hundred third birthday on November 3, believes that "Herbert Hoover was a good president."

She further observed her anniversary by declaring:

1. The younger generation is no worse than it used to be.
2. That riding in an airplane is "wonderful".
4. That all churches have good points, and denomination is not as important as attendance.
5. That the New Deal's subsidizing policies "rob Peter to pay Paul."
6. She would like to live another 100 years and ride in airplanes and "talk on the radio."

Mrs. Trowbridge was born in 1831 at Fisher's Ferry, living through four wars.

CHILD WELFARE WORK EXPLAINED

Relations To Relief Agencies To Prevent Overlapping of Duties

Montgomery, Ala.—Since much of the work of the social service division of the Alabama Relief Administration and the State Child Welfare Department is related because of the many children in relief families who need more than relief, it has been found advantageous for the staffs of the two agencies to hold monthly conferences. At a recent conference new problems arising in cooperative work in the counties were discussed and procedures for their solution were agreed upon. In addition to the monthly conferences of the state staffs of the two agencies, frequent conferences between county workers engaged in the child welfare and those engaged in administering relief are held for the purpose of coordinating their activities and of preventing overlapping of duties.

Questions often arise in the minds of the public regarding the activities and the relationships of these state agencies engaged in social service. The state child welfare department is a regular agency of the state government which has been in existence for more than fifteen years. It was established by the state legislature and is supported by state funds. The Alabama Relief Administration has been in existence a little more than two years and was set up by ex-governor Miller as a temporary agency of the state for the administration of relief. It is supported by federal funds, with a certain amount of local participation in the counties from county funds.

The duties and responsibilities of the Child Welfare Department are clearly defined in the act creating the department. It seeks out minor children in need of its care and protection and so far as may be possible aids such in need of its care and aids such children to a fair opportunity in life. The department is responsible for the "development of a statewide program for the more effective care of such children and for the elimination and suppression of the causes which bring about the necessity of such care." Among other duties assigned to the department by the legislature are the inspection, visitation, and licensing of agencies and institutions receiving, placing or caring for dependent, neglected or delinquent minor children, advising with judges and probation officers of the juvenile courts of the several counties in the state and aiding them in perfecting the work of such courts; the reception and cure of dependent and neglected children committed to its care.

On the other hand, the duties and responsibilities of the Alabama Relief Administration must be in accordance with the policies and principles outlined or approved by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration. Through its social service division the Alabama Relief Administration strives to serve needy families and to provide necessary relief for them. Many of the families receiving relief involve children. Some of these families and children need the help and services of a child welfare worker or probation officer. In many instances there are grave problems existing in these homes, problems of neglect and delinquency, non-attendance at school, children suffering with physical defects, etc. The treatment and correction necessary in working with these children often calls for action by juvenile courts. The workers in the relief administration may recommend relief where the father or other adult members of the family are unable to secure employment, but the relief worker does not have the responsibility of handling children's problems.

Jasper Mill May Come To Clanton

Statement of H. A. Redmond, President Ala. Mills, Quoted From B'ham Post

Officials of the Alabama Mills, Inc., today threatened to move their Jasper cotton mill to Clanton "unless things quiet down."

H. A. Redmond, of Birmingham, president of the corporation, said he is considering moving the plant, which has been shut down for the past two weeks, because of labor trouble.

Mr. Redmond, however, stated the company's final action would be determined "in the light of what happens in the next few weeks at Jasper."

Approximately 450 persons are normally employed at the mill. Removal of this plant to Clanton would bring the number of employees at Clanton to 750 and increase its weekly payroll to $10,000.

Frank Belgrano To Visit Legion

National Commander On Program of Alabama Legion Rally at Talladega

Frank N. Belgrano, national commander of the American Legion, will be the guest speaker at the spring rally scheduled for Talladega on April 13 and 14. Department headquarters has just received a wire from the commander-in-chief accepting an invitation extended him to address the veterans of the state. He is making a swing through the south by automobile and comes into Alabama from Tennessee.

National Commander Belgrano hails from San Francisco and was elected head of the Legion at the 1934 convention in Miami. This will be his first official visit to Alabama and probably the last trip he will make to the state before the next national convention. He will bring the veterans a report on the bonus situation in Washington. Since his election, last October, he has been working zeaously for payment of the adjusted service certificates or bonus.

Another guest speaker will be DeLacey Allen, Commander of the Georgia Department. Alabama's own department commander Wm. S. Pritchard, of Birmingham, will also speak on the Sunday's program. State Superintendent of Education J. A. Keller, who is also a Legionnaire, is scheduled to present his education program.

Several hundred Legionnaires from all parts of the state are planning to attend the Talladega rally. All post officials are extended a special invitation, and all past department and past post commanders are urged to be present as a "Past Commanders' Club" will be organized Saturday night.

A Message From Methodist Pastor

Special Program For Services Has Been Planned For Next Sunday

Dear Members:

Sunday will be a red-letter day in our church. A special program has been planned. The choir will be at its best. New members to be received. Christening of children. Presentation of the Lenten offering.

Since March 3 you have been saving a penny per meal to share with others. This special period of saving and sharing culminates Sunday (Palm Sunday). We are reminded again during this Lenten season of Him who shared His love and life in saving mankind. May we be like Him.

Put your offering in your Fellowship League of Sharing Envelope and bring it Sunday. If you cannot come please send it and save the committee the trouble of calling on you for your envelope. The pastor will speak briefly Sunday morning on "A Strange Desire that Wins". Sunday evening at 7:30 the theme will be "The Winsomeness of Tears."

The world's heart is heavy. Will you not help lighten it? The terrible load of sin and suffering is crushing the hearts of many. Will you not do your best to help lift the load.

Love and Loyalty will lift the Load!

Come to Church Sunday.

Your Pastor,
A. E. MIDDLEBROOKS.

At nine o'clock in the morning the boys and girls will assemble at the courthouse where the program will occupy their time until after twelve o'clock.

Each club will put on a part of the program, the complete outline of which is announced as follows:

Opening with a song, followed by the club pledge, the address of welcome will be extended by Hon. J. Lee Smith, Probate Judge of Chilton County.

Another song will be followed by the roll call of clubs.

Beginning at ten o'clock the Vermont Club will present a play. This will be followed with a minstrel act by the Union Grove Club. Thomas Junior Club will make a presentation, the nature of which is not yet announced.

Together with the eggs, sandwiches and fruit will be served to provide the noonday lunch. These refreshments are being provided through the efforts of the Kiwanis Club committee on Boys and Girls Work, John Hollis, chairman, with Louie Smith, Hosea Downs and Jesse Sam Gowan assisting.

Devil Dogs of the Air

James Cagney and Pat O'Brien, who took the world to see the navy, are again teamed together in a picture that will overshadow their tremendous success in "Here Comes the Navy."

Using the aviation corps of the United States Marines as a background, and with Margaret Lindsay in the leading feminine role, battle through one of the fastest moving, thrilling and romantic stories in which they have ever appeared.

Tommy O'Toole (James Cagney), a fresh conceited kid, but a natural born flyer, comes from the same town as Lieutenant Brannigan (Pat O'Brien) of the Marines. Brannigan gets Tommy appointed to the Marines Training School to which the kid flies in a dilapidated plane. He stunts over the field before landing which gets him in wrong with the general in command.

Tommy is a natural born flyer but can't get the idea of discipline and respect for superior officers through his head. The boy takes his plane off the field and makes a forced landing in front of a cafe owned by Betty Robers (Margaret Lindsay). He tries to get fresh with the girl who complains to Brannigan. Tommy is in bad with both students and officers due to his smart alec tactics.

On a test flight with Brannigan, their plane catches on fire. Brannigan bails out but Tommy is too frightened to jump and by good luck brings the ship down safely. He is a hero for a day and reacts according to his character, with the result that he soon loses his popularity. He continues to try to make love to Betty and Brannigan decides he will have to beat him up. Betty fearing Brannigan will get into trouble, hides Tommy, which makes the kid think she is really in love with him. The boy easily passes his test for lieutenancy but loses his head in a collision with another aeroplane. Brannigan forces him to stick to the controls and finally he lands safely. Tommy is contrite and insists that Brannigan is a real hero. Brannigan is promoted and transferred, but before he leaves he shakes hands with Tommy and sends him back to Betty who had learned to love the younger man.

JOE VENABLE'S NEW PLACE WILL OPEN BUSINESS THIS WEEK

The new Gulf service station, owned and operated by Mr. Joe Venable, will open for business Friday of this week, according to plans announced Tuesday. The location is just north of the bus station on the Highway.

In connection with his service station Mr. Venable will operate a modern and up-to-date barbecue and quick lunch stand.

SEVENTEEN NEW CHEVROLETS ARE SOLD HERE LAST MONTH

Dick Hayes was observed Tuesday wearing a smile as big as a wave on the goose pond. Inquiry revealed the cause of his extraordinary jubilation.

During the month of March the Hayes Chevrolet Company, of Clanton, sold seventeen new Chevrolet automobiles and 36 used cars.

And that is not all of the story. This hustling concern intends to duplicate the record again this month, if not better. "We received three car loads of new Chevrolets this week," said Dick. "I was stunned by the number of new cars at first and called the boss to ask him what in the world he expected us to do with so many cars all at once. What do you think I want you to do with 'em, you nut? he replied. I want you to sell 'em."

And sell 'em we will, concluded Mr. Hayes. Folks are taking to the 1935 Chevrolet like ducks to water, and are going to set the world a fire with new ones this summer.

Still Captured By Sheriff's Squad

Two Negroes Arrested When Caught In the Act Last Monday Night

Sheriff J. R. Hardy, with deputies J. A. Nivens, Julius Smith, and city officer, John Browder, captured a 60-gallon wildcat still in full operation Monday night, and brought to jail two negroes, David Readus and Hugh Wilson, who were in charge of the outfit when it was flushed by the officers.

The location of the still was on Blue Creek, in the neighborhood of Dixie Camp. Sheriff Hardy stated that indications about the place showed that the still had been operated at the same place for a long time.

It had been fired up just long enough for about a quart of liquor to run out, which was confiscated by the officers. The beer was destroyed.

Two white young men were arrested by Policeman John Browder last Sunday afternoon after they had wrecked their Chevrolet automobile on the highway at the golf course in South Clanton. Deputy Julius Smith and city officers Plyler and Culver took charge of a man under the influence of liquor who "Passed out" at the fiddlers convention in the courthouse last Saturday night.

Last Saturday afternoon Policeman John Browder arrested a 15-year old boy who was drunk on the streets of Clanton. He fell in the watering trough at the hitching ground and got soaking wet. Somebody said officer Browder dragged him through the creek, but that report was not correct. The offender was turned over to Judge Lee Smith of the Juvenile Court.

A negro was arrested on the streets Saturday charged with public drunkenness.

Berries Going To Market Already

Dief Expects Car Load Shipments To Begin To Move This Week End

Shipment of strawberries from Clanton was started last Friday, April 5, when the first crates brought to the Clanton Association by Elbert Bowles, were sent to the Birmingham market. This marks the earliest shipments ever made from here, being about two weeks in advance of any years heretofore.

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, business manager of the Clanton Berry Growers Association, stated that 69 crates were shipped to Birmingham Monday and 40 crates Tuesday. Mr. Diefenderfer said if the weather turns warmer with a liberal amount of sunshine Wednesday and Thursday, he expects to ship a car load of berries Friday and another car Saturday of this week.

We learn that some local shipments in crate quantities also have been made into Birmingham from both Thorsby and Jemison.

A pre-cooling system is being installed at the loading platforms in Clanton, which it is claimed, will work to a distinct advantage of berry shippers this year. It is an electrical process whereby the berries, after being loaded in the cars, are subjected to a cooling process for three hours before they are attached to the trains for moving to market. This will be of special importance toward the end of the season, and, according to Mr. Diefenderfer, will probably enable growers to get several more car loads of berries to market than they would be able to do without the cooling system.

A few days of warm sunshine and fair weather now will put all of Chilton County right into the middle of the busiest strawberry harvesting season we have had in our history. Indications are that the prices this year will be favorable to growers, and our crop will be as large as we will be able to handle, it is indicated now. Of course, the weather is the factor that will have most to do with the berry business in the next two or three weeks.

FLOWING OF MONEY STARTS UNDER NEW WORKS BILL

Huge Works Fund Is Sent Out To Provide Jobs For Seven Million and Reduce Ranks Now on Dole

STATE IS READY TO BEGIN WORK

Thousands To Get Jobs When Graves Returns From Washington

Montgomery, April 9.—Alabama was poised today to put thousands of persons to work on public projects to be financed with federal funds under the Federal work-relief bill, as Governor Graves prepared to go to Washington Friday to push the state's claims for its share of the huge fund.

Surveys were completed and plans drawn for hundreds of miles of paved highways in every county in the state, with grade crossing elimination projects included.

A total of $189,000,000 worth of applications were on file with the state Public Works Administration for roads, bridges, schools, municipal electric, gas, water and sewage plants, auditoriums and other public buildings.

Passage of the 11 New Deal bills by the state legislature has paved the way for additional millions to be absorbed through rural electrification projects, housing and other public agencies. Many applications already have been considered by the state public works board, the agency set up under the New Deal bills to pass on suggested projects and approve bond issues to finance them.

Articles of incorporations today were issued by Secretary of State Howell Turner to the Colbert County Housing Authority, the second of such agencies to be incorporated within two days. Andalusia was the first. The housing authorities will issue bonds under approval of the public works board, and sell them to the Federal Public Works Administration. Funds will be used to construct slum clearance projects, repair homes, etc., and give owners long and easy terms to pay for improvements or new homes.

The Alabama Relief Administration, with 52,000 families under its care, continued its activities, but "marked time" until new orders are received as to what to do with those persons who are on "direct" relief.

Although present relief funds will be exhausted tomorrow, officials were confident a formal order would arrive before then authorizing additional expenditures. They feel certain it will be some months before the present relief set-up is materially changed.

Three-fourths of those on relief rolls already are employed on work relief projects, Thad Holt, state relief Administrator, said. Officials predicted the greatest immediate affect of the passage of the president's measure would be to change the type of projects on which relief workers are employed.

Modern Beauty Shop Established

Mrs. W. C. Robinson Is Proprietor of New Business Starting This Week

The Modern Beauty Shop, Clanton's newest business establishment, will be officially opened for business Thursday morning, according to an announcement early this week by Mrs. W. C. Robinson, owner and operator of the new enterprise.

Completing the installation, Mrs. Robinson said that the shop will contain the most modern and up-to-date equipment, in colors of silver and black, and will be operated by experts who have had years of experience in the art of beauty culture.

Grady Mills, formerly employed by A. Nachman Beauty Parlors, Montgomery, arrived in Clanton Tuesday morning to help in supervising the final details of installing the equipment, which he explained is of the most modern type—and sanitary in every way. Assisting him will be Miss Roma Price, also of Montgomery, who has been engaged in her profession for the past eight years. Mr. Mills has 12 years experience in the better beauty shops of the South.

Equipped with four private booths, Mrs. Robinson said the Modern Beauty Shop will be a great step forward in beauty work for the people of Clanton. Every precaution is being taken in the selection and installation of equipment to insure complete sanitation for the shop's patronage.

Mr. Mills explained that the establishment will specialize in all types of beauty culture. He will, personally, have charge of the cutting of hair for women and children. The shop will be open until 9 o'clock Thursday night to permit the people of Clanton to make an inspection of its equipment, and meet its operators.

Bill Permits President Roosevelt To Make Changes As He Sees Fit

QUICK ACTION ORDERED

Washington, April 9. — President Roosevelt's $4,880,000,000 work relief fund today started flowing to every section of the country to make jobs for 7,000,000 persons.

Mr. Roosevelt ordered immediate expenditure of $155,000,000 by the federal emergency relief administration and the Civilian Conservation Corps. He signed the appropriation resolution aboard train enroute from Florida to New York yesterday.

Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins was allotted $125,000,000 to feed $755,000,000 provided in the bill for and clothe the nation's 20,500,000 needy until he receives an additional doles.

CCC Director Robert Fechner ordered double-quick enrollment of 110,000 recruits to expand his corps to the 370,000 mark.

Tentative allocation of the remaining billions of dollars in the New Deal's effort to employ 3,500,000 persons directly on Government-financed projects and 3,500,000 more in behind the line industries was as follows:

Direct relief money already allocated, $125,000,000.

CCC money remaining, $570,000,000.

Loan and grants for construction, $900,000,000.

Highways, roads and grade crossing elimination, $800,000,000.

Rural rehabilitation, water conservation, irrigation and reclamation, $500,000,000.

Rural electrification, $100,000,000.

Slum-clearance, low-cost housing, $450,000,000.

White collar relief, $300,000,000.

Sanitation, soil erosion, reforestation, rivers and harbors, miscellaneous, $350,000,000.

Total $4,880,000,000.

The funds were earmarked by congress after a 75-day legislative battle. The president was empowered to change any of its provisions by 20 per cent, giving him a $976,000,000 leeway in directing use of the money.

Effect of the executive's action in alloting money for relief and CCC will be felt almost at once. Federal Emergency Relief Administration's $125,000,000, will go into every state, city and hamlet, to be followed by millions more until all employable persons on relief are at work—if Mr. Roosevelt's objective is gained.

CCC's $30,000,000 will be distributed to all sections. Fechner will spend his additional $570,000,000 in enlarging the emergency conservation program to accommodate at least 600,000 youths.

Indications were that Hopkins, secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, and Under-Secretary of Agriculture, Rexford Guy Tugwell would direct a major portion of the drive. Frank C. Walker, New York, former head of the National Emergency Council, has been mentioned as Mr. Roosevelt's personal co-ordinator of their agencies.

Hopkins is virtually assured of $1,480,000,000 to use in tapering off relief and establishing work projects That sum includes part of the $500,000,000 tentatively alloted to rural rehabilitation.

Ickes, administrator of the original $3,300,000,000 public works appropriation, is scheduled to supervise the $900,000,000 construction fund, the $450,000,000 for low-cost housing and $100,000,000 for rural electrification.

He will use, as a basis for federal financing of state, county and muncipal improvements, a recent survey of the whole country that revealed 130,000 projects that could be built at a total cost of $20,000,000,000.

Tugwell controls the bureau of public roads and in this capacity he is expected to supervise expenditure of the $800,000,000 earmarked for highways, roads and grade crossing elimination.

Tugwell and H. H. Bennett, as coordinators of erosion control activities, will administer a large sum, perhaps $80,000,000 for preventing dust storms.

The National Forest Reservation Commission, it was learned, will ask the president for $50,000,000 to $60,000,000 to buy land for addition to existing national forest purchase units.

More millions are sought by the forest service for continuation and expansion of its Canada-to-Texas tree shelter belt project. Planting already has started in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas. Reforestation work can provide jobs for 1,500,000 men, officials believed.

Relief will extend to wild life. The biological survey, under Jay N. (Ding) Darling, cartoonist and conservationist, "could use" $14,000,000 to $15,000,000 for acquisition and development for new game and waterfowl refugees and for improvement of existing bird sactuaries and wild life protection zones.

FHA LOANS

MAY BE OBTAINED FOR ELECTRIC WATER SYSTEMS IN RURAL HOMES

Robt. Jemison, Jr., F. H. A. State Director, Outlines Method of Securing Money for this Purpose

"Those who live in suburban and rural homes can now enjoy the comforts and conveniences of running water in kitchen, laundry, bath room, barns and outbuildings through loans made under regulations of the Federal Housing Administration," according to Robt. Jemison, Jr., F. H. A. State Director.

By securing such a loan, an Electric Water System may be installed immediately, and paid for over a period of from 1 to 3 years, Mr. Jemison pointed out.

"For many years people living in suburban and rural sections were handicapped by the lack of running water. Obtaining sufficient water for stock, and the ordinary purposes of life, by the old-fashioned well bucket, or by working the handle of a pump was a slow, tedious job. In case of a fire, it was impossible to get enough water by these methods to offer much protection.

"Now—thanks to electricity and loans made under regulations of the Federal Housing Administration — these antiquated ways of obtaining water no longer need be relied upon. F. H. A. loans are making it possible for many thousands of people living in Alabama to install electric pumps, and the necessary plumbing, to give their families every advantage of 'city water.'"

With Alabama's bargain-rate electricity, modern automatic Electric Water Pumps will bring water from any source of supply—lake, stream, spring, cistern, shallow or deep well—and maintain a constant pressure day and night for only a few cents a week.

Wilbur B. Nolen, F. H. A. Associate State Director and Chairman of the Advisory Committee of rural housing program, pointed out that the way to secure an F. H. A. loan is to apply to any bank, banker, building materials or hardware dealer in the city where the person lives who wishes to receive the loan.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

The teachers of vocational agriculture and home economics have launched a county clean-up campaign this week with rehabilitation clients particularly and with others who might be interested.

Last week we encountered a woman who, when confronted with our health program and her cooperation sought, said, "I've been studying health books all my life; I know how to keep my house clean; how to grow flowers in my yards and how to take care of my children, and I don't need nobody to come here to make me clean up. My baby even reads health books every night."

What this woman said may be true, but it isn't that we don't know every time. We simply need to be constantly reminded of the little things that we do know about health, as it pertains to keeping the community clean, keeping the home clean and most important of all keeping the body clean.

This week, in this campaign we are reminding you of those rules which when observed become habits which make for clean communities, clean homes and clean bodies.

The program for this week is as follows: Monday, home health day; aim, to take better care of body and home, beautification of plant flowers and paint where needed.

Tuesday—Community clean-up day; aim, to make the community more healthful by cleaning up the house inside and out. Outside—destroy all breeding places of flies, mosquitoes, rats and other disease breeding insects. Burn rubbish and trash, destroy old tin cans. Fix fences, wells and barns, steps, gates and chicken houses. In side — destroy breeding places of flies bed-bugs, roaches, mosquitoes and rats. Scrub up and wash up floors, beds, bedding and furniture.

Suggested remedies: 1. White wash fences, trees (shade and fruit trees), chicken houses, wells and smoke houses.

2. Put straw bedding in barns for the livestock.

3. Use kerosene or burnt motor oil for out houses and damp places to destroy insects and pests.

4. Bury tin cans and bottles that hold water.

5. Destroying bed bugs, use the following: 1 quart water, 1 quart lye solution, 1 pint kerosene, 1 cup gasoline, 1 pint sulphur solution. Method: Mix the material together in order given. Wash beds in the above mixture.

Farmers Enlightened

Five farmers, Ben Brown, E. H. Hatcher, Mose Anderson, Woodrow Gordon and W. Wallace accompanied the teacher of vocational agriculture on a trip to Auburn recently. It is gratifying to note the very favorable comments made by them. They expressed the desire of getting all the negroes of Chilton County to spend a day at Auburn.

Ben Brown, a veteran of many years, having established himself as a good farmer neighbor, business man and respected citizen, is an example to the younger farmers. Long live the veteran.

E. H. Hatcher is a very progressive farmer of Jemison. He lives at home and boards in the same place.

Mose Anderson is a good farmer of Verbena and is well known and well thought of in Verbena.

Woodrow Gordon is a young prospective land owner in the training school community. We are expecting great things of him in the future.

Wallace is a new comer who lives on the late K. N. Draper's place. He has chosen Ben Brown as his associate and we expect good things of him also.

We need more good farmers who are also good business managers.—Benj. Anderson.

F. F. A. Meets

The F. F. A. met April 3. After attending to the regular business, the following program was given:

"Screw Worms are Dangerous," by Woodrow Durbin.

"With Livestock and Chickens," by Andrew Jones. Information was obtained as to the time of infection of cattle by the screw worm, its harm, and the methods of control.

The value of livestock and chickens to the farmer as to a means of producing compost for fertilizer were emphasized. The program was given well and should be food for thought to all farm boys as it deals with present day problems on the farm and ranch. The earlier we learn to control the screw worm, the easier it can be done. The more compost we use as fertilizers, the better grows our farm, and the cheaper our fertilizer bills.

The League will pay all expenses incident to her attendance.

The Child welfare league of America is regarded as the outstanding joint agency for promoting the welfare of children that exist on the North American continent if not in the entire world. In addition to being a member of the executive committee which has a personnel of five members chosen from throughout the nation, Mrs. Tunstall is also a member of the board of directors of the league. University News

University, Ala.—Dr. George H. Denny, now completing his twenty-third year as president of the University of Alabama, stopped rumors that he would resign precipitately this week. At a mass meeting marked by tremendous enthusiasm on the part of 4,000 students for the grey-headed president, Dr. Denny said:

"I have always made it clear that my resignation, whenever it was submitted, was to be effective only after my successor had been actually installed. I have no purpose whatever of acting precipitately. I have every desire to serve the highest and best interest of the institution which we all love and which I have striven to serve in high and useful ways."

Holtville High School of Deatsville, emerged victorious from the finals of the Alabama High School Debating League in the division for towns of less than 10,000 population. The members of the team who will receive year-scholarships to the University are A. C. Allen, Ladie Frances Waites, Glenn Curlee, and Gertrude Thornhill. Mrs. J. B. Graves is coach of the team.

Holtville will meet the winners of the city division of the tournament Saturday night for the state championship.

Russell K. Branscom, Houston, Tex., was awarded the interfraternity trophy for distinguished service, considered one of the two or three highest undergraduate awards given at the University. Branscom has never made a grade lower than "A" in his college career, has been very active in student government, and has served as president of two or three outstanding organizations on the campus.

Alabama's baseball team opened its annual schedule with a 10-3 victory over Georgia Tech, as a part of the annual "A" day festivities. Lee Rogers, stellar southpaw, was in excellent form for the day, while Chick Bouska was the hitting star of the day with three out of four trials.

Mr. James A. Anderson, one of the state's leading historians sold the actual story of General Croxton's federal raid on Tuscaloosa during which he burned the University. Mr. Anderson, who gathered his information from existing documents of the time and eye-witnesses of the event, related the incident before the Kiwanis Club of Tuscaloosa and a gathering of Confederate veterans and Daughters of the Confederacy, in commemoration of the 70th anniversary of the raid.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Will you please give me space to express our many thanks to our neighbors and friends who so willingly helped in tearing down and repairing my house. I feel my work is done. I can't repay what has been done for me. All I can do is to ask the Lord to bless each one and send help to them in time of need. Not only now do I thank them, but for the past four years for the help and company my friends and neighbors have been to me, that helped me so much to pass the long hours. They seem so long when we can't work. May the Lord bless the ones that have come in the dark hours of the night to help my daughter with me. Word cannot express our thanks to each of you. I ask that the Lord may bless each of you with health and strength and that each one may be cared for in time of need.—W. Q. Childress and Daughter.

SLASH PINE DISTINCT SPECIES

Montgomery, Ala.—The slash pine so often mentioned in connection with pulpwood possibilities in the South is a separate species, according to Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester, of Alabama. "From its common name, many people have gained the impression that slash pine signifies almost any species that reoccupes old cuttings or slashings," observes Colonel Bunker. "However, this tree enjoys the somewhat unique distinction of having a name which local people have rarely applied to other species. With many trees, this is not the case. Quite generally any pine that restocks old fields is called old field pine. Loblolly pine and shortleaf pine both fall in this category. Similarly, overgrown loblolly pine and shortleaf pine are both called Rosemary pine. Slash pine, however, is a term almost uniformly applied to a single species known to botanists and foresters as pinus caribaea.

"While foresters and botanists are sometimes apt to chide woodsmen and farmers for applying so many local common names to the same tree, they themselves are not always above this fault. Scientific names are devised to render definite the designation of any particular tree. However, the slash pine has been given various names by botanists. Grisebach named the tree pinus bahamensis in 1864, Engleman called it pinus elliottii in 1880, Sargent designated it pinus cubensis in 1884, Sudworth named it pinus heterophylla in 1893 and Rowley termed it pinus recurvata in 1903. On the other hand, this tree had been described by Morelet as pinus caribaea in 1851, and under the priority rules of botanical nomenclature this is the correct name. In fairness to the other botanists, however, it is to be noted that in some cases the names given by them were applied to varieties or strains of the slash pine which they regarded as new species but which hardly have been established as such."

Mrs. Hattie M. Gerald

"Her children rise up and call her blessed."

I have been asked to write something of Mrs. Gerald's life and influence in our community. I have been especially impressed with the thought of her place in the educational life of Thorsby.

Thirty years ago her husband was very active among those who combined to establish Thorsby Institute. The women who were interested associated themselves together in the Ladies Guild, through which they have rendered a service to the community which cannot be measured. Mrs. Gerald was one of the charter members of that organization and has been its president for much of the time since then. After her husband's death she was elected to succeed him as a member of the board of trustees of Thorsby Institute, the first woman to have a place on that board. She has been an influential member, and a faithful one, of that board, and at the time of her death was its secretary. Almost her last conscious act was to request one of her daughters to send out in her name the notices of the meeting of the board to be held this week.

But chiefly have I been thinking of Mrs. Gerald's ambition for her own children in the matter of education. Many years ago when Thorsby Institute was awarding some prizes, attention was called to the fact that a large proportion of the honors were going to the children of widows. I recalled that incident at the funeral of Mrs. Gerald last week. When she became a widow, more than a quarter of a century ago, she was the mother of seven children, all of them under age, the youngest born after her husband's death. How may we measure the courage with which that widowed mother faced her future? Only a few years after her husband's death, a much diminished income made it necessary for her to become a wage earner, and she spent five years in the public school room. During those years, her oldest daughter, Thora, who had been a brilliant student in Thorsby Institute, became an invalid, and, after a lengthy illness, passed away. Of the six children who survive their mother, all have had college training, and five of them bear college degrees. That is a record of which any mother's children may well be proud.—E. W. Butler.

Mrs. Dorminey Buried Sunday

Mrs. Hattie Lera Dorminey, age 73, widow of the late Thomas J. Dorminey, former commissioner, died last Saturday at the family home at Union Grove. Burial was at Union Grove cemetery Sunday with Martin in charge. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. S. J. Ezell and Rev. R. M. Honeycutt.

The Story of the Bible Told in Pictures

The Crucifixion.—"And they crucified Him, and parted his garments, casting lots: that it might be fulfilled which was spoken by the prophet, they parted my garments among them, and upon my vesture did they cast lots. And sitting down they watched Him there: And set up over His head His accusation written, THIS IS JESUS THE KING OF THE JEWS. Then were there two thieves crucified with Him; one on the right hand, and another on the left. And they that passed by reviled Him, wagging their heads, and saying, Thou that destroyest the temple, and buildest it in three days, save Thyself. If Thou be the Son of God, come down from the cross. Likewise also the chief priests mocking Him, with the scribes and elders, said, He saved others; Himself He cannot save. If He be the King of Israel, let Him now come down from the cross, and we will believe Him. The first three Gospels record that following the crucifixion there was darkness over all the land and the veil of the temple was rent. "And about the ninth hour, Jesus cried with a loud voice, saying, Eli, Eli, lama sabachthani? that is to say, My God, My God, why hast Thou forsaken me?"—Matt 27: 46. This illustration is from Merian's story of the Bible in pictures, engraved in 1625-1630.

SINGING AT BETHANY

The singing society met on last Sunday afternoon. On account of unfavorable weather, the crowd was a little small, but we had a real good singing.

The opening song was led by the chairman, Mr. J. W. Devaughn. Prayer was offered by Rev. T. W. Billingsley.

Directors for the afternoon were as follows: R. M. Brigance, Marvin Huett, Orbie Devaughn, Huff Burkhalter, L. B. Williams, A. P. Williams, Marshall Burkhalter, J. M. Williams and I. D. Huett. Two quartets were sung by the Burkhalter family quartet. Organists for the afternoon were: Prof. C. M. Billingsley and Mrs. J. M. Williams.

We cordially invite each and everyone to come and enjoy the singing with us on each first Sunday afternoon.

SINGING AT SHILOH

The Chilton County singing convention in the Harp and Harmony will be held at Shiloh church the first Sunday and Saturday before in May, eight miles southwest of Clanton, near Kincheon. We invite all singers to come and be with us and bring a well filled basket.—W. B. Cooper, chairman.

CAKE WALK AT HAYNES

The 4-H club is giving a cake walk at the Haynes-Vida Schoolhouse on Saturday night, April 13. Ice cream will be sold. We are expecting a large chrowd and are planning entertainment such as stunts, games nad music for them. Be sure to come and get your share.

VERMONT SCHOOL

Our P.-T. A. was scheduled to meet last night, Wednesday, after having been postponed to give the program committee ample time to arrange for the exercises. A full report of the meeting will be given in next week's issue of the county papers.

A brisk review is now in order by the student body in their final preparation for examinations next week.

The Jr. III class have begun the preparing of their respective parts for the graduation exercises which will be presented Friday night, April 19. The prinicpal speaker for the occasion will be announced later. The graduating program will be combined with the sixth grade exercises, who also will receive their diplomas.

To Miss Francis Kendrick of the Jr. III class, and to little Myrtle Lee Smith, of the sixth grade goes the honor of being selected class valedictorian for their respective classes. They will deliver the valedictory addresses on the above occasion. Their average grade for the entire session was A.

Those students who have been forced out of school on the account of illness, work, etc., are requested to be present next week and take all examinations. This will have to be done, or else they will be compelled to take an entry examination at the beginning of school next year. The former method is much more to the child's advantage. Hence, our insistence that they come and take the tests at this particular time.

The entire school will go on a picnic Saturday, April 20. Plans are already being shaped to make the day one of great merriment. A number of parents are planning to go as well as the entire faculty. The exact location has not been yet definitely settled upon, but you can rest assured that it will be one favorable to the safety and the enjoyment of the large group of youngsters.

Mr. Johnson and Miss Cagle were in Clanton last Saturday, meeting with a group of the other county teachers, who were arranging the county examinations for the sixth and ninth grades.

We notice on casual observation that everyone of the trees, which were set out on our campus recently are living.

The elementary teachers carried their pupils out through the deep forests a few days ago on a study of nature. Many kinds of rocks, flowers birds, and trees, were observed and discussed.

The boys closed out their athletic activities two weeks ago by losing a hard fought game to the Stanton basketeers. Considering their inexperience, size, etc., they made fairly successful progress as the season moved along.

Their record of 3 victories against 8 losses would not seem very impressive, but the fact must be taken into consideration that not any of them had ever played in regular match games until this season. Most of them knew little or nothing about the technique of the game with no skill whatever in handling a basketball; thus we see odds were against them from the outset as they were pitted against teams all of which were older on the average and with several years experience in the art of pass work, team work, signals, drills, dribbling, shooting, etc. Mind you, watch these Vermont lads a year or two from now. With the exception of two, they all have three more years to play for this school.

Mr. Ezra Turner, a former student of our school, returned from Tennessee last week. He has been stationed at one of the CCC camps for the past several months. Upon a visit to our school last week he spoke before several of the classes about the conservation work being sponsored by our government.

POOR O

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

EXPERT ADVOCATES SORGHUM FOR SILALGE

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers should make their plans now for growing a sufficient crop of sorghum to cut late next summer and store in trench silos says F. W. Burns, extension animal husbandman.

Silage has long been recognized as one of the cheapest and best sources of home-grown roughage for both beef and dairy cattle during the winter.

Though it is best planted during the first half of May, Mr. Burns urges that farmers now designate and prepare a suitable area of bottom land for the growing of this crop.

Of fundamental importance in growing sorghum is the quality of seed. Much difficulty in recent years has been caused by inferior seed, he added.

Gooseneck sorghum, sometimes called Texas seeded ribbon cane, is the variety recommended. This variety will produce larger yields than corn and is almost equal in feeding value. In addition, it is to be remembered that three tons of ensilage are equal in feeding value to one ton of the best legume hay. Also, said Mr. Burns, 10 to 15 tons of sorghum per acre may be grown on rich bottom land, whereas not more than one ton of legume hay can be produced on one acre.

Another advantage of growing sorghum for ensilage is that danger of spoilage by adverse weather conditions is avoided. The sorghum, while green, is cut, run through the silage cutter, and stored in trench silos (or those other types) for winter use.

Detailed information on this crop is available at the offices of county agents.

"LEND ME YOUR EAR!"

—says Reddy Kilowatt, "and let me tell you some more of the things people are writing my Company about. Here are three letters I've just received, from Mr. P. B. Trent, Jr., of Roanoke; Mrs. Velma Eiland, of Phenix City; and Mr. Douglas C. Harris, of Mobile. Read them!"

Your objective of getting 85 per cent of your customers using more electricity so that everybody can get electricity even cheaper than the astonishingly low rate at which they now buy it marks you as one of the progressive businesses of this State. I have nothing but admiration for any such organization, and you can count on me as a booster for increased use of electricity for cooking, water heating, etc.
Very truly yours,
P. B. Trent Jr.
Roanoke, Ala.

I have just read about the further reduction in your rates. I don't see how you can keep cutting with everything else going up. With electricity as cheap as it is in Alabama, it seems like everybody would use it in abundance.
Very truly yours,
Mrs. Velma Eiland
Phenix City, Ala.

It almost seems that every time I pick up a paper, I see where the Alabama Power Company has cut its electric rates again. Surely everybody should be cooking, heating water and refrigerating electrically soon.
Very truly yours,
Douglas C. Harris
Mobile, Ala.

Lesson for April 14

CHRIST THE SAVIOUR

LESSON TEXT—John 3:14-17; Romans 5:6-10; Philippians 2:5-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life. John 3:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why Jesus Came.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus the Saviour.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What It Means to Be Saved.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Christ Saves Us.

It is not feasible to consider all the texts proposed by the lesson committee, but it is desirable to select the three suggested to be printed and to introduce several others.

I. The Saviour Predicted (Gen. 3:15; Isa. 9:6, 7).

In connection with the fall of man and consequent pronouncement of judgment upon the woman, the man and the serpent, and the announcement of the undying enmity which was to exist between the seed of the woman and the seed of the serpent, ultimate victory was predicted of the woman's seed. On the cross of Calvary the stroke was made which imposed the death sentence (John 12:31; Heb. 2:14). In due time the unlawful ruler of the world will be displayed by the coming of the king and the establishment of a universal and everlasting kingdom.

II. The Saviour Born (Luke 2:11, 30, 32).

That which had been predicted was historically fulfilled in the birth of Jesus Christ in Bethlehem. When Jesus was brought to the temple as a child the Holy Ghost revealed to Simeon that Jesus was the Messiah.

III. The Saviour Described.

1. A seeker of the lost (Luke 15:3-7). This seeking of the lost is illustrated by the man leaving the ninety and nine sheep and going after the one which was lost, and his rejoicing over his success in finding it. Great, indeed, is the joy in heaven over the salvation of a lost soul.

2. He died for the lost (John 3:14-17). God gave Jesus Christ to die to make an atonement for the sins of the world. As the brazen serpent was lifted up in the wilderness by Moses, so Jesus Christ was lifted up on the cross. As the Israelites only needed to look at the uplifted serpent, so the lost soul needs only to look to the crucified Christ for salvation. All who believe on him as their Saviour receive eternal life and, therefore, escape condemnation.

3. He knows his own (John 10:14). The good Shepherd has a definite knowledge of the lost ones. He therefore seeks them out and gives his life for them.

4. He keeps his own (John 10:27-29). Believers are Christ's sheep, and because they are his sheep, they hear his voice and follow him. He not only knows them personally, but they, in turn, know him. He not only gives unto them eternal life, but holds them in his omnipotent hands.

IV. Some Blessings Received Through the Saviour.

1. Justification (Rom. 5:1-11). The one who receives Jesus Christ is by the living God declared righteous. His guilt is removed and he is given the same standing as Jesus Christ himself. Because of this, the very peace of God settles down upon his soul. He has the assurance of God's love and is able, therefore, to have joy in God himself.

2. Freedom from the power of sin (Rom. 6:1-7). It is not enough to be freed from the guilt of sin, there must be a dynamic which will enable the believer to live a life of victory over sin. Being vitally united to Jesus Christ in the power of his resurrection life, the dynamic is provided which enables the believer to triumph over sin.

3. He is free from the law as a means of sanctification (Rom. 7:1-6). Christ's death nailed the law to the tree. The one who has been vitally united to Jesus Christ by faith died with Christ. The law, therefore, has no more dominion over him.

4. Victory over the flesh through the indwelling Holy Spirit (Rom. 8:2-6). The introduction of the law of the spirit of the life in Christ Jesus enables the believer to free himself from the dominion of the flesh.

5. Christ is the supreme example to the believer (Phil. 2:5-11). Because the Saviour became incorporated with the race through the incarnation he is able to impart life to those with whom he is identified. Furthermore, because he thus imparts life, the believer is able to make the Saviour his grand exemplar.

The World's Three Evils

The three great evils of the world are impurity, inequality, and hopelessness. The world doesn't know the character of God, therefore it is unclean. The world does not know the love of God and therefore men are not brothers. The world does not know the life of God, therefore men despair alike of the present and the future.

Goes Deeper

Religion doth not prescribe nor is satisfied with such courtesy as goes no deeper than words and gestures.

"No more tired, let-down feeling for me"

"I reasoned that my red blood corpuscle strength was low and I simply took a course of S.S.S. Tonic and built it back."

IT is all so simple and reasonable. If your physical let-down is caused by lowered red blood corpuscles—which is all too frequent—then S.S.S Tonic is waiting to help you... and will, unless you have a serious organic trouble that demands a physician or surgeon.

Remember, S.S.S is not just a so-called "tonic." It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate the gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying red corpuscles in the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone... if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetizing food... sound sleep ... steady nerves... a good complexion ... and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the upload today. © S.S.S. Co.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala., April 10.—While the thoughts of most sportsmen turn to fishing in the spring, Game Commissioner reminds that this season also is very important from a game standpoint.

"It might be well for the sportsman to remember that this is the season of the year when game birds and animals mate and raise their young," said the commissioner. "A favorable season means large, healthy broods and plenty of game for next fall. An unfavorable season means poor shooting when the next hunting season rolls around.

"The farmer especially can help during this important period by leaving as much suitable nesting cover as possible on the ground. For best results the nesting cover should be as evenly distributed over the land as possible. And if grass must be burned it should be done early so that new growth will be tall enough to furnish nesting cover when the birds nest."

Commissioner Quinn urged that the sportsmen be constantly on the alert for predators and stated that much can be contributed toward good hunting next fall by a determined campaign to exterminate these pests.

COSTLY TO NEGLECT COWS ON PASTURE, WARNS ARENDS

If any man who milks cows were to stand out in front of his place day after day and throw away dollar bills, he would soon be seized and held for observation. Crazy as that sounds, it's no more unreasonable than the deliberate practice of throwing away costly cow flesh every year—as many a sane, intelligent cow owner persists in doing when pastures come in, according to W. R. Arends, noted dairy advisor and staff member of the Purina Mills' dairy department.

"There's nothing like fresh green grass," Arends says, "to stimulate milk flow. And there's nothing like grass to 'shoot the middle' out of good cows when nothing else is fed with it. The man who turns his cows out on pasture, no matter how good it is, to let them get what they can out of it, may think he's making cheap milk on grass alone. But he's not—he's making that milk with grass plus cow flesh—a most expensive way of doing the job.

"That's not just one man's opinion. It is the voice of time-tested experience, the proven record of long scientific research. To quote one of many statements from Henry and Morrison, America's leading publication on Feeds and Feeding:

"'The proper feeding of milk cows on pasture is much simpler than during the winter,' says Henry and Morrison, 'and doubtless this is the reason that so many farmers, busy with their crops, fail to give their herd the necessary attention in summer. Often the cows are merely turned to pasture after milking at night and in the morning with no further thought as to the supply of feed actually available for them. It is then no wonder that when the pasturage becomes scanty in midsummer, the cows run down in flesh and fall off severely in yield of milk. Even if fed liberally when barn feeding starts in the fall, quite commonly they cannot then be brought back to their usual production.'

Neglect Is Costly

"From the time cows go on pasture they should be fed a supplementary ration," says Arends. "For grass, no matter how good it is, takes more from the cow than it puts back into her system. Its juicy green freshness and succulence at first stimulate the cow to pour out the milk in more than normal abundance. Since grass, which is 80% water, cannot furnish all the milk-making materials for the extra heavy production it causes, the cow naturally is forced to draw on her own body to make up the deficiency. This continued withdrawal and lack of sufficient replacement material leads to the inevitable milk slump and falling off in body weight which comes later in the season—a condition which is hastened along faster by the natural decline in available pasture. When these things happen the man behind the cows discovers that the feed cost of rebuilding flesh and milk yield runs into way more money than he would have had to spend to keep the cows on a balanced, body-sustaining, supplementary ration right from the start.

"A feed to be effective in holding up milk and body weight through spring and summer must obviously be reinforced in mineral to keep a cow from drawing on her body for calcium caused by heavy milking stimulated by green pasture. It must also be highly concentrated to insure a cow getting plenty of nutrients, even in small quantities, since cows do not take readily to grain with succulent pasture available. A third requirement for such a feed is the proper blending of its ingredients to counteract the laxative condition of pasture for better health and fitness of the cows. And it is equally essential that the cost of feeding should be reasonable.

"All of these requirements are to be found in Body Cow Chow, a pasture supplement measuring fully up to these essentials and introduced last spring to the dairy world. Developed only after much research and experimentation, Body Cow Chow was accepted enthusiastically by dairymen, both large and small. Its ability to hold up flesh and hold up production was verified over and over again before the end of the pasture season."

Here is a lesson for those European nations: Finland is the only nation which paid us what she owed us; and Finland is the only one of th deebtor nations who doesn't seem in danger of getting into war. The moral is that it pays to be honest and settle your debts.

An astronomer, studying the moon, has concluded that eventually a single day will be as long as a month is now. It's not very pleasant to look forward to the day when the month's bills come in every morning's mail.

As between "mere politicians", mere professors, mere bankers, and mere manufacturers, there may not be much to choose. To be broadly useful, any man must rise above his own business.

Someone said the other day that the situation in Europe was so bad that even Santa Claus couldn't settle it. Well, we hope he won't try it anyhow. Uncle Sam has all he can do right here in the United States.

Senator Copeland of New York is quite right in claiming that there is nothing in the proposed appropriation of $4,880,000,000 for public works to help the millions of white collar workers, stenographers, teachers, clerks of all kinds, men and women, who are out of jobs, and of course, cant handle a pick and a shovel. The billions wouldn't help them at all.

But is Senator Copeland sure that the purpose of the administration is really one of employment or one of promoting government competition with private business and thereby throwing more people out of work in private business?

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

For the time being the attention of a great many of our people pay to public affairs has switched from the United States to Europe. The reason, of course, is the dramatic announcement of Chancellor Hitler of Germany that his country will disregard certain provisions of the Versailles treaty and assume such armaments as it thinks it needs. The announcement came as a surprise to many people, though there have been evidences of its imminence for many months. Opinion is still divided, even among the alleged experts, as to what is going to happen.

The case of the trouble, it is evident, is of long standing. At the close of the World War, Germany was disarmed and the Versailles treaty contained certain provisions that the allied nations would disarm accordingly so that danger of war would become less probable. There have been repeated conferences for disarmament but none of them have done any good. The Germans say that they are now arming because the allies have failed to keep their promise about disarmament, and that the allies therefore violated the treaty first. The allied statesmen declare that they have been unable to disarm safely because Germany has been secretly arming all the time.

There are the two excuses. Wherever the real truth lies it is evident that the World War has failed in one major purpose of making wars unlikely in the future. All of the warring nations, excepting possibly Germany, are now more heavily armed than at the conclusion of peace seventeen years ago, and if Hitler carries out his declared purpose, Germany will soon be more heavily armed, too.

The chief question of Americans seems to be, "Just where does this leave us?" It is to be sincerely hoped that it leaves us 3,000 miles away and that we will stay that far away. Nothing has been more noteworthy in America since the European crisis arose than the apparent unanimity of the opinion that we should keep out of the mess. This opinion seems to pervade nearly every circle. Even some of those who fought lustily for our membership in the League Court are now just as lustily saying that we ought to keep out of Europe now. They fail to tell us how much easier it is to keep out because we are not in—through the League or its court.

Of course there is much reason for this opinion and the change over seventeen years. Then we were a lusty, fairly properous nation which knew little about Europe and its poker playing politicians. We thought we were embarking on some glorious adventure, fighting to make the world safe for democracy and to end all wars. We—that is nearly all of us—knew nothing about the cold blooded secret treaties the allies had made in advance dividing up the booty. But now all that innocence has gone. It is a little difficult to get up any enthusiasm about fighting for democracy when we vision such autocrats as Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini and Pilsudski. Neither do we feel like peeling layers off the old bank roll (if any) and giving till it hurts when we know that most of our associates in war have welched on what they already owe us. Then we have seen the division of spoils, the selfish nationalism on every side, and we have heard ourselves called shylocks although we cut the debt in two and didn't take a dollar in indemnity or an acre in territory as a share of the booty because we didn't fight for booty. Instead of winning a reputation for ethics we gained one for idiotics.

There is small wonder therefore that there is little enthusiasm in America for another European adventure. Of course the propaganda may come later if the internationalists want us in Europe because they have the money and can hire the brains to prepare the propaganda. But they certainly will have to get some new slogans.

THE REAL ISSUE

One point in the case against John Strachey, British author and lecturer, which some people seem to be overlooking, especially those who claim to be his friends and sympathizers, is that the present controversy it not one involving free speech or the British political affiliations of Mr. Strachey, but whether or not the British lecturer has been guilty of violating the law of the United States. United States immigration authorities are of the opinion that he has disobeyed the law and his deportation is sought for that reason.

It is to be remembered that the United States was kind enough or foolish enough, as the case may be, to admit Mr. Strachey for a lecture tour of the country. Mr. Strachey must be familiar with our law making it illegal for an alien to edvocate subversive doctrines in the United States. Yet, in spite of this, the Briton, it is charged, dispenses propaganda tending to aid in the overthrow of modern society with a consequently injurious effect against the government which was generous enough to receive Mr. Strachey as a guest. For that reason, if he is guilty of the things charged against him, he should be summarily ejected and told to go to Russia to try out his theories on the dog.

The law, it will be recalled, prohibits the preaching not only of communist doctrine by aliens, but of propaganda tending to a similar program. Constitutional guaranties of free speech in America—something unknown in the country where communism has sway—are for citizens and not for aliens.

Rev. Edmund A. Walsh, regent of the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service at Washington, D. C., properly called attention to some of these facts recently when he said:

"It would seem that the immigration authorities have no discretion in the matter. That is the lay of the land, whatever opinion one may hold as to its wisdom or expediency. The issue should not be complicated by broad considerations of an irrelevant nature, such as freedom of speech.

"That constitutional guarantee, it should be stated in passing, may be invoked only by a citizen of the United States. Its benefits do not extend to aliens whose status and conduct are regulated by other statutes to which they are obliged to conform unless exempted by international law or treaty provisions. The privilege of agitating for a change in the form of our government is a prerogative reserved to citizens under the jurisdiction of the United States."

LET US KEEP OUT

In view of the alarming reports which have come from Europe the last few days relative to Chancellor Hitler's announcement that Germany will rearm, it is highly gratifying to note the absence of suggestions in this country that the United States ought to mix in a mess of this kind. Perhaps some of our more rabid internationalists are in favor of mixing but up to this time they have been concealing their feelings rather carefully. It is one thing of course to criticize individually what Europe may be doing, but quite another thing to suggest that the United States ought to take a hand in it. There have been a number of statements by prominent Americans on the suituation and it is good to know that the most of them have been clear sighted and have emphasized the point that Uncle Sam ought to stay at home.

In expressing the opinion that there will be no war in Europe now, former Secretary of the Treasury Kellogg, author of the Kellogg Pact, declared, "I don't believe that the nations of Europe are entirely free from blame in this situation. In the Versailles Treaty they pledged themselves to disarm. If any of them have done so I do not recall which and when." There certainly can be no question of the truth of this statement.

In commenting on the situation, Bainbridge Colby, who was secretary of state under Woodrow Wilson and who should know something about international affairs declared:

"I think there is but one thought throughout this country.

"Careful abstention from all involvement in the situation is the duty and interest of America. We should refrain from any participation in it, even from its official discussion, at least to an extent or in a manner that could give rise to confusion as to our entire aloofness from the situation or any train of incidents that may form a part of it."

Here are significant statements from two former American secretaries of state, from diplomats who represented two administrations of different political faiths. Certainly we ought to pay attention to what they say especially as each has had experience in international affairs.

The American people are hopeful that there will be no war in Europe now. If America keeps out of the muddle there will certainly be not much of a war. What they need most includes our men and our money. And let us remember that they haven't paid us what they borrowed for the last war.

HIGH COST OF GOVERNMENT

The best way to measure the burden of taxation is to relate it to the national income. The amount of tax the nation pays is principally important in the light of the money we have out of which to do the paying.

In 1922, the nation's income was over $69,000,000,000, and taxes took over $7,200,000,000—ten per cent. During the ensuing years, that percentage was relatively constant and in our peak income year, 1929, cost of government absorbed but 11.8 per cent of our income.

In 1930 our income dropped to $70,000,000,000, from the high of $83,000,000,000 established the year before, while taxes rose and took 14.6 per cent of all the money we earned. In 1932, taxes took 20.7 per cent. Conclusive figures for the years since are not available—but best opinion holds that government costs amount to more than 25 per cent of the national income.

What this means is that government has utterly failed in adjusting its finances to fit current economic conditions. Every business and every individual has had to do that during the depression—they have pruned budgets, cut out luxuries and made income and outgo balance. Government has continued to spend more and more—and the results are unemployment, delayed recovery.

It is true that government must make certain extraordinary expenditures in bad times, in order to aid the unfortunate. But a small proportion of total governmental costs is used for such purposes—and "relief" is no alibi for government extravagance and experiments. Necessary governmental functions must be maintained, but the frills must be eliminated.

An eye specialist lecturing in Boston is quoted as saying that flirting is good for the eyes. Don't know about that. We know of some fellows who have got black ones by practicing flirting at an inopportune time.

Man In The Moon

"WHITE", "PINK" AND "RED"

Some time ago I had an article in this column concerning America's recognition of Soviet Russia, and the dangers that attend it. Since then I have talked about the matter with lots of people who were quite interested and wanted to know more about it. So, I have gathered together an array of facts and figures from conditions as they exist in Soviet Russia, together with other facts that concern our own national government. The close connection of the two heads of government is enough to arouse the fear and indignation of every liberty-loving American citizen. The similarity of plans by which the two are being guided is quite amazing to anyone who has not made a study of it.

First, I shall give a short history of the manner in which the Soviet government in Russia was established. In this I shall quote a few of their mandates, and set out a few of their aims, just as they have been voiced by their own spokesman. Then I will give reports on the reaults that this form of government has brought about.

Second, I shall point out to you the different of the American President's advisory board—"the brain trust", if you please—and show what connection they have with Communism and with the very Soviet heads themselves. I shall point out measures that these gentlemen have "railroaded" through, which tend toward making of the United States of America another nation not unlike the United States of Soviet Russia. I will bring out the folly of recognition of Russia for the reason that President Roosevelt gave for so doing. Then you may judge for yourself if you want to be ruled by a Communistic government. And you may better be able to judge just how close we may be to that form of government. The facts and figures I give are authentic—you need never doubt them. Some of the statements may be so startling that some may not believe them, but this is only another reason that Americans should be on their guard, and up and doing, to protect our land from the same fate that has befallen dark Russia. And for anyone who doubts, I have ample proof—just ask for it. The quotations I give are from officials, and from unimpeachable sources.

The Soviet government of Russia is run by the "proletariat". This group is made up of the poorest and most illiterate class of people to be found in the country. Just after the World War, this class came into power by revolution. So secretly had their plans been laid, and so well had they been guarded, that officials of the old order of government had no inkling of them until thousands and thousands of these peasants were at the gates of the capital city of Moscow. It was too late to do anything then but try to escape death, which very few of them managed to do. These peasants had no property, and were without the knowledge or ability to acquire any. You can imagine about how capable they might be at running the governmental affairs of the nation. To begin with, their first ditator set out their first basic rule, as follows:

"The dictatorship of the proletariat is nothing else than power based upon force, and limited by nothing—by no kind of law, and by absolutely no rule".

In other words they proposed to have no set of laws, but to make for themselves a law to fit every individual case, as it came up, and this law to be based on power absolutely. For example, if the government needed a man's mule for something, they took it, and that's all there was to it—he had no recourse to law, and no way of defending himself. And if he had much to say about it, he could be regarded as a rebel, put before a firing squad and shot. This is a fair example of the workings of Soviet "justice", and affairs of this kind and worse happened daily.

Naturally, this form of government did not meet with the approval of even the very people who had a hand in setting it up. So, hundreds have been shot for "grumbling against governmental authority". On top of all this, when harvest time came, the government sent portions of the army out to have the grain shipped in to the government storehouses. The government keeps an enormous army on hand at all times to maintain "order"—remember, theirs is a government "by power" and force. These soldiers took the farmers' grain and sent it in, leaving the poor fellows nothing to keep themselves and their families alive, in case they were allowed to stay with their families. Some of them tried to keep a little hidden back to stave off starvation, and were shot for their trouble. The reason the government gave for taking in all this grain was that they might sell it in foreign markets and so get money. (I want you to remember this, as I will refer to it later). This is the only way the Soviet government has for getting money. They cannot depend on taxes, as no one owns anything except by special permit of the government, and you can be assured that these government heads keep the property-owning privilege pretty well sewed up, and the taxes wouldn't go far. As a result of this, something near ten million people starve to death in Russia every year. In 1933, about ten million starved, and that same year the Russian government sold and shipped out of the country about seventy millions bushels of grain.

As to the aims of the Soviet, they aspire to Communize every nation in the world, particularly the United States of America. Read these proclamations—the first from the Soviet congress:

"We proclaim openly that our design can only be realized by the violent overthrow of the entire traditional order".

The second is by Stalin the Russian dictator, in an address to American Communists:

"The American Communist party must be improved and bolshevized. We must work to forge real revolutionary measures and a revolutoinary leadership of the proletariat, capable of leading the many millions of the American working class toward revolution".

Another one of the basic "edicts" of the Soviet reads as follows:

"The dictatorship of the proletariat may enter into any negotiations with any nation, making any promise whereby we may help our cause and work out our plans, without any intention of keeping such promises, whatsoever. It will be considered that we must do everything possible toward carrying out our plan of Communizing the world".

That, in short, sets out the form of government Russia has, the results they are getting, their aims toward the rest of the world, and especially our own country. Now, let's come home, and look into our own set-up. These statements are authentic, and well-founded, too.

When Mr. Roosevelt first came to the White House, the very first thing he asked our duly elected congressmen to do was to step out of the way, that he might have full sway in trying out his experiments. He must have had an idea that these congressmen might block some of his dream plans.

After he had appointed his cabinet, he then picked his special advisory board—the "brain trust"—who have first call over the members of the cabinet. In fact, these members help frame the president's measures—they advise him what to do, rather than the cabinet. Shortly after taking office, the president himself said that no one could expect over 75 per cent of his plans to work out, and that when one plan failed he would try another. What a policy! What a system! Would that even 50 per cent of them had worked—how much better off the country might have been!

With the bothersome congress out of the way, and himself a virtual dictator more powerful than any Soviet ever dared dream of, let's see just what kind of an advisory board he called in. To begin with, his doing away with the congress was a red-letter page, right out of the Soviet book of instructions.

Prof. Raymond Moley, a professor of political science and economics at Columbia University, was the first. His aim, according to his own words, was:

"To make over the administrative branch of government, and reorganize the economic order. We are coming to develop ideas and policies wholly outside our representative system. Legislatures will then become mere rubber stamps to pass the measures".

Imagine that! To develop policies WHOLLY OUTSIDE OUR REPRESENTATIVE SYSTEM OF GOVERNMENT! In plain words the people must have nothing to say about their government—let the 'intellectuals" do that! As perfect a "Red" Communist policy as could possibly be imagined. And the fact that he has followed that trend of thought in all his advice is unquestioned—it is common knowledge. In fact, it was his idea, in the beginning, that the members of congress abdicate their powers to the president.

Next in order came Mordecai Ezekiel, a Jew, who came with this idea in mind, according to his own words:

"I have made a careful study of the Russian farm plan, and I believe that a similar one could be put into effect in the United States—at least, similar in all its basic features."

He was quite candid about it. Didn't even try to hide the fact that he was copying the Soviets. Imagine placing a Jew in an agricultural department, too. Not that Jews are not good people. In fact some of the best of America's people are Jews. But Jews are not farmers, and their opinions and ideas in regard to farmers' problems are not worth much. Placing a Jew in an agricultural position is about like entering a camel in a beauty contest. Yet, knowledge or no knowledge, Soviet or no Soviet, Mr. Roosevelt, the head of a democracy, took him in, hook, line and sinker. I don't think we need try to prove the Russian features in our farm program. I believe any farmer will agree that he must raise just what someone else tells him he can raise. I believe farmers are on to the farm set-up as it is working at the present. And I just wonder what per cent of them are satisfied with it. It is a pretty good copy of the "Red" system. It is, at least, a fair shade of pink, any way.

When the farm program first went into effect, Mr. Ezekiel addressed a great gathering of farmers, to explain the workings of it. During his address he was explaining the relation of supply and demand, and changes in prices which might attend such, and he made the following statement, among others:

"The value of the constant (K) in this equation varies according to the units in which the different variables are expressed. The variable X (10) represents the price index, so moving the regression value for that varible to the left of the equality sign gives the regression equation for the prices deflated according to the observed relation".

Did any one of you ever rub an eye over a more elaborate explanation? I feel sure all of those thousands of dirt farmers went home happy that night, knowing that his worries were at an end, since he had the plan explained to him so clearly.

Next, we'll take Prof. Rexford G. Tugwell, another avowed Socialist-Liberal. He made no bones about the matter, either, but immediately advocated the whole Bolshevik plan for the United States, governmental plan and all, although he had been to Russia, and knew that "the plan works fine"—AT THE POINT OF A BAYONET. In fact, he had advocated the Russian plan for us as early as January of 1930, in his "New Republic", a Socialist magazine, of which he is the editor. He is co-author with other "Reds" of several books which praise the Russian system. But that is enough for Mr. Tugwell. He admits he is a "Red". Yet he is helping run our government—a democracy.

Now, last but not least, comes "Bill" Bullitt. It was a real surprise to the big fellows around Washington when Mr. Roosevelt called him. He had already been given credit

The fellow who went to Europe twenty years ago to join the army could only fight to make the world safe for democracy. Now he has the chance to help make it safe for nazis, the fascists or the communists.

We will bet there were not many taxpayers in that Berlin crowd which cheered Hitler when he ordered the size of the standing army increased.

Patman claims to have found a joker in the bonus bill. But it is doubtful tha the will induce the president to chuckle over the measure.

Well, if any European nation really craves a war, we'd rather see it fought in Africa than in Europe, and preferably in the middle of the Sahara Desert.

Nearly everybody knows that Hitler started as a house painter but a lot of folks would like to know just where he is going to finish.

We would judge, after reading a number of recent legal opinions, that some of the court rooms in the country are not displaying the blue eagles very prominently.

A lot of old fellows never expected to live until their granddaughters would be able to find books that weren't fit for the old folks to read.

The English language is spoken by 224,995,000 people. It would be interesting to know how many of these folk speak it correctly.

Scotland Yard's success, according to a British critic, is due to its lack of politics. We supposed the English detective story writers had something to do with it.

Maybe they could use some of that black western soil dust on those rocky farms in Vermont and New Hampshire.

CLEAN LITERATURE

The public as well as the men who make the films are to be congratulated on the rise of the standard of motion picture productions in the past few months. Public spirited citizens who assisted in bringing about this change are entitled to feel satisfaction about the accomplishment which is evident everywhere.

At the same time we ought not forget that there are other fields to consider and some of them much more difficult. It ought to be be generally recognized, if it is not, that real renovating ought to be done to some of our periodicals, most of which go under the title of "magazines," to many of our modern books and stage plays. Anything which the movies may have been guilty of doing in times gone by almost shine in the white light of "innocence" when compared to the salaciousness of these vehicles of "public information", mentioned above. In some cities the authorities have already taken action, and certainly they ought to have the cooperation of all good citizens.

To return to the motion pictures it is satisfying to note that three of the most discussed pictures of the year are Charles Dickens' "David Copperfield," Barrie's "Little Minister," and Harry Leon Wilson's "Ruggles of Red Gap." And there have been many others almost as good. Furthermore, Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, in a recent statement promised the public that we are to have such works as "Hamlet," "A Midsummer Night's Dream," "A Tale of Two Cities," Dante's "Inferno," "Les Miserables," and "The Good Earth." The list is an imposing one and with careful thought it can be added to and doubtless will be.

Of course the motion picture, because it appeals to all classes and all ages, has a special public mission to perform and must therefore be more careful than other vehicles of entertainment about the entertainment it gives us. But this does not release the spoken stage and the printed page from certain obligations. There is a difference between fun and filth, smartness and smuttiness. It is about time the purveyors of some other forms of alleged entertainment and information should find this out.

A COTTON GOODS CRISIS

The cotton goods industry is complaining that its costs are now so high that it is finding it difficult to compete even in the domestic markets. Friends of the industry in the United States Senate, including particularly George of Georgia, hold that the "situation is so grave that only prompt and drastic governmental action will prevent a large-scale shutdown of mills." The action they are recommending is a limited embargo on Japanese textiles entering the United States. This alone, they say, will save the home market.

Perhaps the cotton-goods industry and its spokesmen in Washington have their own good reasons for overlooking an important aspect of the problem. The Japanese buy their raw cotton at world prices. The American mill owners must pay the higher prices made necessary by the administration's endeavors to help the cotton planter. The government's policy of pegging prices by lending the planters money on cotton in storage has the effect of compelling the domestic industry to pay twenty to twenty-five per cent more for its raw materials than would be necessary if domestic prices were on a level with world prices. In addition, the processing tax on cotton adds to the costs.

The administration's policies in this connection might be justified if they were economically sound, that is to say, if they actually helped the cotton grower without unnecessarily injuring any other important interest. Apparently they are hurting the cotton goods industry, but what is no less important is that in the long run the planters also are likely to suffer. This is not only because curtailment of activity in the domestic textile industry would reduce the demand for raw cotton, but also because the artificially inflated domestic price, as already has been noted in these columns, is depriving the planter of his foreign markets.

Instead of perpetuating these fallacies, and trying to repair the damage done by adding manipulation of the tariff to manipulation of prices, it would seem wiser for the Senate and the administration to overhaul the whole cotton program and put it on a sounder basis.

Speaking of capital punishment, the fellow who has enough of capital to pay income taxes is going to take an awful beating some of these days.

MOST ALA. COTTON IS TO BE UNDER CONTRACT

Auburn, Ala.—Approximately 98 per cent of the cotton grown in Alabama this year will be under government contract, according to Walter L. Randolph, executive secretary in cotton adjustment at Auburn.

"Most of the farmers who did not sign the two year contracts in 1934 have agreed to reduce their acreage this year, and it appears that the number of new contracts will be about 30,000," explained Mr. Randolph. The number of signers last year, covering 1934 and 1935, was 117,000, and the total number of contracts are expected this year to closely approach 150,000.

Approximately two million acres will be planted to cotton this year in Alabama, which is 30 to 35 per cent less than the average cotton acreage planted in the state during the period 1928 to 1932.

All farmers participating in the 1934 and 1935 acreage adjustment plan are receiving rental and benefit payments. The program is being administered through the offices of the county agents by county and community committeemen elected in January from among producers who are taking part in the program.

What Kind of A School System Does the State of Alabama Have?

Extracts from an address by J. A. Keller, state superintendent of education, delivered before the Alabama Education Association at Birmingham, Thursday afternoon, March 28, 1935.

What kind of a school system does Alabama have? The answer to this question is important not only for the teachers of the state but for all citizens as well.

The Alabama of tomorrow is being shaped in the schools of today. The schools are preparing a state either of enlightened or of handicapped citizens. Which will it be?

School Organization is Outstanding

Alabama has one of the best school organizations of any state in the union. We have the county unit for rural schools and have not been handicapped in the development of the educational program by township or district lines as have some of the northern and eastern states. We have made real progress toward providing elementary and high school facilities for all pupils without establishing scores of expensive small high schools on the one hand, or holding needlessly to the tiny one-teacher school on the other.

We have a general law providing for selection of the superintendent on the basis of merit rather than for election in terms of political qualifications, although this law has been nullified during recent years by local legislation now effective in all too many of the counties of the state.

We have well staffed institutions for the training of teachers, and as a result have a corps of teachers comparing favorably with teachers in other parts of the country.

Leadership is vested in a state department which compares favorably in organization and personnel with any state department in the country.

Handicaps Faced by the Schools

But with all of these advantages we have many handicaps which we must frankly face. For our own good we must recognize and examine the shackles that delay our progress.

The schools exist for the children. What handicaps the schools, handicaps the children and the state.

Schools can be no better than the teachers. Where teachers are selected because they are residents of the county rather than in terms of merit there are certain to be handicaps. Teachers are all too often chosen by local trustees. Still too many poorly prepared teachers are seeking to hold on to positions for which others may be better prepared. The teacher who is qualified to do the best work should be the one to fill the position regardless of whether she is a resident of the county, or of her marital status.

Teachers are likely to be no better than the administrators responsible for their selection. In too many cases politics still plays an all too important part in school affairs. Standards for school administration and administrators are still too low.

Community rivalry too often offsets many of the advantages of the county unit system. Small high schools that should not exist have sometimes been developed and encouraged. School buildings have sometimes been located in the wrong place because of the prestige of political influence of some board member or citizen.

Poor roads still offer almost insurmountable obstacles in many sections of the state. Poor schools and poor roads tend to go hand in hand. Better roads tend to make possible better schools.

Limited finances—there lies the root of many of our most serious difficulties. If finances are adequate the provision of good schools affords no insurmountable problem. It is only when finances are too limited that the entire school system may be threatened.

Some Financial Problems

Our funds available for schools are now more than $5,100,000 less per year than they were in 1929-30, yet the school attendance is approximately ten per cent greater. For four long years our handicaps have been increasing. Teachers salaries have been shattered to the point where many teachers cannot now live on the income. Many of the ablest teachers have seriously considered leaving the profession. School building and repairs have practically ceased. Terms were reduced to such an extent in 1932-333 that many pupils could not complete half of the work of one grade. Last year and again this year terms would have been nearly as short but for the fact that federal relief funds were made available.

This year in many counties schools are just barely operating. Uncertainty after uncertainty has brought confusion and shattered morale. Salaries are limited to $60.00 per month regardless of the qualification of the teacher. In short, the schools and teachers of the state are on relief—a situation that cannot be permitted to endure.

The 1919 survey of education in Alabama called attention to the fact that "Education costs money, and, if it is to be a good education, the kind necessary in a democracy like ours, it requires a liberal amount of money." During recent years we have not had the money for schools, so we have not been able to provide the kind of education our children need.

When a business establishment wants to make progress it recognizes that it must pay salaries sufficient to attract outstanding executives and skilled employees. In other words, it must pay for brains. The state likewise, must pay for brains, or trust the education of its children to people who are not suited for that responsibility. The teacher with an outstanding personality, the type of teacher who should be teaching the children of the state, will sooner or later get discouraged and the state will lose her services unless she is properly paid. Again quoting from the 1919 survey "A cheap, shoddy school system is the most expensive system, both in immediate results and in lasting effects on the people." We in Alabama have found we are wasting money instead of saving money when we economize to the extent that our terms are so short that children have to be retaught year after year, or that the best teachers threaten to leave.

The Proposed Minimum Program

We fortunately face the coming years under the guidance of a governor who has pledged his faith in education by deed as well as by word. We know that Colonel Bibb Graves believes in the schools and is interested in the welfare of the children of the state. We have faith in him but we must not rely on him to carry the burden alone. We must help him.

Every teacher in the state must understand the facts about the school and be prepared to correct any misconceptions that may exist. We must know why the schools are handicapped and must understand the needs. When parents understand the real situation, I am convinced that they will take whatever steps are necessary to provide the opportunities needed by their children.

Every teacher in the state should be familiar with the minimum program for the schools which I have presented to the legislative recess committees. This program shows clearly that a minimum of $4,400,000 of additional revenues must be made available for the schools to operate on even the minimum basis outlined. If present educational appropriations were paid in full, $3,000,000 of additional revenues would be sufficient to provide this minimum program. Any teacher who studies the situation will understand the fallacy of the inference that schools ought to operate normal terms on very little additional revenues.

CRIPPLE CHILDREN'S WEEK BEGINS ON EASTER SUNDAY

Under plans being carried forward by the Alabama Society for Crippled Children, the week beginning April 21st, Easter Sunday, has been designated "Crippled Children's Week" in Alabama.

During that week the society, with the cooperation of local groups and agencies in all the counties of the state, will stress the sale of seals, the proceeds of which will go to the aid of crippled children in the various counties.

Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare superintendent of Chilton County, is bringing the matter to the attention of the people here. Miss Meroney points out that two crippled children from this county have been sent to Selma and two to Birmingham for treatment.

The sale of seals here during Crippled Children's week, will be added to other funds being donated and provided, to defray the expenses of hospital treatment for these four children in correction of their physical infirmities.

Legion Rally At Talladega April 13

The department of Alabama, American Legion will hold a Spring Rally April 13th and 14th in the Wren Memorial at Talladega. This rally, according to Adjutant D. Trotter Jones, formerly of Talladega, is being planned to help stimulate interest in membership.

To encourage Legion officials to work a little harder in building up their membership during the next four weeks, the department is offering prizes to post and department officials. Every post commander and adjutant securing twenty per cent of his post's 1934 membership between March 18th and April 14th will be given either an officer's ceremonial badge or an officer's cap insignia. Every department executive committeeman and vice-commander who has twenty per cent of his district's 1934 membership reported during the above period will receive a Legion uniform.

The Talladega meeting on Saturday night, April 13, will be a social affair, followed by a dance. The Sunday session will climax the rally and a special program is being arranged.

Every post in the State is urged to send representatives to the meeting. The Wren Memorial was erected in memory of Ed (Shorty) Wren, who served in the Rainbow Division and was department commander of the Legion at the time of his death.

The Supt. As An Educat'l Planner

"Schools exist primarily for the children and not to provide jobs or salaries for superintendents" was one of the remarks dropped on the dinner plates of the county and city superintendents at their annual banquet at Birmingham Wednesday night in connection with the convention of the Alabama Education Association. State Superintendent of Education, J. A. Keller, who recently was a county superintendent himself, made the statement in connection with an address on "The Superintendent as an Educational Planner."

Dr. Keller pointed out that there is just one reason or justification for any educational admistrative position: to organize the schools so that teachers can do better teaching and children can do better learning and thinking. "Unless that is clearly accomplished," he stated, "the salary of the individual holding the position cannot be justified."

"A succesful superintendent of schools must have a long head," declared the state superintendent. "He must look to future years and plan the steps that will meet the needs of tomorrow. He must recognize the handicaps to good teaching and remove them as speedily as possible. Merely sitting in an office and being pleasant will not suffice—nor will good intentions."

Dr. Keller then proceeded to outline certain things a modern, progressive superintendent must do. Among those were the following:

1. He must recognize clearly at all times and assume without hesitation the particular functions and responsibilities that are his. The superintendent must recommed policies to the board, then execute those that are approved. To leave these responsibilities to the board, or to local trustees, would, in the long run, be disastrous to the schools.

2. The superintendent must carefully select teachers in terms of their qualifications for the work to be performed. Selection of teachers merely because they live in the county, because they have political prestige, or because they come from a favorite college will sooner or later handicap the school program. If a teacher who lives in the county is the best teacher for a given position, there is no reason why she not be selected for that position, but merit must come first. If the most capable teachers are selected each year, the results will soon be apparent in the schools.

3. The program planned by the superintendent must be well rounded. No one part can be permitted to develop more rapidly than other parts. This requires a sound point of view. Hobbies are good, but a hobby ridden too hard may handicap the school by throwing the whole system out of balance.

4. A superintendent must plan in terms of facts, rather than guesses. In these days there is no excuse for failure to have the facts at hand—to know. The school survey provided by the state department of education is one important agency for making available needed facts.

5. The school program must be planned as a long time program rather than being permitted to "work itself out,"—a process which is likely to be wasteful. This long time planning must include every phase of education—from location of educational centers to finance.

In concluding his address, Dr. Keller appealed to the superintendents to plan financial phases of their programs in terms of the needs of the children. "We know," he said, "that we cannot, under present conditions, provide a complete program in the amount needed by the children. We do not think of asking for a maximum even though it is for the children of the state, for our own children. We are, however, insisting on a minimum without which we cannot get along. With present revenues, we cannot provide even that necessary minimum. Since the beginning of the depression, school revenues have decreased to such an extent that they are now more than $5,100,000 per year less than they were in 1929-30. Even though school attendance has increased approximately ten per cent, we can manage for the present if $4,400,000 of those revenues are restored. If present appropriations were paid in full, only $3,000,000 of additional funds would be necessary."

"I ask that you study these figures carefully. You will find that we are not asking for a single dollar that we do not need. When you are convinced of that fact, it is your duty to let the people of your counties and cities know about this minimum program and let them know it is for their children. If the people really understand these needs, they will take the steps to guarantee the fair and square deal which has been due the children of the state for some time."

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The educational philosophy of many of our schools and colleges, if accepted by the rank and file of Americans, will wreck our nation. The behavioristic philosophy which is being taught in some universities and colleges and even in some high schools is the philosophy of the devil. The devil told Adam and Eve to express themselves, to do as they pleased, to live independent of God and to make gods out of themselves. In other words he told them, "You don't need any big boss to tell you what to do." This devil philosophy has been accepted by many college professors and this philosophy has to a great or less extent permeated the thought life of the nation.

The philosophy of Jesus says, "Restrain yourself, deny yourself, control yourself." The early school teachers in America, even though some of them were not Christians, accepted to some extent at least the philosophy of Jesus and taught it in the schoolroom. The men who made this nation great and the men who put the pillows of our civilization down deep and strong were men educated in the philosophy of self restraint and self control. The philosophy of self expression—to do as you please—has turned America into a nation of law breakers. It has filled our prisons with juvenile criminals. This country has got to get back to its old time educational thinking and to its old time moral standards or we are doomed.

Recently a very brilliant newspaperwoman is quoted as having said, "Every generation must make its own code of morals." If this woman was correctly quoted, she said the most dangerous thing it is possible to say. The principles of right and wrong are eternal. It has always been wrong to steal, therefore, the Bible says, "Thou shalt not steal." It is not wrong to steal just because it says in the Bible, "thou shalt not steal," but it is in the Bible "Thou shalt not steal" because it is wrong to steal. It has always been wrong to murder, therefore God says "thou shalt not murder." It was wrong to murder before the commandment against murder was given at Mt. Sinai. If every generation must make its own code of morals, then there is no right and there is no wrong. That is the behavioristic philosophy which says, "do as you please." Many young people have come to believe that anything they want they have a right to have.

for having a great hand in the physical collapse of Woodrow Wilson by the worry he caused him, and had been accused by Sen. Arthur Robinson with "trying to trade off the American people while in Europe with Mr. Wilson." He is credited with being the man best informed on Russian conditions of anyone in America, since he had spent quite a bit of time over there, and had married the Communist widow of John Reed, said to be the greatest Communist ever to hold forth in America. While with Wilson in Europe he advocated the recognition of Russia. Wilson was too much an American for that, though, and refused to give Bullitt further audience. Whereupon, Mr. Bullitt resigned from the peace commission and said:

"I am going to the Riviera, lie on the sand, kick my heels in the air, and let the world go to hell".

Would that he had kept his promise. He wasn't heard from again, until Mr. Roosevelt scraped him up to handle his Russian business. Mr. Roosevelt sent him to Moscow to negotiate with the Soviets concerning recognition, and, of course, he managed the thing as smooth as a whistle—we recognized them. The only reason Mr. Roosevelt has ever given for wanting to recognize them was because of trade relations—in other words, so we could sell them cotton. And now I want you to recall what I hold you to remember at the first of this article. Imagine our "great president" wanting to fix things so that we can sell the Russian government our cotton, when that government has to starve ten million of its people to death every year in order to have grain enough to sell to get money to run its "power" government—in other words, to keep its enormous standing army "standing," in order to be able to browbeat and stamp the Russian peasants into submisson.

Among the others called in by Mr. Roosevelt were James Warburg and Bernard M. Baruch, representatives of the financial firm of Kuhn, Loeb and Co., who are said by Congressman Louis McFadden to "virtually control the U. S. treasury." This firm, you must remember, is the very one which had financed Russia in its first "5-year plan," and they, of course, were anxious to see any kind of measure that would help them get their money back, no matter if the American taxpayers did have to bear the burden in the long run.

It will not require a super brain to see just how good a foothold the Communists have on our own government. Of course, besides these named there are hundreds of under-secretaries, etc., who are just as active in trying to effect their Communistic ends as the big shots. Communists work like beavers, and their work is showing fruit, too. I don't believe you can pick up a daily paper without reading of a strike, or some kind of labor disorder. And this is nothing but the result of "Red" propoganda. They don't even TRY to conceal their efforts. In the great industrial centers they stage their parades often, even waving the blood red flag, and stamping the "stars and stripes" under foot. And while a horrified American public looks on with fear and trembling at what may be the outcome, our "great president" keeps "the brains" of all this right there in his office with him to ADVISE him. And there are people who are foolish enough to tell you that such as happened in Russia could never happen in our country.

Let's compare. In Russia, the proletariat had nothing, no guns, no ammunition, nothing with which to fight but sticks and rocks and torches, with which they burned whole cities to the ground. Moreover, they had no one in the government who were in sympathy with them. Yet they won their fight.

Here in America, they can easily secure guns and ammunition in any quantity they want. Too, they have their "big fellows", right at the heart of our government. They know as much, even more about our national affairs than do Americans. Inasmuch as we have recognized Russia, their job is all the easier. True, they promised that their agitation would stop. But what is a Soviet promise worth? They shout to the world that they consider no covenant as binding, if it stands in the way of their purpose of world-wide Communism.

We may think they are not able to do anything yet, but we must remember that in Russia the officials had no idea that any such move was even on foot. We KNOW they are working every day toward the downfall of our government. This might be taken as an advantage, as "fore-warned is fore-armed", but for the fact that our big chief executive, instead of taking any warning, is, in a way helping these conspirators. One big Communist has said that all Americans are deaf, dumb and blind—especially dumb, and he was about right. I quote the Soviet spokesman, Menjinsky:

"As long as there are idiots who take our signature seriously and put their faith in it, we must promise anything and everything asked, so long as we get something tangible in exchange".

That's what they think of us for recognizing them and putting faith in their promises. IDIOTS — they call us. Maybe they are not so far wrong, at that. They ought to know better than anyone else what their word and bond is worth, and they ADMIT it is WORTHLESS. Yet our government accepts it at par.

One 100 per cent American says, however:

"The Communists are working on us from both ends, toward the middle. While their agitators are stirring up strife in the industrial centers, their 'brain trust' is using a more subtle means to get control of the farms and food supply of the country. Who would have thought five years ago that an American farmer would stand and have some white collar office holder tell him how much corn, wheat or cotton he could raise? No one, unless he was a Communist, who knew what the plans were. They are putting the grip on the farmers a little at the time—first white, then a tinge of pink, and when the Communistic leaders figure that the time is ripe in the industrial centers and farming sections as well, their whole plan will unfold, flare RED, like their disreputable banner, and any who dare stand in their way will give his blood that their red rag may be kept waving".

Think over this important matter. Watch your newspapers, and see if you can see any signs that bear out the fulfillment of this prediction.—Man in the Moon.

SAME SALESMEN WILL CONTINUE WITH BIG FOUR HARDWARE CO.

BIG SINGING AT ENTERPRISE FRIDAY NIGHT, APRIL 12th

Prof. Varner and Prof. Huett want it stressed that the singers of Enterprise community are banking on having a big community singing at the school house Friday night of this week. This community singing has been running for the past several weeks, and reports for down there say they have had some good ones. They hope to surpass anything they have done before.

The singing will begin about 7:30 o'clock and last for about two hours. All singers are invited, and those who like good singing will be welcome, too.

IN MEMORY

Many hearts were saddened on last Tueaday night, April 26 at 8 o'clock when the death angel entered the home of Mrs. Ann Popwell and quietly bore her spirit away.

Funeral services were held in the Popwell cemetery at 3:30 p.m. Elder Tucker, Elder Kelley and Brother Cox officiated. Burial services were in charge of Spigener's Funeral Home.

God let us keep this precious soul 93 years, and then called her home to Him for rest. She was a kind and loving mother and a loyal friend to all. She leaves behind one son, L. D. Popwell, two daughters, Mrs. Fannie Thomas and Mrs. Wiley Gray. She leaves many grandchildren and a great host of friends.

The pallbearers consisted of her grandsons, Luther and Rayford Thomas, Mack and Ottis Gray, Orville Popwell and P. C. Whellis.

"The golden gates were opened wide, a gentle voice said "come," and angels from the other side welcomed our loved one home."—Her great granddaughter, Elizabeth Eubanks.

Mrs. Charles Baumhaur of Mobile is visiting her aunt, Miss Bettie Mullins, who has been ill in Montgomery following an operation.

4-H CLUB RALLY WELL ATTENDED

Thomas Junior Club Won the Prize for Program Presented

The annual rally of 4-H Club boys and girls of Chilton County held at the courthouse last Friday proved to be the greatest occasion of the kind ever held here, both from the standpoints of attendance and general interest in the programs presented.

Eleven clubs were represented with actual registered attendance of the following numbers of members from each club:

Concord	45
Mt. Pleasant	60
Vermont	45
Cooper	62
Thomas Junior	104
Union Grove	42
Stanton	52
Enterprise	81
Thorsby	35
Maplesville	50
Collins Chapel	50
Total	631

With the courthouse packed full of boys and girls, the meeting was called to order by County Agent J. W. Fant. Prof. Ed Glasscock directed the singing. Invocation was rendered by Prof. W. T. Bean. Miss Ruth Dobyne led the boys and girls in reciting the club pledge.

County Agent Fant announced that the entertainment for the day would be provided by selections rendered by each of the clubs. This proved to be a most interesting presentation, as each club rendered a program highly deserving of commendation.

Vermont started off the fun with a stage play entitled "All Four," portraying the essential features of the club pledge. Union Grove club brought down the house with a funny negro minstrel. Cooper also gained hearty applause with its presentation of "The Sewing Club," and the human automobile.

A most unique and entertaining musical selection was presented by Concord Club. It was "The Human Scale," directed by Prof. Glasscock. Another original musical device was given by the Enterprise Club in the form of an immense organ built of boys and girls, and played by the director.

Thorsby Club's "Hayseed Drill," was a most attractive number that would have been acclaimed among the best but for the lack of proper space to carry it out effectively. Maplesville's part of the program was in the form of a broadcasting station, and the Collins Chapel number was "Thirty Years Ago."

The prize winning presentation was that of Thomas Junior Club, in which 21 boys and girls presented a stage number entitled "The Health Packers." It was richly interspersed with songs and music rendered on tiny jazz instruments. Mt. Pleasant's number, a fake basket ball game, concluded the club programs.

Judge J. Lee Smith made the address of welcome to the boys and girls. During the program the fun was interrupted for ten minutes for a short address by County Superintendent Luther E. Little. Miss Dobyne district home demonstration agent, complimented the boys and girls on the splendid programs and fine attendance.

All the boys and girls brought three boiled eggs. These were hidden in Sims Grove, where an Easter egg hunt was held after the program at the courthouse was concluded.

Sandwiches and fruits to go with the eggs were donated by various business concerns through solicitation of the Kiwanis Club. The Pilot club served the lunches. A total of 813 candwiches were served.

Mrs. J. W. Fant, Mrs. Reid Mullins, and W. M. Wyatt, served as judges to determine the winning program. The award was made to Thomas Junior Club. The prize is $5 worth of shrubbery to be given to the club for use in its landscape project next year.

Legion Awards School Medals

Honors Will Go to Four Students at Thorsby, Vermont Schools

Four students in two Chilton County Schools will receive medals and awards from the American Legion in recognition of their outstanding work and records at the close of the current term.

Friday night of this week the awards will be made to Frances Kendrick and Thurman Milford, of the Vermont school. Presentation of the awards will be made by a representative of Chilton County Post No. 6, as a part of the commencement exercises of the school.

Next Monday night, at the final closing exercises of the Thorsby School, former department commander of the Legion in Alabama, Hon. Pete Jarman, will make the Legion awards to Frances Conway and Eugene Smith.

BELL AMUSEMENT COMPANY WILL BE HERE ALL WEEK

On account of so much disagreeable weather last week the Bell Amusement Company has decided to stay in Clanton another week, and will be here through Saturday night.

In spite of the bad weather, most of the time real cold, large crowds were on the grounds what times the ferris wheel, merry-go-round, chairplane, photo booth and other attractions were running last week. If the weather warms up, Mr. and Mrs. Lee, the managers, expect even more to visit them this week, and they will be able to cheer the hearts of many children and grown-ups with their rides, thrills, etc.

Clanton should and does appreciate this means of entertainment furnished by this amusement company. The children and younger people get great thrills out of the rides, and it is good for them once in a while. We have no parks or other means of outside amusement, and this fills in a gap that we need to be filled sometimes.

THE HOME MAKERS S. S. C. TO MEET WITH MRS. TAYLOR

The Home Makers Sunday School Class will meet with Mrs. Parker Taylor Friday, April 19, at 3:00 p.m. All members are urged to be present.

EMERGENCY CROP LOANS RECEIVED

Through Applications at Chilton County Loan Committee Office

Field Supervisor, D. H. Frazer, of the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan office at Memphis, Tenn., states that applications for emergency crop loans and feed loans are now being received by the Chilton County Loan Committee, with offices located at Clanton, Alabama, farm bureau office.

In accordance with the Act of Congress outhorizing the loans, and regulations issued by Governor W. I. Myers of the Farm Credit Administration, loans will be made only to farmers who are unable to obtain elsewhere seed, fertilizers, supplies, feed or the necessary credit to purchase such items. Loans will not be made to applicants who can obtain credit in the amount needed from any other source, including the production credit association.

Any farmer who has the necessary security should apply to the production credit association first. If the association is unable to make him a loan in the amount needed the farmer will receive a statement to that effect and will be considered eligble to apply for a loan from the emergency fund.

The regulations provide that the largest loan to one farmer this year is $500 and the minimum $10, but no loans may be made in an amount greater than is actually needed to cover the cash cost of purchasing seed, fertilizers, supplies, feed, etc. Loans will be made for the purpose of growing and harvesting crops, for summer fallowing, for purchasing feed for livestock; but not for the purpose of purchasing livestock or machinery, or for the payment of debts or taxes.

Loans will be made only to applicants who are cooperating with the production control program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

As in the past, the security for an emergency crop or feed loan will consist of a first lien on the crop financed or on the livestock to be fed. A tenant must also give a first lien by getting the landowner to waive his claim in favor of the crop lien; but the landowner is in no way obligated for repayment of his tenant's loan.

Checks of approved loans will be issued by the Regional Emergency and Feed Loan Office at Memphis, Tenn., and not by the field supervisor or the loan committee.

Future Developments Considered

Sunday Singings Begin On Easter

Poplar Springs Heads the List With Thirtieth Session of Annual Event

This year, as heretofore, the first regular all-day singing in Chilton County comes off Easter Sunday at Poplar Springs. This year must be along about the thirtieth session of this singing without interruption.

Then, the fourth Sunday in this month, which is Sunday week, comes off the big day at the courthouse in Clanton; the county convention holds its spring session on this Sunday and Saturday night before. This is expected to be the biggest singing of the season, and there are reasons to expect this. One is that the Vaughan Company of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., will have a quartet here, and the other is that Stamps-Baxter will either have a quartet or some of their leading composers, or both, at the night and day sessions. And a third reason might be added that practically all of the local talent of the county, as well as lots from other parts of the state, will be at this convention.

The second Sunday in May comes the annual day at Walnut Creek. The third Sunday Refuge holds forth. The fourth Sunday comes another historical gathering at Providence, Beat 16. This is the oldest annual singing in the county, having gained about its thirty-fifth year.

Collins Chapel will again hold their annual singing the third Sunday in June. This will bring us into hot weather, and the big gatherings will subside some until cooler days.

Those people of the county who have a weakness for good singing, and they are not a few, will have somewhere to spend their Sundays during the next few months. And, although we know you are interested in these singings, let us urge you not to overlook your home church and Sunday schools during this season of the year. There will be enough people to run the singings until dinner from places where there is no preaching; and then Sunday school might be run up an hour early if there is no preaching, thus giving time to finish and get there for nearly all the singing. The singings ought not be allowed to materially interfere with local regular services.

Two Hoboes Die In Train Wreck

Eighteen Freight Cars Destroyed in Accident Near Jemison Sunday

Two unidentified transients were burned to death, another was reportde missing, and two were in Central Alabama hospital following the wreck of a Louisville and Nashville freight train near Jemison early Sunday.

Two oil cars exploded, setting fire to the wreckage, destroying 18 of the 22 cars that left the rails.

The bodies of the transients believed to have been riding one of the oil cars, were found in the wreckage, burned beyond recognition.

The train north-bound passed through here at 5:45 a.m., and eleven miles out of town, was wrecked, 21 cars leaving the tracks.

An oil car overturned and exploded, causing flaming liquid to splatter over the wreckage, and 13 cars were destroyed before the flames were checked.

The wreck tied up traffic over the main line for hours, necessitating rerouting of through trains via Opelika. Trainmen had not ascertained the cause of the wreck.

Two Florida youths, Elliot Purvis, 19, of Pensacola, and Woodrow Browder, 18, of Century, were admitted to Central Alabama Hospital for cuts and bruises they said they received in the wreck.

LESTER DUKE MARRIED TO MISS EDMUNDS IN FLORIDA LAST WEEK

The following announcement of interest to many people in the vicinity of Clanton, is taken from a recent issue of a newspaper published in Lakeland, Florida:

"Coming as a complete surprise to many friends is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Alice Edmunds of near Lakeland, to Mr. Lester Duke, who is connected with the McDonald Construction Company. The ceremony was performed in Bartow Saturday by Judge Chester M. Wiggins. Mr. and Mrs. Duke are making their home on North Lake Avenue."

Lester Duke is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Duke, of the Mt. Pleasant community, near Clanton. He has many friends in and around Clanton, who will learn of his marriage with much interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius Burnett and Mrs. Omar Reynolds spent Monday afternoon in Birmingham on business.

HUEY LONG MEETING TO BE HELD AT LOMAX TONIGHT

We are requested to announce that a meeting will be held at Jackson's Store, at Lomax, tonight at 7:30 o'clock, for the purpose of explaining the principles of the "share the wealth movement," as advocated by Senator Huey P. Long, of Louisiana. It was not stated who will be the speaker of the occasion.

PARKER TAYLOR BOUGHT BUS STATION

Mr. Parker Taylor, of the Taylor Produce Company, has bought out the business of the bus station, heretofore known as Tiny's Place. Future operation of the place will be under the direction of Mr. Taylor. Mrs. Taylor will be manager and will be assisted by M. D. Foshee, Jr.

It was stated in this connection that Tiny has plans to go back to operating a passenger bus, and will leave Clanton about the first of May.

FIRST BERRIES TO BRING GOOD PRICE

Good Weather In Next Week Will Put Many Cars On the Road

Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, business manager, in charge of sales and marketing for the Clanton Berry Growers, reports that the first car load of berries shipped from here last Friday, sold in Cincinnati for a net return of $2.00 a crate to the growers. All things considered, Mr. Diefenderfer said, this is a fair return for our first shipment.

Monday's shipments, a total of 699 crates, were sold on the loading platform at Clanton for a net total of $1,485.50, which averaged a little above $2.00 a crate.

Mr. Diefenderfer is optimistic about the market conditions, and expresses the opinion that Chilton County growers will be able to get a satisfactory return for all berries they may be able to put on in the next few weeks. Warmer weather, he says, is all we need. If we can get good berries, he believes he can sell them.

The bad weather of last week did some damage, but not as much to Chilton County berries as other places. A frost at Cullman, it is said, will set the crop back there until about April 26th. This will give Chilton County another full week on the market before Cullman gets started. Warm weather here would enable us to put on several cars by that time.

Mr. Diefenderfer explained that arrangements made for shipment of car loads by express will enable him to get cars on the northern and eastern markets a day earlier than in former years. This saving of time, together with the advantages of the pre-cooling system installed here, will make a distinct saving to the growers. Already, he said, on the first car shipped, the pre-cooling system saved about $75.

Under present arrangements with the express company, plenty of cars will be kept on the tracks at all times, and ice for the same will be supplied by Mr. Wade of the local ice plant.

NON-JURY CIRCUIT COURT FOUR DAYS BEGINNING ON MAY 28th

Circuit Clerk J. C. Pattillo announces that Judge Arthur Glover has issued a call for four days non-jury term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, beginning on Tuesday, May 28th.

Two days will be devoted to disposition of cases on the criminal docket and two days to the civil docket.

State Officials Attend Outing

Fish Fry Given By Representative Cox at Taylor's Camp On Wednesday

Representative Charley Cox entertained a group of about sixty of his friends last Wednesday night at a fish fry at Taylor's Camp on Lake Mitchell. The party was made up of several prominent state officials and attaches of the capitol at Montgomery, city and county officials of Clanton, and other citizens of Chilton and adjoining counties.

In spite of the downpour of rain that rendered the affair somewhat inconvenient, a good time was had by all, and it is thought they will live happily ever after.

Among those in attendance we were able to gather the names of the following: Judge Louis Herzberg, of the State Board of Administration; Mr. W. W. Ramsey, of the State Tax Commission; Senator DeLoney; Representative Reed, of Shelby County; Ralph Hurst of the Birmingham News; Don Drennen, of Birmingham; Mr. Hal Strickland, of Birmingham.

KIWANIS COMMITTEE ON PUBLIC AFFAIRS OUTLINES SOME PLANS

Much Activity Indicated Possible for Clanton in Next Few Months

PUBLIC WORKS EXPECTED

Called together by the chairman, Dr. V. J. Gragg, the public affairs committee of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton met last Friday afternoon for consideration, discussion and planning toward a number of matters which will concern the public interest of Clanton during the months immediately in the future.

The purpose of the committee was expressed as a desire to get a line-up on all propositions of public improvement, work projects, buildings, amusement places, etc., which may appear as possibilties, and to set up as early as possible an effort to enlist the activity of officials and influental citizens toward getting all such projects possible for Clanton.

The chairman mentioned first the matter of securing near here the location of one of the state prison camps for convicts employed on the highways. It was pointed out that such a camp located in this, the central portion of Alabama, would make a good working location for the authorities in charge, and at the same time bring a considerable volume of business to Clanton. The state convict department will be contacted in this matter.

The committee plans to get in touch with Representative W. B. Oliver concerning the matter of getting a CCC camp located in this vicinity. Mention was made of Clanton's interest and advantages in the development of the Coosa River for navigation purposes. This will be followed with action of the committee to contact organizations that are already set up and functioning toward this purpose.

J. B. Atkinson again pressed for consideration his pet hobby of building a public swimming pool for the children in Clanton. Further improvement of the airport was discussed. Possibility of additional funds for this project is likely through the new program soon to be set tup by the government relief agency.

The committee discussed the proposal recently made for establishment of a gas system for Clanton. Information about this proposal was not very detailed, and the committee will make further investigation before endorsing it.

Another matter of very much concern to Clanton was discussed, the possibility of additional building facilities at the Grammar School. This question has the active support of the committee and the whole Kiwanis Club, as well as everybody else in and around Clanton. The Grammar School proposal has been listed by Mayor Jones and Superintendent Little as a desirable project under the new public works program soon to be instituted.

The public affairs committee considered the advisability of the county authorities removing the old wooden building known as the sheriff's house near the jail, and erecting in its place a modern brick structure. This, it is pointed out, would harmonize with the other public buildings in the immediate vicinity.

Suggestion was made to the committee that there may be a possibility of getting a game preserve established in the vicinity of Lake Mitchell in the eastern part of the county.

Arrangements were made to take up with the L. & N. Railroad again the matter of having trains one and four to stop in Clanton. It was pointed out that as now arranged there is no mail going south out of Clanton from Sunday morning to Monday afternoon.

In connection with the foregoing matters considered by the public affairs committee, Mayor C. Fenn Jones was interviewed concerning possible projects he has listed for consideration under the public works program. Besides the Grammar School Building, he stated that he had listed work for widening and improving the streets of Clanton; extension of water mains into the territory proposed to be included in the city limits; opening of new streets in the proposed additional city areas; continuation of the drainage program that was instituted in the swamps near Clanton under the C. W. A.

Casual mention has been made of the need of an addition to the county courthouse to take care of the offices that are now occupying very limited and inadequate quarters in the old Potts residence. Also additional buildings at the County High School for use as a vocational unit have been put forward as a very much needed thing.

All things considered, it may be said that indications for the future monhts are that there will likely be quite a few things going on in and around Clanton. Of course, it can not be thought that all the things mentioned will materialize, but it is reasonable to expect that some of them will. And it is good to know that our citizens and public officials will be on the job ready to push forward with every possibility that turns up as an opportunity to further advance our community.

Will Tear Down Old Schoolhouse

Public Working Will Be Held On Next Wednesday Morning

The old Clanton Grammar School building will cease to be a threat and a menace to the safety of hundreds of children on next Wednesday morning, when an army of fathers and mothers will pounce upon the old dilapidated shack with picks, axes, and what have you and reduce it to a degree of safety and common sense.

The Kiwanis Club has already declared a public working for the occasion. The Club invites everybody to join them and have a part in beginning the work of demolition. The Parent-Teacher Association will take an active interest in the affair.

Permission has already been granted by the County Board of Education to tear down the old building to such extent as to render it suitable for incorpogation into a new building program to be instituted as soon as possible in the future.

Anyway, we do not propose to send our children to school in the old building any more. We will get rid of that danger first of all, and then do better when we can.

Who will be the one to knock off the first brick? Miss Lucille Sherwood has asked for that honor, but if she gets it she will have to be there early next Wednesday morning. Come and join us. We will have a good time. Superintendent Luther Little will be foreman of the work of destruction.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott, Mr. and Mrs. John Mullins and Mrs. J. R. Mullins spent Sunday afternoon in Montgomery with friends.

Improvements At Woco Pep Station

New Facilities Being Installed At Popular Auto Service Station Here

Plans were finally determined this week upon a general program of extensive improvements to be made by the Woco Pep Company upon their service station, building and facilities at the Woco Service Station across the street in front of the courthouse.

It was stated that plans of the company involve expenditure of about $1,500 for improvements and addition of new equipment.

The east side of the building, next to the new city hall, is to be remodeled, and equipped for installation of a hoist, grease and wash rack. New service pumps are to be installed in the main part of the filling station.

Under the management of Mr. J. E. Easterling the Woco Service Station has developed into one of the leading motor service stations in this territory. His remarkable success of the business no doubt is the cause of the company in determining to improve their facilities for serving the public.

Improvement of the property also is appropriate at this time, in order to keep it in line with other property of the vicinity. The new city hall going up alongside the Woco Pep property will add much to the imposing appearance of the place.

Really, the Woco Pep place is in the heart of Clanton's business district, and we are glad that the owners and operators of the business are determining to keep up with the best in their neighborhood.

MAZAR'S STORE PREPARING FOR RE-DECORATING SOON

Mr. Levine, manager of Mazar's Store in Clanton, announces that this popular and progressive place of business will re-decorate throughout during the next ten days. A new floor will be put in the building, new display tables installed and new fixtures put in throughout.

Mr. Levine believes in keeping pace with the progress of the times, and is always alive and awake to the interest of the trading public of this territory. It is with the idea in view of better serving the trade and making the store more attractive and up-to-date that Mr. Levine is instituting this renovation of the place of business.

There will be scarcely any interruption in the regular business of the store occasioned by the changes to be made.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. A. B. FOSHEE

Dear mother we are lonely here,
Since you have crossed the tide,
But your noble records seem to cheer
While we stay on the stormy side.

Earth has lost many happy charms for me,
Since you have gone away,
But heaven will the brither be
Since you've gone there to stay.

We miss your smiling face,
We miss your words of cheer,
We miss you all about the place,
We miss you everywhere.

We saw not the white robed angel as it entered with folded wings
And carried our dear mother to the arms of our heavenly king,
There with the angels to share
With never a sorrow or care.

Farewell, my dear mother,
We'll travel on in pain;
And when our work on earth is done,
We hope to meet again.

Written by a daughter, Marietta Foshee.

CHILD WELFARE DEPARTMENT FACED WITH DIFFICULT CASES

Montgomery, Ala. — The average Alabamian who has never had occasion to give the matter much thought, very probably thinks of the child welfare department and its work as being concerned only with children from infancy up to the age of 8 or 10 years, forgetting that childhood with its attendant need of proper care and guidance extends far beyond that period.

As a matter of fact, the department always has a number of children over 16 years old, under financial care. One of the hardest tasks of the division of child care is attempting to adjust these abolescent boys and girls, working them day by day in an effort to mould their lives along proper lines. Some of them rebel without knowing exactly why. Their adjustments are often difficult and beset with discouragement, and often the tide of failure and disaster can be stemmed only by patience and faith in their ultimate success. Frequently boarding foster mothers, like own mothers, worn out with the vagaries of adolescent boys and girls in their care, are reminded that there should be understanding for every child and that his personality should be guarded as his most precious right.

The division's task with these boys and girls would be easier if there were more facilities for vocational training in Alabama, if there were schools of apprenticeship and if sufficient wholesome recreation facilities were available. With a limited appropriation, with increasing applications from the counties for the reception of younger children, and with a scarcity of suitable work for boys and girls over 16 years of age, the task of keeping some of them from slipping out of the bounds of orderly society is a big undertaking. While a few have broken away and disaster has come, a proportionately large number are struggling through to some degree of stability, security, and happiness.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Montgomery, Ala.—April has given added impetus to the movement among counties to organize conservation associations for the perpetuation of Alabama wildlife.

Talladega County hunters and fishermen started the month by organizing the Talladega County sportsmen's association, which held a county-wide meeting and barbecue at Shocco Springs, near Talladega, on April 11. The meeting was addressed by I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries.

Commissioner Quinn also was invited to attend meetings at Athens and Scottsboro called by the sportsmen of Limestone and Jackson Countes for the purpose of setting up conservation organizations. Later this month, on a date yet to be set, he will go to Tuscaloosa to assist in the organization of a county-wide sportsmen's association in Tuscaloosa County.

Meanwhile, the new Madison County game, fish and wildlife conservation association, which boosted its membership from six to 200 in less than two months, joined the Keel Mountain Conservation Association in its effort to persuade the federal government to designate this mountain area as a game preserve.

The Madison County Association also took steps to prevent dynamiting and seining in the streams of that county. It has requested the county's representatives in the legislature to introduce a bill making dynamiting a felony instead of a misdeameanor.

Organization of these new conservation units will give Alabama 54 organzations actively working for a permanent, constructive wildlife conservation program.

FOSTER HOMES FOR CHILDREN GROW SCARCE

Montgomery, Ala.—Since the beginning of the depression, a rapidly diminishing supply of suitable free foster homes which have grown scarcer and harder to secure with each passing month, has imposed an added burden on the State Child Welfare Department's resources through the ever increasing necessity of placing children in boarding-homes where the care given them must be paid for out of the department's greatly reduced appropriation. The problem created by this situation which for some time has been growing more acute, is one of the hardest with which the Welfare department now has to deal.

Free foster homes were available in large numbers a few years ago, especially in rural sections, where substantial, prosperous farmers and farm families had a great deal to offer the individual child, in security, opportunity, affection and education. The radical economic changes that have taken place in these areas, however have changed all that. Farm families in a majority of instances, are not assuming any additional responsibilities. The result is that practically the only desirable free homes now being offered are those of childless coupies who want to adopt a very young child for whose normal intelligence and good backgrund definite assurance can be given by the department.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Mullins and children, of Tuscaloosa spent a few days with relatives and friends in Clanton this week.

TRUCK HIT BY PAN-AMERICAN

The Union-Banner wishes to make a correction in the report published last week about the Pan-American hitting a Chevrolet truck Monday night, April 8th.

Mr. Argnus Robinson, driver of the truck, makes the following statement: "The truck was hit on the grade crossing at Alfred Collins' store, below old Strasburg station. I drove the truck onto the tracks in the cut, and the motor went dead. I heard the Pan-American, coming south, blow and I jumped from the truck just in time to avoid being hit myself. The truck was knocked about fifteen feet down the railroad track. I was there when the truck was hit. The train crew on the Pan got off and investigated the accident."

Reuben Lowe, Van Smith and John Hancock went to Talladega last Sunday to attend the Alabama American Legion meeting.

Miss Dinkins of Birmingham visited Miss Willie Popwell last week.

PROSPECTIVE MOTHERS

Mrs. Elese Crenshaw of 1813 Ellis St., Augusta, Ga., said: "Before the birth of my first child I was in misery with my back, when I sat down it was hard for me to get up. I was weak and cramps in my limbs made me very restless at night. I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and my whole system was strengthened by this tonic and I was able to sleep again."

VERMONT SCHOOL

Our school closes out the 1934-35 term Friday night with the graduation exercise being held at the school auditorium. A cordial invitation is extended to all parents and friends of the school. A program of the exercise is found in another section of this paper. One of the outstanding numbers on the program will be the presentation of medals by the American Legion, to some girl and to some boy who has excelled in scholarship, loyalty, achievement, ability.

Inclement weather caused another postponement of our P.-T. A. from last Thursday until some later date. Full announcements as to the exact date will be given soon. The faculty has promised to attend on the date set.

Various pictures of the school are being made this week,—the different classes, rooms, individuals, buildings and campus, boys and girls athletic teams and faculty. Those students desiring certain pictures are requested to get in touch with your classroom teacher.

Forty-eight club boys and club girls attended the 4-H club rally held at Clanton last Friday. Mr. Johnson and Miss Cagle, club directors, respectively were attendants with the group.

The faculty spent a most pleasant evening last Thursday, dining at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Clenner. Mrs. C. J. Chandler and Mrs. Clenner jointly prepared a most appetizing supper which was graciously enjoyed by those present.

Report cards will be given out next Friday (tomorrow). All students are requested to be present that day and call for same.

Several of the students attended the B. Y. P. U. social last Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Ernest McClain.

The faculty dined with the following the past few days: Monday evening, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Kendrick; Tuesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Giles and Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Klinner. The visits were one of real happiness and fellowship.

Remember boys and girls, on next Saturday morning the Vermont school goes on their annual picnic. You will meet at the school building at 9:00 o'clock. Two trucks will be there, besides several private cars, to transport the merry group of picnickers to "lovers lane" located in a beautiful pine and oak forest north of Jemison. All those who are not members of the school, but would like to participate in the day's festivities, are asked to see Mr. Johnson.

Lesson for April 21

THE FUTURE LIFE (EASTER LESSON)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 24:1-12; John 14:1-6.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live.—John 11:25.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus Living Again.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Life Here and Hereafter.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Life in the Light of Eternity.

I. God, the God of the Living (Mark 12:26, 27).

"If a man die, shall he live again?" is an age-long question. It is affirmatively answered by both the universal human conviction and the holy Scriptures. Death does not end all. It is not a leap into the dark. It is rather the open door through which human personality enters into the light of glorious freedom. Life itself is but a training school, a preparation for the larger and higher life after death. Those who in their lifetime are in vital relation to Jesus Christ, the eternal Life, shall never die.

II. The Resurrection of Jesus Christ (Luke 24:1-12).

The supreme test of Christianity is the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. It matters little what Jesus said and did while alive, if his body remained in the grave. If he did not come forth in triumph from the tomb, then all his claims are false. On the other hand, if he did arise, all his claims are true.

1. The empty sepulchre (vv. 1-3).

a. The coming of the women (v.1). As an expression of affectionate regard for the Master, they came with spices for his body.

b. What they found (vv. 2, 3). When they came to the sepulchre they found the stone had been removed, but they found not the body of Jesus. For them to have found his body in the sepulchre would have been the world's greatest tragedy. The empty tomb spoke eloquently of the deity and power of the Son of God (Rom. 1:4).

2. The message of the men in shining garments (vv. 4-8).

a. "Why seek ye the living among the dead?" (v. 5). The angels' question has continued to reverberate through the centuries.

b. "He is not here, but is risen" (v. 6). Jesus, before he was crucified, had told them that the Lord must be betrayed and crucified and that on the third day he would rise.

3. The women witnessing to the eleven (vv. 9-11). Their thrilling testimony concerning the empty tomb and the words of the angels appeared to the apostles as idle tales.

4. Peter investigating (v. 12). While the testimony of the women seemed as idle tales, Peter was not of the temperament to lightly dismiss the matter. Therefore, he ran to the sepulchre. Upon close investigation he found the linen clothes lying in such a way as to prove the reality of the resurrection.

III. Jesus Preparing a Place in Heaven for His Own (John 14:1-3).

The hopes of the disciples were utterly shattered when Jesus told them about the cross. He consoled them by pointing to the reunion in the Father's house. This he did by

1. Asking them to trust in him even as God (v. 1). Faith in the God-man, Christ Jesus, will steady the heart no matter how intense the grief.

2. By informing them that he was going to the Father's house to prepare a home for them (v. 2). He declared that in that house there were many abiding places. Heaven is an eternal dwelling place for God's children.

3. By assuring them that he would come again and escort them to heaven (v. 3). He will come and call forth from the grave those who have died and transform living believers and take them all together to be with him forever in the heavenly home (I Thess. 4:16, 17).

IV. Jesus Christ is the Way to the Heavenly Father (John 14:4-6).

In answer to Thomas' interposed doubt Jesus asserted:

1. That he is the way (v. 6). Jesus Christ is more than a mere guide to God or a teacher. He is the way itself, the very door of the sheepfold, the gateway to the tree of life.

2. The truth (v. 6). He is not merely the teacher, but the truth incarnate. In his incarnation the spiritual and material worlds were united. Therefore, every line of truth, whether spiritual or material, converges in him.

3. The life (v. 6). Christ is not merely the giver of life, but the very essence of life. Only those who receive Christ have life in the true sense.

You May Be Wrong

"My brethren," said Oliver Cromwell to some of his fanatical, positive followers, "in the name of Christ I beseech you to think it possible you may be mistaken." That is a good word to carry in our minds.

Hindering God

Not man's manifold labors but his manifold cares, hinder the presence of God. Whatsoever thou doest, hush thyself to thine own feverish vanities, and busy thoughts, and cares; in silence seek thy Father's face.

County Farm Agent's Notes

FARMERS ENDORSE PROGRAM

Montgomery, Ala. — Over 200 Alabama farmers met here this week and made an appeal to President Roosevelt and to Alabama senators and congressmen to contniue the processing tax so that the agricultural adjustment program may be retained for the benefit of farmers.

The following letter was sent to President Roosevelt, state senators and congressmen:

"More than 200 leading farmers, representing each of the 67 counties, assembled here today and enthusiastically and unanimously endorsed the great friend and leader of American agricultural adjustment act in all its provisions but particularly emphasized their appeal to you for retention of the processing tax as their hope for effective provision of benefits to agriculture corresponding to tariff benefits to industry. They expressed emphatic realization of the automatic continuation of benefits from processing tax while direct payments from relief fund would completely dissipate the whole structure with the exhaustion of present appropriation.

"They also registered full approval of Jones-Smith bill amending agricultural adjustment act, also Jones-Bankhead bill further developing cooperative extension and research and more complete endowment land-grant colleges. All these endorsements were enthusiastically adopted without dissenting voice."

FUTURE FARMERS AT ISABELLA

The F. F. A. chapter has grown in membership to twenty-seven. Supervised practice work consisting of individual cotton, corn, livestock and home beautification projects. ALABAMA FARMERS TO GET OVER NINETEEN MILLION

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama cotton, cornhog, and tobacco farmers have received $19,826,202.33 in rental and benefit payments, reports Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the state extension service. Cotton farmers have been paid $19,508,817.13 for plowing up and reducing their cotton acreage; cornhog farmers $314,332 for reducing their production, and tobacco farmers $3,053 for joining in the reduction program.

In an effort to increase the farmer's income the AAA has paid farmers of the country $630,606,962 in rental and benefit payments for participating in adjustment programs and has spent $214,651,202 in connection with removal, utilization and conservation of surplus agricultural commodities.

Practically all of this has been paid from the processing tax. In emphasizing what the program has meant to farmers, agricultural leaders point to the fact that the gross farm income from crops and livestock increased from $5,331,000,000 in 1932, the year before the adjustment program started, to $7,200,000,000 in 1934, an increase of $1,869,000,000.

They also state that the price of cotton has increased from less than 6 cents to 12 cents per pound; wheat from 35 cents to 85 cents per bushel; corn from 20 cents to 82 cents per bushel; Cottonseed from $9.00 per ton to $40; hogs from 3 cents to 8 cents per pound; beef cattle from 4 cents to over 6 cents per pound; and equal advances in the prices of other farm commodities.

UNMASK CULPRIT INSECT

The screw worm fly is responsible for heavy livestock losses in the southwest and, more recently, in the southeast, has been shown up in its true colors. For many years it masqueraded as one of its comparatively harmless relatives.

The culprit fly (cochliomyia americana) lays its eggs in open sores or blood spots on live animals, and the maggots, or screw worms, that hatch from the eggs bore into the living tissue, usually killing the animal unless prompt treatment is given. It's less dangerous and much more common relative (cochliomia macellaria) breeds principally in the carcasses of dead animals. Externally these two members of the large blowfly family look almost exactly alike, but internally they differ. This variation in internal structure, proving the presence on the ranges of two screw worm flies, rather than one, was brought to light by E. C. Cushing, an entomologist of the United States Department of Agriculture.

For years entomologists, veterinarians, doctors and stockmen had attacked the whole screw worm problem from the angle of their knowledge of the more common—and less destructive—fly. With the clearing up of this case of mistaken identity, a new program of research has been adopted. Intensive studies to ascertain exactly how the primary screw worm fly breeds, feeds, and has had its being are now under way. For this purpose large number of flies are being reared and closely observed at the field stations of the bureau of entomology and plant quarantine. The facts thus obtained, Mr. Cushing says, will supply the firm foundation without which no insect control campaign may be successfully carried out.

Game and Fish News

Montgomery, Ala.—Alabama nimrods were more cautious in the handling of firearms during the 1934-35 hunting season, which closed April 10, than they were during the 1933-34 season, a report of the state department of game and fisheries shows.

The season just closed produced 22 hunting acacidents, nine less than in 1933-34, and of this number 13 were fatal to the victims. This was four less than the toll taken by the preceding season. Carelessness in the handling of firearms was responsible for a majority of the mishaps, 10 of the 13 fatalities resulting from self-inflicted wounds.

The reduction in the number of accidents and fatalities, however, was hailed by the department as an indication that its "safety" campaign is getting results and that hunters are beginning to excercise greater care in the use of guns.

Uncle Sam Okehs Leonard Models

After a series of governmental refrigerator tests the Leonard Refriegrator Company has been awarded a blanket contract for five of its standard types of refrigerators by the United States government, according to information received by W. L. McAllister, of Loveman, Joseph & Loeb.

This means that these units have been recommended to various departments of the government for purchase during the year, and that during 1935, hundreds of these models will be requisitioned for governmental use throughout the country. The awarding of this contract is most gratifying, Mr. McAllister said, because of the increased stringency of the tests which the refrigerators had to undergo this year.

Paralleling a noticeable public insistence upon higher performance and greater value, the government itself made its 1935 electric refrigerator contract awards on the basis of overall operating expense over a 10-year period, Mr. McAllister declared.

Birmingham, Ala., April 15. — The annual meeting of the stockholders of Alabama Power Company, presided over by Thomas W. Martin, was held in the company offices here at eleven o'clock this morning.

EASTER SUNRISE SERVICE

At 6:00 Sunday morning a sunrise service will be held at the Methodist church. The community is invited. The service will last about thirty or forty minutes and will consist of music, meditation, scripture and communion. There will be neither sermon nor address.

At 11:00 Dr. Middlebrooks will preach on the theme, "He Won, We Win." In the evening we will join with others in the community in a union service at the Baptist church.

Bring your Fellowship League of Sharing envelope Sunday if you forgot it last Sunday. Save the committee the trouble of having to call on you later and remind you of your offering. Almost a hundred members brought their envelopes last Sunday.

Rev. A. C. Nelson, member of the Chilton County Board of Education, leaves next week for Vanderbilt University, Nashville, for a few weeks special course of study.

OBITUARIES — IN MEMORY

It becomes necessary for us again to call attention to the fact that we make a charge of one cent per word for all obituaries over 150 words published in The Union-Banner. So, if you want an obituary, or in memory article, published about a departed friend or relative, it must be confined to not over 150 words, or else money order for the remainder should be included if sent by mail, as outlined above.

If obituaries are sent in containing over 150 words and no money accompanies same, it will be either omitted entirely or, if possible, condensed to come within the requirement, and published.

CRIPPLE CHILDREN'S WEEK BEGINS ON EASTER SUNDAY

Under plans being carried forward by the Alabama Society for Crippled Children, the week beginning April 21st, Easter Sunday, has been designated "Crippled Children's Week" in Alabama.

During that week the society, with the cooperation of local groups and agencies in all the counties of the state, will stress the sale of seals, the proceeds of which will go to the aid of crippled children in the various counties.

Miss Nolan Meroney, child welfare superintendent of Chilton County, is bringing the matter to the attention of the people here. Miss Meroney points out that two crippled children from this county have been sent to Selma and two to Birmingham for treatment.

The sale of seals here during Crippled Children's week, will be added to other funds being donated and provided, to defray the expenses of hospital treatment for these four children in correction of their physical infirmities.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Parrish of Wetumpka spent last Sunday with relatives and friends in Clanton.

J. N. SCOTT AND SON OFFER BARGAINS FOR CASH AT JEMISON

Mr. Jackson Scott, of Jemison, son of J. N. Scott, and active partner with his father in the mercantile store there, was in Clanton Tuesday on some business matters. Mr. Scott placed an adv., in the Union-Banner telling about his new policies, attractive prices, etc. Special emphasis is placed on the fact that in the future the store will be run strictly on a cash basis. Mr. Scott points out that by selling for cash they can sell at a closer margin of profit. Read their adv. elsewhere in this paper, and visit them when in Jemison. They will appreciate you coming to see them whether you are a former customer or not.

TWO CASES IN MAYOR'S COURT

Two men, each charged with public drunkenness, were brought before Mayor C. Fenn Jones, for trial Monday morning in the Mayor's Court of Clanton.

In one of the cases the Mayor imposed a fine of $10 and costs, this being the second time the defendant had been before him on the same charge.

The other case was transferred to the state and county authorities by the mayor, because the case involved some circumstances which, the Mayor considered, made it impractical for the town to handle properly.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING

There will be a young people's meeting of the Unity Association at Mt. Creek at 2:30 Sunday, April 21. Be sure to come.—Mrs. Horace Popwell, leader.

Mrs. J. R. Mullins entertained last Wednesday evening in honor of the sixteenth birthday of Miss Mary Courtney Jones at perhaps one of the loveliest of the pre-Easter parties. The beautiful home of Mrs. Mullins was tastefully decorated in wild flowers and lovely spring blossoms.

The affair was in the nature of a tiny tot festivity, and the Easter idea predominated throughout. As the guests arrived they were given tails to pin on the donkey. Little Ruth Gowan won this prize, a large golden Easter egg.

Then an Easter Egg Hunt was also enjoyed by the little guests. The prize for finding the most eggs fell to little Sarah Hollis.

Telegram blanks were passed for each guest to write the honoree good wishes in the form of an acrostic. Little Helen Newell received costume jewelry for writing the most original wishes.

The guests drew candy bunnies for partners for refreshments. Arranged in little school baskets was a most delightful lunch to tempt even the least hungry little girl, with which fruit nectar was served.

The guests were then invited into the dining room where a color scheme was green and gold. The dining table holding silver candelabras was centered with the birthday cake holding six candles and favors for the sixteen little girls invited.

Lollypops were served and a most pleasant evening was enjoyed by the following young ladies: Misses Mary Courtney Jones, Celia Gerald, Helen and Mary Newell, Sara Lawrence, Sarah Hollis, Gertiwyl Vinson, Pauline Hogan, Elizabeth Hogan, Helen Roberts, Ruth Gowan, Eloise Rasberry, Nell Ross Mullins, Elizabeth Williams, Dixie Johnson and Dorothy Waite.

YOUR CHILD AND THE SCHOOL

By Dr. ALLEN G. IRELAND
Director, Physical and Health Education New Jersey State Department of Public Instruction

Playground Accidents

To be content with the old saying "accidents will happen" is to be old fashioned.

We have suffered and lost too long under that indifferent attitude. The modern idea is to do something about it. Not just talking to children, for that is out, along with scolding, preaching, and threatening. We have a guardianship to serve, and an important responsibility falling to school officials is to recognize every possible accident situation and to erect every safeguard available.

By no means does this mean curtailing the normal activities of children. Such action would be little short of criminal. It means, rather, that the facilities we provide for children's activities shall be as free of hazards as we can make them. Are there hazards at your school? That significant question introduces a new line of thought into this series. It is an inexhaustible subject, so more later.

How can children's spring play be made safe? Dr. Ireland will discuss this problem next week.

TOWNSEND IN REVERSE

We don't claim a great deal of credit for it but the fact is that we have a Townsend plan all our own. What we propose is simply to stand the Townsend on its head.

Instead of paying pensions to everyone over sixty, we suggest that a pension of $200 a month be paid to each person between the ages of 20 and 50 who will agree to stop work at once and devote his entire time to spending his money.

This is not so crazy as it sounds. The object of the Townsend plan is to put money into circulation, and everyone knows that the young can spend twice as fast as the old. Furthermore, our plan would enable Americans to complete their education, marry, travel and practice the fine arts of living while they are still in the prime of life.

Along with these features, our plan would put the work of the world into the hands of those best able to handle it. Citizens over fifty can work longer and harder than the young, never come to the office with a hangover, are not upset by love affairs, and have long since outgrown the idea that they are smarter than the boss.

Maybe our plan is cuckoo, but if it is, we defy the world to show us why and where.—Cambridge Chronicle.

Somehow or other Secretary Wallace reminds us of a fellow who is trying to put a 28-inch tire on a 30-inch wheel.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert

For some time the political correspondents regaled us with stories of leftist movements, so-called, in the Democratic party. We were told of dissatisfaction on the part of the more radical elements with certain administration moves. Senator Huey Long, of Louisiana, and Father Coughlin, of Michigan, loomed large in the headlines. They still do, because both men are colorful and of the kind that seem just naturally to "make news."

Now, however, there is beginning to rise a "liberal" movement in the Republican party, and we are told of plans for a meeting in the Middle West in which leaders like Dr. Glenn Frank, William Allen White and others are going to try to awaken the dormant G. O. P. and make it a "live, liberal, fighting organization." A great many political experts told us that most of the liberals went from the Republican to the Democratic party in 1934. Evidently, however, many of the leaders did not and these leaders seem to disbelieve the statement that the 45 per cent of the voters who endorsed the elephant last year were tried and true Republican standpatters who were not to be coaxed off the path by promises of New Deal prosperity or government relief. Evidently they are of the opinion that the only way the Republican party can survive and keep those several million voters lined up behind the elephant is to reconstruct the organization along "liberal" lines so that it will look more like the present Democratic party—pachyderm disguised as a donkey, so to speak.

Some political experts are inclined to disagree with this purported Midwestern theory. They are of the opinion that there are still several million conservative voters left in the United States, in the Democratic party as well as the Republican party. They are willing to admit that there are several million liberals and radicals too, but there seem to be getting to be about as many liberal and redical parties as they are radical and liberal voters. These observers believe that a Republican party tending to the left not only will fail to attract conservative votes but will find a great deal of competition out along the left line of battle.

Of course the Republican party cannot win with a set of fossil candidates or with a platform which dates back to "54-40 or fight." But at the same time it is going to be interesting to see just what will be proposed as a set of "liberal" principles for a rejuvenated liberal Republican party. Will these include federal regulation of business in the nation and in the state? Will they include the plowing under of corn and cotton and the destruction of cattle to give the farmer higher proces for what he has destroyed? Will they include the final end of individualism and the ushering in of a completer era of federal responsibility? If so the framers of the platform will find that they still have competition from real "liberals," fellows who can build a structure so far to the left without falling that it would make the leaning tower of Pisa look like the Washington monument.

On the other hand, if the builders of the revived G. O. P. should write a declaration of principles calling for a balanced budget, federal economy and sound money and a return to American individual initiative, their declaration would be denounced by other "liberal" factions as the last word in plutonic conservatism and reaction.

Politicians in Washington who favor the return of the administration in 1936 were somewhat perturbed recently by what looked like a radical revolt from the administration party. They have been just as perceptibly cheered by reports of a prospective fight in the Republican organization which may divide Western Republicans from conservatively minded people in the East. Some observers have been mean enough to say that these politicians are encouraging such a scrap. Of course there may be no factional fight inside the Republican ranks at all. But at any rate a lot of folks at Washington who hold no love for the Republicans are chuckling over the prospects, and are wondering whether it will not be necessary after all to form another new party to give the millions of so-called conservatives a chance to vote.

WILL NRA BE DROPPED

The NRA has been deflated so rapidly and completely that the tendency grows to drop it altogether. The pendulum swings from one extreme to the other—and nether extreme s good.

This nation profits from low industrial prices—and will profit from them in times like this, when buying is so essential to re-employment.

The ability to turn out goods at low unit prices is the secret of the industrial supremacy of the United States. It has learned how to overcome the obstacle of high overhead and distributing costs by mass production.

Low costs for industrial goods at the present time will help the position of the farmer who has been handicapped because his prices were lower. They will help on all salaries and all employed for wages.

The NRA interfered with his ability to set low prices by arbitrary price-fixing. It forced up prices and the result was a bar to the employment of more men. The price-fixing factors now have been removed and prices are adjusting themselves.

At the same time, there is a point beneath which prices cannot go without working even greater hardships. When price-cutting starts the competition, vicious as it is, must be met. When low prices are obtained by means of sweatshops, they must be met. The honest and legitimate manufacturer—and there are many of them—is prevented from maintaining the good wages and working conditions he has established. And the worker suffers as much as the manufacturer.

It is essential that some effective and adequate method be found of preventing these subversive and corroding price-cutting practices. Perhaps the NRA is not the way. A federal judge has ruled that it is not attuned to the spirit of the Constitution. There are scores of factors in the situation which deserve detailed and sincere study. The problem should be taken up aggressively and the best business thought of the country brought to bear upon a solution of the problem involved.

WE WILL STAY OUT

There is of course no wonder that little if any favorable comment was elicited by M. Litvinoff's purported suggestion to Captain Anthony Eden, during their conference at Moscow, that the United States be invited to join in a a five-power pact guaranteeing peace in the Orient. Uncle Sam, at this time, is entirely too wise to join any pacts which are apt to result in war rather than peace. We will join no entangling agreement either in the Orient or in Europe.

Litvinoff's purpose is easy to understand. He is afraid that some time his nation will go to war with Japan over China. He claims that Japan wants to dominate China and Japan claims, with equal justice, that Russia would like to Sovietize China and make it a red state. If Uncle Sam should be hamstrung and placed in a Far East "peace" pact then it might be comparatively easy to make Japan the "aggressor" in any war which started and put Uncle Sam on the position of defending Soviet interests in the Far East. This would be doubly handy to the Red because, in the case of war, Russia could then withdraw her best forces to face Poland and Germany, if necessary, and depend on Uncle Sam to furnish most of the forces in the Orient.

If Litvinoff had any sense of humor he would "laugh himself to death" in making any "agreement" suggestion after the way the Soviet-American conference turned out in Washington. It will be remembered that Mr. Litvinoff was there and that in return for American recognition we were promised billions in Russian trade and the repayment of some very stale debts. In good faith, we recognized the Soviet government. But not a dollar has appeared on the debts and our trade with Russia has declined rather than increased. After that experience Mr. Litvinoff must at least have smiled behind his hand in making another suggestion for a pact with America. But having placed rings around our diplomats once he may think he can do it again. It is reported that British, French and Italian diplomats are now flirting diplomatically with Soviet Russia. It is to be hoped for their own sakes that they know what they are doing. A Soviet agreement with a capitalist nation is worth about as much as an ice cube in an artic blizzard.

ENGLAND "IN THE BLACK"

When it comes to balancing budgets and pointing the way out of depressions, we must hand the prize to Great Britain. She is just as skillfully turning red to black on the books at home as she is in making black look like white at diplomatic conferences.

Last year Great Britain had a treasury surplus of Lx31,000,000. This year, with the breaks against her, including some unsatisfactory financial transactions with Germany, and with a little larger tax collection than the year before, she still shows a surplus of seven and a half million pounds. The Boston Transcript very properly points out that this surplus just represents what John Bull owes us on account for repudiated debt obligations, but even if he had paid, and then broken even at home it would have been a pretty good financial record for 1934. If you don't believe it just look at our balance sheet.

The noteworthy fact, of course, is that Great Britain has accomplished this feat under adverse conditions in a very unsettled Europe without the aid of New Deals, Brain Trusts or independent movements. She has stuck to time-tried methods and has found them effective. The Transcript does well to mention this "undetermined avoidance of extravagant projects of governmental expenditures and experiment and adds that "from this latter conservatism the United States could learn a useful lesson" and continues:

"Britain has been doing serious, sober work along well-established lines and on tried and tested principles, without any elaborate New Deal and certainly without giving ear to the demagogues. American orators of this type, who pretend omniscience, seem to be recognized in Great Britain for just what they are; namely, men of ignorance."

We don't know who the wise, efficient "Mr. Britling" is who has brought about this budget balancing. But we do know one thing. If the League of Nations were a baseball league and we could get in for a few days and trade Tugwell, Wallace, Richberg and Hopkins to England for Britling, we could afford to throw in a catcher's mask and a first baseman's glove. The trouble of course is that John Bull is a lot better trader than Uncle Sam. He would probably succeed in giving us George Bernard Shaw for the Brooklyn Bridge.

Speaking of the coming American Professor Jenks, noted anthropologist of the University of Minnesota, is quoted as predicting that the typically future American will be the only fairly tall, dark eyed, dark haired and darker skinned than the present typical American. He might also have added that he probably will have callouses on his shoulders from leaning on the government.

Man In The Moon

"GENTLEMEN" OF THE JURY

Well, sir, at last Alabama has arrived. Of course, I don't expect to see Negroes sitting on juries here in Chilton County, but I get a great kick out of riding my "dear friends" the Democrats for putting negro names in our jury boxes. I know, as well as anyone, that the move is one to remove the last obstacle to making the "Scottsboro boys" pay the penalty they are due for their crime, but I'm having lots of fun deviling these "lily white" Democrats while it is all going on. Personally, I don't think that Negroes are competent jurors; I don't think they should be placed in jury boxes, but it is the law, and we must abide. I'm going to get a great kick out of attending court the first time there are negro jurors present. Although they'll never sit on cases, yet they most certainly will be called for duty. Don't doubt that for a minute. When I will have my fun is when some of our good old dyed-in-the-wool Demmies are called for jury duty, and have to take their seats alongside some of the colored gentry. Boy, old boy! I can just see them now, as they will glance slyly at their "seat mates" in the jury box. I can think of a lot of these good old Demmies that have been in the habit of yelling "white supremacy" every time they had a chance. What a riding they are in for. I may have to take a whipping for it, but it will be worth it. Think of it! This is the first time in the history of the country when "lily white" Democrats have been in power all the way from constable to president, and it is the first time that a law has been laid down here in Alabama by the governor that says that we "must nave negro jurors." Now, I ask you — "ain't we got fun?"

$3.00 AUTO TAGS

Last year, while the race for governor was on, I heard lots of talk about reducing the price of automobile tags. If I remember aright, all of the aspirants for the big chair promised a reduction in the price of these tags. And if my ears did not play me a trick, and my memory is still good, Col. Bibb Graves stood in the Chilton County court house one day, and went so far as to set out a schedule of prices for the tags, with the small ones (like those used by us poor Chevrolet and Ford owners) selling for $3.00 each. And I expect that little speech got hte Colonel quite a few votes. But since then, it isn't Col. Graves any more, but Governor Graves now. Gov. Graves made another speech to the new Alabama legislature lately, and I read the whole thing through, but not one time did I notice where the new governor mentioned anything about reduction of the price of auto tags. I wonder if this has just slipped Gov. Graves' official mind, or was it just another campaign promise, made to be broken, and expected to be taken as such. Maybe he just hasn't gotten around to that yet, but noticing that he brought in something in his campaign speech about "those who help me bake the pie shall help me eat it," and noticing, too, that he has been pretty busy seeing this promise through, I couldn't help thinking that maybe a little gnetle reminder might cause some of his "flock" to call on him to make good on the tag promise. The Lord knows we need something done about it—pretty soon, too.

SOME NEEDED CHANGES

If the state's lawmaking body gets around to attending to this little matter of adjusting the cost of license plates for automobiles and trucks, there are a few other changes which might not be amiss. We are told that the price of the plates may be cut something like 40 per cent. That would help. But let's look around us a bit, and see how some of the other states handle this auto business. We are not too wise to take advice, and we MIGHT learn something. In some of the states—in fact, most of them—before a person is allowed to drive a motor vehicle he must pass a certain traffic test, and then he is given his "driver's license." This generally consists of several questions regarding simple traffic laws, what to do with a car or truck under certain traffic conditions, etc. Then a "trial drive" is made, the applicant at the wheel and a traffic officer riding with him and checking up on his driving ability. If he cannot pass this test, he is not given his license, and is not allowed to drive a motor vehicle. On the other hand, if he passes his test, he receives his license, but always with the understanding that for flagrant violations of the traffic laws he may have his license revoked, which would bar him from driving for a certain period of time. This insures the motoring public that none but competent drivers will be encountered. Too, habitual users of intoxicants are subjected to a rigid nerve test, and a special clause written into their licenses to take care of this problem. Another thing that some states take care of is group or blanket insurance. In California, for instance, the state provides insurance against accidents when license plates are purchased, and the premium (which is very little) is paid at the same time auto tax and license plate fees are paid. In this way, in case a car is in a collision with another car, both are insured for all damages, material and personal. Sounds pretty sensible, doesn't it? We can have the same laws apply right here in Alabama. We need some such changes, and there could be no better time to apply them than now, when we have the matter up for consideration.

GOSH—THESE DEMOCRATS

If there are any among you, my fellow Republicans, who have been enduring the bitter taste of gall and wormwood, politically, then, "Lift up your eyes, for your redemption draweth nigh." You are not the only ones who are fed up on the New Deal. An election was held in Michigan a few days ago, and ALL REPUBLICAN CANDIDATES WON BY BIG MARGINS! And by the way, I'll bet you haven't read anything in the Montgomery Advertiser, nor the Birmingham News nor the Age-Herald about it, either—at least, I have not, and I read these papers pretty closely every day. When Chicago elected a new Democratic mayor a few days ago, these papers dug up the biggest type they could find in their shops with which to set the headlines about it, but when the whole state of Michigan went Republican, they didn't hear about THAT. That's the way the Democratic papers of the South tell the story to their readers. They give you only one side of the picture. But in our humble way, and with the Lord giving us the necessary strength we intend to tell the other side of it. And there will be plenty—the Democratic sun is beginning to sink—AGAIN.

Another thing, I don't suppose you have heard much about it, but the real conscientious Democrats of the country, and especially some of the Democratic congressional brethren, are forever taking a fall out of the bunch of misfits at the head of our government. Three of these big shots who have gone on the war path of late are Senator Tydings of Maryland, Senator Murphy of Iowa, and Senator Byrd of Virginia, all lifelong Democrats, and former wheel horses for the New Deal. These men are honest, however, and have grit enough to buck when they see things running amuck. I'll quote them. All these quotations are from speeches made in the senate. Senator Tydings says:

"The Democratic Party has violated its pledges, ignored its platform, and has done the things for which it is criticized by sincere and intelligent citizens. We cannot go on running the government on hot air, and on money pulled down from the heavens, and which American taxpayers will have to pay back. The platform upon which we were all elected promised everything — we won, and have promptly forgotten to make good on ANY of those promises. We promised a revival of world trade, a balanced budget, and to pay as we went. We have managed affairs so as to lose a great part of the world trade we did have, we have failed miserably in regard to the budget, and we are running the country nito debt to the tune of some $7,000 a minute. We cannot spend and borrow our way back to prosperity, and there is not a man among you who believes we can. In your heart you say 'I agree with you,' yet you are either afraid or too proud to say so—out loud. Unless we about face and turn back to sanity we will rue the day we did the things we are doing today."

Senator Murphy said:

"Practically all of the senate's work is merely palliative, and altogether too little of it is constructive."

Senator Byrd had money on his mind. Here are the figures he quoted to his Senatorial brethren:

"The federal government alone is spending $13,00 each and every minute, day and night, and $7,000 of this is being added to the public debt, for our children to pay off. The generations to come will have just reason to shrug their shoulders when our names are mentioned, and speak of us as something that just had to happen, even if it was bad. From George Washington's first term to the first term of Woodrow Wilson—31 presidential terms, 124 years—the federal government spent $24,521,845,000. The appropriations the present administration has made to cover THREE years amount to $24,206,533,000—almost as much as was spent in the first 124 years of our nation's history. In order to show more clearly just how much money this is, we will break it down into small figures. It is enough to allow $12 for every man, woman and child on the face of the earth today. It is enough to give $1,000 to every family in the United States. If we have done away with "ox-cart" methods of government, and taken on a modern method, and if this is the ratio in which the two systems compare, for the sake of future opinion of our sanity, for the sake of our nation and our children, let's get back to the "ox-cart" system."

That's the "lay of the land," folks. We are not the only ones who are suffering. The yoke of semi-bondage which the present autocratic officials have laid on an already suffering people is beginning to chafe—has been chafing for some time, and is now becoming unbearable. Watch for the fire works!

GLIMPSES

Let's go around over town a bit, and see what's going on. There is the whole law force, police and all, and they're juggling over something — somebody is out of luck and into trouble, or soon will be. Marion Gore hunting change for a quarter. Bill Easterling's ice is all melting—he hasn't opened up yet, and its 10:00 o'clock. J. E. Easterling's Woco Pep force greasing someone's car—Ted Littlejohn's face looks like it is getting most of the grease, though. A bunch of "cokes" going to the courthouse—must be the time for "the pause that refreshes." "Spud" Calloway bringing in someone's car for repairs and to have a fender straightened—I can feel for the poor fellow who owns it. Judge Lee Smith and Mayor Fenn Jones chuckling—I wonder if the joke has anything to do with last November 6th. Leo Thompson with somebody's dirty "britches" on his arm. Mr. Tiffin with a load of furniture—somebody's nest to be feathered. "Uncle Bob" Sumner, Mr. Lawrence and Mr. McCutcheon talking—wonder if gas is due for a hike. Sam Martin passes with a hearse—gives me the creeps. Editor Mack Wyatt scans the cloudy sky—that storm pit may come in handy yet. Bill Coggins with his freight truck—there's a guy who turns his back when he takes his pay, I'll bet. "Uncle Lige" Bates and a yoke of yearlings—oh, for the good old days. A big bread truck stops right in the middle of the street—I wonder if those guys think the streets are alleys for loading and unloading, and if they never heard that you can park one of those things. Tom Littlejohn, "Dick" Hayes and George Polk all having a confab—wonder what they are plotting against each other. Another transfer truck stopped out in the street—if two of those big fellows ever stop even with each other, somebody will have to detour. Music in the air—or is it music?—yep, Vatchel Lindsey giving a solo rendition of "The Trash Pile Blues." DeWitt Easterling's cafe is crowded out—smells good around here, too—that reminds me, I'm due for lunch pretty soon. Can't miss that. I'll have to glimpse the others later.—Man in the Moon.

SCHEME TO INCREASE POVERTY

In an article in the March Scientific Monthly, Dr. Harold G. Moulton, president of the Brookings Institution, expresses the fallacy of the thirty-hour week as a means of recovery, and in so doing virtually condemns the New Deal theory and projects. By a point to point analysis he shows that a thirty-hour week would involve a simultaneous increase in wage rates and a decrease in productive efficiency. The volume of output would be declining at the same time that the payment of wages would be increasing. "This," he says, "would perforce result either in bankrupting business or in a rise in prices more rapid than the expansion of payrolls. If the former alternative resulted we obviously would not have recovery, but rather greatly intensified depression. In the latter alternative the rapid advance in prices would nullify the increased money wages."

Real wages would be reduced by the rise in prices while the fixed salary people would be even more subject to a reduced standard of living. The farmer would suffer from increased prices of what he bought without any decrease in his working time and reduced productive efficiency, plus higher prices, would hand our foreign morkets over to the other nations.

This exposure of the fallacy of the thirty-hour week as a means of recovery and reemployment is logically an exposure of the fallacy of the whole New Deal policy, as it has thus far been applied to industries and agriculture. It has cost a lot of money so far and promises to cost much more.—The Springfield Union.

Maybe Huey Long intends to show us a new stream-line political machine if he goes into action next year.

President Roosevelt, Senator Huey Long and Father Coughlin are in perfect agreement in one particular. Not one of the three seems to be concerned about the national government being "in the red." That fact could not be more carefully ignored by them in their public utterances if they had "in conference" pledged themselves not to dilate upon it.—Charleston News and Courier.

About the only difference we can see in the European situation is that formerly the allies knew from their own observation that Germany was arming and now Hitler has told them. Maybe the allies are like the woman who knew her husband was untrue to her but didn't want to be told about it.

The Alabama State Legislature Reconvenes On April 30, 1935

Will Alabama have a sales tax which will touch every person and every family in the state?

Will the state plan for rural electrification, make electricity available to the farm home?

Will the state ratify the child labor federal amendment giving the federal government control over all children under 18 years of age?

Will they reduce our Automotive License tag fee? Will they exempt small homes of taxes?

These and other subjects important to the welfare of every citizen of the state will be settled in a legislative session beginning April 30, and ending probably late in June.

Never in the history of Alabama has there been so many questions of vital importance to be settled in one session of the Legislature.

The Montgomery Advertiser with its staff-writers of many years experience covering the Capitol news gives you all this as no other Alabama newspaper can.

GRAZING LESPEDEZA

Land in winter grains on which lespedeza has been spring sown may be pastured after the grain is cut, without much damage to the lespedeza if animals are kept off when the field is too wet. This has been the result of experiments by the United States Department of Agriculture and the experience of farmers who have grown lespedeza. It may be necessary to help the lespedeza get started by stopping pasturing for a short time after the grain crop has been grazed down or harvested.

At the department farm at Beltsville, Md., lespedeza was spring sown on winter barley growing on ordinary soil which had not been fertilized. One plot was grazed—after the barley was cut—from July 28 until the last of October. A third plot was not grazed that year. The next year the first two plots furnished as satisfactory grazing as the third, although the number of plants per square foot was less. This ability of lespedeza to withstand heavy grazing and the fact that it is at its best in the summer months when grasses lose quality, makes it valuable in any pasture.

The acreage of lespedeza in the southeastern states and the Ohio and lower Mississippi valleys is likely to increase this year—partly because of the value of lespedeza as a pasture crop, particularly on poor soils, is becoming increasingly evident.

SUPPORT OF CCC PROGRAM

Montgomery, Ala.—That one of the most prominent features of the president's reconstruction program is the development of forestry through CCC camps on lands more valuable for this purpose than for any other use, is stated by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. An essential condition to the allocation of the camps, however, is that the state must assume responsibility for the maintenance of the works constructed, according to the commission. States with substantial forestry appropriations are thus enabled to obtain more camps than those in which little state treasury money is available, since the former are able to render the required guarantees with adequate assurance that they will be fulfilled.

The Emergency Conservation Work, which is performed by the CCC camps, expends on the average approximately a quarter of a million dollars per camp per annum. When a camp remains in a community for a year or more this represents a very important contribution to local business. Naturally, for this reason and for other obvious ones, each state is desirous of obtaining as many projects as possible. However, the matter of guarantees as to maintenance has been a deterrent factor in those states in which the appropriations for forestry have been very low. This was the case in Alabama, where federal funds to the amount of more than seven and one quarter million dollars have been expended on ECW projects under the supervision of the state commission of forestry, while the state's financial particpation has been very close to zero.

With the extremely restricted financial resources of the state forestry and park department, it was not felt that the guarantees offered by Alabama could be regarded as adequate for an expansion or continuation of the emergency conservation work. However, the act of the Alabama legislature approved February 5, amending certain sections of the code of 1923, permitted the commission of forestry to make the necessary pledges and placed the state in line for the reallocation of a large number of existing camps and the assignment of a number of new camps, based upon the provisions of the new act. It is anticipated that there will be a ratio of about $100 of federal money for every $1 of state money expended in Alabama on the president's reconstruction program through the CCC camps under the supervision of the state commissoin of forestry during the next two years.

PLEASANT HILL

Everything seems to be moving along nicely in our community. Our Sunday school Sunday was the best we have had in a long time. We had a large crowd out with us and each one seemed to be in high gear, and that of course makes our Sunday school grow.

Sunday night those that failed to get out for our B. T. U. program missed the best program we have put on, as we have only had our B. T. U. organized a short while. We are just now getting lined up.

We had several visitors with us on Sunday night. We invite them back again.

On next Sunday, April 21st, we are going to have an Easter program at Pleasant Hill church, beginning at ten o'clock and from eleven until twelve our pastor, Rev. W. E. Robinson, will have charge. Don't miss these services as it will be well worth your time, and Sunday afternoon is our regular singing. It will begin at two o'clock. We invite everyone who can to try and be with us as we are expecting a grand day.

A Nickel at a Time—

IT costs a few cents a day to have a telephone—but it costs as much or more to try to do without it.

You pay for doing without a telephone a nickel at a time. Instead of calling the grocer or druggist, you have to make a trip. If you must get in touch with a friend, you have to go in person or send a message. And in bad weather, such trips are none too pleasant.

When an emergency comes and you want a doctor, fireman or the police QUICK—a few minutes delay may be costly. You would give a lot then for a telephone . . .

Let the telephone go to work for you right away. Just get in touch with the telephone business office, or any telephone employe you know. Then make a check, if you like, and you will find your telephone more than pays its way in convenience, comfort and protection.

University News

University, Ala.—Carl Elliot, self-made man from Vina, Ala., who came to the University on a shoe string, and has worked his way through, was chosen president of the student association of the University of Alabama at the annual elections. William Hawley, Bessemer, was unopposed for vice president, while John Innis, Cortland, N. Y., and Young Boozer, Dothan, were victorious in the races for secretary of the student association and president of the Cottillion Club respectively.

For the first time editors and business managers of both publications were appointed by the board of publications. Those appointed were Bill Sturdavent, Knoxville, Tenn., and Kenneth Fisher, University, editor and business manager respectively of the Crimson White weekly; Frank Taylor, Birmingham, and Ed Leland, Demopolis, editor and business manager respectively of the Corolla year book.

The University of Alabama varsity glee club, under the direction of "Uncle Tom" Garner, with all-American tackle and football captain Bill Lee appearing on the program, took a journey through the northern portion of the state last week.

Seven seniors in the College of Education were chosen for membership in Phi Delta Kappa, national honorary scholastic and profession fraternity for men in education. Membership is considered the highest professional honor in the college of education.

A special project involving a study of county finance with the object of gathering all the information obtainable on the ability of counties to finance relief work has been placed by the Alabama Relief Association, under the direction of H. H. Chapman, professor of statistics, and director of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Alabama. Chapman will be assisted by Dr. Paul Alyea, instructor in public finance here.

Some fifteen weeks have been set aside for the gathering of data concerning the population, and the economic and social condition of the various counties. Files of the U. S. Census Bureau and a number of special reports and magazines will be referred to for information. A recent study by Mr. J. H. Hard, former state comptroller, which contains full information concerning the receipts and disbursements of each county government for the preceding four years, will give a considerable and valuable part of the information desired, Mr. Chapman said. Other information will deal with manufactures of the various counties, occupations of the inhabitants, number of automobiles sold in each county, etc. Much of this will be taken from studies and reports of the various state departments.

When the gathering of information has been completed, a careful analysis of all the data will be made and subsequently set forth in the final report. The report and all the information gathered will be filed for general reference. The project is scheduled to be finished some time in July.

Dr. H. L. Caswell of the division of surveys and field studies of Peabody College, Nashville, Tenn., will deliver the special lectures before the seventh annual State Education Conference, to be held at University of Alabama on June 24-26, Dr. John R. McLure, director of the summer school announces.

Dr. McLure stated that in keeping with state and nation-wide movements for curriculum study and revision the program for the annual conference will deal with various aspects of the public elementary and secondary school curriculum, with special application to Alabama. The program will consist of a series of seven lectures and three panel discussions, together with general conferences on the curriculum.

Dr. Caswell is recognized as the leading authority on the subject in the South. He has been general consultant for programs of state curriculum study and revision in Florida, Virginia and Mississippi. In recent years, he has had considerable professional contact with the Alabama curriculum. The Tennessee educator has rendered notable service in connection with outstanding educational surveys, including Montgomery, Ala., Nashville, Tenn., Fort Lee, N. J., Newburgh, N. Y., Lynn, Mass., and the Florida State survey. He has written extensively for leading educational journals of the country. A number of important special studies in education bear his name. He is the co-author of a recent book entitled "Curriculum Development" which has just come from the press.

Dr. Caswell is a graduate of the University of Nebraska and has the Ph D. from Columbia University. He has held positions as high school principal, superintendent of schools, and college professor.

University authorities state that it is fortunate that Dr. Caswell is coming to Alabama at this particular time to give the school forces of the state the benefit of his studies and his knowledge of the field of the curriculum. "Dr. Caswell and others on the program will do much to clarify thinking and help the school people of Alabama to go forward with the improvement of our curriculum offerings and of the classroom work in our schools," it was pointed out.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

There is in the United States today a very unique old minister, known as Bud Robinson, who belongs to the holiness group of ministers. He is such a unique and interesting character all ministers, regardless of whether they believe in holiness or not love Bud Robinson. Strange to say, as much as I have traveled in America I never had the privilege of hearing Bud Robinson until recently. A few weeks ago I had a speaking engagement at the city audtorium in Lakeland, Florida. Bud was in a camp meeting nearby, so I drove out to hear him. I shall always remember one thing he said. "I was preaching recently on Christian graces." Bud said. "I told them we should have all the graces. 'We should be as bold as a lion.' When I said that a man in the front seat looked up as if to say, 'I am.' Then I said, 'A man should be as patient as an ox.' The man in the front seat looked down as if to say, 'I am not.' When I finished my message I called for people who wanted prayer for grace to meet the temptations of life to come kneel at the front seat. The man on the front seat came to the mourner's bench and said, 'God, give me some more ox.'" At the close of the service I had lunch with that grand old man, Dr. Henry C. Morrison, who possibly has more elements of a great preacher than any other living man. I asked Dr. Morrison if he knew any Christian worker who didn't need more ox and Dr. Morrison said, "Bob, it takes a lot of ox in the modern world to be a Christian and do your duty." So I would like to join the man at the mourner's bench in his prayer, "God, give us more ox."

The fourteenth Chapter of Romans should be read prayerfully every day by Christian people. To my mind the highest standard of Christian living is set forth in this chapter, yet it seems so fair and reasonable. In substance the chapter teaches that salvation is by grace and that every Christian in grace has certain liberties. It is plain that Christians may disagree about what they can consistently do. This right to differ is granted in the fourteenth chapter of Romans. However, one Christian is not to even enjoy his liberty and to do what he thinks he has a right to do if in so doing he might influence another Christian to do something that the other Christian feels he has no right to do. In other words a Christian has no right to do anything if in his mind there is a question about whether the thing is right. He is to always give God the benefit of the doubt. If he has a question in his mind about whether the thing is right and then does it, the fourteenth chapter of Romans says the thing that he does is wrong. A Christian may do a certain thing and thus influence somebody else to do the same thing when the other person thought it was wrong; then he has no right to do it. In other words, we as Christians, are to give up our own liberty under grace rather than to cause a Christian brother to stumble.

RIGINAL

G. O. P. ALMOST FREE OF DEBTS

Will Face the 1936 Campaign Virtually Out of the "Red"

Chicago, April 15.—The Republican party, having reduced its deficit by nearly a quarter of a million dollars since the last presidential election, is heading toward the 1936 campaign virtually out of the "red."

Within the next thirty to sixty days, said George F. Getz, the national committee will meet to plan further contributions. It was under Getz's "pay-as-you-go" basis during the year and a half he has been treasurer of the G. O. P. national committee that the party's financial status has neared solvency.

It was with no little degree of satisfaction that Getz sat in his offices overlooking Lake Michigan today and surveyed the latest report on the minority party's monetary situation.

For the statement showed a deficit of only $6,617.86 and that will be cut by $5,000 he said when he calls in New York for a donation of the latter amount awaiting his next trip east.

On his desk, alongside the G. O. P. accounting, lay the most recent record of the democratic treasury's standing which he said disclosed a net indebtedness of $520,670.94. Both were as of last March 1.

And comparison of the two wreathed his face in a smile.

"When I took office November 1, 1933, the committee was faced," he said, "with a deficit from the 1932 campaign of about $210,000, contracted mostly during the last 30 days of the drive to re-elect President Hoover.

"I agreed to take the job only on the condition I could conduct it on a pay-as-you-go basis, and it certainly has paid.

"We received practically no money from then until June, 1934. We didn't go out and campaign for funds, and a few of us met the expenses of the national committee."

In June, 1934, Getz said, the national committee met to elect a new chairman, and at a preliminary meeting he presented the treasurer's report showing a deficit at that time of $206,638.89, which did not include interest and office rent due of about $10,000.

After considerable wrangling — he chuckled as he recalled it—representatives of the various states pledged $214,000 to meet the deficit. Some paid in full, others in part and yet others not at all, said Getz.

W.M. POLK STATE TAX SUPERVISOR

To Represent Tax Commission In Counties of Chilton, Shelby, Autauga

Mr. W. M. Polk, prominent business man of Clanton, member of the firm of Polk Brothers Motor Company, received official notice Tuesday of his appointment by Governor Graves to the position of Tax Agent of the state tax commission for the counties of Chilton, Shelby and Autauga. His appointment is effective as of April 24th.

The commission of Mr. Polk states that in a general way he will serve in an advisory capacity with tax assessors and boards of review in the different counties, seeking to bring about an equalized valuation of all property, and serve the ends of justice in tax matters both from the standpoint of the property owner and the State of Alabama.

Among the detailed instructions given to Mr. Polk in his commission it was noted that he was warned against allowing lower tax valuations than already exist. It was stated that the Tax Commission is of the opinion that the trend toward lower valuations in recent years has brought property generally down to the minimum figure it should represent for taxation purposes, and the state authorities do not contemplate any lower scale than the present.

This, however, does not appear to draw the interest of tax officials away from the principle of properly equalized valuations, which, it is pointed out, is the fundamental purpose of taxation.

The many friends of Mr. Polk in the three counties of Chilton, Shelby and Autauga, will be glad to learn of his appointment to this responsible position. He is a man of competent and thorough business ability. He has a practical knowledge of values and a wealth of experience gained in long and successful business career that will enable him to fill the position creditably.

EVAN PARRISH SOLD BUSINESS

Southern Seed and Plant Co. Is Purchased By Farmers Exchange

Announcement is made this week of the sale of the business of the Southern Seed & Plant Co., of Clanton, by Mr. Evan Parrish, to the Chilton County Exchange, Incorporatde. Operation of the business in the future will continue at the same location by the new ownership with Mr. Parrish continuing in the capacity of manager. He will have as his assistants the same helpers as heretofore, Mr. Cornelius (Kernel) Hand, Julian Evans and S. A. Jones.

It is interesting to the many friends and customers of Mr. Parrish to know that the authorities of the Chilton County Exchange, Inc., chose to buy his business and have him continue to operate it for them, rather than to establish another business of the same kind in Clanton. It was stated that, after investigation of the splendid setup of the business of Mr. Parrish, and considering the good-will he has so successfully built up among the farmers whom he has served in recent years, his own services and knowledge of the business would be a very great asset to the farmers who compose the Chilton County Exchange. Hence, the transaction that places the business under the Exchange operation, and the employment of Mr. Parrish for the important position of manager.

The Chilton County Exchange, Incorporated, is a local unit of a nation-wide organization of farmers, op-

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION HERE SATURDAY NIGHT-SUNDAY

Prof. O. L. Devaughn, president of the Chilton County Singing Society, asks that the people be reminded of the spring session of the convention which meets at the courthouse this coming Saturday night and Sunday. Singing Saturday night begins at 7:30 o'clock sharp, and will last for two hours to two hours and a half. Singing Sunday morning begins at 10:30. This time of beginning has been set back 30 minutes from the usual time so as to give Sunday schools opportunity to get through their work.

Word has been received that Prof. J. R. Baxter and Mr. Foshee and their wives from Chattanooga will be here for both singings. So will W. Lee Higgins of Boaz, Ala.

A letter from Lawrenceburg, Tenn., says that the LaFevre Trio and Mr. W. B. Walbert from the Vaughan Company will be here both Saturday night and Sunday. Other notables are expected.

Present indications are that this will be the best session of the convention held in many years. The night session is a new adventure; but those who attend this are assured of the best singing of all.

CHILD WELFARE BOARD MEETING

Special Emphasis Placed On Program For The Aid of Crippled Children

The meeting was called to order by Judge Smith, who asked that Miss Meroney take charge of the program. Miss Meroney explained that the object of calling a meeting of the board members was to get before them the work the child welfare superintendents in Alabama were doing concerning the sale of the crippled children's seals and Chilton County's part of this work. Miss Meroney introduced Mr. E. H. Gentry, supervisor of vocational rehabilitation, who gave a very interesting discussion on crippled children and the vocational rehabilitation program. Mr. Gentry explained that the organization for the care of crippled children was not only state-wide but national in extent. The Alabama society for crippled children is Alabama's unit of the national organization for the crippled children. The easter sales of seals for crippled children has been carried forward in other states for a number of years although this is Alabama's first time to attepmt this plan of raising funds for the care of cripples. He explained that the set-up in Alabama is a joint project of the state department of education, the state health department and the state child welfare department. Through the efforts of these three groups some very splendid work has been done along this line in the past. Mr. Gentry cited several instances in which citizens of Chilton County have been training or treatment or both, which has enabled them to become successful citizens. He pointed out further that from the Roosevelt Ball fund, five crippled children are now under care in this county and others are ready to be cared for as soon as plans can be worked out for them.

The second speaker on the program was Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, director of relief in Chilton County. Miss Austin gave a report to the board of the plans that had been made for unemployables who were removed from relief on February 1st. She also gave a report on a discussion held at a

Jemison Girls At Montevallo

Eight delightful girls and their no less happy chaperone left April 11 on a trip which they will always remember. And no wonder, they had a grand time while there and they also had to work hard to receive the honor of going.

The reader would doubtless like to know what the trip was and who went. The trip was to Alabama College at Montevallo; the girls were home economics students of Jemison High School, and they represented various phases of that course, as follows: food preparation, Kelly Moore and Estelle McCarty; meal planning, Addye Jayne Curry; child care, Clara Thomas Payne; afternoon dress, Nell Traywick; school dress; Minnie Merle Smith; home care of sick, Melba Patton and Ruth Reynolds. The chaperone was their home economic teacher, Miss Leacy Newell.

Three of the girls won prizes and brought one back to a fourth. Clara Thomas Payne won first prize on child care; Kelly Moore and Estelle McCarty won third prize on food preparation and Vesta Smith was awarded second prize on her entry in children's clothing.

You may be assured that everything that they did was done thoroughly; such as "Touring" the college and town, enjoying other contests in which they did not participate, playing pranks upon one another, and, last, but not least, sliding down that famous marvel, the fire escape.

They returned Saturday, April 13, tired but happy, bothered by nothing but the pitiful fact that all of the home economics girls had not gone with them.

KING COTTON THREATENED

Immediate Action by President Roosevelt Toward Sound Agricultural Policy Is Needed.

(Editorial in The Atlanta Georgian)

The Hearst papers have repeatedly warned the people of the United States, and particularly the people of the South, that they were losing their cotton markets because of the stupid and shortsighted measures of the administration at Washington.

Under a barrage of theoretical misconceptions which have been laid down by our visionaries at Washington, the American people have had low visiblity in recognizing significant economic changes which have been taking place in the world.

Suddenly with a jolt, the public has been awakened to the recent spectacular decline in our relative world position as an exporter of cotton, in which until recent months OUR DOMINANT PLACE HAD LONG BEEN UNCHALLENGED.

Since the New Dealers arbitrarily raised American cotton prices and curtailed production, competitive foreign growers of cotton have sniped at us by ACCELERATING THEIR OWN COTTON PRODUCTION.

Though in their conversations with us, foreigners, in seeking loans and other favors, talk in terms of internationalism, the outside nations have been realistically developing their home economies along the lines of a SELF-SUFFICIENT ECONOMIC NATIONALISM.

In cotton, they are doing quietly and unostentatiously what went on almost unnoticed in wheat a decade earlier.

Accordingly, without realizing what was happening, we at length awakened to the fact that we had lost forever our big export market in wheat.

If we are equally asleep in cotton, we are likely to lose our export market in that commodity also.

Talking piously against dumping surplus products on the world's markets, European nations after the war began to dump in the direction of excessive wheat acreage, thus upsetting the existing balance between world supply and demand.

The effect was correspondingly to impoverish the wheat growers in the United States who had expanded their production in accordance with the wartime exhortations of the European nations, as had Australia, Argentina and Canada.

The dumping of new cotton acreage is a permanent, chronic form of dumping, which will, if unchecked, tend to pauperize our cotton growers.

In Brazil, Egypt, Russia, India and even China, competitive growers have taken advantage of the action of our administration in limiting cotton growing and raising cotton prices.

Naturally, foreign buyers have not been willing to pay an excessive premium for American cotton, and were compelled to look elsewhere for cotton supply.

The effect was permanently to shift our customers to competitive suppliers.

Before it is too late, we should formulate an agricultural policy which will permit us, as the dominant producer, to dictate the world price for cotton.

In order to inaugurate a policy which would be helpful to the true economic interests of the United States, we need hard-headed statesmanship at the helm, rather than the visionaries now in command, who are asleep to basic trends which are altering the economic map of the world.

Unless President Roosevelt acts quickly, he will be held personally responsible by the American people for the threat to King Cotton, the staple of the great South.

Tiffin-Klinner Invite You To Come To Their Party Friday and Saturday

Appropriate to the time of the year, approaching hot days, when every housewife begins to think of plans to lighten her work in the home kitchen, Tiffin-Klinner Furniture Company announces this week a special selling and demonstration week, featuring three things that can be made to go a long way toward lightening the burdens of kitchen duty.

These appliances, the modern Sellers Kitchen Cabinet, the Perfection Oil Stove, and the Sanitary all-steel Refrigerator, are being made a special item Friday and Saturday of this week at this popular furniture and home furnishing establishment. Not alone is this a selling event. There are many attractive features which have been arranged by Mr. O. C. Bennett, which will make it an occasion of happy association for all housewives to get together and have a jolly good time.

Factory representatives will demonstrate these nationally famous kitchen appliances. A useful household article will be given to each housewife, who attends. Hot biscuits, cakes and other eats will be served to all who come. Mrs. Jessie Tuggle, cooking expert, who is authority on many recipes, will cook in the store, and will serve the lunches and refreshments.

Here is a most novel and interesting feature that has been planned by Mr. Bennett. A four-quart ice cream freezer will be given to the person owning the oldest refrigerator, any make, now in use. And a 7-piece ice tea set and 200 pounds of ice will be given free with each refrigerator sold.

A porcelain top table for the kitchen will be given to the person owning the oldest kitchen cabinet, any make, now in use. And a 32-piece set of dishes will be given free with each Sellers kitchen cabinet sold.

A room-size congoleum rug will be given to the person owning the oldest oil stove, any make, now in use. And a 6-piece Dutch oven set will be given free with 5 gallons of oil with each Perfection oil stove sold.

In addition to the above prizes given with all sales and to persons owning the oldest appliances named, dozens of other free prizes will be given away at 4:30 p.m., Saturday, April 27, Mr. Bennett announces. All visitors are expected to register and invited to be present at the grand award on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. J. B. Tiffin, proprietor of the store, is enthusiastic about the fine program that is being provided for his friends and customers for this occasion. He declares that in all his experience in selling home appliances, he has never been afforded a better opportunity to make such exceptional offers as will be possible for those who come to his store and take part in this event Friday and Saturday.

Without a doubt, this is going to be one of the grandest occasions of the kind ever presented by a business house in Clanton. Every housewife in Chilton County is urged to attend. You will miss the greatest treat of a lifetime if you miss this one.

Hurt In Wreck

Attorney Percy M. Pitts has been nursing a couple of black eyes and other facial injuries sustained last Sunday night in an automobile accident on the highway north of Jemison.

Mr. Pitts with his family was returning home in their car from a visit to his mother in Jacksonville. As they came down the highway at the George Freeman curve Mr. Pitts was driving directly behind another automobile.

A third automobile going north ran into the car ahead of Mr. Pitts, and then collided with the Pitts car. All three machines were seriously damaged. Mr. Pitts was painfully bruised in the face. Some other members of his family were slightly injured.

It was stated by Mr. Pitts that the wreck was caused by the fact that the car going north which caused the collision was driven by a woman who was drunk. With her were two other women, who were said to be drunk also.

Jemison Student Wins Honor Prize

For Best Essay In Nitrate Contest For All Alabama Students

C. W. Wells, Jr., a student in the Jemison High School and a member of the F. F. A., was recently honored when he received a letter from the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau that he was the winner of the state prize in an essay contest conducted by the bureau in Alabama. The essay was titled, "The Importance of the Rarer Elements in Natural Fertilizer Materials and their Influence on Crop Production and on Animal Nutrition."

Sixty-six schools in Alabama entered this contest with three hundred and sixty-nine students participating. All essays were written on the same subject, with the Chilton County student winner over all and being awarded the $50.00 first state prize. There were nine other prizes awarded to other students over the state.

This is the second year the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau has conducted these contests for vocational students in Alabama and it will be remembered that Ernie Lee Robinson and Charles Nix, both students of the Jemison High School, won first and second district prizes respectively in the contest last year.

This record which is being made by these students of the Jemison school, of which Prof. J. A. Peterson is principal, speaks exceedingly well for the school. The work done by these prize-winning students is conducted under the supervision of Prof. J. P. Montgomery, vocational agricultural instructor at the school.

CITY TO CONTROL PARKING AUTOS

Confusion On Second Avenue On Saturdays Must Be Avoided

Mayor Jones has declared war on indiscriminate and disorderly parking on the main streets of the business district of Clanton. This careless custom of many autoists has grown to be a distinct menace especially on Second Avenue between Sixth and Seventh Streets on Saturdays. At the order of the Mayor, police chief, John Browder began last Saturday seeking to bring order to this district.

It appears that the custom has developed of stopping cars out in the street after the curb spaces have been filled, which not only obstructs the street but prevents cars parked at the curb from getting out. This is a most serious handicap to the public, a hinderance to business and a danger to both pedestrians and motorists.

The determination of the city authorities to correct this menace will be welcomed by everybody.

Mayor Jones makes another suggestion that merchants and employees of the stores discontinue bringing their cars to town on Saturdays and parking them in front of their places of business. The idea is that all possible parking space in the trade district should be left for people who come here to trade.

This is a good idea, and we believe our business people will readily see their own advantage in it as well as the convenience it will render to their customers.

PAVING SELMA ROAD PROPOSED

Chilton Is Asked To Put Up $42,000 As Her Part of The Cost

The question of paving the state highway between Clanton and Selma has taken on new life in recent days, as closer approach is made to the institution of the new and larger federal works plan in Alabama.

A plan is now proposed for paving or hard surfacing the road at a cost of about $6,000 a mile, the money to be provided on a three-way basis by the counties, the state, and federal funds. It is said that Dallas County has her part of the required money ready, and is pulling for final adoption of the proposition.

The matter was presented to the Commissioners Court of Chilton County Monday by Representative Charley Cox, who explained all details as completely as at present available. The matter was discussed and considered by the Chilton Commissioners, but was not acted upon. It is said that Chilton's participation in the project upon the basis suggested would necessitate the county borrowing its quota of the money, about $42,000, at which the Commissioners halted. Probate Judge J. Lee Smith expressed favor toward entering the plan, if anyone could point out how it could be done without borrowing the money.

After the meeting it was stated that the Commissioners will further consider it before taking final action. Possibility of a different plan of procedure in cooperation with other governmental agencies was hinted as likely to make Chilton County better able to take part.

Representative Cox stressed the importance of taking part in this program in order that Alabama might carry out her pledge to make as fully effective as possible the hopes and purposes of the national administration to speed up re-employment and stimulate business generally.

MOTORCYCLE CIRCUS TO BE HELD AT HIGH SCHOOL

Saturday afternoon from 2 until 4 you will see the daredevils, McCormick, Biser and Butler, perform before the public at the Chilton County High School ball park. These boys are considered among the best professional motorcycle riders in the state.

Using their Harley-Davidson motors, you will see them thrill and spill before the crowd. During the afternoon they will perform stunts that other motorcyclists dare not try. During the last three years they have perfected and performed some of the best stunts known to the public today. You will see that famous board wall crasher, Ellsworth Biser, crash his machine through a one-inch board wall, re-enforced by two-by-fours.

This wall is on display on the corner of Main Street and the highway. A reward of $25 dollars is offered to anyone finding a purposely weakened place in this wall. Also watch this young daredevil, Ike McCormick, crash his motor through a solid wall of plate glass. This glass is said to be one of the largest ever crashed.

See these three boys, Ditty, Ike, Pat, strut their stuff Saturday afternoon from 2 until 4 o'clock. There will be an exhibition held Friday afternoon on Main Street, free to the public, at 3 o'clock. Come and bring the family Saturday.

GIRLS CLUBS TO MEET IN AUBURN

Auburn, Ala.—Plans have been completed for some 300 4-H club girls from every section of the state to attend the annual 4-H girls short course to be held here May 28 to June 1.

Miss Elizabeth DeLony, newly-appointed state girls 4-H club agent, has arranged an elaborate program consisting of instruction and demonstrations in many important phases of club work. Also judging contests will be held in clothing, foods, food preservation, and home improvement.

Among the practical demonstrations and lectures for the girls will be those in landscaping, poultry, applied entomology, and the writing of 4-H club news. For entertainment of those who attend, Miss DeLony has arranged for a camp-fire ceremony, picnic and the girls will also enjoy swimming and folk dancing.

FERTILIZERS OF HIGHER GRADE BRING LARGEST PROFITS UNDER COTTON

Auburn, Ala.—Experiments conducted by the Alabama Experiment Station indicate that "at present prices Alabama farmers would be better off to the extent of $15,000,000 if the Alabama cotton crop were fertilized with the right kind and the right amount of fertilizer," reports M. J. Funchess, director of the station.

At present Alabama farmers purchase annually something like 100,000 tons of a 3-8-5, 60,000 tons of a 4-8-4, 36,000 tons of a 3-10-3, 25,000 tons of a 2-11-3, and 20,000 tons of a 4-10-4 fertilizers.

"These various grades have been used in experimental work and compared with such high-grade fertilizers as a 6-10-4 and a 6-8-4," reports Dean Funchess. "A study of the results shows that a 6-8-4 fertilizer when used at the rate of 600 pounds per acre produced $9.20 worth of cotton more per acre than a 1-11-3 grade. Likewise, this 6-8-4 produced $7.48 worth more cotton than a 3-8-5 grade, and $6.66 worth more than a 3-10-3 grade of fertilizer. When compared with a 4-8-4, a 4-10-4, or similar grades with 4 per cent of nitrogen, the 6-8-4 fertilizer produced about $4.25 more per acre than these 4-8-4's, etc."

Beginning with the fertilizer season of 1935 a number of fertilizer companies are beginning to market grades of fertilizer such as 6-8-4 and 6-10-4 as a result of experimental work done by the experiment station.

PLANTING AT STATE NURSERY

Montgomery, Ala.—The planting of seed for production of forest tree seedlings at the state forest nursery has just been completed, according to a statement issued by the Alabama Commission of Forestry. The following amount of seed has been placed in the seed beds: 1,800 pounds longleaf pine, 65 pounds loblolly pine, 143 pounds slash pine, 4 pounds shortleaf pine, 62 pounds bald cypress, 114 pounds red cedar, 20 bushels black walnuts and 30 pounds black locust. Most of the seed was collected in the fall and winter of 1934 by the CCC with the exception of the black locust, loblolly pine and slash pine. Due to a small seed crop of these latter species in the vicinity of the CCC camps it was necessary to purchase an additional quantity to complete the requirements of the nursery. With a favorable growing season it is anticipated that sufficient seedlings will be produced to meet the demands of the landowners interested in reforestation.

STRAWBERRIES ARE RICH IN VITAMIN C

Strawberries, which are being harvested by the carloads in Alabama at present, are rich in vitamin C and rank as an "excellent source of this vitamin which is almost always the most expensive vitamin on the budget but one that no good consumer dares omit from the diet," says the Consumer's Guide published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

"A serving of strawberries weighing four ounces give only a little less vitamin C than a half cup of orange juice and easily takes care of your vitamin C requirement for the day," advises the department.

FUNCHESS TELLS HOW DOUBLE CORN YIELDS

Auburn, Ala.—At a cost of less than 25 cents per bushel for fertilizer, the average Alabama farmer can produce at least twice the amount of corn now produced, announces Dean M. J. Funchess, director of the Alabama Experiment Station, who declares that "Alabama farmers can save nearly $32,000,000 annually, based on the findings of one single experiment with corn.

"In experiments with corn it was shown that phosphate and potash were necessary if corn followed a well fertilized crop like cotton. Experimental work forms a basis for the recommendation that farmers fertilize their cotton well and with a complete fertilizer, and that when corn follows cotton so fertilized both the phosphate and potash be ommitted.

"Experiments show that the addition of 36 pounds of nitrogen per acre increased the average yield of corn by approximately 17 bushels per acre. In other words, the use of 36 pounds of nitrogen to the average acre of corn in Alabama will increase the yield by about 17 bushels at a cost of something like $4 for nitrogen.

"When Alabama farmers learn to produce corn at a modest price, then, and not until then, will they be in position to grow livestock and compete with livestock growers of other section," Dean Funchess concludes.

Hocking, of the extension department of the University of Alabama, will act as leader of the discussion, with H. M. Bixler, of the Y. M. C. A. staff, as chairman.

CARD OF THANKS

I want to thank Dr. Gragg and Miss Robinson and her nurses through your paper, for their kind treatment and nursing to my wife. She couldn't have had any better nursing in any hospital than she received at the Central Alabama hospital. She underwent 5 operations in one and in 15 days days she was back at home doing just fine, and I think that can't be beat at any hospital in the state. I hope every patient will improve like she has, hoping them success in the future.

We also thank Mrs. Gertrude Calloway and other kind ladies for their flowers they brought me while I was there.—Thomas M. Powell and wife.

Game and Fish News

The hunting season just closed demonstrated that wild turkey hunting is coming back into its own in Alabama, says Game Commissioner I. T. Quinn.

As in the past most of the hunting was in the Alabama National Forest and in the turkey territory of southwest Alabama, he said, and added, "There is no question but that there were more turkeys and larger turkeys than the state has seen in years." The commissioner said there were close to 100 gobblers killed in the national forest during the spring season, several of them weighing between 25 and 30 pounds.

Alabama's success in restoring the wild turkey has attracted the attention of many states and the excellent outlook for bringing this fine game bird back has prompted Herbert L. Stoddard, an outstanding authority on game bird management, to make a careful study of the best propagation methods.

As a result of his investigation Mr. Stoddard predicts that wild turkeys will again roam this nation's forests if forestry officials adopt new game management practices which have been successfully used on dozens of southern game preserves. America's largest upland game bird, Mr. Stoddard has discovered, responds readily to the provision of natural food, cover and protection.

He has found that the turkey responds more quickly than the quail where it is given adequate protection from overshooting on large areas of suitable territory. In the federal government's plan for public ownership of large tracts of forested lands he sees an excellent opportunity for wild turkey management.

Commissioner Quinn points to the fact that the state game and fisheries department has convincingly demonstrated in the Alabama National forest that Mr. Stoddard's theory is practicable and workable and he is looking forward to an expansion of the department's turkey propagation program when the four new national forest areas allotted this state are placed under development.

In the creation of new forest tracts Mr. Stoddard suggests that fruits or "mast" of trees and shrubs, seeds of all species of pines, acorns, smilax, black gum, dogwood, wild grapes, and various berries, such as blackberries, dewberries and huckleberries, be planted for the benefit of the wild turkey. He thinks CCC camps can be utilized to great advantage in such a propagation program.

Frank T. Bell, U. S. Commissioner of Fisheries, says the federal bureau of fisheries is ready at all times to cooperate with local organizations in "finding a solution to the urgent and pressing problems of true conservation."

"It is important that the real purposes of conservation be clearly understood," he stated in a recent communication to the Alabama game and fisheries department, "To the layman the term 'conservation' is often something of a misnomer implying a mere hoarding of natural wealth, whereas all who examine the matter properly are aware that this is not the true object at all.

"As John Hays Hammond has said, 'The real purpose of intelligent conservation is simply to guard against wilful waste so that future generations may not be handicapped by woeful want. The real problem of conservation then is plainly a problem of efficient development and wise utilization.

"Although we are faced with the problem of wise use of our lands, our water, our minerals, our forests and our wildlife, I am naturally most concerned with the conservation of our aquatic resources. The water resources are susceptible of development in many different ways. In many localities, the conservation of the water run-off is the fundamental problem, floods must be controlled, droughts decreased and the duration of the ordniary flow of surface water prolonged.

"The promotion of agriculture, the stimulation of commerce, and the development of new industries dependent upon power need not be incompatible with the requirements of migratory fishes if the varying needs of all these industries are harmonized by careful planning. Scientific investigations can, and I believe, will show the way for the harmonious development of all of these various river uses."

VERMONT SCHOOL CLOSES

Vermont Jr. High School closed its 1934-35 term with the graduating exercises being held on last Friday night. The stage was cleverly arranged with a background of a variety of spring shrubbery and roses. The class colors were displayed in a most charming way, which gave a most inviting appeal and effectiveness to the exercises.

The program was grouped into four divisions, each of which was presented in a very attractive manner; the four divisions were, namely: the different class numbers, the presentation of the medals by the American Legion, the baccalaureate address and the presentation of the diplomas.

One of the outstanding features of the exercise was the presentation of the honor certificates and medals by Mr. Mack Wyatt, who had been designated by his Legionnaire buddies to be master of ceremonies. After a brief inspiring address to the classes he then awarded the honors to Francis Kendrick, president of the Jr. III class, and Thurman Milford, most outstanding boy in the Jr. II class.

Following this, Superintendent Little addressed the large number present, using as his subject, "Our Debt to Society." Then came the baccalaureate address by Dr. A. E. Middlebrooks, pastor of the Clanton Methodist church.

The program closed with the presentation of the diplomas and the class song.

On the following morning approximately one hundred and fifty pupils, parents and friends met at the school building, where they were grouped and placed on trucks which carried them to the picnic grounds, located 4 miles north of Jemison, in lovers lane. Even though the weather was raw and threatening, a large dinner was spread by the ladies, and at the end of the day's festivities all were called back and there loaded up on the several trucks, busses, and cars for their return home.

The day was one of great enjoyment for the grown-ups as well as the youngsters.

Thus brings to a close another school term at Vermont.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Farley of Gorgas are visiting relatives here this week.

The Alabama State Legislature Reconvenes On April 30, 1935

Will Alabama have a sales tax which will touch every person and every family in the state?

Will the state plan for rural electrification, make electricity available to the farm home?

Will the state ratify the child labor federal amendment giving the federal government control over all children under 18 years of age?

Will they reduce our Automotive License tag fee? Will they exempt small homes of taxes?

These and other subjects important to the welfare of every citizen of the state will be settled in a legislative session beginning April 30, and ending probably late in June.

Never in the history of Alabama has there been so many questions of vital importance to be settled in one session of the Legislature.

THE HOLY SCRIPTURES

LESSON TEXT—II Timothy 3:14-17; Psalm 19:7-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—O how love I thy law! It is my meditation all the day.—Psalm 119:97.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Book God Gave Us.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Book God Gave Us.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How to Use the Bible.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Inspiration and Authority of the Bible.

I. The Origin or Source (II Tim. 3:16).

They are inspired of God, which literally means "God-breathed." Peter says "Holy men spake from God, being moved by the Holy Ghost" (II Pet. 1:21). When Paul declares the Scriptures to be God-breathed, he means that the utterances resulted from God's breath in men's mouths. Because they are God-breathed they are the veritable words of God. The holy Scriptures not only contain the word of God, but they are in verity the message of God to men.

II. The Value of the Scriptures (II Tim. 3:14-17).

1. Able to make wise unto salvation (v. 15). Salvation is alone in Christ. It is obtained through faith in his finished work on the cross.

2. Disciplines the life (vv. 16, 17). It is profitable for doctrine, which is the divine standard of conduct. In the Holy Bible alone is to be found this standard of life. Not only is it the standard of life, but of all thought. Then, too, it reproves, that is, confutes error. The way to deal with error is not denunciation, but the positive presentation of the revealed truth. It also corrects, that is, sets straight many of the dislocations of personal and social conduct. The Word of God is the standard of measurement which sets straight the lives of moral beings. Further, it instructs in righteousness and thoroughly equips the minister for Christian service. The mastery of God's holy Word is the indispensable equipment for Christian service. One who lacks this knowledge of the holy Scriptures is utterly unfit for the Christian ministry, no matter how well trained he may be in other things.

III. The Nature and Effect of God's Law (Ps. 19:7-11).

1. It is perfect. It is without a flaw. It converts and restores the soul: it turns man back to God himself to lead a life of holiness. It not only converts sinners, but restores the saints to divine fellowship.

2. It is sure. It is absolutely dependable. Man's reasonings change, but God's Word endures forever. God cannot lie. It makes wise the simple. Common men and women as to natural gifts become wise even in the rightful things of the world, because of their mastery of the Word of God.

3. It is right. The precepts and judgments of the Lord are expressions of absolute righteousness because they proceed from the righteous God and are, therefore, inherently right.

4. It is pure. There is no admixture of error. There is no compromise with that which is untrue. Because of this, it enlightens the eyes. All that mars the spiritual vision is taken away. Conduct for the Christian is clearly defined.

5. It is clean. This is seen in the effects of the Word of God upon the life. The individual who is sanctified by it is clean within and without.

6. It is true and righteous. The decisions of God's Word are true without exception. The judgments of God's Word are unimpeachable. Because of these qualities, God's Word is more to be desired than the choicest of gold. Obedience thereto brings great reward.

IV. The Prayer of the Believer (Ps. 19:12-14).

The life brought face to face with God's Word is seen as sinful. The soul cries out for

1. Cleansing (v. 12). The perfect law reveals the imperfections of the life. The Word of God reveals sins of which the individual may be ignorant.

2. To be kept from presumptuous sins. Presumptuous sins are peculiarly dangerous. In the Mosaic economy no sacrifice was provided for such sins.

3. Freedom from the dominion of such sins (v. 13). How awful is the slavery of those who are in bondage to presumptuous sins.

4. That the words of the mouth and the meditations of the heart be kept in line with God's Word (v. 14). From many dangers the believer would be saved if the words and meditations of his heart were kept in line with the Scriptures!

MEDITATIONS

Does it strike you that the mischief of our life is really our constant fretfulness?

Christ would not be diverted from the main issues of life and destiny. He observed a strict economy in his resources.

FRIENDLY SINGING SOCIETY

Last Sunday afternoon the society met at Pleasant Hill, with a good attendance and enjoyable singing. We missed our president, Mr. Emmett Wilson, very much, but the place was pleasingly filled by Mr. Posey Cleckler, who led the opening song.

Prayer was led by Mr. Archie Glasscock. Directors were Mr. Andrew Blow, Mr. Jessie Driver, Mr. Archie Glasscock, Mr. S. J. Twilley and Mr. Posey Cleckler. Pianists for the afternoon were Mrs. Eula Martin, Mrs. James B. Gillespie and Miss Maude Rutherford. The closing song was led by Mr. Cleckler, and the society was dismissed with prayer by Rev. W. E. Robinson.

We, the society, were glad to meet again since we had to miss several times on account of conventions and other meetings. There will be no singing next Sunday afternoon due to the B. T. U. convention. The following Sunday, first Sunday in May, the society will have its regular meeting at Mineral Springs. Come everyone and enjoy one more good singing.—Society Secretary, Miss Wilma Gillespie.

WILDCAT VETERANS TO MEET IN SELMA AT STATE CONVENTION

The veterans of the 81st or wildcat Division of Alabama will meet in their first state-wide reunion at Selma on May 26 and 27.

In the state there are some 8,000 veterans who served with this Division over seas, and there will be a great gathering of them in this ideally located city of Central Alabama.

This is the first opportunity the Wildcats have had to meet in state convention and renew and strengthen their friendships and associations during the great war. The Wildcats are very much elated with this chance to gather in Selma and meet their old friends again.

Veterans are requested to write to their committee chairman, M. P. Jackson, Selma, Alabama, and make their arrangements for rooms and get the schedule of entertainment and business activities. It is anticipated that this will be a very large convention, and it is important to make reservations early.

Deflects Heat of Tropical Sun

Stanley L. Reed, technical representative of the American Automobile Association contest board, takes a reading from the thermometer suspended inside after lengthy exposure of this General Motors car to the tropical Key West sun. He is being assisted by Kaye Don, noted British sportsman, who is recording the findings. Ability of the seamless steel roof of the Fisher "turret top" body to deflect the sun's rays accounts in part for the fact that the interior temperature of cars equipped with it are less affected by atmospheric conditions than others, the tests show.

Graduating Exercises of Public School Last Friday Night

Former Secretary of State, Hon. Pete B. Jarman, and County Superintendent of Education, Luther E. Little, were the principal speakers at the closing exercises of Thorsby Public School, held Monday night.

The exercises were opened by the audience singing "America," followed with devotional conducted by Rev. J. W. Jones.

Award of the American Legion certificates were made by Mr. Jarman to two honor students, Frances Conway and Eugene Smith. In a short talk Mr. Jarman very impressively outlined the purposes of the Legion in making such awards to encourage the interest of Junior High School students in better citizenship.

As an outgrowth of the Legion's former awards in the school, it was stated by the principal, Mrs. Georgia Billingsley, that an honor society has been organized among the students. In recognition of the merits that have been displayed by the honor society members, each one of them was given a ribbon badge of the colors blue and white. Mrs. Billingsley said the definition of an honor society member is a student who does not have to be watched.

The address of Superintendent Luther Little was a sincere appeal for more adequate support of our public schools in order that we might cause the State of Alabama to fully realize and discharge its debt obligation to the youth of the state.

Concluding the exercises the principal, Mrs. Billingsley, presented diplomas to the graduating classes of the sixth and ninth grades, a group of about thirty-five boys and girls.

Berry Business Going Rapidly

Monday of this week was the banner day of the season so far in the strawberry business with sales by the Clanton Association for the day netting a total of $5,777.

Total shipments from here up to Tuesday morning was thirteen car loads, with a large quantity shipped in smaller lots to nearby markets. The car load shipments this year are larger than in previous years. Each express car contains 420 crates.

In a statement Tuesday Mr. J. N. Dennis, secretary-treasurer of the Clanton association, said: "Our berries are producing better returns per acre this year, and the sale prices are some better than last year. The demand seems fair, and we are able to furnish the buyers a better grade berry on the average than last year. We are finding a splendid spirit of cooperation among the growers in the Clanton Association, and in every way present indications are that the net results of this season's berry business will be profitable and satisfactory to our growers."

We were unable to get a statement of progress being made by shippers from Thorsby and Jemison. But it is safe to assume that there is at those places the same degree of activity as at Clanton, with all other conditions relatively the same.

HOW THE NRA WORKS

The Tiffany Woolen Mill of Webster closed last week with a statement by the president: "I cannot operate this mill successfully under the NRA, and am tired of operating it at a loss." About 300 employees are thrown out of work.

The East Webster Mill of the S. Slater Company closed on the same day "because of business conditions," throwing 550 more persons out of work.

Some 1,500 woolen workers in East Douglas, Manchaug, Franklin and Millbury are out on strike demanding more wages.

More wages are much to be desired, along with more profits for the manufacturers. When higher wages cannot be paid because there are no profits, employers who demand higher wages may exercise their right to strike. But it is an unfortunate situation which throws men and women out of employment and on to relief roles.

About the sorriest looking lot of folks we know of are the members of a nudist colony who have just gone through a dust storm.

Why doesn't the Federal Relief Administration hire some indigent artist to paint a picture of Lady Godiva and label it "Miss America fleeing from the depression to the New Deal."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

Proposed conferences for the purpose of organizing new political parties or revivifying old ones seem to be the principal topic of interest among political writers and prognosticators these days. Some time ago the country was interested in the proposed meeting of so-called "liberal" Republicans in Kansas City for the purpose of giving the old G. O. P. a liberal twist. Among those prominently mentioned were William Allen White, Prof. Glenn Frank and Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas. Opinion was divided as to how much good could be done for the political elephant in this way. Some leaders said that the Republican organization needed liberalizing while others maintained that the liberal ground was so crowded there wasn't much room left for pasturing another liberal animal.

Be that as it may, it is of interest to note that there is to be another Republican conference real soon. This one is to be held, not in the corn belt, but in the so-called hub of culture in the United States—Boston. The meeting however, which is scheduled on April 30 is not to propose to maintain a rock-bound conservative party such as New Englanders are popularly supposed to cherish, but a sound, constructive, forward looking organization in which both East and West may unite. The purpose, therefore, is to bury the hatchet, not in the skull of some political opponent but in the ground.

In view of all this it is interesting to note that for keynote speaker of the New England harmony meeting there has been selected, not a descendant of the accomplished Eastern Henry Cabot Lodge, but Theodore Christianson, former governor of the progressive state of Minnesota, who calls for a constructive party program declares that both factions of the Republican Party must yield something for the common good. Quoted by Oliver McKee Jr., of the Boston Ttranscript Governor Christianson said: "I believe it is quite possible for Eastern and Western Republicans to unite on a constructive program, but to do this each section must be willing to yield to the other. It is too early as yet to discuss presidential candidates. The party has a number of men qualified to be president provided we go to the people with a constructive and intelligent program."

It will be interesting to compare this meeting with the one sceduled for Kansas City as to size, leadership and enthusiasm. It will also be interesting to note what, if any, effect it may have on the deliberations at Kansas City.

These meetings of course claim the interest of the Democratic leaders, although these are stating now that nobody can stop the reelection of President Roosevelt next year. There is another scheduled gathering, however, which is of special interest to the New Dealers. It is reported that this is to be held by so-called progressives and radicals who are not satisfied with the present New Deal program and that it will be under the direction of such leaders as Milo Reno, the militant agriculturalist, Governor Olson and others of similar political type.

The Des Moines meeting, it is said, will consider ways and means for the nomination of a third candidate for president next year. Many believe that this leader will be Senator Huey P. Long of Louisiana, who is said to have presidential ambitions. It is reported that Senator Long will try out his strength in some of the most promising Southern and progressive western states and if shunted out of the Democratic convention will run as a third party candidate. The plans are said to have been formulated far enough to envision the probability that Senator Long will run first in the Georgia Democratic primary. Here he has undertaken a big job. Georgia is regarded as Roosevelt's second home state and should be overflowing with sentiment for him. But Governor Talmadge is said to be a possible ally of Long and it is not forgotten that under his leadership the New Deal policies were badly treated by the voters in the last state election. A good showing by Long in Georgia might make him a national factor. On the other hand, if he were to lose out entirely it might almost eliminate him. Long's friends are said to be confident enough however to take a chance. There are now a lot of budding political movements worth watching.

NOT OUR AFFAIR

Secretary of state Hull lets it be known that there will be no official American observer on the scene during the conference at Stresa. That is as it should be. Unless prepared to give an open and active support to efforts to preserve the peace in Europe, this government should be not concerned in them. If a representative of the United States were sent to Stresa, it would be difficult to prevent the impression that this country was, to some extent, making this European issue its own.

The impression would be heightened by the fact that there will be at the command of the government at Washington abundant means of obtaining accurate information concerning the conference. American newspaper correspondents of wide experience will be there. They will serve as unofficial observers. In addition, the United States has its diplomatic corps scattered through Old World capitals. Under the circumstances, were a representative of the United States to appear at Stresa it would be an excusable inference that he was expected to do more than spend his time in observation pure and simple.

This country was properly represented at the disarmament conference of unfortunate memory. Its purpose was world-wide, and one concerning which, in theory, at least, there was general agreement. No argument is needed to show that official cognizance of the Stresa conference by the United States government would fall in a different class. To give the appearance of such recognition would be a grave mistake.

THE BEAUTIES OF RELIEF

There seems to have been considerable bewilderment and adverse comment in the air over newspaper reports of some of the activities performed by so-called white collared workers in certain New York City relief programs. Among the reported activities for which the taxpayer is paying are making maps of the Balkans, and other places including an isothermic map of the Mediterranean basin as it was in the time of the ancient Romans, maps of the "movements of people in the second millenium," and a "model of milestones in social welfare." A chicken survey is reported, designed to ascertain the kind of birds which the thrifty housewife buys on Saturday, and one project was to ascertain the learning habits of most adults although any bright young New Dealer ought to be able to tell us that adults can't learn anything. This latter project included among other things a bicycle ergometer "to measure the cost of physical work in terms of metabolism used in physchological experimentation." A geographical map was also being made showing a location of Greek dialicts.

An investigation of relief work developed the information that over three millions had been spent on amusement for unemployed. Since a great deal of time was devoted to teaching ballet tripping it is presumed that the unemployed were entertained by dancing. This is of course quite proper. It has been too cold to play baseball but certainly the weather has been fine for dancing—except fan dancing.

Since all this happening in New York it might have been possible to blame it on to the dizzy Greenwich village influence and so to have shunted criticism from the New Deal at Washington. Unfortunately, however, Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, tied up his federal governmental activity sympathetically at least by charging that the critics of this New York relief brainstorm were "too damned dumb to appreciate the finer things of life."

Which statement is rpelied to editorially by the Washington Post with these rather caustic remarks:

"Of all the unmitigated tripe dished out by members of the administration in two highly loquacious years, this blurb by Harry, in favor of the farcical New York "white collar" work relief projects, is about the most ridiculous. That it could be seriously uttered by a responsible official of any but a comic opera government would seem incredible. It sounds more like a cue for Vice President Throttlebottom to take the stage. . . .

"Close to $5,000,000,000 is now about to be turned over to the administration for work relief projects beside which the grotesque projects flourishing in New York may pale into insignificance. Constructive suggestions for the expenditure of this sum are in order. Why not a thorough psychoanalysis, by a committee of unemployed psychiartrists, of those responsible for FERA policies?

We think perhaps the Post is a little too severe on Mr. Hopkins. Maybe some of us have been so busy trying to raise money to pay taxes to keep these things going that we are not sufficiently educated. All Mr. Hopkins' frends have to do is to spend the money the taxpayers kick in which isn't so difficult and which leaves some leisure to the federal agents for contemplating the beauties of the Mediterranean in the time of Nero, etc. And again: a geographical map of the location of Greek dialects would be invaluable to those who are compelled to eat in restaurants. Of course, information on chickens is rather out of date in these days when it takes all our money to buy even a dish of breast of lamb, but you have to admit that a bicycle ergometer would be a fine thing for little Willie if he didn't hurt himself trying to learn to ride it.

SENATOR REED AGAIN

This seems to be a day of discussion and dissension and considerable of the latter is said to have been caused among the members of the Kentucky bar association recently by the blistering speech of fiery Jim Reed of Missouri. It is said that the association by a vote of 96 to 63, which is my no means unanimous, decided hereafter that "political or controversial" questions will not be allowed to enter into future meetings.

Anyhow Senator Reed did not mince words, and he was evidently in "top form," if you know what we mean. He charged that "present policies of the government are all taken from bolshevik Russia, and that New Deal acts "are nearly all unconstitutional and have been so declared by the courts.

According to the Associated Press, Senator Reed pleaded for a return to "common sense in government" and for the preservation of the Constitution. He criticised the Department of Justice in charging that they refused "to bring these acts and trials to the bar." "But," he continued, "some trials had to be met and courtt after court has declared the New Deal acts are unconstitutional." He criticised the child labor amendment as a plan backed by New Dealers to nationalize children, and continued:

"The people of the United States are beginning to understand the betrayals at the capitol. The whole colossal machinery which has been set up is tottering to its fall. The nation has been plunged in debt to an extent almost inconceivable, but we will emerge in the end. Common sense will again govern."

We never played bridge with Senator Reed but if we did we would be very much surprised to hear him call a "spade" a "no-trump."

COOPERATION

A few days ago The Birmingham Post carried a big front page editorial urging cooperation with the president and his policies. It stated that the president is "doing his best," and therefore, all Americans should fall in with his plans, without question about them.

While I am sure that everyone would like to see good times back again, yet there is an army of people who doubt that the president's measures are the best that might be applied toward such an end. And this army is growing daily, even among some of Mr. Roosevelt's warmest supporters. They have seen the fairy-tale plans of the administration come to nothing until they are sick of experiments, and are turning back to safe and sane methods for leadership.

In regard to the cooperation that The Post calls for, let's compare 1935 with the years during which the depression began—the Hoover days.

The depression WAS world wide in its scope. In this country, when times began to tighten, the people began to call upon Mr. Hoover to "do something." He called the congress together to enact measures to head off the catastrophe that was then eminent, but the Democratic element, sensing the chance they had to "make things hot" for the administration, blocked every move.

When a question was brought up involving governmental expenditures, the Democrats howled of extravagance. When any management of industry was mentioned, a howl went up about governmental "meddling," and personal liberty. When these Democrats were asked to advance their own ideas, they pulled into their shells and said nothing.

Democrats all over the country joined in to do everything possible—and how they succeeded! Calamity howlers—they were legion! Chiselers—numberless!

Going further, the national Democratic headquarters pooled millions of dollars, established elaborate quarters, hired press agents, and littered the country with newspaper articles and literature condemning the Republican officials and their acts. Yet not one idea was advanced that could be classed as cooperation by any stretch of imagination.

Came 1933, and the Democrats came into power. The very FIRST thing the new administration asked for was full cooperation, and absolute power to do as it willed in all things. Where two years before, Democrats had howled of extravagance, they now embarked upon the most stupendous and senseless orgy of governmental spending in the nation's history.

Where two years before they had howled of governmental "meddling" in business, they now took absolute control, and intimate management of all business, from the lowest to the highest.

Where a short time before they had howled of "personal liberty," they now started out on a system which made serfs, peons and peasants of the millions of heretofore liberty-loving and free American citizens.

They asked for advice, and when it was offered, they promptly relegated it to the waste basket.

They had howled of bad management by Republican officials. Let's see how they have done along this line.

They spent over three billion dollars to set up and carry on the relief and "dole" system. Now Mr. Roosevelt says he will need nearly five billion—"to rid ourselves of this senseless relief system" to use his own words. In other words, the Democrats have appropriated over eight billion dollars to put us right back where we were when he took office, including a trip through the promised land of milk and honey.

Where, in 1931 and 1932 the Republicans were blasted on their every move, The Post would have all Americans, Republican and Democrat alike, to get behind the president and help. They can't seem to think that all people have their own ideas, and that this is a free country (maybe) in which we may think, and then speak our thoughts.

The administration applies the terms "chiseler," "calamity howler," "tory," and worse names to people who are not doing half as bad as Democrats, high and low, did in 1932.

So, let them howl these names until they are hoarse. We, and thousands of others like us, will voice our opinions, for what they are worth. We expect to step on their sore spots from time to time, and we expect to bring a howl from them on such occasions. Still, we shall proceed, for it is always "the hit pup that does the howling." We shall commend them when we think they deserve it. We will cooperate where we can. And we most certainly will "rake them over the coals" when they deserve it. Don't forget it!

A FREE COUNTRY

There was a time when America was called "the land of opportunity". There was a time when an American could engage in any kind of legitimate business for profit. There was a time when America was truly "the land of the free." But, sad to say, and thanks to the present set of demagogues and single-track minded and Communized collegiate fools at Washington, America is not now "the land of opportunity," and "the land of the free and unoppressed." Want proof? All right, I'll give it to you, and right here in Alabama, too. Not many days ago a man decided to build an ice plant in Selma, but he had no more than started to work than he was advised by the local code committee that he would not be allowed to build it, for the reason that there were already two such plants in Selma able to care for the trade. Imagine such, in a "land of opportunity"—"the land of the free!" If this point of "law" in the NRA is upheld, there is no telling where such oppression might lead to. Things have come to a pretty pass when a man is not allowed to invest his money in a legitimate business venture. This is surely the most damnable period of oppression n the entire history of this nation, even worse than in the days before the revolution, when King George III ruled. Even he encouraged industry and trade, but the iron-handed and flea-minded 'monarchs' of our day suppress such, which is the very life blood of a people's welfare. Inch by inch these self-imposed tyrants have taken the liberties of the people away. All classes have suffered, too—farmers, business men, financiers—all have felt the iron hand of oppression. A farmer pays taxes—high taxes—on his land, yet these nincompoops and their puppets at Washington have the audacity to tell these farmers what they can raise on their land, and how much. The merchant pays his taxes and licenses, and yet he is told what he must get for his goods. A banker's money is his own, yet our "officials" tell him how he must manage it, and even enact laws which automatically take away almost half his money. There is one bright side to the picture. People will not stand for this always. We long to see the day when these tyrants are thrown out by an enraged and suppressed and nauseated public.

AIRPLANE HELPS FARMER

Generally when we read about airplanes it is in reference to these ships as they are related to military strategy or the carrying of passengers or the mails. But planes are very useful to agriculture, too. An air express has been put into service by the United States as an aid to our Department of Agriculture in fighting the Oriental fruit moth and other parasites. Writing of this important service in the current issue of the National Republic, H. W. Allen, entomologist of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, says, in part:

"If it were not for the assistance rendered by numerous parasitic wasps and flies which prey on other insects, the pests of the country would be even more difficult to control than they are at the present time. One of the activities of the Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine of the United States Department of Agriculture, is the colonization of these parasites in areas in which they are needed, and offer promise of value in insect control.

"These beneficial insects must reach their destination in vigorous, active condition. Under normal temperatures that exist during the summer, when these shipments must be made, these shortlived parasites confined in small cages become very active, soon exhaust their limited stock of energy, and are then unable to establish themselves in the new location. When cooled down to forty to sixty degrees, however, they become inactive and in this condition they can be kept for many days without seriously impairing their vitality. If shipped under such reduced temperatures they can be delivered in excellent condition in ordchards hundreds of miles from the rearing station.

Certain species of parasites useful in the destruction of the oriental fruit moth have for many years been shipped from Moorestown, N. J., station of the department to many peach growing sections in the eastern United States, as far west as Arkansas and as far south as Georgia. These insects have been shipped by railway express in iced containers of about 150 pounds gross weight. This type of shipment has served to keep the insects cooled down to a point of inactivity during the hot mid-summer weather for about fifty hours. The method has proved quite satisfactory in making shipments of beneficial insect parasites to all points east of the Mississippi River. The average mortality of such shipments has been well under five per cent. This method is still used for shipment of parasites within the limits of a fifty hour run from the shipping point.

"In the 1934 season the problem developed of making shipments of similar beneficial insect parasites for release against the coddling moth in apple orchards of the western states. Since practically all of these shipments would be much more than fifty hours in transit by railway express the method of using iced containers of the type described above was not feasible without re-icing in transit. For several reasons it was found difficult to arrange for a satisfactory re-icing."

Somebody suggests that the reason the federal relief appropriation was fixed at $4,880,000,000 is that the number is so easy to divide. There are 48 states, which makes it a hundred millions to a state.

Although the present administration is only a little past the half way mark, newspaper editors over the country are already making their surmises and predictions as to the party candidates for 1936. And here is about the way the situation shapes up, if we may be guided by these predictions. We must remember, too, that these editors are pretty keen at following current events and thought, and their opinions should carry some weight. On the Democratic side, it is generally conceded that Franklin D. Roosevelt has the nomination "in the bag." He is their best bet, and would most certainly pull more votes from other parties than any other candidate they could name. There will be some opposition to him, coming from more conservative Democrats, but there are not neough of this faction to force any action. The Republican convention promises to be one more grand scrap. The "old guard" will put up a fight to nominate a man of their kind, a decided Conservative, and that man is almost sure to be Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., son of the "old war horse" himself. Mr. Hoover's name may be mentioned, but chances are that the Republican machine learned their Hoover lesson in 1932, and will not flame him. The Liberal or Progressive side of the Republican camp will make a pull for one of their faction—Borah, or Hiram Johnson, or maybe Kohler of Wisconsin. The result most likely will be a presidential candidate from one camp, with the vice president and other party officials drawn from the other, in an attempt to fuse the two factions into one again. Mr. Roosevelt has already lost the support of many Progressive Republicans, and if this truce can be effected in the Republican ranks he will lose the rest of them. It is common knowledge that the Republican platform in 1936 will be a compromise. It will not be along the lines of the old conservative party which lost with Hoover in 1932; neither will it be along the extreme radical lines, such as Mr. Roosevelt won with. Instead, it will be a kind of "happy medium"—a kind of middle ground between the two factions. Political experts believe that such a move would hold all the old guard Republicans in line, and would reclaim the militant Progressive element; such a situation would brighten the Republican picture considerably. After the Republican convention is over, and it can be seen how well this plan works, and just how well the Progressives fall in with it, then a more sure-fire prediction can be made. Another thing that may help the Republican cause is Huey Long. He has said that he will be a candidate on his "share the wealth" platform, and, although he will most likely not be a serious contender, yet he will draw a pretty good vote, with Democratic leaders conceding that he will draw the most of his strength from their ranks. Too, he is expected to draw the votes of many Socialists and Communists. But, of the two big parties, the Republicans will suffer the least from his inroads; one of the main reasons for this is the geographical center of his strength. Louisiana would certainly go for him, and his state would be the center of his best territory, although he would draw a sprinkling of votes from all over the country. Inasmuch as his greatest strength would be in the Southern states, this would help the Republican cause considerably, the old saying holding good that "every little bit helps." So, from present observations, we would not be surprised to see something like this in 1936: the Democrats with Franklin D. Roosevelt and Garner; the Republicans with "Teddy" Roosevelt, Jr., and one of the Liberals, or vice versa; Huey Long and a prominent Socialist; with the Communist and Socialist parties running a candidate merely as a matter of form. The best fight in our opinion would be a Roosevelt scrap—"Teddy" and Frank—and inasmuch as "Teddy" Jr., is said to be very popular with Progressives, although he is a Conservative, he very probably would be the best standard bearer the Republicans could name.—Man in the Moon.

SOME INCONSISTENCIES

We are living in a strange and contradictory age. Nothing proves this more than the news dispatches of political events which we get from Europe every day. It is not simply the case that one set of dispatches on one day is contradicted by that of the next day. Very frequently news is rendered almost inexplicable by the news appearing in the very next column.

Here is one indication of the straightforwardness of European business and politics. The other day we were informed that France and Russia had contracted an alliance of a military nature against Germany, to be imbedded some way in the League of Nations and to be used in case the League failed to function in a "cyclone"—a state of affairs which would not be in the least surprising. This would appear to make communist Russia and capitalist France fast friends, and to render both of them an object of suspicion to Nazi Germany. In another dispatch, however, printed in metropolitan newspapers, the same day we were informed that Germany had extended to Russia a trade credit of 200,000,000 marks and that Moscow had accepted the Nazi offer. This credit was to run for five years at 2 per cent. The Germans, we were told, were going to furnish to the Reds a market during the present year for Russian exports valued at more than 150,000,000 marks. The Germans, of course, expect to increase their dwindling foreign markets by selling large quantities of goods in Russia, in return for the loan and the imports.

It was stated also that Russia had accepted a loan from Germany because Uncle Sam would not give her one. If Uncle Sam actually adopted this negative attitude it is the smartest thing he ever did. Our own opinion is that Russia wouldn't wait to see what she could mooch out of Uncle Sam but was and still is in the game to get credits whenever and wherever she can.

So if these two sober European dispatches are true then Russia will have a military alliance with France and a trade alliance with Germany. Our private opinion is that both France and Germany will get "gypped." Russia in the final analysis will live up to the agreements so long as she can use them to aid her in destroying capitalistic society.

THE CURSE OF THE DOLE

A Jersey City man recently advertised in the Rural New Yorker for farm jobs for two friends, at $10 a month and board.

Offers of jobs came immediately from nearly 300 farmers. Some of these promised advancement and others increased wages.

The recipient turned some of these letters over to his two friends and then took the remainder of them to relief agencies, where he was told that they "did not think that they would be able to fill the jobs on the terms offered."

With more than 1,000,000 people jobless in New York City and its environs and more than half of those on relief, this statement by the relief agencies has left the gentleman skeptical of the frequently heard assertion that no one in this country would accept a dole if he could get a job.

A decade or so ago the Canadian Pacific Railway brought over from the breadlines of England several thousand men to help take off the Western Canada wheat crop. The hope was entertained that many of these men would settle in Canada. Very few of them did. A large number of them quit in the middle of the harvest, went into Saskatoon and Regina and demanded to be returned to England.

The spokesman for one delegation of those quitters, asked by a young Englishman who made good in Canada why they did not remain and grow up with the country, answered scornfully: "Why should we work when we can live in London without working?"

A question like that has no answer acceptable to a type of mind found in greater or less number in every country. While it is true that there still are millions of self-respecting Americans who would feel disgraced if they accepted relief when they could work, another class exists in the United States which will not work as long as it can live without doing so.

And the longer conditions provide this class with an excuse for not earning a living the more numerous will its members become.

One of our contemporaries says: "One reason why I like a small town is that when you get a job digging a ditch the local papers say you have accepted a position."

True enough. But when you are in a city you don't have to worry around about getting a job at all. You just stand in line and get a check from the government.

JACK'S RECORD

Following is the record of Jack Hayes, for the week ending Sunday, April 21, for 5 games:

Batting—At bat: 25; hits: 8 (7 singles and 1 double); percentage: .320.

Fielding: put-outs: 15; assists: 11; errors: 3; percentage: 897.

The three errors were made on the first day of the season. He must have had just so many errors to make, and just decided to get them out of his system and get it over with.

Each week this column will carry this record, for the week ending the previous Sunday before publication. In addition, the season totals and averages will be given. Watch for them.

Thorsby Institute News

Last Thursday at chapel Latin students of Thorsby Institute gave a short play showing the derivation of some English words from Latin words. The play was entitled "The Magic Toga." The leading characters were U. L. Mims, a high school boy; Lewis Wilson, a college boy; and Robert Weems, an ancient Roman wearing a toga.

Examinations ending the fifth term will be on Thursday and Friday of this week.

The Christian Life Conference for young people began Friday night in the Institute auditorium. Ruth Foss, as chairman of the conference, presided. Jane Billingsley was the secretary and read the minutes of the last conference. After the business session, the cantata "The Thorned Crowned King" was sung by the Institute's girls chorus and was very well rendered under Miss Allen's direction.

The banquet which about 130 attended was held in the dining hall Saturday noon. The room was decorated with flowers and with Century of Progress scenes which were drawn by Miss Betty Glasson, Sarah Green, and Phares Raybon. There were guides under the direction of Miss Glasson and Lance Franklin, to tell about the various buildings, after which the Perkins family appeared to visit the fair. Their actions and remarks were very amusing.

The days were filled with speeches, discussions, etc. Several of the speakers were Rev. Claude Nelson, of Atlanta, Ga.; Southern secretary of the Reconciliation League; Rev. Lyle Percy, history teacher at Piedmont College; Dr. O. C. Carmichael, president of Alabama College, Montevallo; Dean A. R. Every senior at Thorsby Institute is required to write and read an essay at chapel before he or she is allowed to graduate. Tuesday, Lucille Each read an essay entitled "Child Labor," and Kathleen Langston "Harmful Advertising". Both were interesting and instructive.

Young Pendergrass kept an account of all production and business operations of the 154-acre livestock and grain farm of his father, Andrew Pendergass, and points out how it can be used to improve the farm's business.

The boy's accounting experience had been gained keeping an account of the farm's business two previous years. In addition to prizes valued at over $100 he had previously won he has the choice as southern champion of a $225 merchandise certificate or a complete milking machine given by the International Harvester Company, which sponsored the contest to interest 4-H club members in keeping farm cost records.

Living Costs Rise, Electricity Drops

Demopolis Resident Pleased with Rate Reductions

Mrs. A. G. Westbrook, prominent in the social life of Demopolis, Ala., is one of many Alabama homemakers who foresee the wider use of electric appliances because of low electric rates. Recently Mrs. Westbrook wrote Alabama Power Company:

"I have just learned that a further reduction in your residential rate for electricity is now in effect, and, naturally, I am very much pleased, especially since the prices of all other commodities which go into the usual household budget have been steadily rising during the past year or so. It is a remarkable thing to me, that in the face of rising costs, your Company has steadily reduced the cost of its service, whenever possible.

"I have been one of your customers for sometime, and thoroughly appreciate the reliable, economical service you are rendering. With this new low rate it should be possible for most every housewife to avail herself of still wider use of this untiring servant which is doing so much to promote comfort, convenience and economy in the modern home."—Adv. ADMISSION 10c and 25c

IN MEMORY OF DR. ARTHUR JOHNSON

Dr. Arthur Johnson was born in Clanton February 17, 1888. He graduated from the school of medicine of Vanderbilt University in 1909. After graduation he began practicing medicine in Clanton, which he continued until a short time prior to his death on March 21, 1935. During his entire professional career he was a member of the Chilton County Medical Society.

As a physician, a member of the Medical Society, and as a citizen, Dr. Johnson portrayed those fine qualities of character which made his life a worthy contribution to his community. Particularily as a physician, a member of our society, did he deport himself and devote his efforts and ability as a worthy exponent of our mutual interests and ideals. Therefore, be it

Resolved by the Chilton County Medical Society, that, in the death of Dr. Johnson, we realize the loss of one of our most loyal, useful and beloved fellow-members; that, while we deeply regret his passing from our ranks, yet we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who giveth life and taketh it away.

It is the wish of this society that our sympathy and the expression of our tribute of respect for the departed be transmitted to the bereaved family; that the same be spread upon the minutes of our society; and that publication be made in the papers of Chilton County.

DR. V. J. GRAGG,
DR. O. C. MASTIN,
DR. H. G. FRANKLIN.

U. until next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Everyone who is interested in a B. Y. P. U. meet with us next Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Don't forget next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. We invite everyone to come and be with us.

Our singing society met last Sunday afternoon, with a large crowd and a good singing. We were glad to have all the visitors with us and invite them back again. The opening song was led by the chairman, Mr. Coy Lockhart, after which prayer was led by Mr. W. R. Baker. Directors for the afternoon were Mr. Coy Lockhart, Mr. Fonzie Coe, Miss Gladys Wyatt, Mr. George Chambers, Mr. Soveriegn Dickey, Mr. Herman Culpepper, Mr. T. W. Billingsley. Several quarets were sung by the Liberty Hill Quartet. The pianists for the afternoon were Miss Desiree Wyatt. Closing prayer was led by Mr. M. D. Dickey. WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

Revival of the Good Old Spirit

The farmers in the Jemison community are manifesting the good old spirit of altruism. There was a time when farmers would never let their fellow farmers fall behind with their crops. If some one in the community had a misfortune in his family or the loss of his work stock, the other farmers would stop their plows for a day and all jump in to pull the fallen one from the slough of despair. That spirit seemed to have passed along with boom days.

We are glad to say that there is a revival of this spirit up in Jemison. The teacher of vocational agriculture in a meeting with the rehabilitated clients found that some of them had lost their oxen and others were behind because of other reasons. He sounded the cry for help and it was amazing how farmers came to the rescue. Some of the leading farmers such as E. H. Hatcher, promised that they would not let any of those clients fall.

This is the type of spirit needed not only in Jemison, but every other place. We will prosper in proportion as we learn that the inter-dependence of man is the fundamental law of progress.

Lunch Counter for Colored People

I am sure that I voice the sentiment of the colored people when I say we certainly do appreciate the lunch counter for colored people at the new cafe and filling station. I refer to Mr. Venable's place at the bus station. It is very nice and affords a comfortable place not only for the colored people of Clanton, but for colored transients as well. The nearness to Mr. John Coleman's barber shop makes both places very convenient. We are asking for Mr. Venable your patronage.

"Empty Tomb" presented at Dawn last Sunday

Very impressive was the "Empty Tomb," a pageant presented by members and friends of the Union Baptist Church at sunrise Easter Sunday.

Due to the very inclement weather the pageant was staged indoors rather than on the lawn at the Union Baptist Church as was planned. Nevtheless this small change took away none of the effectiveness of the exercise.

We appreciated the presence of those who witnessed the play and thank very kindly each one of the participants.—Benj. Anderson.

POPLAR SPRINGS EASTER SINGING

The annual Easter singing met at Poplar Springs last Sunday for the thirty-first or second time. Though the weather seemed very unfavorable early in the morning the crowd soon gathered when the skies began to clear.

The singing began in a big way at 10:30 with Prof. W. M. Devaughn singing the opening song. They then elected W. M. Devaughn as chairman for the day and Mrs. Grover Rich secretary. The singing then began with the following directors singing one song each: L. T. Grant, Jessie C. Jones, Joseph Painter, O. L. Devaughn, Ralph Grant, Grover C. Gilliland, J. E. Martin, Floy Devaughn, Lee J. Grant, Thomas Steel and Audie L. Brown. This brought us to the noon hour when we were adjourned for an hour and thirty minutes in which to refresh ourselves with a bountiful dinner. Returning back to the house the singing began again promptly at 1:30.

The chairman being absent at the time Jessie C. Jones opened the singing after noon and the following directed one song each: W. M. Devaughn, Will Smith, Steve Stanley, L. T. Grant, J. W. Devaughn, T. E. Wyatt, Clarence Billingsley. Archie Devaughn, A. O. Boswell, J. M. Cochran, Mr. Bennett, I. D. Huett, Orbie Devaughn, Joseph Painter, Floy Devaughn, J. W. Cagle, Dr. J. B. Williams, O. L. Devaughn and Audie Brown.

Several quartets were enjoyed all during the day which were arranged by W. M. Devaughn, L. T. Grant, Jessie Jones and Joseph Painter. We also had some good octets arranged by Mr. Painter from Sylacauga.

The pianists for the day were Ralph Grant, Mrs. Lena Mae Hancock, Lee J. Grant, Mrs. Steve Stanley, Mrs. R. B. Johnson and Clarence Billingsley.

Prof. Devaughn said he believed this was the best singing that had ever been here. So all who were not there surely missed a treat.

We wish to thank all visitors who came and helped us and welcome you back next Easter and between times also.

Next Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days. Everybody come and bring someone with you, especially the members. Sunday school at 10, preaching at 11, and B. Y. P. U. at seven. We are expecting some good music along with the program Sunday night. So you had better come.

Three Principles Of Child Welfare

Montgomery, Ala., April 19.—In an address during the recent annual meeting in Birmingham of the Alabama conference of social work, Mrs. Harry Simon, administrative assistant and supervisor of county organization of the state child welfare department, declared child welfare work today is based on three cardinal principles, which she outlined as follows:

1. The duty of government to assure to every child proper protection and support, and opportunity to develop to his of her fullest capacity: and to safeguard family life insofar as is possible, from social and economic disorders.

2. The responsibility of the government and private philanthropy to provide sufficient funds and adequate service to meet the needs of all handicapped children according to their individual requirements.

3. The need for an organization of public and private social work that will insure the early discovery of all handicapped children, and the provision of needed care and individual service close at hand for as long a period as the need lasts; also for a coordinated and unified program of child welfare in every state and community in which each public and private agency has a definite place.

"It is sound policy, Mrs. Simon said, for the state to thrust back on local units responsibility for every kind of service for handicapped children which the local community is able and competent to administer. A state department should help to develop these local units and is responsible also for the development of a program of standardizing and coordinating their activities. Let me emphasize, however, that the treatment accorded each child must be determined solely by his or her needs and not by what tax unit can be made to pay for the cost of their care."

In spite of every effort to preserve the home, the speaker said, a certain number of children must be cared for away from their own families, some only temporarily, some permanently. The child-caring agency, she then stated, must see itself in the light of a reserve to be called upon when all else fails; and in order that children may have the type of care that may best serve their needs, public and private child-caring and family organizations must have a close working relationship.

"A foster boarding home licensed by the state child welfare department should be considered first for the child who must have care away from his own home," she said. "It should be used for those who need temporary care and for those who need permanent foster care. There is a crying need in Alabama for the development of temporary boarding home care for children in the counties. Even the delinquent child can often best be studied and helped by a children's agency in some other family home, where he may come to learn family unity and integrity."

PLAN OF OPERATION

1. Diagnostic clinics are held in 20 centers of the state within 50 miles of every child. Free examination and diagnosis are given by an expert orthopedic surgeon.

2. The state fund is used to pay the salary of one of the assistant supervisors of the vocational rehabilitation service, necessary expenses in holding clinics, and in providing all hospitalization possible for indigent cases.

3. The funds from the Alabama society for crippled children are all spent for hospitalization purposes.

4. The orthopedic surgeons have been willing at all times to give their services to treatment of indigent cases through the clinics and enough cannot be said in appreciation of these doctors.

5. Civic clubs, special hospital rates, junior leagues, and individuals have made it possible for many cases to be treated.

6. The plan of the work with the crippled children in Alabama has received national attention: however, because of the small funds available we have been able to do no more than merely scratch the surface of the work actually needed.

THE ALABAMA SOCIETY FOR CRIPPLED CHILDREN

1. The Alabama society for crippled children is a state-wide organization functioning to coordinate and correlate the efforts of the individuals and organizations, to assist in the physical restoration of the crippled child wherever found without distinction as to race or creed.

2. It is through the laymens' organization possibly that parent teacher associations can render the most service.

3. The field work of the society is conducted by the workers of the rehabilitation service in the division of vocational education in cooperation with the state departments of health and child welfare.

4. The supervisor of rehabilitation is, under the constitution, executive secretary of the society.

5. The society seeks to provide necessary surgical treatment, to develop hospital facilities, to provide necessary academic and vocational education training and other facilities needed for the care, cure and education of crippled children.

"No more tired, let-down feeling for me"

"I reasoned that my red blood corpuscle strength was low and I simply took a course of S.S.S. Tonic and built it back."

IT is all so simple and reasonable. If your physical let-down is caused by lowered red blood corpuscles—which is all too frequent—then S.S.S Tonic is waiting to help you... and will, unless you have a serious organic trouble that demands a physician or surgeon.

Remember, S.S.S is not just a so-called "tonic." It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate the gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying red corpuscles in the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone... if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetising food... sound sleep ...steady nerves... a good complexion ...and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the upread today. © S.S.S. Co

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

It is not very easy to be consistent. A great evangelist has the reputation of eating too much. One of the greatest temperance lecturers this nation ever produced was known to his friends as a glutton. A few years ago when a good many Southern Democrats left the Democratic Party and supported Hoover they were severely criticized. They were accused of being inconsistent. Not long ago Al Smith said that he is too old to be regular politically. A few weeks ago our president said that the people would smile if they knew how many Republicans he had voted for. I heard a great preacher preach on unselfishness and when he went out to dinner in an elegant home he carefully picked the best piece of chicken and the best of everything on the table. I know Christian workers who are bitter in their opposition to certain popular social sins yet who show no signs of such Christian graces as patience and long suffering. I am not criticizing these inconsistent people because I suppose I belong to the inconsistent crowd. It is a lot easier to preach than it is to practice.

The Bob Jones College is endeavoring to train great Christian leaders, doctors, lawyers, teachers, preachers, business men and business women. We have learned that it isn't enough to give a student technical knowledge. We teach our boys and girls how to put the program over. One-fifth of our student body are young ministers from the Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, Christian, and other churches. I speak to these preacher boys three times weekly when I am at the college. I say, "Now, boys the other teachers teach you how to load the gun. I am going to teach you how to shoot it." From long association with ministers I have learned that one of the weaknesses of the average preacher is his inability to get his message to the people. If I have truth in my heart it may bless me but the truth in my heart cannot bless others unless I know how to impart it. One of the most important things in training ministers is neglected in the average institution of leaning. I attended one of the greatest and best of our southern colleges. I was training for the ministry. I never was told how to get the message to the people. I was told what the message was and I had to learn for myself how to get it to the folks.

Remember the old conundrum—when is a door not a door? The answer used to be: "When it's ajar." Now there's a new one. A door has been recently perfected which isn't a door at all but a curtain of air that serves the same purpose. On one of the new streamlined trains which runs between Chicago and St. Paul, a sheet of air occupies the opening between kitchen and eating space in the dining car. This sheet of air is forced thru a small slit in both sides of the door frame. Overhead is an exhaust ventilator. Kitchen fumes, heat and odors are thus completely shut out, without blocking the passage. Maybe you can't have this kind of an "air door" between your kitchen and dining room but you don't need it if you cook with an electric range, because your kitchen is as comfortable as the rest of the house.

Sinus sufferers please note: A business man, in San Francisco, whose wife had sinus trouble because of the humidity, reproduced in his own apartment the warm dry climate of the Ojai Valley. This feat was accomplished with air conditioning. Instead of seeking a cooler climate for your summer vacation, why not make your cooler climate in your own home? Air conditioning is just the thing for hay-fever sufferers too. The Alabama Power Company will soon be handling air conditioning equipment.

Even to this day in India ice is made by filling shallow porous trays with water, placing them on beds of straw and leaving them exposed to the night winds. By morning a thin crust forms. How much easier it is to simply fill the tray with water in your electric refrigerator and have all the ice you need in a few hours. Which reminds us to tell you—our Spring refrigerator sale is still in progress.

$60,000 SALES IN ONE WEEK

Folks in Alabama are bidding good-bye to hard times and welcome to the many good buys now available in electric merchandise. One week recently sales of refrigerators, ranges, water heaters and small appliances passed $60,000—a new all time record! And there's a reason—several of them—cheap Alabama electricity, improved appliances, attractive prices, easy terms—plus the growing knowledge that full use of electric service is the greatest boon of this modern age to both homemakers and husbands.

Finds Ever Ready Electricity A Blessing

The editor of the Pell City News quoted recently this appreciated comment of Mr. Cecil Allen of Pell City on the value of "ever-ready" electricity: "Mr. Allen expresses the appreciation of many of his neighbors who find ever-ready electricity a blessing in their homes."

Plans Changed At Woco Pep Station

Front of Building Will Be In Conformity With The City Hall

Mayor C. Fenn Jones, having always a keen eye for things good looking, had an idea last week that there was an opportunity to effect an added appearance in the building of the Woco Pep Company while they are engaged in alterations and additions as outlined in a news article heretofore published.

Since the Woco Pep Building adjoins the new city hall, Mr. Jones thought it would look much better to have that part of the building cut away from the sidewalk so as to have the front of it in line with the front of the city hall.

He communicated his idea to the officials of the Wofford Oil Company, and in a few days the workmen had in hand blue prints embodying the suggestion of the Mayor.

In commenting upon the proposition Mr. Jones said: "I am delighted with the readiness of the Wofford Oil Company to so arrange their building as to make it contribute to the good appearance of the business district of Clanton. They have demonstrated a fine pride in their property which adjoins our new city hall. Alteration of their plans to provide for extra space between the front of the building and the sidewalk will give the city hall an added attraction, as well as the Woco Pep Building itself. It will be easy to make Clanton a much more beautiful town if all property owners will follow in the example and spirit shown by this enterprising company."

Child Welfare

recent meeting in Birmingham on the problem of caring for unemployables. At this meeting various counties discussed the ways in which they were handling the problem of caring for unemployables. Miss Joanna C. Colcord from the Russell Sage Foundation in New York led the discussion at this meeting.

She stated that the problem of caring for unemployables is definitely the responsibility of the communities in which they live and not the responsibility of the federal government. In a number of states outdoor relief or relief outside of almshouses had been given for a number of years. The practice is comparatively new in Alabama.

The third speaker on the program was Mr. Luther Little, county superintendent of education. Mr. Little pointed out the fact to the board that more work had been accomplished in the county during the year through having two workers, a child welfare superintendent and an attendance officer, than could possibly have been accomplished by one person who might attempt to carry the whole load alone. He urged the board to give serious thought to the matter of keeping two workers employed throughout each school year. Mr. Little as a member of the Chilton County Child Welfare Board, endorsed the work of the local health unit and assured Dr. Nickerson, county health doctor and Miss Smitherman, county health nurse, both of whom were present at the meeting that the county board were ready to cooperate with them in their work at any time and in any way possible.

The program was concluded by a general discussion of plans for the sale of seals during crippled children's week which begins on Monday following Easter Sunday. A committee composed of Mrs. Sophie Jones, Mrs. A. C. Wells and Miss Nolen Meroney was appointed by the board to meet with committees representing the perfect plans for the sale of these Kiwanis Club and the Pilot Club to seals.

Legion Meets At Mobile In July

World War Veterans To Have Grand Time in Alabama's Port City

Mobile, April 23.—Tentative plans for athletic features of the Alabama Department convention, American Legion, which will be held at Mobile, July 14 to 17, are being arranged by an athletic contest committee appointed by the general chairman, Dr. Francis Marion Inge. Joseph Connelly is chairman-manager of the committee, and his principal task is to provide for the final contests of the American Legion Baseball League, Monday and Wednesday during the convention. The games will be played at Hartwell field and the boys will be cared for at Springhill College, which will be in summer recess at that time.

A strong company, sons of the Legion has been organized at Mobile. Sons of Legionnaires and of deceased veterans are eligible to membership and the organization is growing rapidly in this section, with Past Commander Doug Harris, of Lamar Y. McLeod Post No. 3 as chairman of the committee and Jean Bowman in charge of that work. The first national guard company of military police in this state is being organized near Pritchard with assistance from the local post; though this circumstance has no connection with the coming convention, which will require no policing.

The annual memorial service, which will be the first convention event following registration of delegates, Sunday, July 14, will be held in Bienville Square, weather permitting, and the committee in charge, of which R. T. Ellis is chairman, is arranging to have a nationally known Legionnaire to deliver the Memorial address.

Commander Vernol R. Jansen, of the local post, announced on Past Commander night, April 17, that the plan for giving the delegates to the convention an entire day on the bay and at Fort Morgan, on Tuesday of convention week, has received general approval throughout the state. This was confirmed by Boxing Commissioner Matt Murphy, here this week on athletic business. He predicts a record breaking attendance and a most successful meeting.

Merchants Warn Against Sales Tax

Confidence Is Expressed That New Tax Measure Can Be Defeated

Warning was issued today by the Alabama Independent Merchants Association that sales tax legislation grows more imminent with the approach of the adjourned session of the state legislature, which begins April 30, as rapid and well-studied moves of strongly organized groups are made to secure favorable public reaction.

Confidence was expressed by the association, however, that the tax measure could be defeated again this year, provided concerted support of merchants and other citizens could be obtained to a degree equal to that secured during previous legislation when success attended oppositional campaigns.

"The people of Alabama are confronted with the hardest fight since a sale tax was first proposed in this state," advises N. Lawson Walker, president of the Alabama Independent Merchants Association. "The educational oligarchy" and the Auburn Extension Service, supported by their units in virtually every county, have profited by the experience of previous futile campaigns and, consequently, are waging a more intelligent offensive. That means, therefore, that the people must also plan intelligently and wager a counter-campaign with more aggressiveness than heretofore. Otherwise they may prepare to shoulder a sales tax."

Some of the claims of support made by the advocates of a sales tax are refuted by the Alabama Independent Merchants Association, which has consistently opposed this form of taxation, and the organization charges proponents of the tax with the issuance of mis-leading propaganda designed solely for the purpose of frightening the opposition and bolstering the moral of those in favor of the tax."

Little Miss Eugenia Inez Wyatt had a birthday Monday of this week. In honor of the event several friends of the family took dinner with her and the family Sunday. She had supper at the cafe Monday night with her little friend, Miss Lois Rockett.

Keller Says Our Situation Better

Understanding Reached With The Legislative Recess Committee

Asserting that understandings have been reached whereby "we are now in much better position to show the urgent need of additional revenues than at any previous time," State Superintendent of Education, Dr. J. A. Keller, has written a very interesting letter to County Superintendent, Luther E. Little, declaring also that "we have not compromised, but instead, have reached an agreement which places us in entire accord with the legislative committee."

Superintendent Little has released for publication the entire letter of Dr. Keller, which is as follows:

"You may have read statements to the effect that we have reached a compromise concerning educational needs and have agreed upon a figure considerably below our published figure. I am writing to explain that you should not be confused by those statements. We have not compromised, but instead have reached an agreement which places us in entire accord with the legislative committee. I feel that as a result of this understanding we are now in much bettter position to show the urgent need of additional revenues than at any previous time.

"Below is quoted a statement released for publication today:

'Contrary to certain published statements to the effcet that a compromise on educational needs has been reached between the legislative committees and school authorities, it should be stated, in fairness to the entire problem, that there has been no such compromise. Instead, we have simply reached an agreement or understanding relative to minimum needs and to revenues available at present.

'This agreement was reached after a two-day conference, relating to the statistical date involved, between Mr. J. M. Hard, representing the legislative committee, and Dr. E. L. Morphet, representing the state superintendent of education, and assisted by Mr. Paul M. Munro, president of the Alabama Education Association.

'The details of this understanding are to be explained by the governor and state superintendent of education at a later date.

'Previous statements concerning the cost of the proposed minimum program are not altered by this understanding. — Very truly yours, J. A. Keller, state superintendent."

Mr. and Mrs. O. D. Grooms, from Valdosta, Ga., have been here the past week visiting the former's brothers on Mulberry. erating a business for farm members in cooperative buying and selling of merchandise in which they are very materially interested. There are more than 200 members of the Exchange in Chilton County. There is no cost to being a member of the Exchange. It is profitable to participating farmers in terms of advantages that accrue to them in the cooperative selling of farm products, as well as in buying such commodities as field and garden seeds, feeds, fertilizers, legume seeds, etc.

The organization of the Chilton County Exchange is composed of a real dirt-farmer group, with the following well-known citizens as officers:

M. C. Wyatt, president; T. F. Patterson, vice president; Miss Arra Jones, secretary and treasurer; Executive committee, M. C. Wyatt, T. F. Patterson and A. B. Jones; Directors, M. C. Wyatt, T. F. Patterson, R. M. Foshee, A. B. Jones, C. C. Cofer, C. W. Burgess and J. M. Culp.

In forming his new association with the Chilton County Exchange, Mr. Parrish said:

"I want to say to my many friends and customers of the past that I most fully and sincerely appreciate their loyalty, confidence and support, which has been the means whereby whatever success my business has accomplished. It is my firm conviction that in my association with Chilton County Exchange, Incorporated, I shall be able to serve you even better than in the past. I trust that we shall continue to have the hearty interest, support and cooperation of every friend we have made in the past. We will serve you the very best we can."

Mr. Parrish will continue the operation of the Southern Dairies cream station in connection with the Chilton County Exchange.

198 FAMILIES ON FARMING RELIEF

Food, Seed, Implements and Stock Furnished Through the Relief Plan

According to information given out Tuesday there is in Chilton County at the present time a total of 198 families engaged in farming under the supervision and assistance of the Rural rehabilitation corporation of the relief administration.

These families have been furnished food, seed for planting, farm implements for cultivating their crops, and work animals—mules or steers—for carrying on their heavy work.

It is pointed out that this program is completely divorced from relief agencies, and is nothing more than an advance loan made to the farmers, which they will pay back to the corporation out of their crop production.

Payments may be made in cash or in produce grown under the plan. The farm corporation will accept any produce grown by these farmers at its market value and credit the amount against the loan of that person.

Some of the farmers under the rehabilitation program own their own lands, while the majority of them are renters. In the case of the renters, the rehabilitation corporation acts in the capacity of making satisfactory terms of rental, which the tenant will carry out with the landlord.

Those in charge of the work regard the rural rehabilitation program as among the finest yet organized out of the relief and recovery effort of the national administration. It is also pointed out that the program does not cost any more than direct relief would cost, and at the same time a means is provided whereby those who receive such aid are enabled to make their own living, as well as being given a means by which they may pay back to the corporation the money they borrowed to start out with.

IT'S A BOY

Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Johnson, of Clanton Route 5, a 10-pound son. The young man arrived Saturday, April 27, and has been named Johnnie Jean.

The story goes that once upon a time a nail was lost; for want of the nail a shoe was lost; for want of a shoe the horse was lost; for want of a horse the rider was lost; and for want of a rider, a battle was lost.

That might happen again. Johnnie Johnson drives the county gas truck. If the roads begin to go bad, the overseers will maybe lay the blame on the machines and trucks and their drivers will then clear themselves by saying that they could get no gas. And when they look into the matter to see why the gas has not been delivered, they may find that Johnnie has lost lots of sleep from rocking little Johnnie. That could happen.

Any way, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson are very proud of their son and heir. Five children have been born to them. The first was a son, which died. The next three were girls. The latest addition, another boy, who was born on the birthday of the oldest daughter. Rumor has it that Johnnie was fit to be tied when told that it was a son. He says this boy is his new deal, or something.

Farmers Approve Cotton Program

Twenty Meetings Held In the County by County Agent J. W. Fant

Twelve hundred farmers of Chilton County in eleven cotton meetings of the past week at as many different places in the county have expressed themselves as favoring continuation of the cotton adjustment program and processing tax as is, according to a report given out by County Agent, J. W. Fant Tuesday morning.

Mr. Fant says a total of 1,300 farmers have attended the eleven meetings already held up to Tuesday morning. He says there has not been a single dissenting vote or expression against the cotton program, and 1,200 have actually voted favorable to continuation of the cotton adjustment program and processing tax in toto.

There are nine other meetings to be held at the time this is written, the series to be concluded with meetings at Vermont schoolhouse Thursday night of this week, and at Providence Beat 16 Friday night. Mr. Fant expects attendance of 700 at the remaining meetings, which will bring the total attendance up to 2,000 farmers.

The largest meeting of the series was held at the courthouse in Clanton last Saturday with an attendance of 400. All farmers who have voted their approval of the cotton program have declared their intentions to write their representatives and senators in Congress asking them to support legislation for continuation of the cotton adjustment act.

Dave Mazar Was Here

Mr. Dave Mazar, of Mazar's Jobbing House, in Birmingham, and owner of Mazar's Store in Clanton, spent Tuesday here in connection with his local store interests.

While here Mr. Mazar, with his store manager, Mr. I. S. Levine, went over in detail the proposed plans for improving the Clanton store in many respects.

Definite announcement of the plans was not made public, but it is assured that the work will include the addition of many features that will beautify the store and make it easier to serve the needs of the customers in a more complete and satisfactory manner.

Mr. Mazar said: "I am very much impressed with the favorable business outlook in Chilton County for the immediate future. Therefore, we have determined to perfect such arrangements and improved facilities as will enable Mazar's to more satisfactorily serve our customers.

"We are most grateful indeed for the hearty response which the people of this community have given to our offers to serve them. We appreciate your patronage, and pledge our most earnest efforts to continue to serve you in a satisfactory manner."

NEW FRONT FOR OLDEST BUILDING

Pinckard Corner Being Dressed Up for the Big Four Hardware Co.

A new front and a general program of rearrangement according to modern plans is being applied to the oldest brick business building in Clanton. It is the place now occupied by the Big Four Hardware Company, better known throughout this section as the Pinckard corner.

The building was erected by W. L. Sampey about 1896 or 1897. For a few years it was occupied by Mr. Sampey with a general mercantile store. When Sampey left Clanton about 1899, the business was taken over by E. M. Pinckard & Company, who conducted the business there for several years.

Since Pinckard retired from business here the building has been occupied by different concerns. The property came into possession of the Peoples Savings Bank some years ago.

The Farmers Hardware Company was established some years back by E. M. Jones, and occupied the building until acquired recently by A. E. Reagan and C. C. Conway, who will continue business at the same location as the Big Four Hardware Company.

Work has already begun on remodeling the front and interior of the building. The front wall will be torn down and rebuilt of pressed brick. It will be built back on the front so as to make the building occupy the correct position on the property line, instead of projecting too far to the front as heretofore.

A modern arrangement for show windows and display facilities will be built on the front, while the interior will also be rearranged to meet the demands of the most modern ideas of merchandising.

Occupying one of the most important business locations in Clanton, the improvement of this building will be a welcome addition to the good appearance of Clanton's business district. It is on the corner of second Avenue and Seventh Street.

W. M. BEAN NOW PARTNER IN CLANTON GROCERY STORE

Mr. W. M. (Wiley) Bean, former postmaster of Clanton, is now associated with Mr. R. W. Taylor as partner in the grocery business of Bean and Taylor. This business was formerly owned by Mr. R. Moatts and Mr. Taylor, until Mr. Moatts sold out his interest to Mr. Taylor a few weeks ago. Mr. Bean has acquired the interest of Mr. Moatts.

The store is under the active management of Mr. Alonza Askins. Mr. Bean will continue as bookkeeper for the Clanton Wholesale Grocery Company, which position he has held since the organization of that business last fall.

The store of Bean & Taylor is located on the highway across from the Dixie Cafe.

BEAN-LITTLE WEDDING

On April 20th Mr. Clyde Little of Clanton was married to Miss Lottie Bean. The groom is the son of Ben Little. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Robert Bean of New Salem community. They are now living in Clanton. The Union-Banner extends congratulations.

History Is Recorded On Stone Tablet At Clanton's City Hall

Something of the current history of Clanton and the erection of our handsome new city hall was made a permanent record last week.

As the front wall was being laid a stone tablet was inserted in the wall to the right of the main entrance of the building.

Inscribed upon this tablet in letters that will stay there as long as the building shall last, are these words:

These words will serve to remind those of us now living, as we grow into the evening of life, of the incidents now being recorded in the times when the building is being erected, and the men therein named are active, interested and influential in our current affairs.

After we have passed on, those who shall come after us will read those words and ponder the incidents of our days which can speak to them only in the mute expression of the letters of stone.

Miss Ruth Pardue Is Pilot Governor

Clanton Pilots Will Bring Next Convention to Clanton In October

At a district convention of Pilot Clubs held in Montgomery last Sunday Miss Ruth Pardue, home demonstration agent of Chilton County, and member of Clanton Pilot Club, was elected governor of the Pilot Clubs composing the first Alabama district. The clubs in the district are Clanton, Selma, Mobile, Dothan and Montgomery.

The next district meeting, which will be in October, will be held in Clanton, with the Clanton Pilots as hostesses, it was announced by the delegation of Pilot members who returned from the Sunday meeting in Montgomery.

The following members of the Clanton Club were in attendance at the district meeting Sunday: Miss Kittye Clyde Austin, Miss Ruth Pardue, Mrs. Mamie C. Smith, Mrs. Ruth Martin, Mrs. Agnes Arant, Mrs. Laura Little, Mrs. Bo Searcy, Miss Frances Moore, Mrs. Zora Guy Smith.

The convention at Montgomery began with a banquet at the Jefferson Davis Hotel Saturday night. Sunday was taken up by the business session and a picnic at Pilot Lodge.

The Clanton delegation returned from the meeting highly elated over the fact that they were able to accomplish the election of Miss Pardue as Governor, and to bring the autumn assembly of the first district to Clanton for entertainment.

Berry Shipments Total 73 Carloads

41 Cars From Clanton, 17 From Thorsby, and 15 from Jemison

A check-up of the strawberry shipments from Chilton County up to Wednesday morning revealed that the total car loads already sold is around seventy.

From Clanton there have been shipped 34 cars by express and 7 by freight. It was stated Tuesday that shipments from Thorsby where 15 cars by express and 2 by freight; from Jemison 14 cars by express and one by freight.

It is pointed out that the number of car loads is reduced by the fact that express cars carry much more tonnage than freight. In other words, three express cars are equal to four freight cars.

The prices of berries has maintained a favorable status up to the present. However, a decline is expected in a few days, owing to the growers further north getting on the market with their products.

Managers of the Chilton County Associations expect, however, to continue car load shipments of all berries available until about the first of next week.

VESPER SONG SERVICE HELD AT BAPTIST CHURCH HERE

The vesper song service, held at the Baptist church last Sunday night by the music club of Clanton, in cooperation with the National Fedration of Music, was enjoyed by a large congregation. The program was a varied one, consisting of hymns, anthems, quartets, etc. Mrs. Elna Roberts gave a short talk on music. Miss Della Latham, local president, had charge of the program. A special feature ws the four numbers sung by the Cobb sisters quartet from Birmingham.

Miss Margaret Kendrick presided at the piano; violin accompaniment was furnished by Mrs. Jatie Longshore of Birmingham.

Poppy Sale Day Saturday, May 25

Mrs. Ethel Downs in Charge of Committee for Legion Auxilary

Saturday, May 25th, will be Poppy Day in Chilton County. On that day the women of Chilton County Unit of the American Legion Auxiliary will distribute little red poppies on the streets to be worn in honor of the World War dead. The observance here will be part of the annual nation-wide observance of Poppy Day, during which millions of Americans will pay tribute to the memory of the war dead by wearing memorial poppies.

Poppy Day activities here will be directed by a committee from the Auxiliary headed by Mrs. Ethel Downs, chairman. Other members of the committee will be announced as soon as the organization is completed. A large corps of volunteer workers will be organized to carry out the distribution of the flowers.

The poppies which will be worn here have been ordered from the Veterans Hospital at Tuscaloosa, Alabama, where they have been made by disabled World War veterans. The poppy making has provided employment for needy veterans through the winter and spring months, enabling them to help support themselves and families. Public response on Poppy Day will determine how soon and how extensively this work can be reopened.

In exchange for the poppies, the Auxiliary women will ask each person to make a contribution for the welfare of the war's living victims, the disabled veterans, the widows and the fatherless children of veterans. This money will be used entirely in the welfare work of the the Legion and Auxiliary, the bulk of it in the work of the local Post and Unit.

G. O. P. Starts To Rebuild In West

Plans Laid at Gathering of the Leaders in Missouri Last Sunday

Excelsior Springs, Mo., April 27.—Middle western Republican leaders gathered here Saturday to initiate the "grass roots" movement about which they have been talking for the past three months.

The object of the movement is rehabilitation of the midwestern section of the party, an idea originally advanced at the Republican rally held in Topeka, Kan., January 29. It was at this rally that Justus L. Johnson, Republican state chairman of Illinois, declared that the time was ripe to "build from the grass roots in the middlewest."

The first consideration at today's meeting is a plan for a candidateless convention to outline principles and express the party's ideasa in the language of the corn and wheat belt.

"The conference," said Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa National Committeeman and chief of the arrangements, "will determine when and where the proposed midwest Republican conference will be held."

He declared the gathering of representatives from the 10 states invited to send delegates to be a "cross-section of Republicanism," pointing out that there was no conflict between the old and new guards.

States invited to send two delegates each were Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Indiana and South Dakota. Among early arrivals in addition to Spangler and Johnson were John Hamilton, Republican national committeeman from Kansas, and Arthur M. Hyde, former Governor of Missouri and Secretary of Agriculture in the Hoover cabinet.

Cities under consideration for the proposed convention include Kansas City, Chicago, Des Moines, Topeka, Kan., and Omaha, Neb.

Relief Office Moved

All departments of the federal relief administration for Chilton County have been moved from the Upchurch Building to the building formerly occupied as an office by Dr. Arthur Johnson.

Included in this transfer are all the departments formerly on the second floor of the Upchurch Building. The Social Service Division, in charge of Miss Kittye Clyde Austin; the Works Division and the Rural Rehabilitation Division, in charge of Floyd Smith; the disbursing office for all the departments, in charge of Mr. F. L. Harris, disbursing officer.

The office work for the Works Division and Rural Rehabilitation is in charge of Mr. J. F. Gore, who has been allotted office space in the Johnson Building, along with the other branches of the service.

FORMER PASTOR TO PREACH AT BAPTIST CHURCH SUNDAY

His many friends in this section of the State will be glad to learn that Rev. W. M. Olive, of Tuscaloosa, who was for several years pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, will occupy the pulpit here at the 11 o'clock service next Sunday, and probably Sunday night too.

While pastor here Rev. Olive made the acquaintance of lots of people over the county as well as in Clanton, all of whom will be glad of the opportunity to see him again and hear him preach.

Dr. Ezell will be away preaching in a revival in Birminham and it is his expressed desire that as many people as can will attend services next Sunday and greet this good preacher with a good congregation.

GOOD PROGRAM GIVEN KIWANIS

Young People of Jemison and Isabella Make Talks About Work

An unusually interesting program was presented at the weekly meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton last Thursday evening at the Exchange Hotel. Arrangements for the occasion were in charge of J. W. Fant and the committee on agriculture, of which he is chairman.

Discussion of various phases of vocational agriculture and home economics work, as being applied through the vocational schools at Jemison and Isabella, formed the major part of the program.

Prof. and Mrs. J. A. Peterson, of Jemison, were present, presenting on the program Miss Josephine Adams, of the home economics department of Jemison High School, and W. C. Wells, Jr., of the vocational agriculture department. The latter recently was announced the winner over all students in Alabama in the Chilean Nitrate essay contest. For his part on the program young Wells discussed the subject upon which he wrote the prize-winning essay.

The Isabella contingent for participation on the program included Prof. J. W. Locke, teacher of vocational agriculture and Miss Madelyn Heflin, teacher of home economics. They presented Marvin Durbin to discuss a subject of vocational agriculture, and Miss Frances Sexton, who explained her project of home beautification through the home economics project work.

Music for the program was furnished by Orville Wright's string band from Isabella. It was one of the most delightful programs ever presented to the Kiwanis Club of Clanton.

SENIOR PLAY AT JEMISON MAY 10

"Alibi Bill," by Katherine Kavanaugh, is to be produced by special arrangement with the Dramatic Publishing Company under the direction of Miss Miriam Harvey, faculty director. The performance will be given by the cast Friday evening, May 10, at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

This play excels by far, the seniors think, any other ever given in the Jemison auditorium. The leading roles, Aimee Smith and Billy Smith, are taken by Mary Nell Lowery and Ernie Lee Robinson.

With Aimee off on a visit, Bill feels like having a large evening. The next morning he can only remember going to a banquet but he finds that he has a headache, some coal, a pink cotton stocking, and a set of blond curls in his pocket. A strange companion, Jimmy, played by John Busby, is asleep on the sofa. All that might have cleared up, but in comes Aimee and her mother (Loyce Daniel). Billy tries to alibi himself out of it but gets into it deeper.

Other characters in the mix-up are, Daisy Montaine, played by Willie C. Clements; Ned Kennedy, Cecil Ellison; Lucy, Louise Giles; Miss Jones, Nell Traywick; Benson, Ervin Beasley; The cop, Willard Cost.

Don't miss this royalty play with an evening full of laughs.

C.C.C. CAMPS TO CALL WAR VETS

Applications May Be Made Through Local Post of Legion

Mr. Ruben W. Lowe, Commander of Chilton County Post No. 6, American Legion, is in receipt of a letter from George W. Cameron, State Service Commissioner, which conveys information of interest to perhaps a great number of World War veterans in Chilton County concerning the immediate future possibility of enlistment in the Civilian Conservation Corps. Mr. Cameron's letter says:

"From all indications, the office of the veterans administration in Tuscaloosa will be called upon at an early date to select quite a number of veterans for service in the CCC camps. The number of men employed in these camps will be double what it has been in the past."

According to a suggestion in the letter of Mr. Cameron, Chilton County Post will obtain a supply of application forms, and notification is given all veterans who may be interested, that the Post will assist them n making application.

All veterans who have filed applications in the past and who have not been selected, should write the veterans administration at Tuscaloosa, telling them if they are still desirous of being selected for this work.

If a veteran has been previously selected but rejected on physical examination, he need not make another application, as he would not be selected a second time. Veterans who are not physically able to do manual labor should not apply.

Mr. Cameron, who has recently been apponited to the important post of state service commissioner, to succeed Major W. M. Weston, concludes his letter to Commander Lowe, with this general statement of future plans to aid veterans in Alabama:

"It is my intention to have trained men to see every veteran in the state and discuss personally with him his individual claim, and to see that every veteran is given accurate and detailed advice about his claim. The representatives from this office will go into each county in the state and assist any veteran who is interested in securing compensation or pension. The plan as to how this will be done will be outlined fully in the May issue of the Alabama Legionnaire."

Service Officer, W. M. Wyatt, of Chilton County Post, has requested the veterans administration to send him a supply of CCC camp application blanks, and will be in position to fill out the same for all who may desire to do so. Bring your army discharge with you when you come to make application.

A NEW COLA DRINK BEING DISTRIBUTED BY H. WHITE

Mr. Horsley White, the Nehi man, is this week introducing to the trade a brand new drink being put out by his company in Montgomery. It is called "Chero" and is a cola, a successor to the famous beverage Chero-Cola, which this company made until it went to Nehi several years ago. A big series of advertising is being launched to run through this month and next, telling about it. "Your old friend is back again," they say, and add "It won't keep you awake; contains nothing that isn't good for you; fine for frayed nerves."

Mr. White is pushing this new drink in this territory, and says that he wants to start all of his friends to drinking it.

Base Ball Season Opens Saturday

Clanton Will Play Coca-Cola Team of Montgomery at Local Park

Clanton will pry the lid off the local baseball season at the high school park next Saturday afternoon, May 4, at 3:00 o'clock. The Coca-Cola club of Montgomery will furnish the opposition in the first game of the season, and a good game is expected.

Manager Marcus has at his call a long list of aspiring young ball players, and several combinations are being tried out every afternoon in practice. Several members of last year's team are on hand, as well as a group of new faces.

On the pitching staff will be "Lefty" Robinson, who won 13 games and lost 1 with East Lake of the Birmingham City League last year. Another is Carl Golson one of last year's team, and who is expected to be one of this year's aces. Bull Watkins, the old reliable, will be on hand this year, too, as well as others.

Durwood Williamson, and up and coming young catcher, is expected to work several games this year. Manager Marcus believes that he has the makings of a great catcher in him. Smith, of last year's team, will be back again, for the bulk of the catching, and as he has improved in his hitting to a great extent, may be used in the outfield some this year, when

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARM BUREAU OFFICIAL TELLS PRES. ROOSEVELT FARMERS ARE ALARMED

Montgomery, Ala.—J. Litt Edwards, president of the Alabama Farm Bureau Federation, has telegraphed President Roosevelt expressing gratification on behalf of thousands of cotton producers in every Alabama county, for his "courageous action in refusing to eliminate the cotton processing tax" and for withstanding "the great pressure being placed on you to destroy the farmers' cotton program."

He has also written Alabama senators and congressmen letters in which he states that "we have examined the arguments being used against the cotton program and find that most if not all of them have no foundation in fact."

"So great an effort is being made to destroy the cotton program, through the George amendment to the work relief bill and otherwise, that farmers throughout this state are naturally alarmed," Edwards told the president.

"Cotton farmers feel that the cotton program, made possible by the processing tax levied under the agricultural adjustment act, has been their salvation. When you were inaugurated the cotton south was facing ruin. Conditions are much better now.

"Substitutions of work relief funds for funds collected under the processing tax would, in our opinion, be disastrous. Rental and benefit payments might be made from the U. S. Treasury for a short while, but taxpayers would soon put an end to such practice and the cotton program would collapse. If the government favors handlers and processors of cotton by shifting rental and benefit payments on cotton to work relief funds, similar action by processors of other agricultural commodities would be in order. Thus the entire AAA program might be destroyed."

FUTURE FARMERS AT JEMISON

The Jemison chapter of F.F.A. administered a successful rodent eradication campaign April 24, 1935. The poison was distributed to citizens of Jemison and the surrounding farmers. The Jemison city council sponsored the campaign in that they bought the materials but the F.F.A. chapter furnished all work of preparing and distributing bait. This is the third time a campaign of this type has been carried out and all previous ones were successful.—Reporter.

FARMERS WEEK SET FOR JULY 30th TO AUGUST 2nd

Auburn, Ala. — Farmer's Week, the annual gathering of Alabama farm men and women, will be held at the Alabama Polytechnic Institute here July 30 through August 2, reports Dr. L. N. Duncan, president of the Institute and director of the state extension service.

"It will be a great meeting for both farm men and women of the state," he said. Every County in the state will be represented by a large delegation, he said.

Arrangements are being made for state and nationally known speakers to appear. Other high-lights of the gathering will be leadership recognition of farm men and women, also tours of the experiment station.

Mr. Allen Thompson and family, of Chicago, after a visit to relatives in Montgomery, passed through Clanton Sunday morning enroute home. They paused for a brief visit with their aunt, Mrs. Curry.

CORN NEEDS SIDE-DRESS 40 DAYS AFTER PLANTING

Auburn, Ala.—If corn follows winter legumes, side-dress 40 days after planting with 100 pounds per acre of either nitrate of soda or nitrate of lime, advises J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist. "In a large number of experiments and demonstrations conducted at various points in the state 100 pounds of nitrate gave an increase of about 7 bushels.

"Corn following a good crop of winter legumes needs no fertilizers."

SIN, REPENTANCE, AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 15:11-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.—I John 1:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When a Boy Was Sorry.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Jesus' Story of the Prodigal Son.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—When We Do Wrong.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Forgiveness of Sin.

I. The Origin of Sin (Gen. 3:1-24).

Man was placed on probation in the Garden of Eden. The means used in the testing of man were most simple. God issued just one prohibition, and alongside of the tree of knowledge of good and evil was placed the tree of life. To this tree man had access. Satan, a personal being, appeared in the guise of a serpent. He induced Eve to doubt both the Word of God and the love of God and then appealed to innocent appetite. She gazed upon and lusted after that which God had forbidden. Following her yielding to the suggestion of Satan, she induced Adam to disobey God. We see from this that so far as the human race is concerned sin originated in the free choice of the head of the race and through the law of heredity passed upon all mankind.

II. The Universality of Sin (Rom. 3:10-18).

By the use of many quotations from the Scriptures, Paul proves that every member of the race is guilty of sin.

III. The Destiny of Sinners (Gen. 6:5-8).

Man's rebellious disobedience to God was followed by his resolution to destroy the race from the face of the earth. God's holy nature is such that the sinner must be punished. The only escape from the wrath of God is through the Savior who was provided by God in the person of his Son.

IV. The Divine Remedy for Sin (John 3:14, 15; Isa. 53:4-9).

The sinless Son of God took the place of the sinner by becoming incorporated with the race through the incarnation. As a human being he rendered perfect obedience to the law of God, fulfilling every demand and on the cross of Calvary made a vicarious atonement for sin. Just as the Israelites who were bitten by the venomous serpent were healed by looking to the brazen serpent lifted upon the pole, so is the sinner saved from sin by looking to the one who was made a curse for sin in his sacrifice on Calvary (II Cor. 5:21).

V. Repentance Necessary (Acts 2:32-39).

The one who hears the gospel message and receives the crucified Savior not only has forgiveness of sin, but turns from sin to God and thus repents. On the Day of Pentecost Peter's gospel message, which centered in the Lordship and Saviorhood of Jesus Christ, convicted the people of their sins. The evidence of their faith in Christ was manifested in their conviction of sin and their penitence was shown in their confession of Christ in baptism.

VI. The Forgiving God (Luke 15:11-24).

The center of things in this parable is neither the prodigal son nor his brother, but the "certain man who had two sons." He who fails to see the heart of our Father God will miss the purpose of this parable.

1. The son's insubordination (v. 12). The son's desire for freedom moved him wilfully to choose to leave home.

2. The son's departure (v. 13). Having made the fatal decision, he went posthaste to the enjoyment of his cherished purpose.

3. The son's degeneration (vv. 13, 14). From plenty in his father's house to destitution in a far country was a short journey. The sinner realizes his destitution when the very powers which minister to his pleasures are burned out.

4. The son's degradation (vv. 15, 16). When his money was exhausted, he was driven to hire out to a citizen to feed swine. It is ever so, that those who will not serve God are made slaves to the devil (Rom. 6:16).

5. The son's restoration (vv. 17-24). a. He came to himself (v. 17). b. He made a resolution (v. 18). c. He made a confession (vv. 18, 19). d. He acted (v. 20). e. Reception by his father (vv. 20-24).

The father had not forgotten his son. So anxious was he for him that he ran to meet him and fell upon his neck and kissed him.

VII. Justification the Issue of Faith (Rom. 5:1-11).

The one who receives Jesus Christ is declared righteous. His guilt is removed; he has peace with God.

Ordeals

The hardest of all ordeals for an honest man is to stand arraigned at the bar of his own conscience. He knows more than the keenest, the most vindictive enemy could urge for a verdict of guilty.

Charity

A man's charity to those who differ from him upon great and difficult questions will be in the ratio of his own knowledge of them, the more knowledge, the more charity.—Norman McLeod.

STRENGTH OF WOOD IS DUE TO LIGNIN

Montgomery, Ala.—Most people are aware that cellulose is an exceedingly important constituent of wood. Comparatively few, however, appreciate the part played by lignin. Cellulose comprises the greater part of the material of plant cells and fibers, particularly in the case of herbaceous plants. The stems and other parts of such plants are usually tender and more or less pliable. Lignin, however, adds hardness and stiffness to the tissues as exemplified by woody plants. The amount of lignin usually increases with the age of a plant, the latter sometimes being herbaceous as a seedling and ligneous at later stages of its growth. Sometimes a plant at maturity is ligneous at the base and herbaceous in the upper parts.

The numerous uses of cellulose are well known. Its chemical composition is pretty well understood by scientists. Lignin, however, is more of a puzzle both scientifically and economically. Its chemical composition is much in doubt, and it is often considered not as a single compound but as a mixture of two or more. Its principal natural use is as a stiffening and strengthening element in wood enabling the latter to be used for structural purposes. However, wood chemists have diligently attacked the problem of extending the uses of lignin for other commercial and economic purposes. Considerable progress has been made in this connection and definite results are expected in the comparatively near future.

McCormick-Deering
No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower

WE are anxious to have all of our friends see the New McCormick-Deering No. 7 Enclosed-Gear Mower. We think it is one of the finest pieces of farm equipment we have ever sold!

Everybody who has seen it says they never had any idea that a mower could be built as this one is.

For example: The entire operating mechanism, including drive gears, differential, and countershafts, is assembled compactly in an oil-tight gear housing and runs in a bath of oil. There are four high-grade roller bearings. Operation is so smooth and noiseless that you can scarcely hear the light hum of the sickle!

Special oil seals at the ends of the main axle and flywheel shaft, and the oil-tight gear box prevent leakage and protect all working parts against the entrance of dirt and other abrasive materials. Floating action of cutter bar provides ample play without disturbing knife registration.

POOR O

FORMER CLANTON LITTLE GIRL WINS HONORS AT HORSE SHOW

Little Gypsey Anne Boyd, 7-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Boyd, of Selma, formerly of Clanton, won two first prizes at a horse show last Sunday at Maxwell Field, Montgomery. In a big full column write-up Monday The Montgomery Advertiser had the following to say:

Amid a colorful setting, Montgomery's annual Horse Show yesterday at Maxwell Field was one of the most brilliant sports and social events ever held in the Capital City. And into the magnificient scene rode many skilled riders, but none surpassed the dignity and charm of Miss Gypsey Anne Boyd, seven year old equestrienne of Selma.

Astride her pet prize, Tony BeHave, Gypsey Anne not only won two first places and runner-up honors for the high-over-all award, but she captivated colorful assemblages of nearly 2,000 persons. Dignitaries of the military life of Maxwell Field, well-known sportsmen and sportswomen of the South and fashionable society folk throughout Central Alabama comprised the colorful gallery. With the youngsters pressing the more experienced and older competitors all the way, the show moved on steadily and without a delay under the expert supervision of Mrs. Vernon Olsmith. But the veterans, too, had their honors with Mrs. Richard Creed, sensation of the saddle in big-time competition annexing the sweepstakes by virtue of her victory in two events and two third-place awards.

WILDCAT VETERANS TO MEET IN SELMA AT STATE CONVENTION

The veterans of the 81st or wildcat Division of Alabama will meet in their first state-wide reunion at Selma on May 26 and 27.

In the state there are some 8,000 veterans who served with this Division over seas, and there will be a great gathering of them in this ideally located city of Central Alabama.

This is the first opportunity the Wildcats have had to meet in state convention and renew and strengthen their friendships and associations during the great war. The Wildcats are very much elated with this chance to gather in Selma and meet their old friends again.

Veterans are requested to write to their committee chairman, M. P. Jackson, Selma, Alabama, and make their arrangements for rooms and get the schedule of entertainment and business activities. It is anticipated that this will be a very large convention, and it is important to make reservations early.

HIGHLAND NEWS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. The Rev. M. Lockhart delivered two wonderful sermons. There were three additions admitted to the church Sunday.

We are going to meet at 9:00 o'clock for Sunday school next Sunday on account of the singing at Shiloh. Everyone come back to Sunday school next Sunday and bring someone with you.—Reporter.

3,500,000 JOBS TO BE PROVIDED

AIM OF HUGE PROJECT IS TO PROVIDE PAY CHECKS TO TAKE PLACE OF DOLE

Washington.—The government is about to start a drive aimed at providing jobs for 3,500,000 persons now on relief rolls.

To do this—an to carry on relief during the dole-to-jobs transition—Congres has told President Roosevelt he can spend $4,880,000,000.

This huge sum, almost more than the mind can grasp, will be used to build roads and sewers, to provide water for arid land, to attempt to curb dust storms, to build homes, to carry electric lines to the farms and to do many other things.

Work will be provided for day laborers, mechanics, skilled craftsmen such as carpenters and bricklayers, and clerks, architects and other members of the "white collar" class.

The preident has anounced that as far as possible, the people who will receive wages for doing this work will be taken from present relief rolls.

Pay Own Way

They will have a job and they will receive a pay check instead of direct relief in the form of money or goods. They will pay their own rent, instead of the government paying it for them.

But jobs, the government hopes, also will we created for others besides those on relief. It argues that to build roads, cement and gravel must be produced and transported, and to extend electric lines, wire must be made. Therefore, it says, the works drive will provide jobs for a large number of people in private industry.

Men who fought the large works expenditure took a different slant at the problem. An unbalanced budget, said, tended to paralyze business. They said government economy would create confidence which, in turn, would lead private industry to expend and put the unemployed to work.

Thus the works drive may be regarded, in a sense, as a vast test of one of two clashing theories.

Has Free Hand

With some exceptions, Congress has given the president a pretty free hand in carrying the program out. He has enlisted the aid of some 60 government agencies to prepare and supervise the work.

In his radio speech Sunday night, he called upon the nation to see that it is kept free of graft, chiseling and ineffficiency.

Many details of the plan remain to be worked out. Scores of conferences are being held daily in the capital to thresh out problems which continually crop up.

The president reiterated that the program will be expedited and he predicted that it would be in "full swing" by autumn.

The Vocational Home Economics units of the county took part in the meeting of the Kiwanis Club Thursday night, April 25. The girl chosen from Isabella was Frances Sexton. The subject of her talk was "What Home Economics Means to a High School Girl." The boy chosen from the agricultural unit was Woodrow Durbin, but he could not be there, so his brother, Marvin Durbin, took his place.

The F. F. A. chapter of Isabella has selected Harry Foxx to carry out the Chilean Nitrate demonstration put on by the Chilean Nitrate Co., to prove the value of nitrate of soda as a side dressing for cotton. The plot consists of 2½ acres fertilized exactly alike at planting time with the side-dressing reserved from ½ acre through the center. This will be a valuable experiment to those who are interested enough to notice this plot through the growing season. It will be weighed separately at gathering time and the value of side dressing can be told to the exact penny.

The three classes taking vocational agriculture have just finished spring cleaning, consisting of pruning and cultivating shrubbery, mowing lawn, leveling campus and oiling floors.

Mr. Robert E. Cammack and Miss Forney, state supervisors, were here last week making plans for Woodrow Durbin, the winner of the W. B. Oliver contest, to go to Washington.

A new building site for our high school has been purchased and aside from the fact that it is a beautiful building site the plot contains as good playgrounds as this section of the state affords. It is now being used by the boys in the physical education program.

MAD DOGS REPORTED

Scattering reports have come in that mad dogs are at large in some places in the county. While the epidemic is not serious, it is well that people take warning and be on the watch.

Chief of Police John Browder, of Clanton, is alert to the dangers that might arise with so many surplus dogs rambling the streets. Accordingly, he has reduced the menace somewhat by sending several of the animals to the trash pile in the last week.

Judge Charles R. Bricken and Judge Thomas D. Samford, of Montgomery, came to Clanton Wednesday and went to Lake Mitchell for a day of fishing in Walnut Creek.

Judge Bricken was here on a fishing trip a few weeks ago, and had such fine luck he had to come back for more.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

BENEFIT PAYMENTS CANNOT COME FROM RELIEF BILL FUND

President Roosevelt has announced that if the cotton processing tax is removed some means must be found for providing funds for paying the farmers acreage reduction benefits.

The Associated Press quotes the president as stating that the benefit payments could not come from the $4,880,000,000 appropriation because this money was for relief.

Early this month the president also reported that he had heard no suggestions as to where the funds for benefits would be found if the processing tax is eliminated.

President Roosevelt made the above facts known after he had signed the $4,880,000,000 appropriation bill which contained an amendment by Senator George of Georgia providing that benefit payments to farmers could be made out of the fund.

ADJUSTMENT PROGRAM IS THE FACTOR IN COTTON PRICE RISES

The principal factor in causing the increase in the price of cotton from 6 cents to 12 cents per pound during the past two years has been the cotton adjustment program rather than the devaluation of the dollar.

"The bureau of agricultural economics, in a preliminary analysis, has estimated that the probable price of cotton in early 1935, with no adjustment program and no change in the dollar in the past two years, would have been from 5 to 6 cents," writes Cully A. Cobb, director, agricultural administration.

"It is estimated," he says, "that with devaluation of the dollar but no adjustment program during the two years the price would have been from 7 to 8½ cents. With the cotton programs and no devaluation of the dollar, it is estimated that the price would have been from 8½ to 9½ cents.

"The increase due to the program above what the increase would have been with the devaluation of the dollar and no adustment program would be slightly more than $5 a bale. That, applied to the 1934 crop, plus the carry-over in the United States, makes a difference of some 85 to 90 millions of dollars in the value of the carry-over and all cotton produced last year.

"The combined influence of all efforts at increase in price actually did result in a per pound price of better than 12 cents"

FORIGN PRODUCTION DECLINE 184,000 BALES

Cotton production abroad is not "rapidly rising to new heights" says Cully A. Cobb, director, division of Cotton, A. A. A., who gives figures showing that cotton production in foreign countries during the past year, outside the United States, showed a decline as compared to production the previous year.

"Production in foreign countries for the current season is estimated at 12,869,000 bales, a decline of 184,000 bales from the record production of 1933-34," reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. "The decline in the estimated foreign production is due to a decline in almost 600,000 bales in the Indian crop which, along with smaller decreases in a few other countries, more than offset the increased production in Brazil, China, Russia and a number of minor countries."

"We are not aware of any country that offers an immediate threat to our supremacy by the expansion of acreage to cotton production," says Cobb.

"There is no intent on the part of the government to give up the position of supremacy that the United States holds as the world's leading cotton producer," Cobb continues. "Our aim is to adjust production to effective demand so that the buying power of the produced may be reestablished and the cotton-producing industry placed upon a sounder business foundation."

SOUTHERN ECONOMICS CONDITIONS IMPROVED

Increased prices of farm products brought about by the Cotton Adjustment program and other recovery measures have resulted in improved economic conditions, both on the farm and off the farm throughout the cotton belt, over what they were in 1932 when cotton sold for less than 6 cents per pound.

"We have seen the value of a bale of cotton, including seed, rise from $37.50 to approximately $80. For the crop of 1934", says Dr. L. N. Duncan, director of the State Extension Service, Auburn, Alabama, "we have seen the return of better times to the cotton belt; we have seen farmers pay bills that have been past due for years; we have seen taxes paid."

In addition to bringing about higher prices, the Adjustment program and other measures, have reduced the actual supply of American cotton by approximately 5,600,000 bales and the potential supply by 10,000,000 bales. "If there had been no plow-up program in 1933 the supply of American cotton for that season would have been 4,500,000 bales larger than it was", Duncan says. He also reports that the world supplies of all cotton for the 1934-35 season is 3½ million bales less than supplies of the previous year.

"To be able to hold the gains we have made, it will be necessary to continue our efforts at control", he concludes.

EROSION CONTROL SAVES TAXES AS WELL AS SOIL

A taxpaying farmer saves twice when he controls erosion. He saves his asic capital, the soil. And he—and his neighbors—save as taxpayers, says H. S. Riesbol, United States Department of Agriculture engineer.

When rain falls on a farm the water is an individual farm problem as long as it stays on the farm. The farmer may contrive to save it for his crops or he may let it rob him of his soil by sheet erosion or cut his farm land to pieces by gullying.

But when the water leaves the farm it begins to boost taxes for public works. When a farmer controls erosion, whether by terracing, by planting cover crops, or by stripe cropping, he reduces both the quantity of water and the sediment that enters the streams. Also the water that escapes does so at less rapid rate. Small streams do not flood so quickly or rise so high if the water shed is protected from erosion. Culverts and bridges, then, says Riesbol, need not be so large and expensive. If erosion is controlled, the streams are not so muddy and there is less expense in making water fit for municipal water supply or for irrigation. Reservoirs, often expensive structures, do not fill with silt so quickly.

Erosion control, Mr. Riesbol says, is still too new to have had much effect in making possible many notable economics in public works. Individual farmers have protected their fields, but it is only in the last year or two that there have been organized demonstrations of what erosion control can do when applied to all or most of the land in small watershed. This is the type of work, says Mr. Riesbol, which the civil engineers need to watch and study so that they will be ready to take advantage of the economies that will be possible as a result of checking the run-off of water and the waste of soil.

CHILTON HI BEAT MAPLESVILLE

After losing the first game of the season to Maplesville High a few weeks ago, the Chilton Tigers went to Maplesville last Friday and defeated Maplesville 5 to 0.

Bill Armstrong, Tiger hurler, faced only 31 men during the nine innings. Only four Maplesville players reached first base, and none got beyond second. Armstrong gave up only two singles, hit one batter, and Williamson's error allowed the other to reach first base safely. In addition young Armstrong struck out nine batmen.

The Maplesville pitcher gave up only five hits, two of which were garnered by Ted Reynolds, but three errors, two bases on balls, and three hit batsmen proved his undoing.

The Chilton team showed improvement over the previous engagement. Besides Armstrong's pitching gem, Parrish and Johnson stood out for Chilton in the gardens, and Clint Jones turned in his usual good game at short.

TWO-BALE EXEMPTION RULING IS EXPLAINED

Each cotton farm with an established base production of not more than two bales will this year receive, under the Bankhead cotton control act, an allotment of the full amount of the base production of each farm, says J. W. Fant, County Agent, who has received administrative ruling from the agricultural adjustment administration to this effect.

Under the ruling, the farm with a base production between one and 956 pounds will receive an allotment equal to its base production. For example, a farm with a base production of 356 pounds will receive an allotment of 356 pounds, the exact amount of its base.

The farm with a base production between 956 and 1,471 pounds will be given an allotment of two bales or 956 pounds of lint cotton, while the farm with a base of over 1,471 pounds will be allotted on the basis of 65 per cent of its established average production.

The two bale exemption was granted to benefit tenants, share croppers, and landowners who operate small farms.

MANUFACTURERS PROFIT REDUCING PRODUCTION

In order to stay in business and maintain reasonable living standards, manufacturers make a practice of reducing their production just as farmers are now doing in the cotton adjustment program. Past experience has proved that they can keep the prices of their products higher by restricting production.

Statistics show that from 1929 to the spring of 1933 manufacturers of agricultural implements reduced their production 80 per cent and the price dropped only 6 per cent; motor vehicle production was reduced 80 per cent and the price dropped only 16 per cent; cement production reduced 68 per cent, price dropped 18 per cent; iron and steel production reduced 83 per cent, price dropped 20 per cent; auto tires reduced 70 per cent, rice dropped 33 per cent.

Production of textile products reduced 30 per cent, prices dropped 45 per cent; food products production lowered 14 per cent, price dropped 49 per cent; leather and petroleum dropduction reduced 20 er cent, prices reduced 50 and 56 per cent; and production of agricultural commodities was reduced only 6 per cent and the price dropped 63 per cent.

These figures show that the industries which reduced their production the greatest received the highest prices and those which reduced their production least received the lowest prices. It will be observed that the production of agricultural commodities were reduced only 6 per cent and the prices dropped 63 per cent, the greatest price drop in any of the major industries of the United States.

Thorsby Institute News

There was quite an exodus of dormitory students over the past week end, as it was the last of the term when the students, who live not far away, were allowed to go home.

Last Friday after school the Junior class with Mr. and Mrs. Maddox as chaperones, had a picnic at Mahan's pond, and reported a fine time.

The first part of field day was held on Tuesday afternoon of this week. The result of the events will probably take place next Monday afternoon.

The Senior rings and pins have arrived. The school has a standard ring and pin, designed by Miss Katheryn Perry, a former teacher.

Recent visitors to the school were Mr. and Mrs. John Ford, former students at Thorsby Institute, and now living in Lexington, Ky. Mrs. Ford was Lorena Graham and lived in Thorsby for some time. They have one little girl.

Miss Lillian McKee is expecting to study this summer at Montevallo, in special welfare courses, looking forward to that kind of work another year. She had long been interested in that kind of work, and so has decided to change to it another year. She will be much missed by teachers and pupils. The teacher who will take her place is Miss Capitola Mattingley, a graduate of Asbury College, Wilmore, Ky. This year she is doing graduate work at Scarritt College for Christian workers at Nashville, Tenn. Miss Mattingley will teach history and allied subjects the coming year, also health work for girls. She specialized in history, education and English while in college. She is very much interested in athletics and is this year taking work in various forms of girls' athletics with a view to teaching it.

Miss Mabel Allen, music teacher, will take up other work the coming year. She has done especially well with the glee club and chorus work this year, training the students to sing distinctly and with expression. Miss Katheryn Foss, a Thorsby Institute graduate, who studied music before and after entering the Institute, will take Miss Allen's place. While studying under Miss Giula Williams, a former Thorsby Institute music teacher, Miss Foss was awarded a gold medal one year for making the most progress of any of the music pupils. She was a member of a trio while in the Institute, and often sang solos, and also did a great deal of accompanying. Miss Foss will graduate from Piedmont College in June. While there she has specialized in voice and piano, and has ranked high. She will probably have a class in history and appreciation of music which will count as a credit course. She will also have an English class.

It is expected that the other teachers will return to the Institute.

Mrs. H. R. Maddox will have charge of the office this summer for half a day.

Wedding Announced

Dr. and Mrs. Curtis announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis, to Lewis Benton, the wedding to take place Friday, May 10th, at 7:45 p.m. at the Thorsby Institute. Don't fail to see "There Goes the Bride."

Mrs. Dolly Curd of Birmingham visited Miss Mae Wood last week.

The Misses Lessie Rascoe and Lois Rister were dinner guests of Miss Mary Louise Reinhardt last Sunday.

Mrs. Ira Sarber of Elmore is at the present time in Fitts Hill Hospital in Montgomery.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Thomason of Lay Dam were the Saturday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Williams.

An exchange wants to know why women and money are alike and then answers by saying that you have to keep them busy or they lose interest. Yes, and if you let them venture too far you lose both principal and interest.

Dust storms, they say, have come upon us because during the war we turned under the sod of thousands of acres that nature intended to be used for grazing lands. But remember we did it to make the world safe for democracy.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

One of the commonest political principles of the day seems to recommend that the federal government spend as much money as possible for relief and public works and then pay for it by taking it out of the hides of the rich. Soaking the rich seems to be one of the pleasantest slogans we can think of. Most of us are more or less poor, and comparatively few of us are rich. If we can make the other fellow pay the bill of course it is fine and dandy. But even the demagogues are now beginning to realize that there are not enough rich individuals in the country to pay the swelling expenses of government. We are therefore hearing more and more about taxing big business. Most of us have not thought the problem through and do not realize that increasing the taxes of big business will increase the tax burden on ourselves.

Taxes of most of the big business corporations are now being raised to the point where it won't be long until taxes per share will be as high or higher than the dividends per share. Of course some of them have arrived at the point where they pay plenty of taxes and no dividends. It still remains true, however, that the more taxes a corporation pays the less dividends it pays.

Now who gets the dividends? Is it the bloated plutocrat? By no means. Most of the so-called "plutocrats" hold gilt-edged expensive bonds on which interest payments are assured. But the same is not true of the cheaper common stocks. In most of the giant corporations like the General Motors, about nine-tenths of the common stock is held in lots of 100 shares or less. This means that the ownership of the companies is spread all over the country among thousands of small stockholders, clerks, little business men, widows, the retired and aged, school teachers, letter carriers and so on. Now if the state or country tries to collect its expenses off these companies, the first effect is to reduce or wipe out the dividends. As a result the owners of the common stock, in most instances little fellows, are really paying the taxes which the government is getting by "soaking" the great corporations. This reduces the income of the man who gets the money when it is spent, and the business man, the farmer, the manufacturer and his workmen suffer. Payments on plutocratic bonds are continued.

Still, in spite of the fact that more Americans own equities in corporations than the people of any other country, the possessors of common stock are in the minority, when compared with the entire population. So the average man may say complacently: "Well, I should worry. Let the government go ahead and soak big business even if it does hurt John Jones who owns 50 shares of oil, or motor or food stock. I don't own any stock myself and they can't hurt me anyhow." That is just where Mr. Complacent Average Man is mistaken. Aside from what he suffers in the way of general business recession due to slump in spending power through widespread loss of dividends he gets soaked another way.

And let him not forget that he is always soaked in this way. As taxes are made higher and higher the price of the goods which the corporation produces and sells becomes higher and higher, and Mr. Consumer pays more and more for his goods and thus settles the taxes two or three times over. If he doesn't believe that taxes affect him let him buy a ham or a pound of round steak today and compare the price with that of a year ago. The increase isn't all due to the drought by a long ways. The consumer always pays taxes no matter how the governmentries to take it out on business.

There is another probability. Mounting taxes and other restrictions may make the domestic cost so high that protective tariffs will be no longer effective and our people will be faced with increased unemployment due to increased imports from cheaper producing countries. We are confronted by that rather uncomfortable situation today. Of course it is possible to tax business to the point where it will collapse and have to be taken over by the government. Maybe some of our more radical reformers are hoping that such a thing will happen. Who knows?

CONFIDENCE AND BUSINESS

Occasionally we get an optimistic statement, from someone who is supposed to know, that we are about to break into an era of great prosperity and that the jammed-up condition of money and credit is over. Everyone who has the interests of his country at heart hopes that this is now true. Uncle Sam can stand some real prosperity, and the sooner he gets it the less we will hear about these expensive and foolish new schemes for priming the pump and knitting over the social fabric of the country.

It is well for us, including the predicters, to remember, however, that nothing in America has so frozen credit and stopped the rapid corculation of money as doubt about the future public policies which are to be pursued. One of the greatest congealers of business is fear of the future, fear of what is going to happen to business through adverse legislation. Until this timidity is removed there will be no real and lasting prosperity in the United States. The reason is easy to find. Every few years we run low on consumers goods. The factories which produce these goods start up and we have a temporary condition of what looks like good business. Then when the demand is satisfied the boomlet is over. Gloom returns. But to get real prosperity we must stimulate the heavy industries, of which building is a good example. These industries depend on financing for years ahead. Certainly they are not going to revive until they are reassured about the future financial and business policies of the nation. The lag in these industries has caused a great deal of the unemployment and the reassurance of the men operating them is not strengthened by increasing unemployment or staggering federal debt increases.

Roger W. Babson, the financial student, said recently in pointing out the need for sounder conditions of credit:

"According to government figures, 23,375,000 people are now on relief—one person out of every five. This is an increase of 77 per cent over a year ago, yet business is at the same level as last April. The nation's workers in normal times total about 50,000,000. Subtract our present army of 6,000,000 federal, state and local government employees, and the 10,000,000 workers who are now jobless, and we have 34,000,000 working in private industry. Hence, these 34,000,000 must not only support their own families but also the 10,000,000 unemployed and their dependents and the 6,000,000 government workers and their dependents. In other words, the production burden normally divided among three workers must be carried by only two workers today."

Certainly this situation of unemployment and relief cannot be remedied until the heavy industries are put back in production, and this will only come when confidence is restored. And confidence will not be restored until we know where we are going. On the other hand, some of the consumers indistries, like the textile, are now feeling the effects of foreign competition brought about by policies increasing American cost of production.

Yet if the financial experts who claim that the financial log jam is now about to be broken know what they are talking about, there is going to be a big change in this country and we will all find opportunity for rejoicing.

SOME INCONSISTENCY

One of the things which most students of public affairs now seem to recognize pretty generally is the inconsistency of the times. This inconsistency seems to have crept even into our official programs.

Take the case of the NRA for example. A great deal has been said pro and con about the consistency of raising prices artificially and seeking to stimulate producton at the same time. But there are things later than these to think about relative to their consistency or lack of that quality.

Some time ago William E. Belcher, a lumber dealer of Alabama, was indicted on the charge of violating the lumber code. Mr. Belcher took the position that the NRA act was unconstitutional and he was upheld by Federal Judge Grubb of Birmingham. The government then appealed the case to the U. S. Supreme Court; but the suit has not come up for hearing before the higher tribunal. The Department of Justice, representing the government, went before the court and asked for the dismissal of the government's appeal. This appeal was, of course, from the lower court's decision declaring the law unconstitutional.

The dismissal was granted by the court over the protest of the National Lumber Code Authority that the government's action virtually admitted the illegality of the code. Be that as it may, it now seems that there will be no decision by the high court at this time.

Here is where the suspicion of inconsistency comes in. The administration at Washington is asking that the National Recovery Act be extended for two years. And yet the attorneys for the government, who are admittedly good lawyers, take action in the Supreme Court which postpones a decision on the constitutionality of an important part of the act, giving rise to the suspicion that they do not care to go before the Supreme Court and argue the soundness of the act, at least until it is greatly changed. No wonder a lot of people are wondering where we are going. Certainly the position must be an uncomfortable one for some of the good friends of the NRA.

SURRENDER OF CORN WALLACE

Secretary Wallace has lifted all restrictions on spring wheat acreage. His action is a confession and a surrender. It says, more forcefully than words can say it, that the limitation in production, that creation of artificial scarcities which is the cardinal economic policy of the administration, is a reckless and unscrupulous gamble with the public welfare at stake.

Unfortunately, Corn Wallace's surrender is not a complete one. He is afraid to go ahead with his wheat restrictions, but he will continue to play for the same stakes in cotton, corn, hogs and whatever other products he can get his fingers on. Less to eat and less to wear and materially higher prices for food and clothing are his objectives. He hopes that he will not create shortages so severe that starvation will result. What he is aiming at is hunger in moderation, just a little pinching of the bellies of the poor.

He pictures hmself a kindly man and frequently quotes from Scripture. He hopes, perhaps he even prays, that the droughts will not be too severe and the parasites too numerous. But always he pares down the planted acreage toward the danger mark. The winter wheat acreage, from which the larger part of America's bread comes, is so pared today and nothing can be done about it at this late hour. Nature has not smiled on the Wallace gamble and he is now trying to minimize the losses by lifting restrictions on planting in the spring wheat belt. The action he has taken proves, if any proof were needed, the essential recklessness of his program.—Chicago Tribune.

JACK'S RECORD

The White Sox, rated, before the season opened, as a tail-end club, has been going great guns since the season opened. Through last Sunday they had played only two clubs, the league champion Detroit Tigers, and the St. Louis Browns. They took 5 out of 6 from Detroit, and 4 out of 6 from St. Louis. During the seige with the Tigers, they beat Schoolboy Rowe, Tiger ace hurler, two times.

Jack had his best day of the season, so far, on last Friday, when he gathered 2 singles, 1 double, and a home run out of 4 trips to the plate. Following is his record—first is the record for the week beginning Monday, April 22, and ending Sunday, April 28. Next is the whole season record.

Record for Past Week—7 Games:

Batting—At bat: 27; hits 11 (9 singles, 1 double, 1 home run); percentage: 407.

Fielding—Put-outs: 16; assists: 28; errors: 1; total chances: 45; Percentage: .978; double plays: 6.

Record For Season—12 Games:

Batting—At bat: 52; hits: 19 (16 singles, 2 doubles, 1 home run); percentage: .365.

Fielding—Put-outs: 31; assists: 39; errors: 4; total chances: 74; percentage: .946; double plays: 8.

THE SCRAP IS ON

Democrats have a reputation for scrapping, especially among themselves. Democratic leaders see danger in this, just at this time, too As you know, the Demmies have a big majority in the national congress just at this time. While they were in the minority they stuck closer than a brother. But since they have become the "big boys", so to speak, they have started again as of old. That's what gets a whipping for one, no matter if it is a clan, a political body, or what have you. "A house divided against itself cannot stand". Do you remember back when you were coming up, and going to school? You will remember some family of boys. At home they would scrap among themselves. At school they would band together, and to jump on one of them was just like jumping all. Then, after they had whipped out their opposition, together, then they would go back to scrapping among themselves again. Then, after they were tired out, a bunch of smaller boys could come in and lick the tar out of them. That is what the Democratic leaders are now afraid of. They know that the Democrats got into power by fighting together. And now, since they are the stronger wing, with their opponents whipped out for the time being, they have gone back to fighting among themselves again. That will get them whipped, just as it got the Republicans whipped. When they first went into power, they were willing to let President Roosevelt have his way—there were no fights then. In this last session, though, there is much dissension, and the signs are that there is much more to come. The president's powers are being taken back, one by one, and that doesn't help Czar Roosevelt's feelings any. He isn't the king cock of the roost any more, and has given out word that he will veto any measure he may send up for their approval if they so much as change it one little teeny-weeny bit from the form he sends it up in. Oh, well, the hotter the scrap the more we will enjoy it. So, let the war roll on.

IS IT DUMBNESS

Did you ever visit a circus and watch the animal trainer crack his whip over the heads of his charges, and make them do tricks for him. I have often wondered why the animals didn't get fed up on going through the same old antics every day, and stage a revolt, and go for the man with the whip. I have been told that the reason is that they are "just dumb animals," and that after so long a time, come to "do their tricks" from pure force of habit, without any will or initiative of their own. As I read the Democratic newspapers from day to day I am continually reminded of the circus tent. The Democratic bosses crack the whip, and the Democratic editors "do their stuff" just like the trained seals, lions, dogs, and fleas in the circus. They all do it, too, from the big dailies on down to the little two-by-four 4-page weeklies. When Republicans were at the national helm, when cotton dropped a few points, there were scare heads draped all over the front pages of these Democratic papers. And a few days ago when cotton dropped over a cent a pound in one day, (something that has not happened before in over seven years), some of them gave it a little 1-column head, followed by an article about half as long as your finger, and the most of that given up to wondering what the cause could be; some of them didn't even mention it. In the very same issue was an article relating the story of how two foreign nations had signified their intention of going in for extensive cotton raising—and these two have been among our best cotton buyers, too. If these editors had only taken the trouble to digest this little bit of news, they wouldn't have had to wonder why the big drop had come. And, too, when the bonus army met at Washington in Hoover's day, and had to be repulsed by the police, how these papers howled about the way the "poor veterans" were being treated. Yet not long ago another bonus army met at the same place. The police were not called this time—a company of soldiers were called out and several of the "poor veterans" were killed, yet these same papers could see no harm in THAT, as "most of them were believed to be Red agitators", to quote words of the Demmy papers. They shouldn't have put themselves to this worry. Roosevelt is not going to hurt any Reds if he can help it. They are his buddies. If prices go up a trifle our Demmy papers shout it to the heavens; if they go down three times as much, they never notice it. A few years ago they shouted for "personal liberty", yet now they swallow every NRA liberty-suppressing code in the calendar and smile like it was sugar. When I note the actions of these papers it leaves the same feeling in my stomach that is felt by an 8-year-old the first time he slips out behind the barn and tries a few puffs of home spun in dad's old black pipe. My "tummy" wants to do a flip. And then I think of the circus and the "dumb animals" again. Maybe it IS dumbness, after all.

AFTER US—WHAT?

When Marie Antoinette was queen of fair France, she and her courtiers held high carnival. She spent money as freely as water. When her statesmen spoke to her about the matter of the national treasury, she said: "I care naught for the manner in which you get money—only that you get it". At another time she said: "After us the deluge". She meant that the French people could not bear such a burden forever, and that by the time her reign would be over the nation would be so deep in debt that the people would rebel when called to pay the staggering debts. She was right—revolution broke out, even before the end of her reign, and she was taken prisoner and killed. She has been called history's biggest spendthrift. That is, up to 1933. But as a spendthrift, she was a weak-kneed piker alongside Franklin D. Our Czar Roosevelt and his Red henchmen at Washington might say, as did Marie: "After us the deluge". Our country is called the most powerful and wealthiest nation on earth. On paper it is—but really it is not. Where we have only a few thousand trained soldiers, other nations have several times the number. They outnumber us in navy units of every class, in aircraft, in fact in every division of national defense. And even as we boast of being the world's richest country, at the same time our nation owes more than any other. This country owes far over thirty billions of dollars—and going in deeper every minute of every day. They tell us that this money that is being spent so freely will never have to be repaid. One cannot blame the men and women who are receiving the money—only a fool would refuse a chance to make money—easy money. How anyone could be so simple and foolish as to believe that this money will not have to be repaid, however, is beyond me. So the blame for the reckless spending spree lies with the officials. Let's take an example. Suppose you own a farm, and borrow five thousand dollars on it. If you have your papers fixed so that you will not have to start paying on the principal in several years, it might be that you wouldn't pay the money back. But your heirs would have to pay it, if the land passed on to them. The money that your government is spending so recklessly is borrowed money, drawing interest, and although the present generation of taxpayers may not have to pay it back, the interest is coming out of your taxes—the national income—and some of these days, some time, in some way, somebody will have to pay that debt. Never doubt it. Even if it is not paid in a lump sum, you and your grandchildren and generations to come will pay it back many times over in interest, taken from their taxes. Is is fair to burden the generations yet unborn with debt, without their having any word in the matter? Must we leave them nothing but a huge debt to remember us by?

THE EAGLE'S NEST

The big boys up Washington way, realizing that the NRA Blue Eagle chicklets have not turned out as well as was planned, have set about remodeling the eagle's nest. Just why they want to re-set the eagle at all is a question which they, themselves, have never answered suitably. Nevertheless, it seems we must put up with the eagle as long as the present set of wits and half-wits are in office, whether it is good for us or not. As you will remember, out of the last hatch from the Blue Eagle we got several different kinds and grades of code chicks. Some were weak, and died of their own weakness; some were a little stronger, and had to be looked after to keep them in their place; some developed into big strong healthy fellows, and became quite oppressive, and still are, so far as that goes—that is, they were oppressive to the common people of the country, although they didn't get so far when they ran up against some of the big fellows. In fact, they had to fall back every time they ran into one of the big ones, as they did in the case of "Hank" Ford and a few others like him. Neither could they handle the labor unions, but had to come back to the old roost and smooth out the feathers before engaging in another tussle. They could handle the little ones, like pressing shops, bakeries, small grocery stores and the like, but not once has the Blue Eagle's chicks won a major scrap. Now the incubator is being gone over, in an effort to hatch out a better brood than the last. If we have to put up with the thing, let's hope they make it better. However, no one knows whether they will try to hatch chicks with sharper claws, or try to include a little sense and justice in this hatch. There is one thing, though, that the taxpayers of this country should remember. All the time this hatching process is going on, no matter whether the chicks are good, bad, or indifferent, the taxpayers should remember that they are the ones who are furnishing the scratch feed for the whole flock, and when the next election comes up it will be well for them to decide whether they want to keep on experimenting with this new mixed breed, or go back to the old straight breed of 100 per cent Americanism.

THE NEW DEAL LIMIT

Four big questions have been submitted to New Deal authorities. And four of the "big men" in the set up, those most able to answer these questions, have given the best answers they can. The questions are: (1) What is the New Deal really aiming at in the way of business stability, and how far along are we toward the goal? (2) How does President Roosevelt propose to pay off his stupendous mounting debt? (3) Has he any limit on how high it will go; if so, what is it? (4) What is holding back the circulation of money and credit? Here are the answers these four New Deal authorities gave to the questions: (1) The New Deal's aim is a system of higher prices for commodities, services, etc. At present there have been varying results. Some prices are too high, some are about right, and some far too low. Nothing new in the way of plans toward the ultimate goal is under way, because the "value of the dollar" cannot be accurately computed at this time. The ultimate aim is a return to conditions as they existed in 1928. (2) Mr. Roosevelt does not intend to try to pay off the debt. He will let his successors do that. The procedure will take at least 20 years, with a good tax income. (3) Unofficially the bond limit of indebtedness is 50 billion dollars, but officially there is no limit. (4) The trouble is not that there is not plenty of money in circulation, but that there is not a sufficient credit source. There is more money in circulation today than there was in 1928, while credit is several billions of dollars short, and the money turnover is slower. That is the brightest outlook that could be voiced for it. And if that is the brightest side of the New Deal picture, the dark side must be deplorable. There is one thing we must give the boys credit for—they give their answers frankly. And if we are to take their own words as any kind of yardstick of success of the New Deal, we think it is "one grand and glorious bust."—Man in the Moon.

According to a paragrapher in the Boston Transcript, a Parisian woman had some plastic surgery done to reshape her nose unveiled the rejunated organ at a cocktail party and "her friends toasted it." The surgeon must have made the new nose out of French bread.

They told us that when we boosted the price of silver it would make China prosperous. There was about as much truth in this prediction as the one that Red Russia would buy a half billion dollar's worth of American goods after we recognized her.

THE TEXTILE DILEMMA

Closing of textile mills in the United States is coming all too frequently for comfort. It is to be hoped that something can be done to remedy the situation in the near future. As this is being written the announcement comes that the Hope Mill, of Scituate will be the next. The reason given for the closing of this mill, which will throw 400 men out of work, is double: Japanese competition and the processing tax. It is said that the emproyees of the Hope Mill have been receiving on an average $3.00 a week more than the average weekly wage in the Southern textile mills. Textile mill owners are being urged to fight Japanese competition, the processing tax and over-production. Mills are closing both in the North and South.

It seems to be logical to say that foreign competition, the processing tax and over-production are somewhat related. Other causes for the present deplorable condition can be ascertained. Policies toward cotton growers and the textile industry in the United States have tended to give advantage to foreign competition. The artificially higher price of cotton in America, the cotton processing tax and legislation tending to increase the cost of production, have acted to make it possible for nations like Japan to pay the American tariff, which is no longer protective and to sell goods in the United States more cheaply than local producers can.

But the trouble is not altogether with textiles. According to the Universal News Service, Japanese imports to the United States have jumped something like 4,000 per cent during the last year. All sorts of products have been coming in to supplant American wares. They have been sending us not only cotton products but silk, wool, leather goods, rice, certain types of oil, glassware, china, porcelain and jewelry. American flags are being produced in Japan cheaper than they can be made in America and sent to our country, and even the baseball, emblem of the great American sport is coming to us marked "made in Japan." Steel imports from Europe are increasing. Not only is this true but our foreign markets in South America and other corners of the world are being gobbled by other nations.

The reason for the unusual import acceleration is not hard to find. American raw materials are being made artificially by some of our policies and while our producers are buying them foreign producers are buying cheap materials in foreign markets. Our labor and other costs are always higher in America than elsewhere and these are being increased by our national policy. Higher prices, unless there is compensation to consumers all along the line, always bring buyers strikes and consequent over-production.

Some time ago Secretary Hull said a lot about extending our foreign markets. We are losing them rapidly, because of some of our policies, and are now in danger of losing some of our more important domestic markets if we are not carefull.

THE EUROPEAN TANGLE

Some vari-colored stories are coming out of Europe just now that it is a little difficult to tell just what has happened. We are told that France and Russia have combined with Italy against Germany, that the Little Entente has combined against Germany, that Austria, Hungary and Bulgaria, former allies of the Reich, are to be permitted to rearm, that Great Britain has done this and that and the other, and either will or will not enter into a combination against Hitler in case of war.

All of which makes it necessary to remember just how it all commenced. The trouble started when Hitler "first" violated the Versailles treaty by stating that Germany was going to adopt conscription and rearm to full war strength. Conferences were called and we were told that this rearming would not be permitted, that Germany would be punished either by the former allies or through the League.

The days have gone by and so far as we can learn, Hitler has not cancelled conscription. The conference at Stresa adopted some ringing resolutions and referred the matter to the League with a recommendation by France that the League inform Germany that if she did it again she will be punished. The council did this, which caused one German statesman to remark that "it won't be necessary to do it again," as adopting conscription once is enough.

It may be that many nations will form defensive alliances against Germany but it must be remembered that they were against Hitler anyhow and that he hasn't added to the number of his enemies by adding to the size of his armies. There were, of course, plenty of enemies anyhow.

Just what the final result of the squabble will be remains to be seen. It would seem that Hitler got away with one violation of the treaty without losing his head and that this may be encouragment to try it again some time when he feels stronger. If the other nations wanted to stop Germany's rearming it looks like they missed a very good chance by not doing it before the rearming was completed. Japan was reprimanded by the Council and still survived to "act up" in China.

The town of Peru sets out this year to collect its taxes in spite of the federal government, state laws and the Supreme Court. The Peru plan is to provide a job for a citizen who cannot support himself and as fast as he earns anything to take installments toward his taxes and give him the remainder to provide for himself and family.

Now Bulgaria, Austra and Hungaria, in addition to Germany, are going to increase their armaments. Russia is making potential flyers out of all the boys. Which proves that only Uncle Sam has a war spirit. He should cut down his armament to one musket and a canal boat.

POOR O

Questions And Answers About Cotton Adjustment Program

Questions And Direct Answers Regarding Opposition To The Cotton Program

Question: Which groups are opposed to the Cotton Program and why?

Answer: Cotton handlers and spinners. Cotton handlers, including buyers and shippers, make their profits on a per bale basis; more bales mean more money to them.

Question: What is the cotton processing tax?

Answer: The cotton processing tax is paid by consumers and collected from cotton mills on cotton goods used in the United States. It is the farmer's tariff. From proceeds of the cotton processing tax cotton farmers are paid rental and benefit payments for reducing cotton production in an effort to raise the price of cotton to a fair level as compared with the price of manufactured goods purchased by cotton farmers.

Question: What tax have cotton growers been paying on manufactured goods that corresponds to the processing tax on cotton they sell?

Answer: A tax known as the protective tariff has been levied in varying amounts and on various articles for more than 100 years to raise the income of American industry. Levying of this tax and failure to give farmers similar protection has placed farmers at a great disadvantage nearly ever since the American government was founded. The tariff act of 1930 was higher than any other in our history.

Question: Are textile manufacturers protected by a tax (tariff) similar to the processing tax which protects farmers?

Answer: Yes. The protective tax (tariff) increases the cost of cotton goods to farmers and other consumers by about 38 percent. This 38 percent. is paid by consumers and goes to those engaged in the textile industry. It amounts to many times as much as the processing tax which is likewise paid by consumers and goes to farmers.

If manufacturers insist that the processing tax, which protects farmers, be removed in order that they could buy cotton on an unprotected world market they should also, if they seek to be consistent, insist that the protective tax (tariff) be removed in order that farmers could buy their overalls, shirts, sheets, and other cotton goods on an unprotected world market.

Question: Has the processing tax decreased the consumption of cotton?

Answer: There is nothing to indicate that the processing tax, within itself, has served to restrict the consumption of cotton.

Question: Does the processing tax decrease the volume of exports from the United States of manufactured cotton goods?

Answer: No. The amount of the processing tax is refunded to cotton mill manufacturers on cotton goods shipped out of the United States.

Question: Does the processing tax increase the volume of imports of cotton goods into the United States?

Answer: No. An import tax equal to the processing tax must be paid on cotton cloth shipped into the United States to offset the processing tax paid on cotton cloth made in the United States.

Question: Has the cotton program and the processing tax caused an increase in the use of substitutes for cotton, and is this a serious threat to the American cotton grower as some handlers and manufacturers of cotton are stating?

Answer: During the year 1933-34 consumption of rayon, silk, and wool decreased more than the consumption of cotton.

Under the Agricultural Adustment Act the Secretary of Agriculture can prevent the substitution, because of the processing tax, of other commodities, as jute, paper, rayon, and wool, for cotton by levying similar taxes on such other commodities. Such similar taxes are already in effect on paper and jute.

Question: Does the processing tax prevent the use of cotton in the manufacture of low-value products?

Answer: No. The Agricultural Adjustment Act provides that if the processing tax cuts down the use of cotton in the manufacture of low-value products the tax on cotton for that use may be suspended. This has already been done in the case of large-sized cotton bags.

Question: Is the processing tax ruining the cotton textile industry?

Answer: No, and this is proven by the following facts: The average margin or difference between the price of a pound of raw cotton and the wholesale prices of unfinished cotton cloth obtainable from a pound of cotton for 17 constructions or kinds of cloth fell from 16 cents per pound in 1925-26 to 15.4 cents in 1926-27, 14.2 cents in 1927-28, 13.6 cents in 1928-29, 13.2 cents in 1929-30, 12.2 cents in 1930-31, to 9.4 cents in 1931-32, and was 10.1 cents for 1932-33.

In February, 1933, before the processing tax was enacted, this margin of difference was 7.5 cents per pound. With full allowance for the cotton processing tax this margin or difference averaged 13.95 cents for the crop year 1933-1934 and has averaged 12.37 cents for the first seven months of the current season.

It is clear that it cannot be consistently argued that the cotton processing tax or current prices are seriously depressing cotton consumption, since cotton mill activity has been high in comparison with general business activity. The cotton textile industry is faring well in comparison with other industries.

Question: Are imports of cotton cloth from foreign countries a serious threat to the Southern cotton growers and the American textile industry?

Answer: Imports of cotton cloth fell from a peak of 196 million square yards in 1923-24 to 50 million square yards in 1929-30 and to 31 million square yards in 1930-31. In 1932-33 there were approximately 43 million square yards imported. Imports from Japan fell from 10.8 million square yards in the calendar year 1923 to less than 800 thousand square yards in 1934. Recent imports indicate that for the calendar year 1935 imports from Japan will be high as compared with previous years, but of little consequence since in February 1935, Japanese cotton cloth consumed in the United States was only 8-10 of 1 percent of the total.

It is probable that imports of cotton cloth into the United States will not in the near future pass previous peaks.

The cotton program and the cotton processing tax do not affect imports of cotton cloth, since a compensatory tax must be paid on imports to offset the processing tax paid on cotton cloth manufactured in the United States.

Enemies of the Cotton Program have a lot to say about Japanese cotton imports, but they think the American people are prejudiced against the Japanese and seek to take advantage of this prejudice in their attacks on the farmer's program.

Question: If Congress is going to remove the processing tax and put farmers on the relief rolls, what else should Congress do if it seeks to be fair to Agriculture and consistent in its actions?

Answer: It should remove the protective tax (tariff) and put manufacturers on the same relief rolls.

The processing tax is the farmers' protective tax (tariff) and without it cotton farmers would again, as they were for more than 100 years preceding 1933, be buying in a tariff-protected market and selling on an unprotected world market without any protection even on that part of their cotton consumed in this country.

Question: Should the United States Government extend aid to cotton growers with the processing tax similar to that it has for many years extended to other groups with the protective tax (tariff), financial laws, subsidies, and assurance of profits to public utilities?

Answer: Yes. Secretary of Agriculture Wallace said recently: "In the past it has been a battle between farmers and certain processing and distributing interests, with the Government standing more or less aloof. Today the government is willing to step in far enough to see that the farmer gets an even break....."

Question: Could the benefits now being received by farmers be paid from the United States Treasury?

Answer: Payments might be made in such way for a short while, but the public would not stand very long for such expenditur to be made from regular or anticipated tax funds.

Those who are suggesting that benefits to cotton farmers be paid direct from Treasury funds know that the cotton program would soon collapse if the processing tax was eliminated. They are smart enough to offer a substitute which sounds good but which would be short lived.

Farmers do not want to make a raid on the Treasury or be placed on a dole. Thhey seek only the same kind of protection that other groups get under the protective (tariff).

Question: Are enemies of the cotton program telling the truth when they say that the high price of American cotton is causing production of cotton in foreign countries to "rapidly rise to new heights?"

Answer: No, for the following reasons:

1. Twelve-cent cotton is not high-priced cotton.

2. Production of cotton during the past year outside the United States was less than during the previous year. Instead of the much ballahooed "rapid rise" there was an actual decline.

3. The world supply of all cotton for the 1934-35 season is 3 1-2 million bales less than the supply of the previous season.

4. The United States Department of Agriculture, which cannot afford to misrepresent facts and mislead farmers, has stated: "We are not aware of any country that offers an immediate threat to our supremacy by the expansion of acreage to cotton production. The real threat of destructive expansion is right here in our own country."

Question: Would starvation prices for cotton with a low income to cotton producer prevent increases in foreign cotton production even if there was the serious threat to American supremacy about which so much is being said by cotton handlers and manufacturers?

Answer: No. Foreign cotton countries have in the past increased cotton production when cotton was selling at 5 to 6 cents per pound.

Even if there was a serious threat of foreign cotton production American farmers would still be confronted with deciding whether they desired to produce cotton at starvation prices in compitition with cheap labor of India, China, and other countries.

Question: Why are foreign countries buying less American cotton?

Answer: The four main reasons are:

1. The high protective tax (tariff) levied by the United States government for the benefit of manufacturers. This prevents the sale of goods manufactured in foreign countries to the United States and makes it difficult for foreign countries to get American dollars with which to buy American cotton.

2. High protective tariff walls have been erected by foreign countries to prevent the shipping of American goods into foreign countries. These tariff walls were erected to compete with American tariffs levied to protect American industry.

3. Formerly the United States was a debtor nation, the government and its citizens borrowing vast sums from foreign countries and making payments in American products, mainly cotton. In recent years the United States has become a creditor nation, the government and its citizens having loaned vast sums to foreign countries (war loans, etc.) and to citizens of foreign countries. This loaning created a temporary foreign market for American products, including cotton, as long as it continued because it provided American dollars with which the foreign countries and their citizens paid for American products. Because the foreign countries and their citizens are unable to pay, it is no longer safe to lend American dollars abroad, and therefore foreign countries and their citizens can no longer get American dollars in this way with which to buy American products.

4. The world depression has caused a decline in buying power in countries which take American cotton.

Question: Is cotton the only American product which shows a decline in the amount shipped to foreign countries?

Answer: No. All other principal agricultural exports, except tobacco have been reduced even more than cotton and the exports of industrial goods likewise, show almost as great a reduction as do cotton exports. Exports of cotton textile goods are 87 percent. of what they were before the world war while exports of non-agricultural products are 57 percent. of what they were before the world war.

There has been a general decline in all American foreign trade. Cotton has, of course, been affected and enemies of the farmers' cotton program are trying to mislead farmers by saying that the cotton program has caused the decline in foreign trade in cotton. They are misrepresenting facts in an effort to get farmers to fight against their own best interest.

Question: To what extent are the cotton growers reducing the surplus (carry over) of American cotton?

Answer: The extent to which the cotton is shown by the following figures:

Date	Bales Surplus
August 1, 1929	4,517,000
August 1, 1930	6,187,000
August 1, 1931	8,919,000
August 1, 1932	13,228,000
August 1, 1933	11,754,000
August 1, 1934	10,746,000
August 1, 1935	8,300,000 (estimate)

Question: What are some of the things the Agricultural Adjustment Act has provided for cotton growers?

Answer: The Act became a law on May 12, 1933, and has made possible—

1. Cotton plow-up payments, 1933.
2. 4c advance on cotton plow-up options, 1933.
3. 10c Cotton loans, 1933.
4. 1934 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contracts.
5. Rental payments, 1934.
6. Parity payments, 1934.
7. 12c loan, 1934.
8. 2c additional advances cotton plow-up options.
9. 2c additional advances on 1933 10c loans.
10. 1935 Cotton Acreage Reduction Contracts.
11. Provided more acreage for food and feed production.
12. Reduced the necessity for women working in cotton fields.
13. Reduced production and harvesting of cotton which has enabled children to remain in school longer.

Question: Has the price of cotton and cotton seed increased as a result of the cotton program?

Answer: The price of cotton has risen from 6.5 cents a pound in 1932-33 to 9.7 cents for 1933-34 and approximately 12 cents for 1934-35. The farm value of a bale of lint cotton and the seed, not including rental and parity payments and profits on options, was $37 in 1932-33, $55 in 1933-34, and $80 in 1934-35, and including such payments and profits on options was $37.00 for 1932-33, $67.50 for 1933-34, and $90.00 for 1934-35.

U. S. Will Spend Near Billion For Nation's Defense

Feverish Arming Of Big World Powers Spurs Nation To Action

Washington.—With the big foreign powers arming as they have never armed before in peacetime, the United States Sunday found it necessary to prepare to spend nearly $1,000,000,000 during the coming fiscal year for adequate national defense.

Passage of the $457,805,261 navy bill by the House brought to a total of $859,803,431 the expenditures authorized by that branch of Congress for national defense during the 1936 fiscal year.

When the Senate passes the navy bill, as is anticipated with little change, it will bring the estimated expenditures of the nation for 1936 to nearly 20 per cent of the entire $5,000,000,000 budget.

Even with these huge expenditures, the United States will still be behind the other big military organizations in modern equipment and size.

Failure in the past to build up to a treaty strength navy and maintain an adequate army is held responsible for the fact the government now is confronted with the necessity of spending nearly $1,000,000,000 on national defense.

While this country placed its hopes in a general reduction of armaments, Japan built its navy to full treaty strength and the other big powers increased and modernized their armies.

Now, with disarmament considered a lost cause for the present, the United States is confronted with the necessity of spending millions to strengthen the defense forces it permitted to become obsolete in the hope of disarmament.

While the United States prepares to spend approximately 20 per cent of its national budget on national defense, Japan prepared to spend no less than 53 per cent, or more than half its entire budget.

Both France and Italy are spending considerably more than 20 per cent of their respective budgets on national defense.

Higher costs of production also make it necessary for the United States to spend relatively more than such nations as Japan and Italy, where the living standards of the workers have been sacrificed to permit low cost production.

The expenditures planed by this government will give the United States the greatest peacetime national defense force it has ever possessed.

Under the navy bill, the keels of 24 new warships will be laid down; work will be continued on 66 already under construction; 555 new naval planes will be built, and the enlisted strength of the navy increased from 82,500 to 93,500 men.

Under the army bill, 46,000 enlisted men will be added to the army, 5,000 to the national guard, and 450 new planes will be built for the air corps.

COOSA FARMER SUICIDE

Goodwater, Ala., April 28.—James D. Ward, 72 year old farmer, killed himself with a shotgun today at his home eight miles west of Goodwater. Coroner Stokely Corley, of Coosa County, said an investigation revealed the farmer placed the muzzle of the gun against his chest and pulled the trigger with a walking cane.

Mr. Ward had been in ill health a long time, the coroner said, and today was the first time he had been out of bed in two weeks. His wife and daughter, Miss Clifford Ward, heard the shot and when they ran to the room, Ward was dead.

The funeral was held Monday at 2:30 p.m. from the home with burial at Mt. Pleasant cemetery. Mr. Ward was widely known in Coosa County. Surviving him are his widow and four sons, Lawson of Daytona Beach, Fla., Wallace of Dadeville, Arnold and Fulmer, both of near Goodwater; four daughters, Mrs. Carl Matthews, of Birmingham; Mrs. J. B. Neighbors, Mrs. Lee Beaty and Miss Clifford Ward all of near Goodwater. Mr. Ward was a member of the Missionary Baptist Church.

Game and Fish News

Mobile, Ala.—The Alabama Deep Sea Rodeo Association has set up business headquarters at 17 North Water St., and issued its first call for boats for the state's seventh annual deep sea rodeo.

The rodeo, one of the year's outstanding sports events, will be held July 22, 23 and 24 in Gulf Waters off Dauphin Island, an historic fort site 30 miles southwest of Mobile. This is one month earlier than it has been held in the past and should guarantee more boats since the dates are in advance of the opening of the shrimping season.

As the call for the boats went out to the Gulf fishermen, L. G. Adams, president of the association, moved into the new headquarters and announced that a meeting of the executive committee will be held shortly to plan for the 1935 tournament. He said the meeting will be attended by I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, founder of the rodeo and chairman of its prize committee, which already has begun to assemble prizes.

Veteran coast fishermen point to their fishing calendars in support of their contention that July 22, 23 and 24 are just the days to catch Mr. and Mrs. Silver King at play in Mobile Bay.

The rodeo officials believe that the earlier dates will result in a greater catch of all the species of fish for which rodeo prizes are offered and will enable more people to spend their vacations at the rodeo.

Last summer the rodeo was greeted with a record registration of 525 anglers and Mr. Adams predicts that the registration for the 1935 contest will exceed this mark. He said the association already has received many letters asking for boat reservations and that it is counting on at least 20 states being represented when the rodeo craft shove off for the fishing grounds at dawn July 22.

Montgomery, Ala. — Taking cognizance of a movement to turn all earmarked funds into the general treasury of the state, I. T. Quinn, state commissioner of game and fisheries, in a statement tody said that his department had been self-supporting since it was created in 1907 and that he would fight to keep its funds intact.

He recalled that the sportsmen and conservationists of the state rebelled against a similar proposal in 1932 and he predicted it would meet with overwhelming opposition from them again.

"Since the department of game and fisheries was organized in 1907 it has functioned in its special field of game and fish management, and the administration of laws relatng thereto, without the expediture of one penny of tax revenues," commissioner Quinn decl-ed. "The legislature of Alabama has wisely provided fees from the sale of hunting, fishing and trapping licenses, and the use of revenues from the impos'tion of fines for game and fish violations, to finance the department.

"It would be manifestly unfair to take the contributions from sportsmen and conservationists and cover them into the general maw of the state treasury to pay the general operating expenses of the government. An attempt was made during the 1932 special session of the legislature to change the policy of the state in reference to the department's game and fish fund, but the idea met with overwhelming opposition and the effort was dropped.

"Sportsmen and conservationists throughout the state rebelled against the idea and would do it again. And why not? They now have the privilege of making an annual contribution to the cause of conservation, but they would not, nor could they be expected to, should that contribution be covered into the general treasury to pay the general operating expenses of all the state's departmental actvities."

Commissioner Quinn said the sportsmen-conservationists of Alabama do not ask, nor do they expect now or in the future, for the legislature to make direct appropriations to supplement the revenues of the game and fish fund, but "they do ask that the legislature make adequate provision for the department to collect sufficient revenue to prosecute a constructive program of conservation and development of the state's wildlife resources and thus guarantee to the thousands of citizens who annually seek recreation by hunting and fishing, a reasonable supply of game birds, animals and fish."

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

The writer has just heard a very great sermon by Dr. George McNeely, of Newark, N. J. He said "Man is supposed to be a thinking animal, but as a matter of fact, he doesn't think except as he is forced to by the emergencies in life." Man is not really inclined to think. Among the highest paid men in America are the moving picture actors and actresses. They make big money not because they make us think but because they amuse us. We speak of amusements. The word analyzed really means "without thinking," so we pay men big salaries to keep us from thinking.

We are in the midst of a Bible Conference at the Bob Jones College. On the platform are Billy Sunday, Dr. Walter Wilson, Dr. David L. Cooper, and Dr. George McNeely. They are four great men. Dr. Wilson is a physician, but a great student of the word. Dr. Cooper is one of the greatest Hebrew scholars in America and he is greatly interested in Christian work among the Jews. Dr. McNeeley is a great pastor. Billy Sunday is the most unique evangelist America ever produced.

"Why does the Bob Jones College insist upon having a Bible Conference during every college year," somebody asked the writer recently. There are two reasons. In the first place, the president of the college does not believe that any man is really educated who doesn't know the Word of God. The Bible is the best book in the world on History, Philosophy, literature and ethics. There is no book which stimulates culture like the word of God. The most cultured people I have ever known are students of the Bible. The best people I have even known have been people who loved the Word of God. In the second place, in the nine months' session of our college we really do about four weeks more work than is done by the average college. We have no holidays except at Christmas. Our students are not running all over this country to football games. We study. So we can well afford to take off one week every year and lay aside all regular school books for inspirational study of God's Book.

The Crimson Tide flows again, this time on the baseball diamond, where it has engulfed all opponents. The Tide has suffered only one defeat this season, this one being at the hands of L.S.U., from whom it won three out of four games. At present the Crimsons are leading the Southeastern conference with six wins and one loss. A potent factor in the Tide's excellent showing is the pitching of "Lefty" Rogers, star southpaw, who has won six games and lost none, and has pitched one one-hit and two four-hit games. The Tide has six games left on their schedule.

Carl Bruder of Keene, N. H., graduate of the University of Alabama and at present a graduate student here, has been awarded a scholarship to the Harvard University School of Fine Art. Four Thousand At Singing Here

Spring Session of Chilton County Singing Convention Last Sunday

It is estimated that there were around four thousand people in Clanton last Sunday, who came here directly and indirectly on account of the spring session of the Chilton County Singing Convention. There were more people outside the courthouse and scattered over town than in the building, which was jammed as long as an inch of standing room was available.

At the session Saturday night the auditorium was filled, including all standing room.

Prof. O. L. Devaughn, president of the convention, presided at both sessions. Many prominent singers from all over the state and from Tennessee were present. Among them were: J. R. Baxter with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Foshee, from Chattanooga; W. B. Lambert and the LaFevre trio from Lawrenceburg, Tenn. Birmingham was well represented both by directors and quartets. Among them were the Lackey male quartet, the Marsh ladies quartet, Cobb sisters with their father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Cobb, and Mr. Bill Crumley. A. A. Beaird was present Saturday night with a group of singers from Montgomery.

There were singers and directors from the following counties: Marshall, Jefferson, Montgomery, Autauga, Elmore, Coosa, Shelby and Bibb. W. Lee Higgins from Boaz, Ala., represented the Showalter Company, and stated that their new books would be ready for distribution about July 1st.

Prof. P. B. Shaw and daughters of Brookside in Jefferson County, were present at both sessions, and proved themselves very useful in entertaining the large crowds. The male quartet from Sylacauga rendered some splendid selections.

Disregarding the extreme congestion caused by too many folks for such limited quarters, the convention was a stupendous success.

The fall session will be held the first Sunday in October, the place to be announced later.

UNION GROVE

Please spare me a small space in the paper to say a few words from Union Grove.

Health of this community is better at this time. Mrs. Bill Mims is on the sick list but we hope she will be well soon.

The people are almost through with berry picking and planting.

We had with us Sunday Bro. Carroll, who delivered two fine messages and got one member for baptism. Bro. Carroll will be our regular pastor the rest of this year. On the first Sunday night in May Bro. Green of Jemison will bring us a message at Union Grove. Everybody come. I feel you will get pay for your trip.

We are planning for a Mothers' Day program at this place on the second Sunday in May, as that day has been set aside for a reunion day by the Robinson family, better known as J. M. Robinson.

A large crowd from this place are planning to go to Thorsby to the B. Y. P. U. meeting. Our B. Y. P. U. is doing fine but our Sunday school is small, as people have got too much fishing to do on Sunday and can't have time to go to Sunday school. I would be glad if the fathers and mothers could see the need of Sunday school training for their children instead of the training some people are giving to their children.—Yours respectfully, P. M. Martin, Jemison, Ala.

SHARE THE WEALTH MEETING

There will be a "Share the Wealth" meeting held at Mt. Pleasant school house next Thursday evening at 7:30 May 2nd. The public is invited to meet on time, so as to get through with the meeting in time to hear Senator Huey P. Long speak over the network of the National Broadcasting Company at 9:30 p.m., same date.

SOME COMPLAINTS OF LIME IN THE CITY WATER SYSTEM

Mayor C. Fenn Jones reports that quite a few complaints have been made to him alleging that there is too much lime in the city water. Mr. Jones stated that the water was tested by a representative of the state health department Monday, and was found to meet the requirements of that department.

Furthermore, Mr. Jones states that the water is sampled and tested by the state health authorities every 30 days, and every test has received approval of the authorities.

It is the opinion of Mr Jones that the unusual taste that has been noticed in the water by some people is caused by the new water mains recently installed and put into use.

STATE OFFICIAL DROWNED IN MOBILE BAY FRIDAY

Gunter O'Rear, chief of the Income Tax Division of the state tax commission of Alabama, was drowned in Mobile Bay last Friday night while on a fishing party with a group of state officials from the capital.

Other members of the party were not able to account for the cause of Mr. O'Rear falling overboard, as the accident happened after all were asleep. The body was drifted to the beach on Mississippi Sound and recovered Monday.

The dead man was a native of Jasper, and was considered among the best tax experts in Alabama. He was recently appointed to his position by Governor Graves.

LEASE GRANTED FOR CCC CAMPS

$10,000 To Be Spent For Buildings to House 250 Recruits

Lease has been granted to the United States government on twelve acres of land belonging to Joe Mullins, alongside the Selma Highway in West Clanton, for location of a Civilian Conservation Camp. It is stated unofficially that the camp will consist of about 250 men, and will entail a total cost of about $10,000 in construction of housing facilities by the government.

It appears that all requirements have been met on the part of the community in providing location, and that the camp will be started in a very short time.

The town and county officials jointly assumed the cost of the property lease, the sum of $200 a year, and the contract was signed by Mr. Joe Mullins, owner, Judge J. Lee Smith for county and Mayor C. Fenn Jones, for the Town. It was executed and forwarded to the representatives of the government Monday.

Col. Mickey, Lieutenant J. E. Walker and Lieutenant Young, from Camp McClellan, were here last Saturday for selection of a site and location of the camp. They were accompanied by Mr. Medlock, of the soil erosion division of the Civilian Conservation Corps, at Dadeville.

County Agent Fant showed the officers a number of different locations, and they finally agreed to recommend the Joe Mullins property just inside the city limits on the north side of the Selma Highway.

The city will extend water facilities to the camp area, and sewer connections will be provided, perhaps in a joint arrangement between the government and the city.

According to a statement by County Agent Fant, it is understood that the Clanton CCC camp will be devoted to work in the soil erosion program of the government. The 250 men will be employed in work of stopping gullies, building outlets to terraces, planting trees, vines, grass and other things in the program to control erosion of soils.

Mr. Fant is especially pleased at the location of the camp here, pointing out that the work of the men in soil erosion will enable him and his assistants to carry out more effectively the terracing program already instituted in the county.

In addition to the 250 enlisted men who will be in the camp, it is stated that there will be three army officers stationed here, and four overseers and planners who will direct the work of the men in the soil erosion work. It will bring a pay roll of $3,000 to $5,000 a month to Clanton.

Lease of the property was given to the government for one year, with the privilege of renewing same for another year upon the same terms.

Four Cases Tried In Mayor's Court

Drunks On Streets of Clanton Must Pay For Their Waywardness

Four cases involving charges of public drunkenness were tried by Mayor C. Fenn Jones in his city court Monday morning. All of them were given fines with additional cost charges.

Three of the defendants were arrested for being drunk on the streets last Saturday. Chief of Police John Browder repeated his warning to those who may be inclined to get intoxicated that they must not pick out the streets of Clanton as the place to make a demonstration.

One of the defendants tried by Mayor Jones Monday morning was a young man, a stranger in Clanton. He was on the bus going to his home in Birmingham from a trip to Florida.

Last Friday morning he got off the bus when it reached Clanton, and is said by some who observed him that he appeared to be drunk. He wandered down the street until he came to the home of Mrs. J. C. Jones, whereupon he proceeded unnoticed to go in and go to bed, clothes, hat shoes and all.

When Oscar Jones came home to lunch he found the young man in the bed, somewhat helpless and incapacitated from over-intoxication.

Mr. Jones called the police, and Mr. Browder put the young man in jail.

Mayor Jones called the young man's father in Birmingham, and made arrangement for terms upon which the boy should pay a fine and costs for his waywardness.

ILLUSTRATED LECTURE

Elder R. J. Sype, who spent nearly 15 years as a missionary in Central America and the West Indies Islands, will give an illustrated lecture at the Seventh-Day Adventist Church on next Sunday night, May, 12. The lecture will be a thrilling account of his experiences among the natives and several tribes of uncivilized Indians during his sojourn in these countries.

The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon views of natives and scenery taken by him while there. Elder Sype is a splendid talker and he puts plenty of action and realism along with it.

This will be the opening of a two weeks series of meetings at the church and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

HUGH FOSHEE DIED WEDNESDAY A. M.

Prominent Citizen For Many Years Succumbs To Paralysis

William Hugh Foshee, age 84 years, former Circuit Clerk of Chilton County, and one of the pioneer residents of Clanton, died at his home here at four o'clock Wednesday morning after a short illness. Mr. Foshee suffered a paralytic stroke last Saturday morning, and had been confined to his home since that time. A recurring attack Wednesday morning resulted in his death.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Mary Foshee, and one daughter, Mrs. J. Renfro Mullins. He had one son, Durwood, who died in 1907, at the age of 27 years.

From about 1876 to 1892 Mr. Foshee served in the office of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Chilton County. He came to Clanton about 1871 from Lomax, where he was connected with the Fox-Maull Lumber Co. operations. He was a native of the Mulberry community.

For a few years prior to his tenure of the office of Circuit Clerk Mr. Foshee lived in Arkansas, where he was engaged in business. During his residence there he was married to Miss Mary Jones, whose faithful companionship in a happy home life he enjoyed to his death.

By profession Mr. Foshee was a lawyer, a member of the Clanton bar. He was a Mason with membership for many years in Clanton Lodge.

Funeral services will be held at the home today (Thursday) with Rev. S. J. Ezell officiating. Burial will be in Clanton cemetery with Martin in charge.

For many years Mr. Foshee has been retired from active business connections. He was an ardent sportsman, and enjoyed spending many of his idle days at his favorite pastime, fishing.

He was one of the most widely known men of Chilton County. His passing will be universally mourned, and his death removes from among us another of the very few present-day personages who were on the stage of action when things around Clanton had their beginning.

This apperance is sponsored by the Home Makers Sunday school class of the Clanton Baptist Church, and an admission charge of 10c for children and 25c for adults will be made.

You have been hearing these artists over the radio. Now come to the courthouse Saturday night and see them in person.

MURRAY-BELL HARDWARE CO. IS PLEASED WITH BUSINESS

Encouraged by the fine business they have received since opening their store in Clanton a few months ago, the Murray-Bell Hardware Co., have enlarged and improved their facilities for handling the trade of many customers who have come to them.

Many new fixtures have been added to the store, additional stock has been supplied, and every nook and corner of the place is filled with merchandise. Included in the stock may be found almost anything one can ask for in the hardware and variety list.

Mr. Bell, manager of the store, has manifested a most pleasing disposition, and has made many friends since coming here. He extends a standing invitation to all who trade in Clanton to come to see him when in town. He is a hustling young man who is easy to get acquainted with, and one whom you will enjoy knowing and trading with.

The New Deal Marches On --- Into More And Deeper Trouble

[AN EDITORIAL]

Day by day, as time passes, the New Deal, the popular name for the present Democratic administration at Washington, marches on, but every step carries it into deeper water and new and more impeding entanglements.

Without exception, no problem facing the Administration right now is so worrying as that which grips the stronghold of the Democratic Party. The problem is King Cotton.

And the question is whether to continue to pay tribute to his despotic reign or to throw off the mingled benefits and heartaches which he has given the Southland since the days of Eli Whitney and the cotton gin.

Secretary Wallace and his Agricultural Adjustment Administration cohorts keep up an optimistic front regarding this and maintain that all is well. But they realize they have a bull by the tail and can't let go. Privately, they are worried sick.

The problem, briefly summarized, is that although the cotton curtailment program of the AAA has almost doubled the value of cotton, it has simultaneously raised the price so high that foreign countries—Brazil, Egypt, Russia—gradually are taking away the U. S. market.

And another of their pet schemes that has about become a "Frankenstein" on their hands is the NRA. Business interests over the country are assailing it on every hand. It has always been conceded that this Act has been a mill-rock around the neck of the small business man. Big business sees goblins and night-mares in it too.

Only recently the United States Chamber of Commerce, undisputedly the largest and most representative organization of all industries in the country, has denounced the NRA and pledged its efforts to fight this as well as other pet schemes of the New Deal. The TVA and the edict of President Roosevelt to bring about the end of holding companies, aimed mostly at the hydro-electric utilities, is specifically mentioned as one of the features opposed by the U. S. Chamber.

And we imagine another worry of the "in" party is the activity of the Republicans over the country. In the Northwest, especially, the G. O. P. is making known the fact that hibernation has been broken, and new and active life has entered the veins of the once seemingly dormant pachyderm.

The Democrats are having trouble plenty within their own camps, too. Hughey Long, Governor Talmadge, and numerous other irreconcilables are kicking out of the harness on every side and at every turn.

And then, among all of the unemployment over the country and the millions on relief rolls of the federal government, comes the report of a survey showing the number of "big boys" drawing huge salaries from the thirty-billion-dollar-indebted federal treasury. The startling figures show that 989 men on the federal payroll draw $10,000 or more each per year. A great number of these are connected with relief and emergency agencies. Harry L. Hopkins, head of the FERA draws down an even $10,000 a year, while Robert Fincher, head of the CCC, is paid $1,000 a month for his services—$12,000 a year.

On the RFC there are twenty-four listed in the $10,000 or more class. On the NRA, the administrator, Mr. Richberg, gets $10,000, while his deputy, Mr. Ellis, is paid $12,632 annually. Four more subordinates in the NRA receive $12,000 each, and Leo Wolman of the auto board is placed at $10,527.

The Agricultural administrator, Mr. Chester C. Davis, draws down $10,000, as does Mr. Tugwell of that department. Four others under this head are paid $9,800 each per year.

From the above figures, procured from the "official register of the United States," one may see who are really getting "relief" from the huge borrowed expenditures of the New Deal. The "forgotten man," whom you have heard President Roosevelt talk of with so much feeling and pity, is given only a small portion of the scraps that fall from the table where the "big ones" are dished out the real grub from the relief payrolls of the country. $10,000 is a lot of money, and one can readily see that if only a few of these men could be dropped off and their salaries distributed among the needy, the combined amount would go a long ways toward furnishing meat and bread to the hungry women and children over the country.

Will Fingerprint Persons Arrested

Local Officials To Co-Operate With Federal Men In Undertaking

A federal officer was here Monday and made arrangements with all local law enforcement officers to cooperate with the Department of Justice in a plan to take fingerprints of all law violators who may be arrested here. These prints will be forwarded to the Department of Justice and will become a part of the permanent collection that is being taken similarly in all parts of the country.

It appears that Uncle Sam has determined to make a complete catalogue of all criminals and law violators, whereby the inveterate violator wherever and whenever he may turn up, can be promptly checked and brought to account for all his wrongdoings. It is a good plan, and our county and city officials are glad of the opportunity to cooperate in it.

The federal man Monday left a complete finger print outfit with Sheriff Hardy, and promised to send another to Chief of Police, John Browder, right away.

Mr. and Mrs. Reid Mullins and daughter, Sara Madge, have moved to their summer home. The superintendent of construction of the post office, Mr. A. L. Henderson, and wife, are occupying their home.

BONUS BILL PASSED SENATE

In direct defiance of White House wishes, Senate backers of the Patman Bonus Bill Tuesday smashed successfully and swiftly through three roll calls to complete Congressional action on the Patman proposal to pay the soldiers bonus with $2,201,934,000 in new currency.

The final vote for the inflationary measure was 55 to 33. Both Alabama Senators, Bankhead and Black, voted for the Patman bill.

The measure will move to the White House in its regular course, where, it is freely predicted, President Roosevelt will promptly veto it and return it to the Congress bearing the stamp of his disapproval.

The ballot which sent the house measure unaltered through the Senate, fell far short of the two-thirds majority, necessary to override a presidential veto.

Miss Grace Ezell won second place in the piano contest for this district held in Montgomery last Saturday. Grace is one of the students of Mrs. Barney Roberts in Clanton.

B'HAM BUSINESS MEN HERE TODAY

Accept Invitation Extended To Them At Banquet In Magic City

A group of about thirty prominent business men and industrial leaders from Birmingham, members of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, will visit Clanton this afternoon and will be entertained by the business men and merchants of Clanton.

The Birmingham delegation, headed by Mr. L. E. Foster, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce, will arrive in Clanton early in the evening. The entertainment committee of Clanton, plans to take them in charge as soon as they arrive, and carry them on a tour of our city and to points of interest in the county.

Returning to Clanton at 7:30 the entire group of thirty visitors, together with as many local people, will have a banquet and dinner at the Exchange Hotel.

The interest in Clanton and desire of the Birmingham business men to see more of the town was inspired by the recent occasion when the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce entertained a Clanton group at a banquet following the Clanton radio broadcast.

When the invitation was extended to them to come here and see the fine little city and community they heard so much about, they immediately accepted and agreed to come.

This will be a splendid opportunity for Clanton to further impress her advantages upon the leaders of Alabama's business and industrial interests in Birmingham. Clanton is glad of the opportunity, and our people are united in the desire to show our guests a good time while they are with us Thursday.

Beginning Wednesday, May 15, the merchants and business men of Clanton will close their places of business at one o'clock, p.m. each Wednesday thereafter to and including Wednesday, August 28.

This arrangement will provide a half holiday each week for the people of Clanton. Mr. Marvin Marcus, manager of the Clanton baseball team, announces that he has arranged his schedule so that there will be a ball game in Clanton on each Wednesday afternoon.

A canvass of the business houses revealed that all were practically unanimous in their desire to cooperate in the half-holiday movement. The agreement to close is as follows, with the names of those who signed it:

HOMECOMING AT COOPER

There will be a homecoming day at Cooper (Chestnut Creek Church) on the first Sunday in June, and we especially desire all of our ex-members of this church who have moved away to be back with us on this day. If you have any relatives or friends who are away, please drop them a card and tell them that we want them with us and that you will bring their dinner, and I believe they will come.

Everybody invited to come and let's have a real home coming day, one that we can have pleasant memories for many years to come—J. L. Yates, publicity chairman.

J. P. Spain, worker on the new city hall building in Clanton, was bitten by a spider last Friday afternoon. No thought was given to the incident until several hours later when pains throughout the body sent the man to a physician. He received treatment at the hospital. The spider was thought to have come from a stack of brick interlayed with straw, which had been on the building site for several days. Mr. Spain is recovering, and all ill effects are expected to disappear in a short time.

STATE REA WILL BEGIN THE SURVEY OF PROJECTS SOON

Montgomery, Ala., May 6.—Promised an estimate of rates at which current may be purchased in wholesale quantities from the Alabama Power Company within the next ten days, the State Rural Electrification Authority will begin the examination of proposed projects next week.

Gordon Persons, chairman, announced this afternoon that actual inspection of applications would start soon, with a force of engineers going to the site of each application to examine its practicability and economic soundness.

With a large number of applications already received at the REA office here, Mr. Persons appealed to all interested persons in rural Alabama to apply at once, in order that all projects in neighboring sections may be examined by the same engineer at one time.

Chairman Persons pointed out that applying to the REA did not obligate the applicant in any way. The preliminary application is only a request for additional information and a statement of a desire to procure electrical facilities. It does not bind the applicant to buy current even after—and if—the projects is approved.

Each application, Mr. Persons pointed out, should include a map of the county on which the proposed project is marked plainly and accurately. A list of all persons on the line who are interested in obtaining electricity "and who can and will pay their bills" should accompany each application.

Upon receipt of an application, an REA engineer will inspect the project as soon as possible and report on its soundness—or unsoundness—and compile an estimate of the cost of the line.

If the report is favorable, the group of individual applicants will be furnished an estimate of what their cost of electricity will be. If they still desire to obtain the service, the application and report will be submitted to Washington for final approval, upon receipt of which actual construction will begin.

The REA, Mr. Persons declared, is a private, non-profit, self-supporting corporation, intended only to finance the construction of facilities to place electricity in every rural building whose owner wants it. All current so consumer will be purchased from the existing utilities in wholesale quantities.

Amortization of the principal and interest required for the initial construction will be spread over a long period so that the price per building will be nominal.

Chairman Persons said each project should contain a minimum of four consumers or their equivalent, per mile of line in order to prevent the price to each consumer from becoming prohibitive. However, a dairy probably would consume as much current as four residential consumers, and this would help raise the average number of consumers on the project.

He closed his statement with an appeal to all interested rural dwellers to submit the information already mentioned with an application to the Rural Electrification Authority at Montgomery in order to expedite a report on their project.

LEGION CONVENTION FOLLOWED BY DEEP SEA FISHING RODEO

The two weeks, July 14 to 27, will be a favorite vacation period in Alabama this year as they will embrace the dates of the Alabama Department convention, American Legion beginning July 14, and, the following week, by the Alabama Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo.

Dr. Francis Marion Inge, general chairman of the Mobile convention committee, returning from a tour of the state from one end to the other, reports that many Legionnaires whom he met on the trip have expressed the determination to attend both the convention and the rodeo.

On their scheduled trip to the gulf, which will be a crowning feature of the Mobile meeting of former service men, the fresh water fishermen from the interior will be given a taste of salt water, and it is expected that many of them will call for more.

Commander Vernol R. Jansen, of the host-post, promises that each registering Legionnaire and member of the Auxiliary will be presented with a piece of literature telling of Mobile's heroic and romantic past, a map showing points of present and past interest and badges which will serve as souvenirs of the city and seaport.

An active housing committee is busy, listing rooms for visitors and delegates, with the promise that all will be given the kind of accommodation they desire, according to their means, even though the hotels will be crowded to capacity at that time. Another committee will see that none are overcharged for any necessity or service.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our thanks to our neighbors and friends for their help and kindness during the illness and death of our mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Taylor. May God's richest blessings be with you all.—Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Reynolds and Minnie Taylor.

WHAT NEGROES ARE DOING

COUNTY TRAINING SCHOOL NEWS

It Makes a Difference

The question as to why our young boys and girls are so unruly at school and church, picture shows and other public assemblies has often presented itself to us. If one liked to find the reason for such he has only to come to Clanton and hide out down in "Bear Marsh" one Sunday afternoon. It happened that we were loitering around in that section a Sunday afternoon past, and what did we see? It is a sin and a shame for people, in a civilized world and in an up date town like Clanton, to act so niggardly uncivilized. The little boys, big boys, little girls, big girls, drunk folks and old folks, all in one house, fussing, cursing, drinking, and what else could they do? Finally the officer came and quieted things down.

Listen, folks, we've got to put a stop to this. We can't have a good community tomorrow if we do not prepare today.

UNION GROVE

Please allow me a small space in our dear old paper again this week for a few announcements.

Bro. Green delivered a great message at Union Grove Sunday night. Owing to the bad weather lots of folks failed to get to come and missed a fine sermon. I would like to say that we are planning for a big day the second Sunday, May 12. We will have a Mother's Day program for that day and a family reunion by the Robinson family and preaching at 11 o'clock by Bro. Robinson of Thorsby. The program will start at 10. We will have on the program people from 4 years old to 94. So be on time to see the first, so you will get the whole story.

On Friday, May 10, we will meet at the cemetery for cleaning off the grounds. So everybody that is interested please come and bring such tools as will be needed.

On the fourth Sunday at 10 o'clock, May 26, Bro. Honeycutt of Jemison, who preached his first sermon at Providence church 66 years ago, will preach his anniversary sermon at Union Grove. He is one of the oldest pastors and citizens of Alabama. We want to ask both young and old to come out that day to hear one of his great messages.

Please remember the dates and we invite the public to be with us on these days.

Thanking you for this small space, yours respectfully, P. M. Martin, Jemison, Route 1.

"No more tired, let-down feeling for me"

"I reasoned that my red blood corpuscle strength was low and I simply took a course of S.S.S. Tonic and built it back."

IT is all so simple and reasonable. If your physical let-down is caused by lowered red blood corpuscles—which is all too frequent—then S.S.S Tonic is waiting to help you... and will, unless you have a serious organic trouble that demands a physician or surgeon.

Remember, S.S.S is not just a so-called "tonic." It is a tonic specially designed to stimulate the gastric secretions, and also has the mineral elements so very, very necessary in rebuilding the oxygen-carrying red corpuscles in the blood.

This two-fold purpose is important. Digestion is improved... food is better utilized... and thus you are enabled to better "carry on" without exhaustion—as you should naturally.

You may have the will-power to be "up and doing" but unless your blood is in top notch form you are not fully yourself and you may remark, "I wonder why I tire so easily."

Let S.S.S. help build back your blood tone... if your case is not exceptional, you should soon enjoy again the satisfaction of appetising food... sound sleep ... steady nerves... a good complexion ... and renewed strength.

S.S.S. is sold by all drug stores in two sizes. The $2 economy size is twice as large as the $1.25 size and is sufficient for two weeks treatment. Begin on the upread today. © S.S.S. Co.

OPTOMETRIST

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

This is being dictated in the midst of the Bible Conference which is being conducted at the Bob Jones College. The writer has been greatly fascinated by the different type of speakers we have on our platform. It is most interesting to note that God never made two people just exactly alike. Of all the teeming millions who have lived, no two persons ever had the same thumb print. My experience has proved to me that the preacher who knows the gospel, who lives it, and dares to be natural in his style, will be a successful minister. Sam Jones had an original style. He succeeded. The men who copied him failed. "Aren't you afraid that some of the ministerial students in your college will try to copy Billy Sunday's style" a visitor to the Conference who knew that we had quite a number of ministerial students inquired of the writer. "Indeed I am not. We teach our students to be natural," I replied.

Preaching the gospel is great business. A minister is an ambassador of Jesus Christ. Ambassadors in the capitals of the world are treated with deference and respect. The humblest minister of the gospel has a position that is higher than any ambassador in our national capital. The business of a minister is to deliver God's message. Think of being ntrusted with the responsibility of giving the message of God to men! The minister is human. The message is divine. How marvelous it is for God to commit the message upon which depends the salvation of souls to frail human beings! It is God's way. Think of being entrusted by God with the gospel and then giving some other message instead of God's message. Bootleggers and harlots will stand a better chance in the day of judgment than false prophets.

If someone should commit funds to me to be used for a definite purpose and I should use those funds for myself, I would be guilty of embezzlement. We put men in the penitentiary for that. There are a lot of respectable embezzlers in the world. God gave to someone who will read these lines a good voice. God meant for you to use that voice for Him. Instead of doing it you took what God entrusted you with and used it for yourself. God gave you life and health and intellect. He meant for you to use these gfts for His cause. You misappropriated these gifts and used them for yourself. Why don't you give back to God all that He gave to you?

PROVIDENCE—BEAT 13

Our annual memorial day will be held the third Sunday in May. Bro. Shaw from Birmingham has promised to be with us; also the Lackey Quartet. We are expecting to have some real good singing. So be sure and come and don't forget to bring your dinner.

All who are interested will meet on Thursday before and work in the cemetery and arrange the church.

We especially invite all singers to come and be with us.—O. B. Martin.

Lesson for May 12

THE CHRISTIAN CHURCH

LESSON TEXT—Ephesians 4:1-7, 11-16; Acts 2:41-45.

GOLDEN TEXT—So we, being many, are one body in Christ, and every one members one of another.—Romans 12:5.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Going to God's House.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What a Church Is.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What the Church Is For.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Nature and Work of the Church.

I. What It Is (Eph. 3:3-6).

It is the body of redeemed men and women of Jews and Gentiles called out from the world, regenerated and united to Jesus Christ as head and to each other by the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 12:13).

1. It was unknown in Old Testament times (Eph. 3:5, 6).

2. It was predicted by Christ (Matt. 16:18). Shortly before Christ went to the cross he spoke of the Church as still in the future. He said, "I will build my church."

3. It came into being at Pentecost (Acts 2).

II. Christ Is the Head of the Church (Eph. 1:22, 23).

Jesus Christ is to the Church what the head is to the human body. He is so vitally its head as to direct all its activities.

III. The Unity of the Church (Eph. 4:4-6).

Having in verses 1-3 of this chapter set forth the virtues necessary for the realization and maintenance of unity in the Church, in verses 4-6 he sets down the fundamental unities which make unity of the body.

1. One body (v. 4). Since all believers have been united to Christ by faith, they are members of the one body of which he is the head.

2. One Spirit (v. 4). This is the Holy Spirit. He is the agent in regeneration and the baptizer into the one body and is the animating life uniting the believers to Christ and to one another.

3. One hope (v. 4). Completed redemption at the coming of the Lord is the Christian's hope.

4. One Lord (v. 5). The one ruler of the Church is the Lord Jesus Christ.

5. One faith (v. 5). This faith is the one doctrine which centers in Christ and the one instrument which unites the believer to Christ.

6. One baptism (v. 5). This means the baptism of the Holy Spirit—that sovereign act of the Spirit which unites believers to Jesus Christ as head and to each other as members of his body.

7. One God and Father of all (v. 6). This is the almighty Creator and Sustainer of the universe.

IV. How the Church Grows (Eph. 4:11-16). It is through the ministry of certain officials having the gifts of the Spirit.

1. Gifts bestowed upon the Church (v. 11).

a. Apostles. These were appointed by Christ to superintend the preaching of the gospel in all the world and the creation of an authoritative body of teaching, the Scriptures.

b. Prophets. These ministers were given for the expounding of the Scriptures.

c. Evangelists. These seem to have been traveling missionaries.

d. Pastors and teachers. The pastor was a shepherd-teacher, the two functions inherent in the one office.

2. The object of the ministry of the Church (v. 12).

a. "Perfecting of the saints." Perfecting means the mending of that which has been rent; the adjusting of something dislocated.

b. "For the work of the ministry" (v. 12). The perfecting of the saints has as its object the qualification to render efficient service.

c. "Edifying of the body of Christ." Edify means to build up.

3. The duration of the Church's ministry (v. 13). It is to continue until

a. There is unity of faith.

b. We come into the knowledge of the Son of God. Unity of faith can only be realized when the members of the Church come to know Jesus Christ as the very Son of God.

c. A perfect man, which is the measure of the stature of Christ.

4. The blessed issue of the ministry of the Church (vv. 14-16).

a. Not tossed to and fro and carried about by every wind of doctrine (v. 14). Knowledge of Christ as the very Son of God is the sure defense against the efforts of cunning men.

b. Speaking the truth in love (vv. 15, 16). Holding the truth of Jesus Christ as the Son of God in the spirit of sincerity and love will issue in the symmetrical development of believers, causing them to grow up in him as head.

WESLEY FELLOWSHIP CLASS AT CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

One of the newest and most promising organizations of the Clanton Methodist Church is the Wesley Fellowship Class of the Sunday school for young men and women and young married people.

For some time the young people of the church have tried to organize this kind of a class, and it is believed this will be one of the outstanding organizations of the church.

Mrs. Eleanor Roberts, church organist, and one of Clanton's outstanding Bible students, and religious workers, has been elected teacher. Mr. George Parr, one of Clanton's young business men, was elected class president.

Mr. Parr, a well-versed young man and a splendid Bible student, is making the class most interesting. The splendid work of Mrs. Roberts, Mr. Parr and other members of the class can be seen in the increased enrollment from three members six weeks ago to 19 members last Sunday.

The Wesley Fellowship Class wishes to extend to every young person a most cordial invitation to meet with them next Sunday in the men's parlor of the Methodist Church at 9:45.

Mr. Marvin Huett made a trip to Birmingham last week end.

SPORTSMEN MEET AT EAST LAKE SATURDAY, MAY 18

Birmingham, May 6.—Having topped their 1,000 membership goal, the members of the Jefferson County Sportsmen's Association are looking forward to their first annual barbecue and casting tournament at East Lake on Saturday, May 18th.

With a shipment of Lock Leven trout and a consignment of 25,000 black bass from the state hatchery at Aliceville already having been planted, the 1935 restocking program of the association is expected to receive impetus during the next few weeks when the federal hatchery at Marion begins filling applications.

In addition to its fish stocking program, the association has obtained the use of a tract of approximately 2,700 acres in northwest Jefferson county for a game preserve.

Huntsville, Ala., May 6.—C. M. Harwell, district game warden here, turns in the prize-winning fish yarn of the spring season.

"An hour and a half elapsed, during which the 82-pound yellow catfish pulled the fisherman and his boat up and down the river before the bewhiskered warrior was thrown upon the bank," said the warden's report of an incident on the Tennessee River, near Whitesburg. "The fish's head alone weighed 14½ pounds."

Montgomery, May 6.—Charles R. Wiant, superintendent of the federal fish hatchery at Marion, has spent the past few weeks in the Tennessee Valley assisting the TVA in a survey of the basin for possible hatchery sites. "You will no doubt be interested to know that inspections are being made in the Tennessee Valley for possible hatchery sites," Mr. Wiant advised the state game and fisheries department. "These hatcheries will be under TVA jurisdiction and operated to stock newly impounded waters."

Poppy Sale Day Saturday, May 25

500 Flowers Sent From Tuscaloosa to be Sold For the Disabled Veterans

Preparations for Poppy Day, to be observed here and throughout the nation Saturday, May 25th, went forward today with the arrival of the memorial poppies at American Legion Auxiliary headquarters. The little red flowers, 500 of them, came from the veterans hospital at Tuscaloosa, where they were made by disabled World War veterans, comrades of the men in whose honor they will be worn.

The poppies are being counted and arranged in readiness for distribution to the Poppy Day workers who will offer them on the street May 25th, to be worn as a tribute to the World War dead. All work in connection with the observance is being carried out by volunteers so that every penny received as Poppy Day contributions can go into the welfare funds of the Legion and Auxiliary.

The poppies are paper replicas of the wild European poppies which bloomed along the battle front and in the war cemeteries during the World War. It was this flower, growing between the rows of wooden crosses above fresh battle graves, which inspired Col. John McCrea to write his famous poem, "In Flanders Field." The flower is now recognized throughout the English - speaking world as the symbol of World War sacrifices.

Each of the little red flowers has been made by hand by some disabled veteran in need of employment. For each poppy the Auxiliary has paid its maker one cent, enabling hundreds of veterans to support themselves and families through the winter and spring. Approximately ten million of the poppies have been made this year, meaning earnings of $100,000 placed in the empty pockets of these disabled veterans.

In addition to the earnings of the veterans making the poppies, the poppy funds bring aid to thousands of needy families of veterans throughout the year.

HOW IMPORTANT IS ALABAMA'S HEALTH?

How important is Alabama's Health? Disraeli, England's far-seeing Prime Minister of more than a century ago, once uttered, "The public health is the foundation stone upon which reposes the strength of a nation and the happiness of its people."

What story do you feel these figures tell for Alabama's health?

In 1917 typhoid fever killed in Alabama, 989 people; in 1934 it killed 131 people.

In 1917 tuberculosis killed 2,914; in 1934 it killed 1,734.

In 1917 pellagra killed 1,073; in 1934 it killed 303.

In 1917 malaria killed 530; in 1934 it killed 303.

From the very beginning of health work in 1875, the succeeding legislatures of this state have shown commendable statesmanship in making liberal provision, within the state capacity, for the growth and development of this necessary activity. The first extra session of the legislature, held in 1932, faced with a tremendous shrinkage of the state revenues, and being forced to curtail all departmental activities, cut the appropriations for health by 42 per cent.

This reduction, at this time, was imperative and the health department's budget was revamped accordingly. However, so great was the falling off of revenues that for the fiscal year 1933-1934, only $287,000 of this appropriation actually became available; which curcumstance forced the total suspension of many important health activities. During the present fiscal year, 1934-1935, the states revenues have improved to an extent that the governor is hopeful that each department will receive for the remainder of the year, its full quota of present appropriations.

Despite this encouraging showing, on Tuesday, the recess committee on finance and taxation, in house bill 249, submitted to the house its recommendations for appropriations to the several departments of state for the next quadrennium. A perusal of this reveals that the appropriation for health work, including the state subsidy to the counties for their local health work, has been further reduced by 125,000 annually, leaving but $275,000. This represents a cut of 60 per cent from the 1932 appropriation for health work in this state; an amount totally and utterly inadequate.

Is this what the entire membership of this legislature wants and does it reflect the wishes of our people?

1,200 Lbs. Butterfat

That was the final showing last Saturday at our station in Clanton. We deeply appreciate this. It shows that we are performing a needed service, and that farmers are co-operating.

This 1,200 pounds of butterfat released in Chilton County above $300.00. Keep bringing it in. It is a way to year-round income, which means prosperity for every farmer.

A. A. JACKSON WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

I got a real kick out of your Man in the Moon last week. He told off on both Democrats and Republicans, just how each one get their lickings, and his story was a pretty true one. He also told us that this country owes far over thirty billions of dollars, and going in deeper every minute of every day, and that some people are so foolish as to believe that this money will not have to be repaid.

I am inclined to agree with these foolish people who think all these billions will not have to be paid back. Because if our government owes more than thirty billion dollars, and we have only six billion dollars in America today in all banks and in the government treasury, the burden is on the Man in the Moon to tell us fools how he can take six billion dollars and pay a thirty billion dollar debt.

We are told by good authority that we have only six billion dollars in currency. And that our government owes thirty billion dollars, and that the people of the United States owes two hundred and seventy-two billion dollars, which is a total indebtedness of three hundred and two billion dollars, with only six billion dollars to pay with.

So we see the indebtedness of our government, including the people of our government, is more than fifty times as much as we have money to pay with. In conclusion may I say that it is impossible for the brain trust and all their poodles to make us fools believe we can ever have prosperity under our present economic system, but can only have continued depression, poverty, nakedness and hunger. We poor fools throughout America will long remember the promises made to us that the money changers would be driven out of the temple and that we would get a fair distribution of wealth.—Respectfully for a fair deal, A. A. JACKSON.

CUTTING DEATH IN PLANE CRASH BRINGS TRIBUTES

Macon, Mo., May 6.—United States Senator Bronson Cutting, New Mexico's stormy independent Republican, a woman and two pilots were killed Monday and nine persons injured in the crash of a big TWA transport monoplane, searching through fog for a landing field.

The low-winged night flier, its gasoline supply apparently exhausted, was demolished on a rainsoaked northeastern Missouri farm near the little town of Atlanta, within 15 miles of an emergency airport at Kirksville.

Senator Cutting, 46-year-old bachelor, was hastening to Washington to join in the fight for payment of the soldiers' bonus. Also in the plane, loaded to capacity was a group of Hollywood film officials bound for Annapolis, Md., to make a picture.

FORMER THORSBY CITIZEN GIVEN FIVE YEARS BY B'HAM COURT

Verdict of Manslaughter in Cell Death of Denison S. Ledyard, A Year Ago

Birmingham, May 2.—Sam Brown of Thorsby, Chilton County, must spend five years in the penitentiary for the B'ham city jail "drunk cell" slaying of Danison S. Ledyard, of Montgomery, a year ago, a Circuit Court jury ordered here on Thursday.

The jury in Judge J. Q. Smith's court fixed this punishment for the slaying of the 38-year old Montgomerian, in finding Brown, 21 guilty of first degree manslaughter.

Brown heard the verdict without emotion. His attorney, R. M. Montgomery, gave notice of appeal, and bond was set at $2,500. This bond was not immediately made.

Solicitor George Lewis Bailes had branded Brown as a "kill-crazy" man. The defense charged that police and jail authorities "framed" Brown to absolve themselves of blame in the Montgomerian's death.

The fatal attack took place April 23, 1934, in a city jail drunk cell in which both Brown and Ledyard were confined. The hearing was declared a miatrial on October 17, after a jury had deliberated 23 hours.

Ledyard, son of a socially prominent Montgomery family, was a victim of a spinal meningitis attack. His unsteady gait caused his arrest by city police on a drunk charge. He died in Hillman Hospital two days after the attack.

This lovely compliment took place at the home of Mrs. W. M. Polk, Sr., on Friday afternoon, the guests calling between the hours of three and seven.

The spacious garden and lawn of the Polk home, which was ablaze with blossoms of summer flowers, made a pretty background where the uests were received. Jardineres filled with English dogwood, American pillow roses, coreopis and delphiniums were placed at intervals about the lawn. Hanging baskets of fern and flowers surrounded the pergola where the many pretty and useful gifts were displayed.

Music Appreciation Club Banquet

The Music Appreciation Club of Clanton spent a delightful evening Wednesday when they held their annual banquet. This affair took place in the basement of the Baptist church which was attractively decorated for the occasion with royal purple and gold streamers and standards filled with iris, delphiniums, and coreopsis. The club colors were also carried out in the centerpiece of each of the several tables—small bowls of pansies and in the place cards. Here the members and guests were served a most delicious four course dinner by Circle No. 2 of the Baptist Church, during which a beautiful musical program was rendered.

It was opened by the song "Alabama" sung in unison and followed by a piano duet by Mrs. W. E. Huddleston and Mrs. Percy Pitts; two vocal solos by Miss Frances Gulledge a vocal solo by Mrs. L. C. "Grass Roots" Party To Hold Convention And Plan New Deal Attack

Chicago.—Republican leaders from nine midwestern states Monday set June 10 and 11 for the "grass roots" party conference at Springfield, Ill., in a call for an "aroused America" to give vigorous battle to the Roosevelt "New Deal."

"The battle is not only to end the depression," said the call, "but also to preserve our very institutions."

Charging the Roosevelt administration had created conditions "so intolerable and so serious as to be beyond mere partisian politics," the committee laid out for the conference a two-fold task of formulating plans for rejuvenating the Republican party nationally and proposing a "constructive" program for the 1936 campaign.

President Roosevelt was charged with having plunged the nation "into a series of fantastic and experimental schemes, the result of which has been to retard recovery and mire the country more deeply into despair."

The conference at the shrine of Lincoln, the commitee said, will have nothing to do with candidacies "nor the personal ambition of any men or set of men."

Selection of conference delegates was authorized in a manner to be prescribed by the signers of the call from the respective states, provided they are "unselfish Republicans" who are "in accord with the purpose and principles of this announcement."

No Place For Selfish

"It is especially understood," the call said, "that there shall be no place in this conference for the selfish reactionary; neither shall there be a place for the equally selfish radical or self-seeking demagogue."

The Republican leaders declared every major promise made by President Roosevelt had been "broken and shamelessly repudiated" and said his record "presents such political perfidy as to shock the conscience and rock the very foundations of democracy.

"The Democratic party, as it has been known by its history, policies and declarations, has ceased to exist," said the announcement. "It has completely and abjectly ignored its obligations and abdicated in favor of Mr. Roosevelt and his retainers."

"Through Mr. Roosevelt's confusing, contradictory and uncertain policies," it continued, "fear and a sense of insecurity have destroyed the confidence of the people and our mighty forces capable of prducing recovery are bound and fettered. As proof of these statements, we have but to refer to the fact that our relief rolls have grown to the tremendous total of over 20,000,000 of our people.

Appropriation Criticized

"In admission of his failure, we find Mr. Roosevelt demanding, and obtaining, from a servile Congress the gigantic sum of $4,880,000,000 to be spent by him and his experimental advisors largely for undisclosed purposes.

"Never before has king, potentate or emperor been clothed with such vast and dangerous power. No other president has ever desired such unrestrained authority."

The call was issued by a committee of national committeemen and women and state chairmen and vice chairmen from Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Oklahoma and Wisconsin, headed by Harrison E. Spangler, Iowa national commiteeman.

HOOVER TERMS RELIEF ROLL AS NATIONAL 'ZOO'

San Francisco, May 6.—Calling for a concerted effort to preserve America's "rugged individualism", former president Herbert Hoover last night warned the nation that the government must not attempt regimentation of relief.

Speaking before 300 of the nation's leading social workers, the former president declared that "our people are not ready to be turned into a national zoo, our citizens classified, labelled and directed by a form of self-approved keepers."

His address, delivered at the opening session of the 27th annual convention of the California Conference of Social Work touched more closely and more directly upon paramount recovery issues than any of his public utterances since his comment on the gold clause decision and his message to the Young Republicans Convention at Sacramento.

Would Check "Abuse"

His speech was directed at phases of what he termed the two most important problems arising from the changes in civilization and economic life during the past half century.

The problems, he declared, arising from the nation's successful conquest of nature and production, are first, to free the new productivity from abuse, and to "find a reasonable economic security to those who honestly strive to do their part in the common effort or who meet with misfortune."

"The physical, mental and spiritual health of our people cannot be manufactured or regimented," he said. "They are the free growth and flowering of healthy instinct and character.

Distribute Poverty

"You may produce an efficient economic or governmental unit but you will not produce a free individual—an American."

Mr. Hoover hailed development of America's economic productivity as a triumph over nature.

"The first and outstanding conclusion that we must reach if we would solve these two great problems," he continued, "is that only by sustaining this productive machine can we hope to find our economic and social security—I might add that to secure this ample production implies stimulating all the forces of technology, and not to abuse them with fantastic notions of stifling production.

"That productivity was born in a system builded upon freedom of the spirit of men. If we stifle this freedom, which builded our productivity, we shall be distributing poverty instead of plenty."

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

During the past few weeks the newspapers have been full of the disagreements of Senator Long and the national administration. We have been regaled with extracts of the Senator's speeches and with extracts of speeches of the stalwart members of the administration like Mr. Ickes, who have taken Mr. Long to task. We have absorbed the details of the disagreement as to the control of the expenditure of relief money in Louisiana, together with speculation as to whether or not Senator Long intends to oppose the administration seriously in the next campaign.

No matter how much we may disagree or agree with Senator Long and his theories there seems to be little doubt as to his ability to gain the attention of the public through the newspaper and the radio. This has tended to underemphasize the fact that there has been serious disagreement with the course of the administration from other statesmen of the same political faith, statesmen whose record for conservatism and political "dignity" is much greater than that of the colorful Senator from Louisiana.

For example: Here are three southern senators of Democratic tradition who have been battling against measures sponsored by the administration—Senators Glass and Byrd of Virginia, and Bailey of North Carolina, Governor Talmadge of the staunch Jeffersonian state of Georgia has been in serious argument with Washington and Governor Curley, of Massachusetts, one of the President's closest political friends, has gone so far as to suggest publicly that the best thing Secretary Wallace could do for the public would be to resign and go back to Iowa. The usually accurate Oliver McKee, Jr., writing in the Boston Transcript says: "Among the 435 members of the House of Representatives it would be hard to find a group more silently wrathful than the seven Democrats from Massachusetts." And so on. No doubt there would be a great deal more wrath which was not so silent were it not for the patronage power of the administration and the tremendous prestige it built up in the elections of 1932 and 1934.

Senator Glass has been particularly critical of the new banking bill which is said by its opponents to "politicalize" banking control, while Senators Bailey and Byrd have been prone to critize features of the agricultural act which they say would give Secretary Wallace complete control of the food of the nation, and of the Bankhead bill designed to aid farm tenants. Of the latter proposal Senator Bailey says: "We might as well make a clean sweep of it and send for Dr. Townsend to run the government."

One of the most forceful arguments against the AAA bill was delivered recently in a radio address by Senator Byrd. In part the Virginia statesman charged:

"The AAA started out to control certain basic commodities and undismayed by the failure of the NRA to regulate all business now wants to extend its control over all farmers, all processors of food and all handlers by a system of universal licensing. In other words, we are now asked to NRA the farmers of America.

"The NRA has injured and in many instances destroyed the small business man and a licensing system will injure the small farmer. * * *

"Imagine a farmer who grows a perishable crop waiting for the unwinding of red tape at Washington thousands of miles away before he can ship a product that will spoil in a few hours."

From this it must be taken, nowever, that Mr. Roosevelt is now in critical danger of losing the election in 1936. The Republicans are split too, perhaps as badly split as the Democrats, and Mr. Roosevelt has all the power and prestige which goes along with the man that is "in." Besides there is that appropriation of $4,800,000,000 which administration Democrats are counting on to continue relief measures and stimulate business temporarily at least; yet it must be admitted that Mr. Roosevelt's political honeymoon is over.

THE NEW BANK BILL

With an abundance of argument over the continuance of the NRA and over gavernment relief, to say nothing of crop control, foreign trade and the tariff, it is not without interest to note that Congress, and especially the Senate, has started to fight big over what is known as the administration omnibus-banking bill. It is not a partisan fight. Many Republican senators oppose the bill but great opposition comes, among others, from Senator Carter Glass of Virginia, who, it is said, because of his knowledge of financial affairs could have became Secretary of the Treasury in the present administration had he so desired.

The principal objection to the bill is toward the provisions which give the administration greater power over the Federal Reserve Board. This is referred to by those who oppose the bill as the "politicalization" of the Federal Reserve Board. This is to be brought about, it is claimed, by giving the President broad powers to depose the governor of the Board at will if the latter does not agree with the President's policies.

Another objection is based on the claim that the bill will place the entire monetary circulation privilege in the Federal Reserve Banks and make the open market policy adopted by the Board mandatory on the banks. Opponents of the bill say that this will bring the national debt and money power in such close relationship that money might fluctuate as the debt does. They say this might become ruinous and cite the examples of Austria and Germany, who, they say, have had similar experiences.

The principal criticism seems to be, however, that the bill will bring about a strong central banking agency directly under the control of the administration. Therefore, some of the opponents say, we are drifting toward a central bank or government control of banking just as we are getting government control of so many other things.

In this respect it is interesting to note that up to this time, ever since the administration of President Andrew Jackson, it has been strong Democratic policy to shy away from a central bank. Jackson denounced the central bank as autocratic, political and un-American, and he had it abolished. Ever since, the Democrats have fought the idea of such a bank. They fought the idea of such a bank. They fought the Republican plan in the days of Senator Aldrich because they thought it would bring about too strong central control and in the first administration of President Wilson they designed the present Federal Reserve Bank with its branch banks and its independence from direst government control. If the present administration banking bill goes through and we go back to the strong central banking idea and government control of banks, it would seem that the President has reversed almost a century of Democratic tradition. But a lot of traditions have fallen during the past few months.

A GREAT WRONG

The disposition of the present administration to intrude into the field of private business has been a matter for hostile comment in the press and on the street for many months. In this intrusion may be found the principal ground of complaint against the New Dealers. So strong has been this complaint that competent observers are continually declaring that the popularity of the President is definitely waning.

There must be something astonishingly wrong with a group of men who are too earnest in pursuit of a theory to reason, too blind to note previous failure, wring out of delirious New Dealism new methods of regimentation, spit bitterly into the very face of truth.

What this country needs is a reasonable chance to earn a living so be it may be earned with decency within the reasonable law. How can it ever hope to prosper if it must look to the Big Boss in Washington before it dares to sell a chop, a toothpick or a quart of oil?

Unless we are to kiss goodbye to our vaunted love of freedom, and to become subservient vassals under imperial ukase, we should resent with overy ounce of vigor further usurpation in the field of private industry and business. Not only should the proposed AAA amendments be aborted but there should be repealed a host of other restrictive acts and edicts, invented to plague all of us forgotten men and women who have fallen, unhappily, under the yoke of political absolutism.—Portland Express.

CURLEY vs. WALLACE

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace seems fated to be one of the stormy petrels of the administration. The latest attack on him has come from textile men of New England. This might not be regarded as significant, since the textile men up there are usually Republican, although a majority of them must have gone Democratic in the last election. But one of the chief Wallace baiters is no less a person than Governor Curley of Massachusetts, who is as strong for the President as any politician in America.

At a meeting called by textile mill owners in Brunswick recently in which Wallace was criticized because the Secretary accused them of "whining" in the present textile crisis, Governor Curley is quoted as saying:

"The brutal assault made upon the textile industry and the citizenship of New England by Secretary Wallace should not be accepted as reflecting the viewpoint of President F. D. Roosevelt.

"New England industrial leaders need aid and not destructive criticism at this time, and fortunately for them, President Roosevelt and not Secretary Wallace is the court of last resort.

"The best service that Secretary Wallace could render America and President Roosevelt would be to tender his resignation and return to his studies."

Secretary Wallace is said to have sponsored the program of plowing under the corn, burning the pigs, and converting cotton fields into idle lands. Now, no doubt he wouldn't mind plowing under a lot of textile men. Perhaps this goes for Governor Curley too. Running the Department of Agriculture in Washington seems to be even a more troublesome task than running a farm paper in the State of Iowa.

Says the sane and sensible Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia: "The very heart of our American system is the right of the individual to make a living unhindered by the government to the extent greater than is necessary to protect every other individual in the exercise of the same right, and to preserve a safe, secure and peaceful society." Yes, Senator, we agree with you. That is the heart. The trouble is that we are coming to the conclusion that we ain't got no heart any more.

TRUST THE A A A

Dust covers western farms, water covers the farms in the Mississippi valley, mortgages cover the farms not covered by dust or water. It's going to be mighty hard for the AAA to find enough crops left to plow under. They'll probably plow the water under. They've done funnier things than that. —"A Line o' Type or Two," in The Chicago Tribune.

JACK'S RECORD

I have received a letter from Jack Hayes during the past week, and he holds high hopes for the White Sox this season. He writes: "We may not win a pennant this year, but we are going to have lots of fun with some of those teams that are supposed to be so good. In Radcliff, Simmons, Bonura and Washington we have plenty of power. I would hate to be a pitcher with that murderers row staring me in the face." Jack is still hitting the ball at a lively clip.

ZERO HOUR

During the next month a dozen or more Republican conventions will be called at various places. Some have already been called, and there are others to follow. Zero hour is almost here, when we Republicans will go over the top in a counter-attack. And what a scrap that's going to be!

When we were so badly beaten in the barrage of 1932, I think every Republican pulled himself into his bomb-proof cellar to await a new day of battle—and to plan for that day. They have not been sitting quiet, doing nothing. Things have been humming—on the inside. As the Democrats began tossing their big shells, Republicans have quietly gathered them in, gone over them, and laid them away to fire back when the day of the big push comes. Several of the Democratic high-powered shells turned out to be "duds", but Republicans have put new caps in them, loaded them with TNT from Democratic warehouses, and the explosions ought to begin right away. Just as soon as the brass hats of the Republican army can get together and agree on a line of attack, right then the fun will start. And what a noise some of those shells will cause! And what havoc they will wreak in the Democratic camp!

When we start reminding the dear people of the autocratic raw deal the New Deal has turned out to be with the NRA in charge, and with these memories still fresh and coming up every day—that'll do to begin with. Then the AAA program—that ought to pop pretty loud. When we shell out the statistics on unemployment and on relief rolls, showing the increase in these rather than the decrease the Demmies promised—that will be interesting. The loss of our foreign markets under the present administration ought to set a few thinking, too. There are "scads" of shells we have loaded since the G. O. P. was pronounced dead in 1932.

And with a few other worries in which we will have no part, the next year will be fairly miserable for New Deal "rah-rah boys". Some of these in which the Republicans will not figure, but which may do us good are: The Detroit priest and his group, Huey Long and his kingdom in the swamp, Gov. Talmadge, of Georgia, and his regiment, as well as others. Then there will be William Randolph Hearst, who used his powerful newspaper chain to help Mr. Roosevelt into office before—he will be turning his "big Berthas" loose the other way this time. What a fight that's going to be!

COURT FOOLS

Back in the days long ago, the monarchs of old always kept their court clowns, or court fools, as they were known. History tells us that in many cases these court fools were really very wise men, and that on numerous occasions good sound advice was given the kings, along with the tomfoolery. At least one English king is said to have realized how wise his court fool was, and taking the paint and clown's spangles from him, kept him in his court for the sake of his advice. Later he said that this man saved England much in men and money. It developed that he was a natural master statesman, a peace-maker of the first water. While he was in the service of the English government, that nation enjoyed its longest period of peace and understanding with the neighbor nations, the "good will era", with attendant fast growth of the country.

We think our own officials might well listen to wisdom now and then, even if the advice does come from the paths of the lowly. God did not endow men of position with ALL the wisdom. President Roosevelt has said that he would invite any sincere criticism of his policies; that he would weigh all such criticism for the good it might contain, and then incorporate that borrowed wisdom in the execution of his duties and policies.

When he made this statement, there was plenty of advice forthcoming. Some of it, no doubt, was fanatic and worse than worthless. But out of all, there must surely have been some good advanced. But has there been any evidence that any of this advice was heeded? Not once that we have heard of.

Surrounded by his gang of collegiate nitwits, he has listened to their quack doctor remedies for the nation's ailments, and put these crazy, untried ideas into harness. On many occasions he has admitted that he had no idea what the outcome of these policies would be. He has followed a policy of blundering blindly along, experimenting. A policy of the blind leading the blind, and all are bound to land in the ditch together at the end of the road, or before.

"THEY HEARD HIM NOT"

"He warned them, but they heard him not. He told them of their misdeeds, and was punished. He went throughout the kingdom, foretelling the end, and was laughed to scorn. He was the wisest among them, yet the finger of derision was pointed at him. He foresaw chaos, and told the rulers, yet they went their way, living on flowery beds of ease, until the blood of the people ran in the streets, like water. He was without honor, though he spake words of wisdom. He was a seer and a prophet, yet bore the name of a fool".

How many times have I read phrases like the above? How many times have rulers of nations had their weaknesses pointed out to them, with a warning which they disregarded, and lived to see the day when they sincerely wished that they had given ear? History is full of such of instances. History certainly repeats itself, and human nature is the most set in its ways of all things.

When Noah made the ark ready, he warned the people of what was to come, and they paid no attention to him — indeed, they laughed at him.

Lot went into his home town and warned his people to flee the wrath to come, but they went their way, paying no heed.

Wise men of all ages have warned of disaster under existing laws and rules of their own particular nations and ages, but were always scoffed at, until too late.

And now, we can see the same thing happening in our own country. Wise men, big men, men whose opinions should certainly carry weight, are termed "backbiters", "chiselers", and like names, just because they have knowledge enough to foresee what is sure to come, and grit enough to express their views.

The method of procedure has always been the same. Corrupt rulers, drunk with their power, have usurped and abused those powers until their people rose in righteous indignation and rebellion, always bringing on a condition of chaos and strife in no way good for the nation or the people concerned. Yet these uprisings have HAD to come to remove corrupt rulers and their practices.

Wou'd that our own officials would take a lesson from the book of the past—would listen to words of wisdom and rumblings of discontent over our nation. Would that they might mend their official ways. Must history repeat itself—AGAIN?

GATHERING CLOUDS

Several years ago before cars were so common, I was on my way home one day, riding in a buggy, when a dark cloud arose. I knew I would never be able to reach home before the storm broke, so decided to stop in for shelter until the storm was aver. As I pulled into the yard by a home I was passing, I noticed much activity around the place. The children were being called in from play, and boys working in a field nearby were coming in. All the windows were fastened down, and the whole place rigged up "ship shape" for the storm.

Just about the time all were safely in, the storm broke. Just such a rain I think I never saw before nor since, and there was wind with it, too. But thanks to the foresight of the parents of the family, no damage was done. They had PREPARED!

From time to time, as I read the papers, and observe happenings in this country, I am continually reminded of this incident. Each day one may observe storm warnings for our nation. Clouds rise on every hand — war clouds threaten, labor troubles grow worse daily, the threat of Communism stalks the land like a dread spectre which may come to life at any moment. Clouds, clouds, and more clouds! Reasoning, thinking people warn daily of impending disaster, unless we lay plans to safeguard the nation. Yet we see no girding against ANY of these clouds. While our people beat against unjust laws and regulations, like birds in a cage, and while hostile nations plot and scheme against our people, and against the very heart of the government, itself, our officials continue to dream and experiment.

Why will they not open their eyes and return to sane, true and tried rules for governing the people and taking care for the safety of the nation? When a storm arises, even a gibbering idiot has sense enough to get in out of the rain. Why not apply a little common sense to our problems?

RULES FOR PROGRESS

Natural laws are laws that cannot be beaten. Many times man made laws have been enacted and had to be done away with for the good of the people. This is especially true as regards the running of an enterprise so great as the government of a whole nation of people. So long as natural laws are taken into consideration in the enactment of national laws, all goes well. But when the lawmakers stray from the straight and narrow pathway, it is a bad day for the nation and its people, and, ultimately, we have to come back to these natural laws, any way.

Three of the great natural laws that have always proved a boon to any nation which observed them are: Economy, fairness, and sensible government. As long as these three are adhered to in the main, we do well. Let us set one of them aside, and ill befalls us at once. Lay aside all of them, and chaos is the result. Economy is the practice of wise spending—not hoarding of money. Sound and sensible investment of money is much better than mere hoarding. One keeps the wheels of commerce rolling on a sound basis —the other slows down every phase of work by tying up assets. Yet, there is a vast difference between wise spending of great sums, and squandering. Our officials are not spending money—they are squandering it, in a senseless manner, with little or no immediate good coming from it. This is anything but the economy that Mr. Roosevelt pledged.

Fairness was the big idea that the NRA was to bring to pass. Yet we see small business firms discriminated against, while the big ones reap the bounties, just as they always have and always will. The fairest method on which to let business function is the exercise of good healthy competition in trade—it always has worked, and we will eventually have to come back to it.

Sensible management—we could do with a little of that right now! Why not try saving America for Americans, instead of trying to save the European nations, who had rather fight than eat? Why not try to build markets for America's products, rather than to curtail production in a world-wide sales war? In short, why not inject a little common sense into our nation's business, and leave off some of the experiments and dream plans?—Man in the Moon.

REAL FRIENDS OF FREE SPEECH

One of the fears frequently expressed by so-called "liberal" educators in the United States is that "freedom of speech" is menaced by drivers on reds and their propaganda in America in an effort to thwart conspiracies, verbal or otherwise, against the government of the United States.

One of the latest to express such a fear is Robert M. Hutchins, president of the University of Chicago, who professes to see such a threat against free speech in the furor expressed against alleged communist teachings in some of our colleges and universities.

"Whenever freedom of inquiry, discussion and teaching has been abolished, freedom of the press, freedom of religion and freedom of speech have been abolished too," President Hutchins is quoted as stating in a recent radio address. The address, it may be noted, followed charges by a prominent Chicago business man that Chicago University "fosters radical teachings" and the authorization by the Illinois State Senate of a sweeping inquiry of radical activities in colleges.

The so-called educators who cry "suppression" whenever attack is made on efforts to further a doctrine which calls for the overthrow of our government and the substitution of international autocracy, ought to remember that the patriots who seek to check communism are the real preservers of free speech, not those who seek to give the communists a greater leeway to express themselves.

We have only to turn to Russia for our proof. That darkened nation is the one present example of a communistic government. Yet freedom of speech and freedom of the press are unknown in Russia. There is stern censorship over the written and spoken word, and every member of the Communist party, every red worker in the shop, in the power plant or on the farm is a potential spy on his neighbor, his relative or his friend, if he wants by betrayal to win applause for suppression of criticism of the government. Russian propaganda pictures and plays are said to make "heroes" and "heroines" of imaginary characters who show their loyalty to communism by betraying into a living death the sweetheart, the father or brother who happens to "express or act the belief" that communistic government is not all that it happens to be painted by its friends.

If communism wins in the United States we will have exactly the same autocracy with its absence of freedom of speech that we have in Russia. It would seem, therefore, that the real preserver of the freedom of our institutions is not the red of the liberal professor who seeks to provide him with a platform, but the one who seeks to preserve American institutions.

One of the favorite measures of the reds in America, when they are attacked, is to hide behind the Constitution they hate and set up the cry of "free speech." Of course they know that there is no such thing as free speech in the country of their ideals. If they didn't lack a sense of humor and inability to blush they couldn't go on being communists. The absurdity of the situation would be too much for them. What then shall we say of a lot of folks who ought to know better? The only thing that free speech has to fear is not a drive on the reds but a successful drive on the part of the reds.

CHILTON 4—BILLINGSLEY 1

Chilton County High won another baseball game last Friday afternoon on the local field, taking Billingsley High into camp, 4 to 1.

Both pitchers, Armstrong for Chilton, and Williams for Billingsley, struck out 13 batters each. Williams gave up only 5 hits, including W. Baker's double, and walked three men, while Armstrong gave up 9 hits including a double, and walked 1 man, but was tight on the pinches. All of Chilton's hits but two came behind errors. There was only one earned run in the game.

In the second inning for Billingsley, Smith singled to right but was out trying to stretch it into a double. Patrick singled and scored a moment later by errors by Armstrong and Hogan.

Chilton's scoring was as follows: In the first, Johnson was safe when his grounder went through O. Turner; he was safe on a theft of second when J. Turner's throw to second was wide, and continued to third when the throw went into center field, scoring on Jones' single.

In the third inning, Johnson was safe again on an error, went to third again by a wild throw by J. Turner, and scored on Reynolds's single.

In the fifth, Armstrong opened with a single, and scored on W. Baker's double, for the only earned run of the game. W. Baker then stole third, and scored on another error by J. Turner.

O. Turner led both teams in batting with 3 singles out of four trips, closely followed by Williams with a single and a double for four tries. No Chilton batter got more than one hit. Williamson played a bang-up game behind the plate for Chilton. That lad has a rifle arm, and his throw to second is perfect.

CLANTON 10—COCA-COLA 11

The Canton baseball club opened the 1935 season at the local ball park last Saturday afternoon, losing to the Coca-Cola club, of Montgomery, by the score of 11 to 10.

The visiting nine did not show as smooth a team as they had last year, and the Clanton team showed their lack of practice.

Robinson and Golson gave the Coca-Cola team 11 hits, including three doubles. DeBois and Watts gave up 9 hits, including a triple and three doubles. Five errors and other slow and loose fielding kept the Clanton pitchers in hot water nearly all the way. Seven Coca-Cola men and 10 Clanton batters struck out.

Preaster led at bat for Coca-Cola with three singles, followed by Nixon with two doubles, and Boyd with two singles. Culver led for Clanton with a triple and a double; Smith got a dauble and a single, and Robinson garnered two singles.

Robinson and Golson were finding the plate regularly, giving up only two free tickers, while DeBois and Watts walked 8 and hit 3 batters.

The management wishes to make the following explanation of the increase in admission price. Last year Clanton could not get the better class of amateur clubs here for our fans, because they could not give the financial guarantee that these clubs had to have. In raising the price this season it is hoped that Clanton can have a better club than last year, and can draw better competition. Manager Marcus and members of the team are doing all they can to furnish Clanton baseball fans with high grade base ball enterainment, and will appreciate the backing of these fans until plans for the season can be rounded out and put into practice.

Notice the local papers for games to be played each week. As far as possible, all games will be announced a week ahead of time. The papers will carry sporting sections, and you can look in this section each week for reports of games played and announcements of future games. Records in batting will be kept on the local team in this section also.

THE NEW 1935 FORD V-8 PICK UP

PICKUP $480 F. O. B. DETROIT

The proved power, speed, economy of the V-8 engine . . . plus improvements that make it a more rugged hauler than ever

The Ford V-8 Pickup has always been a car that could take punishment.

Try this 1935 job—whether you want something that will stand the abuse of farm work, or a tough, speedy unit for town hauling or use around a plant. This year, improvements have been added that enable you to use the Ford V-8 Pickup harder than ever—and to do it at less cost.

Even the proved V-8 engine has been made more economical, more dependable. It has new crankcase ventilation that rids the engine of water vapor, minimizes sludge, reduces oil dilution and corrosion. It has copper-lead connecting rod bearings that resist burning and pounding out. It has cast alloy camshaft and crankshaft that outwear forged steel.

The front axle is stronger—20%. The frame has been strengthened—with a new X-member, double reinforced side rails, new cross members at front, center and rear. The chassis is mounted on the Ford Full-floating Springbase—giving more uniform tire wear, longer brake life, better brake action, improved over-all operation, easier riding and handling. Brakes and clutch are new—stronger, sure-acting, easier to operate.

But the way to find out what this new Ford V-8 Pickup will do for you—and save for you—is to put it through a tough trial on your own job. Your Ford dealer will let you have one any time you say.

FOREIGN COTTON PRODUCTION

Total cotton production in foreign countries was only 730,000 bales higher in 1933-'34 than in 1928-'29, the peak year in foreign cotton growth since the war. In 1928-'29 the production was 12,323,000 bales compared with 13,953,000 bales in 1933-'34. It is estimated that the 1934-'35 production is 184,000 bales less than in 1933-'34.

Foreign countries have been increasing acreage and production as rapidly as possible since the war but the 1933-'34 production in these countries was in some cases less than previous post-war peaks and was not much above previous peaks in any of the countries, says Cully A. Cobb, director, division of cotton, Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Production in India last year was over 1,000,000 bales less than the post-war peak. In 1925-'26 it was 5,201,000 bales compared with 4,159,000 bales in 1933-'34.

Egypt's producion was 1,768,000 bales during the peak season of 1929-'30 compared with 1,819,000 bales in 1933-'34, an increase of only 51,000 bales.

Russia showed less increase over its previous peak than did Egypt. In the peak season of 1931-'32 production in Russia was 1,843,000 bales compared with 1,889,000 in 1933-'34, an increase of 46,000 bales.

With a crop of 2,726,000 bales in 1933-'34, China's production exceeded its previous peak of 2,466,000 bales in 1928-'29 by only 260,000 bales.

Brazil grew 793,000 bales in the peak season of 1924-'25 compared with 967,000 bales in 1933-'34, an increase of 174,000 bales.

NEW FORESTRY CAMP FOR BUTLER COUNTY

Montgomery, May 6.—Participation by the State in the President's Emergency Conservation Work program, as provided by the Act of the Alabama Legislature, approved February 5th, has resulted in the allocation to Alabama of several new CCC camps. The first of these is a private land forestry camp known as Camp P-75 in Butler County. Projects designed to work upon private holdings are exceedingly difficult to secure, since the Federal Government demands that the State guarantee continued maintenance of the work done on such areas. For localities where the part performance of landowners plus the amount of the State funds which properly may be spent in cooperative protection work in the vicinity together give assurance of future upkeep of forest improvements, the Federal Government construes the circumstances as an adequate basis for the State's guarantee.

In Butler county numerous individual owners, including those controlling some very large holdings, have been engaged for many years in developing and maintaining the productivity of their forest lands. The legislative Act of February 5th has considerably strengthened the position of the State before the Federal Government with reference to the guarantees that must be made as to continued maintenance of the improvements, and on the assurance provided by this Act the new projects have been allotted.

STATE FARMERS PAY THEIR DEBTS

Auburn, Ala.—Farmers of Alabama continue to live up to their reputation of meeting their obligations promptly. Robert A. County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

SOIL EROSION BIG DESTROYER

Auburn, Ala.—Soil erosion—in which the Federal government is now taking a determined stand—is a major destroyer in Alabama. Already one million acres of farm land in this state have been ruined by it for practical tillage purposes and a much larger area is headed in the same direction, according to a report received at the college of agriculture here from the Federal Soil Erosion Service of which H. H. Bennett is director.

A reconnaissance survey which covered every county in Alabama revealed that 82.9 per cent of the total area was "suffering in some degree from erosion." Explicitly, sheet washing was found prevalent on more than 25 million acres; and active gullying on nearly 25 million acres.

Dividing the state for erosion studies, the observers found little or no erosion on 5,616,851 acres on 17.1 per cent of the total area in the state, exclusive of large cities and water.

The observers found that "one-fourth to three-fourths of the topsoil had been lost on 17,182,166 acres or 32.2 per cent of the total." More than three-fourths of the topsoil and a portion or the subsoil had been lost on 8,240,954 acres or 25.0 per cent of the total.

The 22,861,601 acres affected by gullying were divided into "occasional gullies" with 19,908,692 acres or 60.5 per cent "severe gullies," 2,947,728 acres or 9 per cent; and "destroyed by gullies," 5.181 acres.

Most of these soils have lost 50 to 75 per cent of the topsoil by continuous clean-cultivation of row crops of cotton and corn plus improper handling of the soil. Many deep gullies have been formed, completely destroying valuable farm land by the concentration of excess run-off water and its uncontrolled rush down the slopes. Thuosands of acres of once fertile farm and pasture lands along streams were covered to various depths by inert soil material.

J. C. LOWERY SAYS GROW OTOOTAN SOYBEANS HERE

The Otootan soybean is one of the most dependable hay crops for much of Alabama. This plant produces a hay of fine quality and has demonstrated its ability to withstand unfavorable conditions. The Otootan has increased very rapidly in popularity in recent years in north Alabama and is now becoming popular in the southern half of the State for soil improvement and for temporary grazing.

1. Seed Production.—Seed usually can be saved for farm use in most sections of the State. If planting alone for seed, Otootans should be left 8 to 12 plants per hill eighteen inches apart in rows three feet apart. Locate seed patch on soil of medium fertility. One of the most common and a very successful method is to plant four or five beans between hills of corn. Plant in late corn—the last of May or first of June.

2. Hay Priduction.—Plant 25 to 35 pounds of seed per acre about the middle of May to the first of June in rows just wide enough to permit one or two light cultivations. Apply 400 to 600 pounds per acre of basic slag. Cut for hay when the plants are in full bloom.

3. Grazing. —Otootans are very good for grazing poultry and livestock. Plant as for hay. The crop may be grazed at any stage but the maximum grazing will be obtained at the stage to cut for hay.

4. Harvesting for Seed.—Otootans may be left in the field until leaves have shed and the seed dry enough to thresh before harvesting. Otootans interplanted in corn may be either pulled or cut with hoes after all the leaves have shed and beaten over the edge of wagon bed to get out as many of the seed as possible and the vines dropped back on the land. If being threshd with a thresher, the speed of the cylinder should be reduced and the concaves removed. Threshed soybeans should be dried thoroughly before being stored.

Plant Otootans on your fram for hay and also plant a seed patch.

DR. McADORY BECOMES STATE VETERINARIAN

Auburn, Ala.—Dr. L. N. Duncan, president, Alabama Polytechnic Institute, has appointed Dr. L. S. McAdory acting dean of the school of veterinary medecine in the place of the late Dr. Charles A. Cary for the remainder of the fiscal year.

R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture and industries, has also named Dr. McAdory as active veterinarian.

CLUB MEMBERS OFFERED PRIZES

Auburn, Ala.—Prizes valued at more than $1,000 are offered Alabama 4-H club members, who keep accurate farm records this year in the National Farm Account Contest, reports T. A. Sims, director of 4-H club work in the state.

"Those wishing to secure details about the contest may obtain them from the county farm or home demonstration agent," advises Mr. Sims.

JULIAN BROWN, EXTENSION HORTICULTURIST WRITES ON INSECT CONTROL PLANS

In an effort to simplify the insect control problems of the home gardener, and yet maintain efficiency, we are recommending the use of Derris for the control of garden insects. It is a relatively new product, but has been tried here and elsewhere enough to justify this recommendation.

It is primarily a stomach poison, and is the most satisfactory of all the insecticides we have used for the control of the Mexican Bean Bettle. It will control them if properly applied. It is likewise effective in the control of most other chewing insects. It has some value as a contact insecticide but is not as effective as nicotine sulphate. However, to simplify the home gardener problems I believe we should recommend it for the control of all garden insects. Nicotine sulphate should be used for plant lice if they are very numerous. The dust is mixed with sulphur, which is valuable as a repellant and fungicide.

The Farmers Marketing and Exchange Association of Montgomery is handling this dust, prepared according to recommendations of our Department of Entomology, and it is already mixed and ready for use. It is my opinion that you would be rendering your people a service by asking your County Exchange to stock this material. It will retain its full strength for a relatively long time if kept in a closed container, such as a syrup can.

CORN-HOG RULING AIDS HOME MEAT SUPPLY

Producers who agree under the 1935 corn-hog program to hold their corn acreage within the contract limits but who do not have a hog production base, may produce one 1935 litter of pigs for home consumption, according to a ruling by the Secretary of Agriculture. No hog payment, however, will be made to producers taking advantage of this ruling. It also has been ruled that 1935 contract signers, who have an average production record of 6 hogs or less for both market and slaughter during the 1932-'33 period and who are receiving no hog payment under their contracts, may be permitted to slaughter for home consumption all pigs produced in 1935 in excess of the producer's market hog base, provided that only one litter is farrowed on the farming unit under contract. The number of pigs which may be produced for market under the contract is not changed by this ruling. These modifications were made primarily to accommodate farmers who produced a smaller-than-the average number of pigs from one litter during the base period, and to assure that they will have an adequate number of hogs for home use. The 1935 contract does not require a producer with a market hog production average of 15 hogs or less for the base period to make any adjustment in 1935 farrowings, but until the new ruling was made, many small producers could not keep more 1935 pigs than the same number produced during the base period. For example, a producer who for one reason or another had a market hog base of only 2 head and a home slaughter base of 3 head, could produce a total of not more than 5 hogs in 1935. Under this new ruling, this producer may not produce more than 2 hogs for market, but he may use for home consumption all of the remaining pigs farrowed in one litter in 1935.

PURE WHITE CORN WANTED FOR MAKING MEAL AND GRITS

Mixing or crossing of white varieties of corn with yellow varieties is making it difficult for manufacturers of meal and grits to use Alabama grown corn. The meal and grit manufacturers in Birmingham alone want more than 1,500,000 bushels of white corn each year. Unless more care is used to supply a pure white corn, this market not only cannot be further developed but will be lost entirely.

On the other hand yellow corn is in demand for feeds. The Birmingham market will use around 500,000 bushels annually of yellow. The production of yellow corn should be increased.

Farmers who expect to sell corn should grow either white or yellow corn exclusively. If both colors are grown on the farm there should be several weeks difference in planting dates or the fields should be well isolated by woods or hills.

Though corn is not a cash crop of importance in Alabama, many farmers having bottom land or grow winter legumes sell lots of carn each year. Birmingham and other cities and towns of the State and nearby points of the southeast will use around five million bushels per year of Alabama grown corn. To hold and to enlarge this market it is necessary to produce corn which meets its requirements. It is important that mixing of colors be prevented to meet the requirement of this market.

STATION ANNOUNCES BEST COTTON SPACING

Auburn, Ala.—Over a period of 5 years, the highest cotton yields have been obtained on three and one half-foot rows with hills 18 inches apart, with little or no difference in yield between 1, 2, and 3 stalks per hill.

That is a brief summary of the results obtained in experiments by the Alabama Experiment Station.

"All of the work indicates that where something like a bale of cotton per acre is possible the hills should be something like 18 inches apart and the rows about three and one half feet wide, with 1, 2, or 3 stalks per hill," says Dean M. J. Funchess, director. "When 6 stalks were left in each hill the average yield was reduced approximately 50 pounds of cotton per acre.

"An experiment at Auburn where no fertilizer was applied indicates that the same general recommendation might be made where expected yields are a half bale per acre as would be made where expected yields are a bale per acre. With this general modification it might be best to have the rows only 3 feet wide rather than three and one half feet wide. Otherwise the same recommendation is made where the expected yields are low or where they are high."

FARM DOLLARS IN SOUTH SPEED NORTHERN INDUSTRY

Actual carlot shipments of industrial and manufactured goods from 16 northeastern industrial states to 10 southeastern agricultural states increased by 38.8 per cent in the first year after the nation's recovery program got under way, according to results of a study completed by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. The statistical information on which the study was based was taken from waybills of four important railroad systems in the southeast. Shipments of industrial commodities, exclusive of coal, from the northeastern industrial states to the southeastern agricultural states over these four railroads, totaled 2,104,585,201 pounds in the period from July 1, 1932 thru June 30, 1933, before the agricultural adjustment program was inaugurated. In the next year, from July 1, 1933, through June 30, 1934, a period when the results of the agricultural adjustment program and other recovery measures were beginning to be felt, shipments of northeastern industrial and manufactured goods to the southeast over these same railroads totaled 2,920,887,439 pounds, an increase of 38.8 per cent over shipments during the previous year. These goods were shipped in carload lots and represent more than 95 per cent of the total shipments by weight. The 16 states from which these industrial commodities were shipped were: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Ohio, Michigan, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin. The ten states in which the commodities were delivered were Virginia, West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida. While shipments of industrial goods increased 38.8 per cent, the study shows that during the same periods cash farm income to farmers in the southeastern states increased 59.9 per cent. From July 1932 through June 1933, before the agrucultural adjustment program became operative, the cash farm income fram crops in the 10 southeastern states was $451,637,000. The year following, from July, 1933, through June, 1934, when the adjustment program and other recovery measures were launched, the cash from income from crops plus benefit payments to farmers in those states totaled $722,017,000—an increase of 59.9 per cent. In these 10 southeastern states the Agricultural Adjustment Administration had adjustment programs in effect for cotton and tobacco. Benefit payments to producers co-operating in these programs were derived from the processing taxes. The processing taxes, in financing the benefit payments to farmers co-operating in production adjustment programs, provide a means of associating the interests of the individual farmer with the interests of the whole group of producers of a basic commodiay for the purpose of increasing farm income. By encouraging adjustments that raise farm purchasing power, the processing taxes promote the general welfare. This is indicated by the study which shows the extent to which increased farm purchasing power has increased the farmers' demand for industrial goods. Previous to the launching of the general recovery program in 1933, business activity in the United States had been declining for nearly four years. Farmers could buy less and less from city dwellers, and city dwellers had less and less money with which to buy from farmers. The recovery program represents an attempt to reverse this process. By providing the mechanism through which farmers may increase their own incomes, the government seeks to help increase industrial activity. At the same time, by increasing the purchasing power of industrial workers, the government seeks to increase the demand for farm products.

C.C.H.S. Students Rate High In Tests

Thirteen Successfully Passed Rigid Examination In Studies

Of the 7,415 high school students who stood the Henmon-Nelson tests of mental ability, October 30, 1934, 1,440 made a rating which placed them in the superior group. Of that number thirteen students of Chilton County High school were able to achieve this distinction. They are as follows:

Wade Alford, Margaret Davis, Elizibeth Gragg, John T. Marlar, Walter Kelley Gillespie, Alice Petty, Loyce Baker, Priscilla Johnson, Wilson Atkinson, Johnnie Blankenship, Mary Edith Jones, Dorothy Waite and Philip Nelson.

Of the 1,440 high school students taking the above named test of mental ability, and numbered among the superiors, Wade Alford ranks in the first group. He wrote correctly 81 of the possible 90 questions. That is, this young man stands among the 74 students making the highest mark of the 7,415 taking the examination last fall.

Dr. McElroy To Preach Baccalaureate Sermon

Dr. C. C. Anderson of Montgomery had accepted the invitation to make the Baccalaureate Sermon here, Sunday, May 19, but finding it impossible, passed the invitation on to Dr. McElroy of the First Presbyterian Church of Troy, who will preach for us on that occasion. Dr. McElroy comes to us most highly recommended by Dr. Anderson, and we feel sure we have a strong man at this particular time.

NEW STREAMLINE BUSES NOW RUNNING THROUGH CLANTON

Everybody is admiring the luxurious new streamline buses that began passing through Clanton this week on the Southeastern Greyhound Lines. They are the very latest word in modern highway travel, having semi air-conditioned, non draft ventilation, with windows that slide open or shut by the mere press of a finger; ice water, electric fans, spacious interior hand luggage lofts; safety glass and the most comfortable reclining lounge chairs in which a traveler ever relaxed.

There is a pleasant surprise for you when you first see one of these sleek new Greyhounds. And when you ride in it, what a revelation of comfort and convenience, as compared with even the best of the past.

Two of the new Greyhounds have already begun regular runs on the Birmingham - Montgomery line. Others are to come in a few days, it is announced.

WORK IS PROCEEDING ON NEW CLANTON POSTOFFICE

Work is progressing steadily in excavation of the site of the federal building in Clanton, preparatory to laying the foundation and beginning of actual construction

Mr. Henderson, representing H. W. Beers, contractor, of Atlanta, is in charge of operations. Mr. Henderson stated that he has a specified time in which to complete the job, but did not name the date.

Location of the new building is at the southwest corner of the intersection of First Avenue and Sixth St.

BAPTISTS WILL CONTRIBUTE TO ORPHANS HOME SUNDAY

What can be more appropriate on Mother's Day than a cash offering "in memory of mother for motherless children?" There are 171 children in the Baptist home who are deprived of mother's love and care. They are the wards of the Baptists of Alabama and are supported by free will offerings from the churches and Sunday schools of the state. This day has been set apart officially by the Baptists of Alabama for a cash contribution. It is expected that they will respond liberally. The goal is $5,000.00.

Business And New Deal Hit Cross Roads Divide

U. S. Chamber of Commerce Pledges Itself to Vigorously Fight The Administration

Washington, May 2.—Business as represented by the United States Chamber of Commerce and the Roosevelt administration appeared at the parting of the ways today. The chamber elected as its new chief, Harper Sibley, a friendly enemy of President Roosevelt, to carry on a vigorous fight against the New Deal.

President Roosevelt withheld the customary White House message to the convention of business men from all parts of the United States. The chamber met in its final convention session to adopt strongly worded resolutions criticizing the New Deal.

Some significance was attached to the speech of Secretary of State Cordell Hull at the final session. He denounced selfish business interests. No official announcement was made, but the chief executive's silence created interest. Heretofore the President has either sent a message or appeared in person before the chamber's annual meeting.

Sibley's election as president of the chamber, succeeding Henry I. Harriman, virtually was one of acclamation. As a successful business man, farmer and banker, who believes that govermental regulation of business has gone too far, he had no opposition. He pledged himself to seek fulfillment of the convention's mandates, urging modification of the pending banking bill, censuring the measure outlawing utilities holding companies, and demanding further thought on the part of Congress before President Roosevelt's social security program is turned into law.

HEAY RAIN AND WIND MONDAY

In addition to an extremely heavy rainfall Monday, reports from different parts of the county indicate that slight damage was done at some places by strong winds that came with the downpour.

The first deluge came in Clanton about ten o'clock Monday morning, followed by another bigger one at noontime. The streets were flooded by overflow of gutters and storm sewers. With the rain at noon, the wind whipped things in a lively manner for a few minutes. Several trees were blown down.

It is reported that a house belonging to Joe Headley, near Mt. Pisgah, and occupied by Zeb Headley, was seriously damaged by the wind. It was blown off the pillars and twisted out of shape considerably.

In the same community a house at the Tom Robbins old place, occupied by Jasper Cleckler, was damaged some when the kitchen wing of the building was twisted from the main portion of the house.

So far as has been reported, no persons were injured by the winds. Damage of the heavy rains to plowed fields is said to be of considerable extent.

Leo Thompson's hangar at the Clanton airport is reported to have suffered damage from the wind when it was dislocated from its foundation. His plane, which was in its hangar at the time, is said to have been damaged only very slightly.

Another report, details of which were not available, said the wind and rain damage was acute in the community north of the cotton mill near Clanton, where a barn, several trees and telephone wires were blown down.

19,513 Crates Shipped During Berry Season

Over Sixty Cars Handled By Clanton Association Up To Present Time

With the major portion of the local strawberry crop picked, shipped and sold, a total tabulation Wednesday morning showed that the Clanton Association has put on the market a total of 19,513 crates of the better grade berries. Since that total was made there have been a number of local shipments of stem berries by truck to Birmingham, which are not included in the figure.

According to the method of packing and shipping of former years in freight cars of 315 crates each, the total shipment this year would have been over 60 cars from Clanton.

This year shipments have been made in car loads by express, whereby the pre-cooling system was used, enabling the shipment of as high as 500 crates to a car.

The net return in dollars to the growers was not available this week, as the returns on some of the last shipments had not come in. We will be able to get the exact figures by next week. All around, the growers have had a fair and satisfactory net return from their crop.

CARRIED TO HOSPITAL

Early Wednesday morning Martin's ambulance carried Mr. J. F. Williams, of Verbena, to a Montgomery hospital for treatment. Details of the sick man's condition were not available.

SENIOR PLAY AT JEMISON MAY 10

"Alibi Bill," by Katherine Kavanaugh, is to be produced by special arrangement with the Dramatic Publishing Company under the direction of Miss Miriam Harvey, faculty director. The performance will be given by the cast Friday evening, May 10, at 8 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

This play excels by far, the seniors think, any other ever given in the Jemison auditorium. The leading roles, Aimee Smith and Billy Smith, are taken by Mary Nell Lowery and Ernie Lee Robinson.

With Aimee off on a visit, Bill feels like having a large evening. The next morning he can only remember going to a banquet but he finds that he has a headache, some coal, a pink cotton stocking, and a set of blond curls in his pocket. A strange companion, Jimmy, played by John Busby, is asleep on the sofa. All that might have cleared up, but in comes Aimee and her mother (Loyce Daniel). Billy tries to alibi himself out of it but gets into it deeper.

Other characters in the mix-up are, Daisy Montaine, played by Willie C. Clements; Ned Kennedy, Cecil Ellison; Lucy, Louise Giles; Miss Jones, Nell Traywick; Benson, Ervin Beasley; The cop, Willard Cost.

Don't miss this royalty play with an evening full of laughs.

VOLUME 43.—TEN PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, MAY 16, 1935 NUMBER 4

125 MILLIONS IN NEW TAXES ARE IMPOSED IN U. S.

South Dakota Hardest Hit Where Per Capita Cost Will Reach $8.50

Chicago, May 13.—Taxpayers of 30 states in which legislatures have met and adjourned since January 1 will pay approximately $125,000,000 in new taxes next year for one of the biggest treasury hunts in American peace time history.

Before the remaining 14 bodies of lawmakers now in session depart sine die—probably about Nov. 1—the sum of new state levies easily will pass $200,000,000.

New taxes imposed in the last four months average slightly more than $1.50 per capita annually in the 30 states whose legislatures have adjourned. The bill for each actual taxpayer will be considerably higher.

Figures gathered by 44 state capital bureaus of The United Press reveal that only West Virginia, of all the 44 states in which legislatures met this year, will pay less taxes next year than in the fiscal season just past. Repeal of the state's gross income tax and amendments to other revenue laws will save West Virginians about $1,000,000 a year.

New Yorkers will be called on to rustle the largest sum of new taxes next year—$51,150,000. That's $3.92 per capita.

South Dakota's 705,000 residents were hit hardest by their money-seeking legislators. An increase of approximately $3,000,000 a year in the state tax bill will cost each person in the state about $8.50.

Legislators generally tried to divide equitably between those of high and low incomes the burden of new taxes. Retail sales taxes were enacted or increased in 10 states, but lawmakers of nine states shifted some of the load to the larger brackets through amendment of income tax laws.

States adopting a sales tax, bringing the number of commonwealths imposing that form of levy to 29, include: Arkansas, Colorado, Idaho, Washington, South Dakota, Wyoming, Maryland and North Dakota. Ohio's legislature passed a sales tax at the session immediately preceding its recent meeting.

Several other assemblies still in session probably will increase present sales taxes or enact new ones. In Illinois, notably, Governor Henry Horner, is attempting to gain approval of an increase which would produce $36,000,000 in new money annually.

Relief which no longer can be financed by bond issues will account for most of the money to be gained in new taxes. School funds and old age pensions, enacted or increased in concession to the wide clamor by adherents of the Townsend plan, will get most of the balance.

SIX CASES IN MAYOR'S COURT DURING THE PAST WEEK

A total of six cases for law violations were docketed in the Mayor's Court the past week.

One for transporting liquor; one for possession of liquor; three for public drunkenness; one for violating the prohibition law.

These cases were to have been called up for trial and disposition Monday, May 13, but some of them came into court during the week and paid off.

All of the cases were disposed of by Mayor Jones by assessment of fines and costs.

Chero, New Drink, Gains Popularity

Horsley White, Local Agent, Well Pleased With First Sales

Mr. Horsley White, distributor of Nehi in the Clanton territory for several years, is highly gratified at the popular reaction accorded his new drink, Chero, recently put on the market here.

Chero is a successor to what was formerly known as Chero-Cola. Everybody concedes that it is a much better drink, and the sales are proving that those who have tried it were correct in their verdict.

Chero is manufactured in a modern new plant in Montgomery. Mr. White assures his customers that he will be able to meet their demands for Chero as well as the ever poplar Nehi drinks during this summer.

This week The Union-Banner begine an extensive series of advertisements by Mr. White, stressing the immense popularity of the new drink, Chero.

Next week we will be able to give our readers a picture of Mr. White and the new Chero plant, together with an interesting story about Chero and Nehi.

Meanwhile, try one of these excellent drinks and see how it helps out during the hot weather.

VISITED IN COOSA COUNTY

Vatchel Lindsey went over in Coosa County Sunday and visited his old home church at Holly Springs, near Talladega Springs. Vatchel went to school at Holly Springs when he was about 11 years old, in 1903. This was his first visit to the old home place since 1908.

The trip was made in a truck driven by Mr. Childress; there were forty-seven on the truck. They left Clanton at 7:30 Sunday morning, arriving at Holly Springs about 9:20. The return trip was made by Weogufka.

Vatchel reports that he had a most enjoyable time seeing many of his old friends of days gone by. The occasion was an old time singing and memorial day.

DRY COMMITTEE KILL REPEAL BILL

Adverses Beer and Local Option Measures 10 to 3 Tuesday

The death knell for any sort of prohibition law modification at this session of the legislature was sounded last night by the house temperance committee which voted 10 to 3 to adverse all prohibition modification bills pending before it. Bills included in the adverse report were the Connor state-wide beer bill, the Sanderson local option beer bill and the Sanderson, Mobile, Montgomery and Jefferson dispensary bill.

A feature of the vote in the committee was the fact that two Jefferson County legislators, Welch and Todd, voted to adverse all bills when Jefferson County, rolled up a majority of almost 9,000 for prohibition modification in the recent referendum.

Several speakers, appeared before the committee and while the committee listened courteously, it was evident from the start that those advocating bills to modify Alabama's prohibition laws were in for a bad evening. Only one outsde advocate of adversing, a thin-voiced young man, appeared and to the best of his voice's ability, urged on the committee to "do its duty". His name was not given to the committee.

Representative Connor of Jefferson pleaded for his beer bill, saying he was willing to amend it to include only those counties over 30,000 in population. Speaking for the Connor bill was Col. George W. Pratt of Birmingham, who frankly told the committee that he was in favor of local option and that prior to the recent referendum he was thinking of building a brewery at Birmingham.

Conner charged that it was the Republicans of Alabama who swung the balance of power in the state against modificationists in the recent referendum. Col. Pratt said the Conner bill would put at least $1,000,000 a year into the State treasury. Col. Pratt said he had petitions signed by 27,000 people in Jefferson County calling for local option in the matter of prohibition.

It is said that the young man entered the store about nine o'clock on Sunday morning, leaving a companion outside to watch for him while he committed the theft.

The store owner observed the boy on watch, and approached the store. The watchman fled, and Mr. Culp found Blackmon inside. The boy who was on watch was not recognized by Mr. Culp, and Blackmon said he was unknown to him, although he said the two of them had been together on a spree Saturday night.

Announcement of definite plans to begin construction was made this week by Mr. J. Watts Moore, one of the owners of the property.

Mr. Moore said it is not yet announced who will occupy the new building. Final plans for the building likewise will not be determined until it is known who will be the occupant.

Contract has not been let, but Mr. Moore stated that it will be done in a few days, as several concerns already are preparing estimates on the job.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Higgins of Deatsville spent the week end here in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hogan.

"Share-the-Profit Plan" at The Leader Expected To Develop Wide Popularity

Mr. Maurice Lande, owner and manager of The Leader, popular and progressive department store of Clanton, has hit upon an idea that we predict will become in a few days one of the most talked-about propositions ever instituted here. He calls it the "Share-the-Profit-Plan."

In his announcement of the inauguration of this plan Mr. Lande says, "It is open to all individuals, clubs, churches, and organizations in Chilton County. It is simple; no srtings; no chances; no catches.

"Beginning Saturday morning, May 18th, when The Leader opens for business, we will have ready for our customers, coupons to be given with purchases of merchandise made here. The coupons are in denominations to suit the amount of the purchase made.

"A blank space is on the coupon for the name of the individual, church, club or organization wishing to take part in the plan. Anyone receiving these coupons may deposit them to the credit of any church, club or organization, or build up their own number of votes for the two prizes.

"The first prize is $75 in cash, and the second is $25 in cash. The plan does not merely include awarding of the two prizes but also includes a complete reduction in prices throughout our entire store. There is no matter of chance attached to this plan. It is simply a plain, dignified, and legitimate manner in which we offer to share our profit with our customers during the course of the plan.

"Our Share-the-Profit-Plan begins Saturday morning, May 18, when this store opens. It ends Saturday, August 18, at six o'clock p.m."

We insist that our readers study the full details of this plan as outlined in The Leader's advertisement elsewhere in The Union-Banner this week. You will be interested. You and a group of your neighbors will be interested in pushing your church club, or some other organization forward toward the grand prize. It is going to be better for the ones that start with the opening sign next Saturday morning. Be ready for the jump.

THREE NEGROES INJURED IN A CAR WRECK ON SUNDAY NIGHT

Three negroes were injured about eight o'clock Sunday night in a car wreck at the curve about half a mile south of Cooper. They were Godfrey Johnson, his sister, and his sister's child. They were in a car with a party of eight negroes returning from Montgomery to their home in Birmingham. Johnson is an employee of the L. & N. Railroad at Boyles roundhouse.

As their car came upon the curve below Cooper it left the road, plunged through the railing and headed toward the creek. Johnson sustained a broken leg, his sister a broken arm, and the child a fractured shoulder.

Martin's ambulance answered the distress call, and brought the injured persons to the Central Alabama Hospital.

HAND-SHAPED RADISH

Br. Ben Duke brought a very peculiarly shaped radish to the Union-Banner office on Monday of this week. The radish very closely resembled a human hand. It had five fingers and looked very much like a hand. Mr. Duke lives on Clanton Route 4, in the Mt. Pleasant community.

This radish may be seen at Calloway Drug Company.

POPPY SALE DAY ON SAT., MAY 25

Legion Auxiliary Will Press Sales To Help the Veterans

"Honor the dead and serve the living," is the message which the memorial poppies will bring to the people of Chilton County on Poppy Day, May 25th, R. W. Lowe, commander of Chilton County Post of the American Legion, said in a statement today, urging all veterans to give fullest support to the Poppy Day observance.

"Men who served in France have an indelible picture of the poppies in their minds, closely associated with the memory of their comrades whom they left overseas," the commander said. "Soon after the American Legion was organized the poppy was adopted as its memorial flower and the custom adopted of wearing the flower on the Saturday before memorial day in tribute to the war dead.

"The distribution of the poppies on Poppy Day was placed by the Legion in the hands of those loyal, patriotic women who compose the American Legion Auxiliary. Through their volunteer efforts they recall for all America the inspiring services of the men who died in the poppy flecked fields of France and Belgium. They also raise funds for the Legion and Auxiliary welfare work among those who were not called upon to die, but to sacrifice strength and health in the nation's defense, the disabled veterans, and for the families of the dead and disabled.

"The message of the poppy is 'honor the dead and serve the living,' for each wearer of the memorial flower makes some contribution to aid the war's living victims. Every Legionnaire, of course, every veteran and every patriotic citizen should have a poppy in his buttonhole on Saturday, May 25th."

The clothing contest of members of the 4-H clubs of the county was held at the Clanton Methodist church Monday of this week. Thirty girls from the eleven clubs of the county, who had been selected by the various clubs, competed for the four places to be filled.

Winning first place was Arra B. Jones from Maplesville Club; second place went to Lenette Jones of the same club; third place, Eva Gay, of Stanton Club, and fourth place to Francis Duke of Mt. Pleasant Club.

These four girls will go to Auburn on May 28th, and compete in the state contest to be held there at that time.

A CORRECTION

In last week's Union-Banner an article was published relative to Grace Ezell winning a musical contest in Montgomery. In this article it said that the young artist was the pupil of Mrs. Roberts. This is an error. Grace is the pupil of Miss Della Latham and has never studied under Mrs. Roberts. The Union-Banner is sorry of the error and gladly makes the correction.

BUSINESS MEN OF BIRMINGHAM VISIT CLANTON

Twenty-Two Business Men of Birmingham Entertained In Clanton

Clanton scored a big hit with Birmingham last Thursday evening, when twenty-two members of Birmingham Chamber of Commerce came here for a visit and banquet with Clanton business men.

The arrangements for entertaining the visitors was made by committees of the Kiwanis Club of Clanton, headed by Dr. Gragg, chairman of the public affairs committee.

Twenty-two members of the Kiwanis Club and 21 other business men of Clanton joined in carrying out the program of entertainment.

The first group of visitors arrived here about five o'clock and were carried on a trip to Mitchell Dam, where they were delightfully entertained for about an hour by Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis.

The main body of the Birmingham fellows arrived here about six o'clock and spent an hour visiting among friends and various local business establishments.

At seven-thirty the entire assembly of Kiwanis Club members, Clanton business men and Birmingham visitors assembled at the Exchange Hotel for the banquet. Dr. Gragg presided as toastmaster. He introduced Mayor C. Fenn Jones, who expressed the welcome of the City of Clanton to the visitors. County Superintendent Luther Little voiced the appreciation of the people of Chilton County as a welcome to the visitors.

Judge L. H. Reynolds was called upon for a speech, and he started the fun with one of his characteristic humorous and entertaining addresses. He had everybody in a hearty good humor before he had finished, and his words were a signal that a jolly good time was about to be recorded for everybody.

At this time the toastmaster turned the program over to Mr. L. E. Foster, general manager of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, and head of the visiting group.

Mr. Foster expressed the delight of the visitors at being invited to come to Clanton. He called upon various ones of the Birmingham men, all of whom responded in a happy vein.

It was one of the most delightful affairs ever staged in Clanton. Everybody had a good time. Following is the list of Birmingham people who came here and took part in the event:

Perkins Prewitt, director of conventons and visitors division, Birmingham Chamber of Commerce; Orman Black of WSGN; E. D. Will Inaugurate New Bus Service

Greyhound Lines Put on New Buses Passng Through Clanton

Effective May 15, the Greyhound Lines will inaugurate a new service of ultra-modern buses and more schedules between Birmingham and Dothan. The new buses, the latest word in modern highway transportation, illustrate the scientific trend towards streamlining. Long, flowing lines, chromium trimmings and leather upholstery make for unusual beauty.

Designed to blend the advantages of safety, speed and comfort, the new buses feature such new departures as reclining seats with adjustable head rests, safety glass windows that slide open or shut by the mere pressure of a finger, spacious interior luggage lofts, high speed engines and Westinghouse extra heavy air brakes. The interiors have been rendered with softening colors and diffused lighting to give great relaxation to the passengers.

Five northbound and five southbound daily schedules, Greyhound officials announced, will go into service between Birmingham and Montgomery on May 15. Between Montgomery and Dothan three northbound and three southbound daily schedules wil simultaneously go into effect.

ARKANSAS BAPTIST CHURCH PUTS BAN ON DRINKS AND GAMES

Blytheville Ark., May 10. — Rigid enforcement of a resolution barring as First Baptist Church members anyone who drinks, gambles or has anything to do with liquor or games or chances is promised by the Rev. Alfred Carpenter.

"This has been written in our church covenant for a long time but no one seems to know it. So we had a meeting and reemphasized it and this time it is to be enforced," said the pastor of Blytheville's largest church concerning a congregational meeting's action.

Members of the church will not be permitted to have a part in gambling "from a penny on the corner of the bridge table to $1,000 in horse racing," Mr. Carpenter declared.

The resolution, unanimously adopted by some 100 members after being presented by the committee of deacons, bars persons from membership who drink beer or liquor in their homes as well as liquor dealers or those engaged in the sale of intoxicants.

Grocery salesmen engaged in the sale of beer will be given a short time to resign their positions or make other arrangements before they are removed from church rolls, said Mr. Carpenter.

If it is necessary, he was instructed to appoint a committee to confer with members violating the order and declare them out of fellowship with the church when guilt is admitted or the member refuses to cease barred practices.

"People doing these things already are off the church's roll even though they may come to church," said the pastor. "We don't want them serving as leaders in our congregation or holding any offices."

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lowe of Birmingham spent the week end here with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Pitts have returned from a recent trip to Jacksonville, Alabama.

4-H CANNING BEGUN 25 YEARS AGO NOW RUNS INTO LARGE FIGURES

First 4-H canning clubs started 25 years ago in Aiken County, S. C., by Marie Cromer, country school teacher.

About 200,000 girls and some boys enrolled in canning clubs this year.

First state boy champion, Kenneth Benson, Winchester, Mass., named in 1933.

Forty-four states sent champion canners to last year's national Chicago contest.

Eight sectional winners in 1932 canned an average of 983 quarts in their club careers averaging six years.

Emma J. Scudder, 18-year old, part Indian Oklahoma girl, won 1934 national honors, canning 5,074 quarts in 8 years.

In 1935 estimated total canning of 4-H'ers, 20,000,000 quarts valued at $8,000,000.

Approximately 15,000 4-H girls will assist and supervise neighbor's and community relief canning this year.

"Budget canning," popular 4-H plan, is to put up amounts of meats, vegetables and fruits to provide balanced meals.

Total 1935 canning if placed in quart jars end to end would reach across the United States.

Four trainloads of sugar valued at $1,000,000 required for 4-H home and contest canning this year.

Value of equipment and land used in producing and canning 4-H fruit, vegetables and meats over $50,000,000.

National 1935 winners to be designated next December at the 14th national club congress from state champion trip winners for $300, $200 and $100 college scholarships given by the Kerr Glass Company to aid the 4-H program.

BOYS AND GIRLS PLAN CAMPS

Auburn, Ala.—Fifteen thousand 4-H club boys and girls will be taught camping, swimming, organized play, honesty, fair play, and good sportsmanship during 100 4-H club camps over the state this season.

Games which T. A. Sims, director of boys' 4-H club work in the state, suggests be used on the camps include base ball, horse shoe pitching, sack races, foot races, relay races, three-legged races, potato races, pitching rocks in box, dodge ball, fishing contests, checkers, dominoes, swimming contests, passing ball, rabbit spelling, tug of war, overtop, snatch, tag, etc.

SORGHUM GOOD FOR FILLING TRENCH SILOS

Auburn, Ala.—Good silage is one of the best feeds that can be given animals in winter, says F. W. Burns, extension livestock specialist, who is urging all farmers to include silage in their farming budget.

The best crop for Alabama farmers to grow for filling silos is sorghum. The Texas seeded ribbon (goose neck), a tall-growing late variety, is the most desirable for silage purposes. Since there is some confusion as to the correct name of this variety, be sure of your seed sources," Burns advises.

The advent of the trench silo should lead to a greater usage of silage by small herd owners, Burns states, for this type of silo is easily adapted to all herd sizes.

SCREW WORMS IN SOUTH ALA.

Auburn, Ala.—Indications are that the screw worm will strike the Alabama livestock industry another severe blow this year unless farmers and livestock owners take the necessary steps to control the pest. The worm has already been found in a number of south Alabama counties.

In an effort to help the farmers of the state prevent the spread of this insect, Dr. R. S. Sugg, extension livestock specialist, and Prof. J. M. Robinson, entomologist of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, give the following "methods of preventing the spread."

1. Keep all animals with injuries or "sores" in a small lot or pasture where they can be examined carefully every day.

2. Avoid castrating, dehorning, marking, branding, etc., during the screw worm season, which is usually from May to killing frost.

3. In the Gulf Coast region especially, examine all animals for ear ticks and if found swab out the ear with pine tar oil, being careful not to allow the oil to run down into the ear.

4. Ride the pastures daily and remove all infested animals. Such cases should be treated promptly and kept in small pastures or lots where they can be handled. If infested cases are allowed to stay with the herd maggots will drop out of the wounds and greatly increase the number of flies.

5. All animals that die of any cause should be burned as soon as possible after death or buried at least 3 feet under ground. This means that a hole at least 6 feet deep should be dug for a cow. Burning carcasses is more effective than burying in controlling the pest.

The "Volunteer" wins the battle against the weeds!

A McCormick-Deering Cultivator for Cotton, Corn, and all Row Crops

AND it is a battle—with much at stake. If you let weeds get the best of you, your crop suffers and you lose. But if you cultivate with a Volunteer and kill all the weeds, your crop gets extra nourishment and gives a greater yield.

The Volunteer is one of the most popular walking cultivators in this section. Offered in two models: Style A, balanced with a weight on the end of the pole; and Style K, balanced by having the axles offset eight inches to the front.

Volunteer cultivators have fourteen distinctive features which give them long life and make them easy to operate. We will be glad to point out each feature of these machines to you.

PARK SUPERINTENDENTS MEET

The meeting was opened and presided over by Colonel Page S. Bunker, state forester and director of state parks, assisted by Mr. R. C. Sizemore, assistant landscape architect, assigned to the procurement office of the state park emergency conservation work.

Rushton, both made talks on the procedures necessary to increase the efficiency of the operation of the state park camps.

Child Welfare Work

Montgomery Ala., May 9.—Preservation of the family intact, even when the direct misfortune strikes, is a principle that is constantly impressed by the state child welfare department on staff members and workers in the counties. No family is to be broken up and its members scattered if there is any possible way to prevent it, though separation may be, and often is, the easiest way to deal with the problem. Not until every other alternative has been exhausted will the breaking up of a family be considered. That is an iron-clad rule, as well as a principle of the department.

Not long ago, in one of the counties, a mother separated from her husband who was said to be thoroughly no-account, was doing relief work to try to support her little ones. The task was an almost hopeless one. At last, worn out and utterly exasperated, she had a warrant issued for her husband's arrest. It was at this juncture that the child welfare department organization stepped in to offer counsel and all possible aid. The result was that the husband did not go to prison. Instead he agreed to return to his family and work for them. A job was obtained for him. The family was removed from relief. Now he is working regularly, and reporting each week to the county child welfare superintendent regarding his work and the amount he spends for his wife and children. This story illustrates hundreds of similar situations where through understanding, sympathy, guidance and aid of a child welfare worker family ties have been strengthened and children saved to their own homes and communities.

For the benefit of those Alabamians who may be under the impression that the child welfare department work is limited to providing food, clothing and a protecting roof for children who are in need of them, an instance recently reported from a blackbelt county will serve to illustrate that this work covers every conceivable definition and application of the word "child welfare."

The report referred to was filed by the county welfare superintendent, and told of the successful treatment of a boy suffering from tuberculosis of the ankle bone, whose recovery after several months spent in a hospital where the child welfare worker had placed him, is due solely to the department and its organization in cooperation with the Alabama Crippled Children's society. Even after he has been restored to health, efforts to assume the boy's future welfare will not lag. He is now to be given vocational training so that he may become a self supporting and useful citizen.

In the same report, the same superintendent tells also of successful operations on two club-footed children who, but for the aid given them, would have gone through life crippled. She tells also of several children restored to health through tonsil and adenoid operations, and of no less than 28 additional children in that same county whose impaired eyesight was corrected by having them fitted with glasses by a competent specialist. All of these things, it will be seen come within the meaning of "child welfare" and there are many others.

In the course of their activities day after day and week after week, state child welfare department organization workers encounter misfortune and heartbreak in many phases — but occasionally there comes under the observation of these workers instances of triumph of ambition, courage and unfaltering determination over seemingly hopeless handicaps, that are an inspiration.

Recently a county welfare superintendent called to the attention of department officials, the eagerness of a group of children in her county to obtain an education. Their home is a crudely constructed house on the banks of a small river. Here, the superintendent said, a father, mother and seven children arise before the break of dawn in order that three of them might walk for more than a mile through a gloomy swamp so they can catch a bus to take them to high school. The other four, she said, walk the same distance to their local school.

"Often times, she added, "there has been little food for breakfast and none for lunches. Yet that does not prevent them from going to school. At one time they were so undernourished they were not physically able to take part in school activities, yet their alert little minds kept them near the head of their class. Never have these children been an attendance problem. They even went to school through the snow." Long before this was written, however, the needs of these children had been provided for.

IN MEMORY OF ASA COLLINS

Asa's many Chilton County friends are deeply sorrowful, we know, because of his passing away. Asa will be held pleasantly in our memory particular because of the wonderful bass voice which God saw fit to entrust in his care. He used that talent willingly and freely as long as his health permitted.

God has graciously promised to reward those of his servants who use aright those talents with which He blesses them. Asa used his.

He surrendered his life to Jesus some time ago and at the time of his death was a member of the Liberty Hill Baptist church (Chilton County.) He was prepared to meet his Saviour and hear those wonderful words, "Thou hast been faithful over a few things; I will therefore make thee ruler over many."

Most earthly pleasures must remain on this side of Jordan but God has promised that we shall have sweet music in heaven and somehow I feel that Asa will be particularly fitted to sing in that heavenly choir where no "discord" is known.

Asa also had a host of friends in Birmingham who will sorely miss him. He held a very responsible position with one of the larger companies of our city and was held in highest esteem by both his employer and his comrades with whom he worked.

Asa will be greatly missed by all of us who know him best. He served well, and life for all of us was made sweeter because we were privileged to know him.

The writer joins his other friends of Chilton County in extending sympathy to a devoted wife and a lovng mother, father and sisters who survive him.—His friend and teacher, J. Leonard Harris.

Game and Fish News

Mobile, Ala., May 13.— Coincident with the announcement of a plan for an oyster commission to direct the rebuilding of the Mobile and Baldwin County oyster industry, Dr. Paul Galtsoff, seafoods expert of the U. S. Bureau of Fisheries, demonstrated what he thought of the Alabama bivalves by consuming more than three dozen.

Dr. Galtsoff came to Alabama for a conference with Commissioner I. T. Quinn of the Alabama Game and Fisheries Department, on this state's seafood industry and an inspection of the oyster reefs in Mobile and Baldwin County waters.

Notwithstanding the fact that the spelling of the month of May is entirely devoid of "r's" Mr. Galtsoff insisted on sampling the Alabama crustaceans. One oyster called for another and when he finished the boat trip he had consumed in excess of three dozen oysters, many of which were the size of a saucer.

Mobilians and Balwin Countians have loudly acclaimed the feat of the eminent Washington authority and now that they have Uncle Sam's official okeh, they are looking to the legislature to create the new oyster commission and to the federal government for a $500,000 loan which the commission would be empowered to use in acquiring public oyster beds, in planting oysters and shells and in patroling and protecting the reefs.

WHAT ABOUT SILVER?

Twice within the last fortnight the President has raised the price the Treasury is paying for newly mined domestic silver.

No official explanation of this action has been forthcoming, while all that we can gather from the financial reports is that it will increase the profits of the silver mining industry, encourage speculation and further embarass Mexico and other countries whose currency is on a silver standard.

Who besides the silver mine owners and speculators are benefitting from all this manipulation? Has the President any other purpose or objective in mind? It may be that he has. If so, why does he not explain what his real objective is? Why does he not tell us just where he is going with his silver policy?—Baltimore Sun.

NATIONAL AFFAIRS

(By Frank P. Litschert)

It is far too easy for politicians who are speculating on what may happen in the next two years to underestimate the influence of the $4,800,000,000 relief bill recently enacted by congress. Never before perhaps, in time of peace, has the government been confronted with the task of spending so much money. The money is to be employed in an effort to restore prosperity to the United States by creating jobs for jobless Americans through work financed by the federal government.

Those who favor the bill hope to find work for three and a half million people, who are now idle and on the relief rolls of the nation. All sorts of projects are to be covered in this gigantic undertaking, we are told, from fish culture to railway crossings. Every state and practically every community of any size will be affected. The sponsors of the bill hope that the "pump will be primed" and that it will not be necessary to demobilize these 3,500,000 workers after the money is spent, because they will have found work in private industry.

At the end of the World War we demobilized four million men. But the most of these were in military units and the principle task was to pay them off and send them home. If there has to be another demobilization, because the money runs out, will it be so easy? Commenting on this, Oliver McKee says in the Boston Transcript:

"We have only to take one example, the CCC established to provide work for 300,000 young men. The personnel of the CCC now has been doubled, as has its costs to the Treasury. Today the CCC is regarded almost as much as a permanent part of the government as the regular army."

But in the meantime the money is to be spent and industry is to be given a push; whether or not you may agree with the way it is done. The money will last until well into 1937 and it can be poured into the various states at the average of $100,000,000 a state. That is a lot of money, and it is hoped that it will do a lot of good for America. But its political significance is necessarily of great magnitude. That is why, when the politicians talk about what Huey Long will do, what Father Coughlin may do, and what Upton Sinclair's position may be, they ought not to forget this golden stream which is pouring out to every community from Washington, creating jobs of work "by the government" creating improvements "paid for by the government" and so on. Of course the government never pays for anything itself, the people do the paying, but it will be long after 1936 before the people find it out. Mr. McKee sums it up by saying:

"This program of spending gives to the president a powerful lever in holding the popular suppart for his administration, for the four billions will be expended in all parts of the country. The grants and loans to cities and other local governing bodies will bind local politicians to the Washington administration more closely than ever before, for it is in Washington that the final decision is made on quotas and allotments."

Let us not figure these facts when trying to figure out next year's political situation. A lot of things can happen, but the $4,800,000,000 governmental fund has already happened.

CHAMBER BECOMES AIRCOOLED

Those who remember the open and enthusiastic support given to the NRA by the United States Chamber of Commerce earlier in the present administration are, of course, interested to know that there has come a change in the situation and that the National Chamber is now so frosty toward many portions of the New Deal that it actually seems aircooled.

A meeting was held in Washington a week ago and the comment on the development and application of the NRA was decidedly hostile. Many leaders made speeches which indicated that they no longer favor continuation of the NRA and the AAA, and the Blue Eagle was not enthusiastically hailed as a long-lost brother of the American Eagle.

Judge C. B. Ames, chairman of the Texas Oil Company said that the NRA had been repudiated by the public. Silas Strawn said sarcastically that he was getting weary of "the administration's dawdling and boon-dogging." He questioned whether or not Thomas Jefferson would have approved of the Blue Eagle. The noted American lawyer, Forney Johnson, made some very sarcastic "cracks" at the NRA. It was very evident that the majority of the delegates were with the speakers in sentiment. Harper Sibley, the new president of the Chamber, is said to be hostile to the NRA.

The AAA and the administration's agricultural policy also came in for some bitter attacks at the meeting. George Davis, of Kansas City, prominent grain dealer, criticized the federal grain policy, declaring that the venture had created a deplorable situation for the producer. He pointed out the present sizeable imports of grain and other food products as one result of the scarcity policy of the AAA and of the drouth.

Joseph Evans, of Houston, representing cotton interests, demanded that stop be put to government price pegging and the annual impounding of cotton. He intimated that the policy had stimulated the growing of cotton abroad and saddled our government with 6,000,000 bales at a cost of $400,000,000, giving Uncle Sam the "doubtful distinction of being the greatest speculator on earth." Frank A. Hunter of the Hunter Packing Company admitted that the AAA program had increased the purchasing power of farmers but said it had cut supplies of hogs by 40 per cent and cattle and sheep by lesser amounts. He stated that such reduction would seriously disturb any business and said that the inevitable high prices have caused consumer complaint and reduced the consumption of meats by from 30 to 35 per cent. He added:

"Beef and veal, canned beef, canned hams, live cattle, cotton oil, butter, tallow, barley and corn are now being imported into this country on an increasing scale. They are jumping the tariff wall designed to keep them out."

Certainly something has happened to the enthusiasm of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce for the Azure Eagle. If you don't believe it, read the accounts of the sessions of one and two years ago and compare them with the minutes of 1935.

A COMPARISON

With President Roosevelt passing well into his third year, during all of which time he has battled with the depression, it is well to compare the national record to date with that of the previous administration, especially in view of the fact that this former administration battled with a real depression just about as long as the present administration has up to this time. The real depression, it is to be remembered, did not descend upon us until Mr. Hoover had been President nearly two years. True it is that there was a stock market crash in November, 1929, but the real effects of the slump were not felt by most people, until many months afterward.

It is true, of course, that average wages are now higher than they were in 1932, but the cost of living has advanced, and for that reason many workers are doubtful whether they are any better off than they were before.

The government, during the present administration, has been making strenuous efforts to prime the pump of business thorugh government spending. Although there may be doubt about the efficacy of the measures introduced, there can be no doubt about governmental generosity. The figures speak for themselves. According to the statistics of the National Industrial Conference Board, annual expenditures have risen from $3,652,000,000 in 1931 to $6,745,000,000 in 1934, the last year of record, while federal receipts have fallen from $3,190,000,000 to $3,116,000,000. It is estimated that in 1935 the expenditures will be more than $8,000,000,000 while the receipts will be $3,617,000,000. The most significant figures are in the rise of the public deficit. In 1931 it appeared and was small and comparatively insignificant although a great deal of noise was made about it at the time. In 1932 it had risen to a total of $3,187,000,000 in all while in 1933, the first year of the present administration, the total had crept up to $5,599,000,000. Last year it had increased to $9,429,000,000 while it is estimated that in 1935 the total deficit will be $13,725,000,000, and in 1936, $17,617,000,000. This of course does not measure the total national debt which is reaching even more staggering proportions.

There are those who say that the lavish expenditures made and those to come were justified by the results. It is not to be forgotten however, that the Federal Emergency Relief administration statistics, recently released, show, according to the Washington Daily News, a pro-adminisraion newspaper, that one-sixth of the country's population now depends on the government for food and clothing

Relief rolls listed 20,523,042 persons in March, the last month for which figures are available. Cost of caring for them was more than $150,000,000.

March relief rolls deccreased 147,304 persons below January, the winter's high point.

The total number of unemployed workers in March, 1935, was 9,760,000, according to the regular monthly estimate of the National Industrial Conference Board. This is a decrease of 125,000, or 1.3 per cent, from the preceding month, but an increase of 366,000 or 3.9 per cent over March, 1934.

The figures above quoted of those needing jobs and relief are considerably higher than those of two years ago in spite of the greatly increased expenditures.

Farm prices are higher than they were. But the supply is scarcer because of the drouth. The farmer has less to sell and is paying a great deal more for what he has to buy. Agricultural imports are increasing and foreign markets seem to be shrivelling up.

They have built a new road down South called the Cordell Hull highway. This is fine but nobody had better try to collect any tariff on it.

The radio would be of some value after all if it would teach some folks to keep their mouths closed and just listen.

Generally we are skeptical of insanity as a defensive crime, but not so in the case of the Bogue youth who stole a saxaphone.—Lincoln Co. News.

MAN IN THE MOON

JACK'S RECORD

The White Sox continued their winning ways during the past week, and when last Sunday had passed, were perched on the top rung of the American League ladder by a game and a half. Jack climaxed his week of fine play by collecting four hits out of four times up last Saturday, including a home run. On Sunday The Montgomery Advertiser carried an AP picture of Hayes, Simmons, Bonura, Washington and Appling, with the caption: "Hitless wonders become Murderers row." There really IS dynamite in the White Sox line-up. All the above named are hitting well over the .300 mark, and when a man keeps in the .300 class in the majors, he has to be plenty good. Here is the record for the past week and the season.

Current Week—5 games

Batting—At bat, 22; hits, 10 (7 singles 2 doubles, and a home run); percentage, .450.

Fielding—Put-outs, 11; assists, 14; errors, 1; total chances, 26; percentage, .962; double plays, 2.

Season—20 Games:

Batting—At bat, 86; hits, 33; (27 singles, 4 doubles, 2 home runs); percentage, .384.

Fielding—Put outs, 49; assists, 65; errors, 6; total chances, 120; percentage, .950; double plays, 12.

PAYING OUR DEBTS

Two weeks ago this column carried an article about the national debt, stating that no matter how large the debt might grow to be, some time, in some way, somebody would have to pay the debt.

Last week Mr. A. A. Jackson, sometimes known as the "sage of Lomax," wrote an answer to that, stating that he was inclined to believe that the debt would not have to be repaid, giving as his reason that it would not be possible to pay it, inasmuch as the nation has only six billion dollars and the debt is over thirty billions. He says the "burden" is on "The Man in the Moon" to say how it is possible to pay a thirty billion dollar debt with six billion dollars.

There is no "burden" to the little job of explaining this. I wonder if Mr. Jackson ever heard of the installment plan? I wonder if he ever heard of a person owing a thousand dollars, and eventually paying the debt, although he never had over a hundred dollars at one time?

We will pay the debt—that is, the American taxpayers will. The present generation may not pay much of it. In fact, no one generation of people may pay much of it, but after age after age of people in this country have come and gone, all paying a little of it, it will eventually be paid. And the quicker it is paid off the easier it will be to pay. That money is drawing interest, and the longer the debt stands, the more interest will be paid. Any person who ever borrowed any money from a bank knows that this is true.

And another thing—Mr. Jackson says we will remember the broken promises made to the little man. Just who is he hitting at—Mr. Roosevelt? That's strange! Not so long ago he was whooping himself hoarse about this great "friend of the forgotten man," but things are different now, it seems. Has Mr. Jackson changed again? It seems that Mr. Jackson can change his spots much faster than a chameleon, and just as easily. And I wonder just how much Huey Long had to do with his latest change of faith. Maybe he doesn't allow his left hand to know what his right hand is doing. Or does he?

THOSE "CITY" EDITORS

I hate to gripe about something eternally, but there is just one more thing that I would like to offer a kick against. That is the snobbish way in which "city" editors and columnists here in Alabama refer to "country" editors. Among the worst of these I might name the editor of the Montgomery Advertiser, as well as Atticus Mullin; then there is Percy Taylor of the Birmingham News, and John Temple Graves of The Birmingham Age-Herald. The Advertiser editor is continually having something to say about the "fine country editors" of the state. He may mean it all for a compliment, but he has a way of putting it in a patronizing and condescending way, and it doesn't set so well. Then there is Atticus Mullin—"old Atticus" to the most of the gentlemen of the fourth estate. I don't know if Mr. Mullin is aware of the fact, but he has credit for getting the wrong slant on more questions than any other one man. According to editors of the state, he can get on the wrong side of more arguments, collect more misinformation and advance more distorted ideas than any other of the profession in the state.

Going further, there is Percy Taylor. Percy conducts a pretty decent column, I think, if he could just manage to think of the "folks back home" as equals, and then put his thoughts in black and white. To read some of his articles, one would think he had never been below the 40th floor of a New York skyscraper, he is so "citified."

Then there is John Temple Graves. I suppose he aspires to be a poet, and I really think he should. The way that boy gets that Broadway and 47th Street sophistication messed up when he attempts to release it through the medium of his "deep South" vocabulary is something to amuse one, and something to ponder over.

Why can't the boys remember that they all came into the world alike, went barefooted, wore patched "britches", and are doing their word-slinging for a living just like the "country editors," and, maybe, without half the effect of the latter. Is it a cause for aloofness to have one's eats brought in paper bags? Why be so snobbish? All men are alike, so far as material from which they are made is concerned.

"SEND A DIME"

The "send a dime" racket has caused quite a furore over the country. The procedure is as follows, in case you haven't received one of the chain letters. I have received several.

A person receives a letter, which bears the names and addresses of six people. He is asked to write five like letters, leaving off the top name of the list he received, and adding his own name and address at the bottom of the list. He is then instructed to send a dime to the address he left off the top of his list, and that in turn, as his name leaves the top of the list he will receive 15,625 like contributions of 10 cents each.

The amounts to be sent vary—some even go as high as a dollar. And, reports are that some people have received tidy sums in return. Postal authorities point out that, for the most part, people are "skinned" when they fool with it.

The postal authorities state, too, that they are not so much concerned with the bona fide chain letters, but that they have evidence that certain parties have been going to cities, taking a telephone directory, and sending the letters to thousands of addresses, with their own names at the top. This constitutes a federal offense—using the U. S. mails to defraud—and is punishable by a neat little federal penitentiary sentence.

The racket started in Denver, Colorado, only a few weeks ago, but has long since spread to every nook and corner of the country, and even into Canada.

Here's a good joke about it, too. Some senator asked Postmaster Jim Farley if he started it to help his department out of the red, and "Sunny Jim" laughingly denied it.

Postoffices in hundreds of American cities and towns have been forced to add several workers to their forces to care for the deluge of chain letters. Maybe the craze did some good, then, after all. It gave some people a job, any way.

A TEAM OF STARS

From time to time I am reminded of a team of some kind, when I note the actions of the different members of the Democratic personnel at Washington, and in important positions over the nation. Did you ever watch a squad of baseball hopefuls, as they were called out for their first afternoon of the training season? I have, and I saw something like this.

The coach was there, and a big bunch of players, all anxious to shine in his particular spot, and please the coach, so as to get an inside chance for his position. Every last man of them had his own pet ideas and carried them out. The result was a jumble—a hodgepodge of effort, powerful, yet without results, as each seemed to work against the other. As time went on, the coach took the whole outfit in hand, explained his ideas to them, insisted that they play the game according to them.

When this began to show results—when all units began to function together toward a common goal, with no two players working out his own ideas, then the coach began his polishing process, to make of the several units a smooth-working unit that was bigger than any one of the players. Then he got results—he gained victories. If at any time any member took it into his head to aspire to stardom, it generally threw the rest of the team out of step, and losses were the result, rather than gains.

With a man on third, and only one out, the coach would give the bunt signal. If the man at bat had a notion he could "pickle that apple" and ride a homer over the fence, most of the time the runner would come into the plate expecting the batter to bunt only to find that the batter had swung, missed, and that the opposing team's catcher was giving him a cordial reception, waiting at home plate with the ball in his hand, and tagging him out. Team work is everything, and team work is the result of practice. Now, let's glance over the political set-up.

President Roosevelt is the coach. When he called out his bunch to make a team out of, as usual they wanted to "shine". They did not take any coaching, but each member cut loose to put his own ideas to work in his department. When the coach tried to put on the pressure to get them to play together, they nodded to authority, but kept right on playing their positions as they saw best. The result is a flat failure, just as any team without team-work is a failure.

Madame Secretary Perkins tells them if she must play her position like they want her to, then there is nothing that can be done about it—the position is hers, and if the others don't like her way of playing they can go dig clams. Another brain truster tells a secretary of some department his system of play is all damp, and gets a nose-thumbing for thanks.. Some have even quit the game, because they couldn't do as they liked. The coach has removed a few for disobeying orders or like offenses. At different times he has begged, pleaded, entreated, bullied, fired, rehired and otherwise tried to perfect some semblance of team-work, with no result. Some of the outfielders have even rebelled.

Governor Talmadge has informed the coach that as a coach he is a grand water-boy, and that if he doesn't like the way he is handling his position he can, at least, keep his mouth shut about it. Huey Long, when informed that Secretary Ickes didn't like the way he was juggling the ball out in his pasture, informed the honorable secretary that he had his permission to "go slam-bang to hell, by gosh," and that he was leaving at once for Washington with the thought uppermost in mind to "pin Mr. Ickes' ears back."

That's the kind of team we have. That's the reason they are not getting anywhere. No doubt the coach, Mr. Roosevelt, might work wonders with some team-work, but he has tried all kind of combinations, but none of them has clicked. That is the reason that time after time the administration has gone to bat with the bases loaded and struck out on every occasion.—Man in the Moon.

BY-PRODUCT, COTTON POLICY

Besides ruining our textile industry and destroying our foreign market for raw cotton, there is another by-product of our federal cotton policy that is not so obvious in this section of the country. This is the pitiable plight of the tenant and the share-cropper in the cotton states of the South.

Prior to the enactment of the AAA, these two classes filled an important part in cotton production. The tenant was the man who rented land, supplied his own tools, and cultivated it for himself. The share-cropper worked land for the owner on shares, the latter financing him until the crop was grown and marketed, when the relation between them ceased unless it was renewed for another year. The majority of tenants were whites, while the majority of share-croppers were negroes.

Then came the AAA with its program of crop curtailment. Naturally, the tenant and share-cropper suffered. The larger cotton growers, who owned the land, withdrew their rental or share lands from production, thereby depriving both these classes of their means of sustenance. To their numbers also was added a third class, the farm laborer, whose opportunity for work was lessened.

It is estimated that by this means 300,000 families have been driven off the land in the cotton states of the South and added to the relief rolls. As most of these people have never done anything else but grow cotton, they are unfitted to undertake any other type of occupation. Thus under the AAA the general taxpayer has come in for a double burden. He must pay a subsidy to the cotton grower for curtailing production, and he must provide relief for 300,000 families that as a result of the program have been driven off the land.—Manchester Union.

We know an ambitious western farmer who always wanted to live in the East. He ought to be satisfied now. His farm has moved there.

When the Indians see the dust storms out west they must feel that it wouldn't have happened had they been left in charge of the country.

One statistican has figured it out that 85 per cent of the liquor produced in the world is bought by women. Yes, but who pays for that whiskey?

STUPIDITY OF CITIZENS

Why should a little thing like the importation of Japanese textiles and other manufactured products be expected to bother the adminjstration?

Secretary Hull has been saying that we must have special trade treaties so that foreign countries can sell goods to us, thereby to enable them to buy from us; and Secretary Wallace has been frequently saying that the only way to increase the exports of our farm products is to reduce the tariff on other products so that they can be imported to establish credits for the purchase of our farm products. Others connected with or having jobs in the New Deal have been making similar statements.

Hence, why should we expect the administration to be bothered because Japan or any foreign country is selling textiles and other manufactured products in our markets? It may tend to close up all our textile mills and throw thousands out of employment, but the New Deal philosophy is designed to have imports—a lot of them—so that we can have exports, especially of farm products.

In fact, why expect the administration to be bothered because in recent months we have imported a lot of butter, meats and even wheat? That may not have been exactly what the administration expected, but, if we don't import butter, meat, wheat and other farm products, how are we to expect that the other nations will buy our butter, meat, wheat and other products?

The administration must wonder at times why the nation is so slow in catching on to the fundamental philosophy of the New Deal.

What if textile workers, for instance, are thrown out of employment and go on the relief rolls, and what if workers in the cotton fields are without work and so on the relief rolls? Hasn't the administration got $4,800,000,000 to spend for work relief just as soon as it can borrow the money and pay it out?

Moreover, hasn't Dr. Tugwell made it clear in his recent exposition of "the third economy" that unemployment is our great national resource for the present because it enables the government to spend the money to buy and devlop power plants, to plant tree belts, to cure soil erosion, and such things?

What a dull nation this is in failing to grasp with ease, certainty and enthusiasm the underlying philosophy of the administration.—Springfield Union.

WE MAKE NO WARS

In the McSwain anti-war profits bill there is this interesting provision:

"No American citizen may be drafted for military duty on foreign soil except for defensive warfare."

When it is recalled that every nation which took part in the World War was fighting "on the defense"—even the United States although our soldiers were in France—

It will be seen that this provision of the House bill is sufficiently elastic to cover every possible emergency.

Defensive warfare? Is there, officially, any other kind?—New York Post.

According to what General Hugh Johnson told the senate committee, to destroy the NRA would be like burning down your house to get rats out of the attic. But we never heard of the NRA having rats in its attic, although some of its critics have been mean enough to say that it had bats in its belfry.

General Johnson says that it is all right to cleanse the NRA but not to destroy it. In other words, we oughtn't to use anything stronger on the Blue Eagle than insect powder.

ALL-STARS 12—CLANTON 5

The All-Star club of Montgomery came to town last Thursday and defeated the locals 12 to 5.

Although Robinson and Culver gave up 15 hits, Clanton's Five errors aided in the scoring to a great degree.

Clanton garnered only 6 hits off the delivery of Phillips, one of which was a double. The All-Stars listed 4 triples, and three doubles among their collection.

Robinson struck out 9, Culver 1, and Phillips 7. Robinson gave up 1 base on balls, as did Culver, while Phillips issued 6 free passes.

The McDade team, of Montgomery, came to Clanton last Saturday and engaged in a free hitting contest with the locals, Clanton finally getting out on the long end of a 14 to 11 count.

Culver went the route for Clanton, although he was shelled for 19 hits, including a home run, a triple, and a brace of doubles. Clanton knocked Jolley out in the third inning, and continued their assault on Bailey, gathering 18 hits in all. The only extra base blow was Simms' whistling double to center.

Graydon led for McDade at the bat with 4 out of 6. Baker led for Clanton with 4 out of 5, closely followed by Blood and Simms with 3 for 5 each.

CLANTON TO PLAY COCA-COLA TEAM NEXT SATURDAY

The Clanton team will play the Coca-Cola club, of Montgomery, here next Saturday, at 3:00 o'clock. This is the club which defeated our team in the opening game of the season.

Manager Marcus has more material from which to build a team now, and the local club is showing much improvement, already. They are out for revenge on the Coca-Cola team this week end, and a good game is expected.

The probable line-up will be: Simpson, rf; Smith, lf; Simms, 3b; Baker, ss; Littlejohn, 1b; Blood, cf; Culver, 2b; Williamson, c; and either "Lefty" Robinson or Carl Golson on the mound. It is more than likely that Robinson will start, as he was the victim of much bad play afield in the other game with Coca-Cola, and he will want a chance to fire at this club again.

The team is getting better every game. They are hitting, too, and should be in good shape before long. The club that took the field last Saturday is the best combination that Manager Marcus has tried so far, and more than likely Saturday's encounter will see all these men start. Come out and see this one.

PLAY AT MARBURY

Friday evening, May 17, at 8:00 o'clock the Dramatic Club of Marbury and Mt. Creek High School will present "She Stoops to Conquer," famous comedy by Oliver Goldsmith. The play, also called "The Mistakes of a Night" is based on an actual experience in Goldsmith's life. The setting is in the 18th century, in England. Don't miss the opportunity of seeing this genuinely good standard play.

Admission is 10c and 15c.

BLACK WIDOW SPIDER BITES ONLY WHEN MAD AND HUNGRY

The black widow spider is more deadly to its own kind than to mankind. The female of the species, the worst biter of the family, usually eats her mate and often her young. Some people have gone so far as to call her the family arbiter. She attacks human beings only if they irritate her when she is hungry. A well-fed black widow spider is anyting but aggressive, according to Dr. F. C. Bishop, of the United States Department of Agriculture.

This spider bites humans infrequently, but its bite is more poisonous than that of any other North American spider. As the insect has recently extended its range westward and northward, from the south, where it is better known, and as it is hard to tell a hungry spider from one that has just had a good meal, Dr. Bishop offers a few suggestions for destroying the black widow spider. The best thing, he says, is to spray with creosote oil the spots she frequents—garages, wood sheds, privies and other outbuildings, as well as wood, brick, and stone piles, and manholes and culverts. She seldom enters houses. Gloves are a great protection in working around places where this poisonous pest may lurk. Crushing spiders and their eggs is also effective.

The black widow spider, simetimes called red dot, is easily recognized by her shiny black back and the red spots on her under side—one or more above the spinnerets at the tip of the abdomen and an hour-glass shaped one farther up. She weaves a loose an irregular web with coarse strands, in which she lays her eggs—300 to 400 at a time in a dense, whitish ball, the size of a large pea.

The spider's stout jaws, working sidewise may nip any moving object, Dr. Bishop says. Venom, injected from glands near the base of the jaws through a needle like tooth, causes a stinging sensation, followed by pain which progress from the spot bitten until it reaches the chest or abdominal region. It has a retarding effect on the heart. First aid is the same as for a snake bite—make the wound bleed freely by enlarging it and then apply suction. A few—but only a few—authentic cases of death to human beings from black widow bites are on record in this country.

DUST STORMS IN OTHER LANDS

Spectacular dust storms, such as have been so frequent recently in this country, occur from time to time in many other parts of the world, says the United States Weather Bureau.

One of the most remarkable dustfalls in history resulted from a great storm which raged over the dry steppes of Southern Ukraine in 1928, blowing us such dense clouds of dust that day was turned into night. Such events are known on the Russian Steppes as "black storms." It was estimated that 15,400,000,000 tons of earth was swept up from the soil. The greater part of this was deposited within the Ukraine, but about 2,000,000 tons fell in Rumania and 1,500,000 tons in Poland.

In March 1901 heavy dust storms occurred in the deserts of southern Algeria. A cyclonic storm sucked up dust and deposited it over an area extending as far as 2,500 miles from the place of its origin. Reports from hundreds of observers indicated that 1,800,000 tons of dust fell over Europe, one-third of which fell north of the Alps. On the African coast the deposit was estimated at 150,000,000 tons.

In 1902, a dust storm swept nearly the whole of Australia and the surrounding ocean as far away as New Zealand. At Melbourne, according to one account, "the dust was at times suffocatingly dense and the upper air was so loaded with it that the sun was rarely visible. At many inland towns the darkness produced almost equaled that of the blackest night, and in the houses nothing could be done without lamps or other means of lighting. Added to this were some henomena of an even more terrifying character. At Boort and in some parts of the Riverina the storm was accompanied by a sort of globular lightning, and 'fireballs' were seen falling on the fields and roads."

Electrical displays in the form of brush discharges (St. Elmo's Fire) are not uncommon in connection with our American dust storms.

SUPPLEMENTAL PASTURES ADD TO FARMING PROFITS

A good pasture is one of the simplest ways of making money on the farm. Many farmers have gone a step farther, according to the United States Department of Agriculture, and added to their profits with supplemental pastures which lengthen the grazing season at both ends and bolster it in the middle.

They have planted Sudan grass, sweet clover, lespedeza, soybeans, cowpeas, and the small grains. The winter grains provide good grazing in the early spring. The Sudan grass and the legumes are available at any time during the summer when permanent pastures need a rest. All may be used for hay if not needed for pasture.

While adding to their profits with supplemental pastures, these farmers are taking the first step in "back to grass." More than 25,000,000 acres which have been producing corn, cotton, wheat, and tobacco will be available this year for soil building, erosion-preventing and weed-controlling hay and pasture crops. The acreage of supplemental pastures need be only one-fourth to one-third the acreage of permanent pasture because of their greater carrying capacity for short periods.

Permanent pastures are at their best for a month or more in the early summer. After that the grass decreases in quantity and quality, particularily in dry years. Temporary pastures of Sudan grass or legumes usually are at their best in late summer.

JUST A TRUNKFUL!

THREE smiling young stowaways demonstrate the ample space available for luggage, golf clubs or trophies of a shopping expedition, found in the trunk compartment of the new Ford V-8 Touring Sedans, two of the new de luxe types recently announced by the Ford Motor Company. The trunk compartment —with 12 cubic feet of space—is an inherent part of the design of the Tudor and Fordor Touring Sedan body types. All the space is used for luggage, the spare tire being carried conventionally at the rear, while an inner compartment under the floor provides space for tools. The trunk compartments may be locked with the same key that fits the tire lock. The new touring sedans were designed to provide ample luggage carrying facilities for families doing extensive traveling who wish to utilize the car interior for passengers. They have proved thus far to be among the most popular Ford body types.

UNIVERSITY NEWS

University, Ala., May 13.—Governor Bibb Graves and fifteen members of the governor's official staff, were guests of the corps of cadets and the University administration at the annual governor's day celebration at the University of Alabama Saturday.

The governor arrived from Montgomery at 11:30 a.m. Saturday and was greeted by a cannon salute of nineteen guns. His car was met on the outskirts of the University by a squadron of motorcycle police and taken to the R. O. T. C. headquarters where he was met by a guard of honor which included the company of Pershing Rifles and the R. O. T. C. Band. At headquarters he was initiated as an honorary member of the Pershing Rifles, national military organization. Governor Graves served his country in the World War.

Governor Graves and his party then went to the parade field to view a parade of the R. O. T. C. brigade. President Denny appointed Cadet Major Edward H. Harris of Tuscaloosa as honorary aid to the governor. He is the son of Prof. Ben H. Harris of the University faculty. Cadet First Sergt. J. Alles Griffin of Anniston was appointed by President Denny as the governor's orderly; and he named Cadet Staff Sergt. Benjamin S. Dorman of Anniston to be in charge of the governor's color guard. All these students were selected because of their splendid records at the University.

Following the parade the corps of cadets gathered around the historic mound to hear Governor Graves' annual address to the brigade.

At one o'clock governor and Mrs. Graves and party were guests of honor at a luncheon tendered by the administration. The guest list included deans of the University and their wives, together with other administrative officials and prominent citizens of Tuscaloosa.

Shocked and grieved by the untimely passing of Professor Clarence E. Cason, head of the department of journalism the University of Alabama campus was wrapped in gloom this week end as students and faculty members with word and thoughts did homage to this respected professor. Funeral services were held Wednesday the day after his death, and the body was taken to Galena, Ill., for interment.

He was graduated from the University in 1917, and subsequently received a master's degree from the University of Wisconsin and at the University of Minnesota before coming here in 1928. Mr. Cason contributed frequently to outstanding newspapers and magazines. His first book "Ninety in the Shade," was scheduled for release on May 11.

Dr. George H. Denny, president of the University, pointed out the importance of good judgement in speaking before the student officers at the installation ceremonies. He stated that serving as an offficer of the student government was one of the best types of training a student at the university could receive.

The first Alabama Institute of state and local affairs will be held at the University June 26 to 28, immediately following the state educational conference, according to Dr. John R. McLure, director of the summer school. The program will deal with important problems of government, and related social and economic questions in Alabama. The Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs is the first organization to become an official sponsoring group for the Institute. Those planning to attend are being requested to make advance reservations with the summer school.

About fifteen members of the varsity squad and six freshmen will make the trip to Birmingham this week end to participate in the southeastern track meet. The Tiders should show well in a number of events particularly in the dashes, the 440 yard run, the mile relay, the javelin throw, and the pole vault.

Commencement exercises for the 104th event will be held May 26 to 28. The Hon. Harold L. Ickes ,secretary of the interior, will speak on Monday night, May 27, the alumni banquet.

The program will begin Sunday at 5:30 p.m. with the baccalaureate sermon, to be given by Rev. Dr. James I. Vance of the Nashville First Presbyterian church. Dr. Edwin Mims, professor of English at Vanderbilt, will address the Alpha of Alabama chapter of Phi Beta Kappa at their annual spring initiation luncheon on Monday at 1 p.m. Beta Gamma Sigma, honorary commerce scholastic fraternity, will be held at the same time. Other events of the day include the business meeting of the alumni association, and an academic procession at 7:30 p.m. following the alumni banquet. The procession will proceed to Morgan Hall to hear Secretary Ickes. The final event of the day will be the annual commencement ball to be held in the gymnasium under the direction of the athletics association.

Events of the program Tuesday include the annual recepiton tendered to the graduating seniors by Dr. and Mrs. Denny, and the final exercises to be held at the stadium at 5 p.m. Dr. Denny will confer degrees at this time, and Governor Graves will make the principal address.

PROPOSAL TO EQUALIZE TAXES ON GASOLINE

Montgomery, Ala.—Mr. J. B. Reynolds, representative from Dale County and author of the bills for uniform gasoline taxes throughout the state, told a delegation of automobile men Friday, that his measures, if adopted, will not increase the average of taxes paid on motor fuel in the state as a whole, but would correct the many inequalities that now exist in various counties and cities.

Mr. Reynolds also stated that the situation is rapidly growing worse, and if uniformity is not obtained by legislation at this session, it will be difficult or impossible to remedy the situation when it becomes more complicated with special county and city gasoline taxes.

One of his bills, introduced last week, proposes a constitutional amendment designed to check this kind of local gasoline tax legislation. The other is a lengthy measure to make the gasoline tax a uniform seven cents in all parts of the state; adding one cent to the present state tax. When this added one cent is collected in all incorporated muncipalities and their respective police jurisdictions, the proceeds to the municipality. The balance collected outside of municipalities goes to the 67 counties in equal shares.

Under this Act, the first six cents of the state tax would continue to be divided between the state highway department and the 67 counties, with each county receiving a like share of the three-cent tax allocated to the counties.

All acts permitting taxation of gasoline by counties and cities are specifically repealed, but special provision is made for those that have pledged their share of the special funds to secure bonded obligation.

Mrs. Reynolds stated that some counties having highest local taxes on gasoline are strongly supporting his bills.

BAPTISM

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 28:19, 20; Acts 8:26-29.

GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye therefore, and teach all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost.—Matthew 28:19.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When People Are Baptized.

JUNIOR TOPIC—When People Are Baptized.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Be Baptized?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Meaning of Baptism.

I. The Baptism of Jesus (Matt. 3:13-17).

1. His request of John (v. 13). This was in act, if not in word. He came from Galilee to Jordan to be baptized of John.

2. John's hesitancy (v. 14). He perceived something in Jesus which impressed him with the impropriety of such an act, even moving him to hinder the execution of his demand.

3. Jesus' explanation (v. 15). He insisted upon John's compliance on the ground that it was a method of fulfilling all righteousness.

4. The heavenly acknowledgment (vv. 16, 17). As Jesus emerged from the waters of the Jordan the heavens were opened, the Holy Spirit descended, and a voice from heaven declared, "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased."

II. Jesus Enjoins Baptism (Matt. 28:19, 20).

In Christ's commission to the apostles he imposes the following obligations:

1. To teach, to make disciples of all the nations (v. 19). They were to make known to the world that Christ had died to save sinners and that God had committed to Jesus the redemption of the world.

2. To baptize those who believe (v. 19). This is the divinely appointed way of making a public confession of faith in Christ. This baptism is to be in the name of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost, indicating that the believer has been brought into definite relationship to each member of the holy Trinity.

3. To teach the disciples obedience (v. 20). Profession is not enough. It must issue in obedience. This commission is preceded by the assurance of the divine authority of Jesus (v. 18). All authority was given him in heaven and earth and was followed by an all sufficient promise (v. 20).

III. Baptism Practiced in the Early Church.

1. At Pentecost (Acts 2:38, 41). This was the first baptismal service in the Christian church. Multitudes were brought under conviction of sin as a result of the apostolic preaching and thousands were baptized. Baptism was administered in the name of Christ, which doubtless refers to the authority of Christ.

2. The Samaritans under the preaching of Philip (Acts 8:5-12). As a result of his preaching men and women believed on the Lord Jesus Christ. Their profession of faith was followed by baptism.

3. The eunuch (Acts 8:26-39). In the conversion of the Ethiopian eunuch the Lord's work is seen broadening in its scope. The gospel was first preached to the Jews, then to the Samaritans who nationally were on the borderland between the Jews and the Gentiles. This Ethiopian was in all probability a Gentile, a proselyte to the Jewish faith. The Spirit of God called Philip away from the great work in Samaria and directed him to go near and join himself to the chariot of the Ethiopian treasurer. This providential meeting gave Philip the opportunity to preach to the Ethiopian. Philip preached to him Christ as the Savior, who through suffering and death saved from the guilt of sin. This resulted in the eunuch's request for baptism.

4. The baptism of Paul (Acts 9:18-19). The great apostle to the Gentiles, before entering upon his work, received baptism at the hands of Ananias, who was not even himself a church official.

5. Cornelius and his household (Acts 10:47,48). When God would send the gospel upon its world-wide conquest, he providentially brought Peter and Cornelius together. Peter preached to Cornelius the sacrificial death of Christ for sin and his triumphant resurrection. Seeing the visitation of the divine Spirit upon the Gentiles, Peter proposed baptism.

IV. The True Meaning of Baptism (Rom. 6:1-14).

Water baptism symbolizes the identification of the believer with Jesus Christ in his death and resurrection. It is the outward sign of the inner experience.

SERVICES AT SAMARIA

Rev. J. W. Jones, pastor at Samaria, announces that on account of attending the Southern Baptist Convention at Memphis he will not be able to visit in Samaria community, as is his custom, but will be there for regular services Sunday at 11 o'clock, and will be pleased to have as many of the members and others present as possible. Meet your pastor there.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

There is no substitute for good common sense. A man without common sense may be able to go into a scientific laboratory and make interesting experiments. He may be able to play the piano well, but we are living in a practical world and the man who deals with people must have common sense if he is to succeed in life. Dwight L. Moody was a great evangelist but he was a practical man. The lawyer or the physician with ordinary, everyday common sense usually "makes good." Some times a student in our college comes to me with some plan that isn't practical. He tells me that he believes God is leading him in the plan. I always tell him that God has "good sense' and God is not the author of a foolish and impractical proposition.

Can we acquire common sense? I doubt it. We can develop what we have and we can get wisdom from God. Wisdom is the ability to use knowledge so as to meet successfully the emergencies of life. If any man lack wisdom if he will ask God for it God will give it to him. But God doesn't give wisdom to the idiot. God gives wisdom to people who have some sense to start with. The world is filled with wrecks and failures because people don't even have common sense enough to get advice from someone who does have common sense.

My good old friend, Dr. George R. Stuart, used to say, "Bob, it is a good thing when you know the 'gittin' place." A lawyer who is successful in his profession knows the principles of law. If a proposition is submitted to him he knows whether that proposition is in accord with the principles of law. It is not only important for a lawyer to know the principles of law, but he needs to know where to go for specific information. The Bible contains all the information the world needs in the way of a philosophy of life. It tells us every thing we need to make us happy and to make us victorious. A preacher has the best 'gittin' place in the world for people who come to him for help. What a farce it is when a preacher stands in his pulpit on Sunday night and reviews the latest novel when he has in his pulpit the Book of Books out of which to preach to a hungry, broken-hearted world.

New Ice Plants Incur NRA Suit

J. Q. Wade Involved in NRA Case Before Federal Court

Alleging violations of the Code of Fair Competition for the ice industry, two injunctions are being sought in federal court in Montgomery to prevent the erection of ice plants in Montgomery and Selma. The petition in the local case is against the DeJarnette Oil Company, while the other defendant is John Q. Wade, of Clanton, who has under construction an ice plant at Selma.

Judge C. B. Kennamer has set the cases for hearing on June 5. The U. S. government in each instance is seeking a permanent injunction to prevent the further expansion of ice manufacturing in the two cities.

It is alleged in the petitions that the Montgomery concern and Wade violated Section 11 of the Code of Fair Competition for the ice industry. The government contends injunctions in the two cases are authorized by Section 3 (c) of Title One of the National Industrial Recovery Act, enacted by Congress in 1933.

Briefly, the government contends that further increases in the output of ice at Montgomery and Selma are unwarranted at this time; that mechanical refrigeration has greatly reduced the demand for ice throughout the country; and that both defendants have violated the terms of the NRA.

The Government quoted Section 11 of the Code of Fair Competition for the ice industry as follows: "If at any time an individual, firm, corporation, or partnership, or other form of enterprise, desires to establish additional ice production storage, or tonnage in any given territory, said party must first establish to the satisfaction of the Administrator that public necessity and convenience requires such additional ice-making capacity, storage or production."

NRA authorities claim that no attempt has been made by the DeJarnette Oil Company and John Q. Wade to establish to the satisfaction of the code administrator that public necessity and convenience required such increased production or capacity as contemplated.

The local concern, it was claimed, did not purchase its equipment and machinery until March 21, this year, after beng notified the NRA would not approve the establishment of another ice plant in Montgomery.

It was further contended in the petition that during recent years the ice industry has been greatly disorganized and reduced to a state of financial ruin as a result of unfair methods of competition in "a reckless quest for business and particularly by vicious price cutting and the erection of new plants, thereby causing price wars."

Warns People About Parking

Police chief, John Browder, says there are yet some motorists who appear to disregard the efforts of the town officials to regulate parking of cars on Second Avenue to avoid congestion and obstruction of traffic.

Mr. Browder hopes that everybody will observe proper regulations in this respect. Those who persist in ignoring his request will be taken before the mayor, he says.

TIRE STEALING APPEARS TO BE ORGANIZED RACKET HERE

Chief of Police, John Browder, this week gives warning to the public to guard against what appears to be an organized gang in the community engaged in stealing automobile tires and gasoline.

Within the past week five tire thefts have been reported to Mr. Browder. He has been able to trace three of them and effect their return to the owners.

Mr. Browder appeals to the people of the community to cooperate with him and help in breaking up the racket, and to bring the offenders to account for their lawbreaking.

THIS MAD DOG MUST HAVE BEEN REALLY MAD

One night last week Policeman John Browder observed a man in the alley back of the tool house at the new postoffice. He appeared suspicious by his actions and Mr. Browder made further investigation.

The man said he had been bitten by a mad dog, and was taking some medicine for the bite. When asked how he knew the dog was mad, the man said he knew he was mad because he bit off the end of a gun barrel.

By this time the man had set his bottle of mad dog medicine down, and was proceeding to leave the scene without further ceremony. He got away, but Browder got his bottle of medicine. The man was known by Mr. Browder, and he will be brought to the Mayor in due time.

Mr. Browder concludes that the man was one of those who believe that the hair of the dog is good for the bite.

MATURED COCKLEBURS

During the past week there have been brought in to The Union-Banner two specimens of cockleburs, both of which had matured burs on them, and apparently had grown up during the past few weeks, judging from the tender leaves and the small stalks. The stalks were only about six inches high, and there were about a dozen full grown burs on each stalk.

Clinging to the roots of one of the stalks was still the hull of the germinated seed, as well as the other half of the seed which had never germinated. It is said that one side of the seed comes up one year and the other side the next year.

This is an oddity for this season of the year, inasmuch as cockleburs are supposed to mature in the fall.

COTTON CONTROL FOR 1935 CROP

Applications Soon to be Presented to Farmers For Signatures

Applications for allotments under the Bankhead act have been received by the county agent. The cotton history given on the cotton acreage reduction contracts is being typed into applications. As soon as this is completed the applications will be presented to the producers for their signatures.

The Secretary of Agriculture has announced that a minimum allotment of the full amount of his base production will be made to each producer whose established base production was not more than two bales. This is in accordance with the policy announced by the administration previous to the vote taken on the continuance of the Bankhead act. This vote, as you will remember, was 95 per cent in Chilton County and 90 per cent in the entire cotton belt in favor of continuing the operation of this act for the 1935-36 season.

Under the existing regulations operating a part of a farm do not have a separate base. No cotton farmer has cause to expect that his allotment will be in excess of 65 per cent of his base production, unless the farm which is operating has an established base production of two bales or less. In that event, he will receive a minimum allotment equal to the amount of his average production, but no more. The 12-cent loans on 1934 cotton has been extended six months beyond the maturity date of July 31.

It is the purpose of the administration to provide adequate credit to cotton farmers to permit the orderly marketing of the 1935 cotton crop. It should be emphasized, however, that the Commodity Credit Corporation will make no loans on the 1935 cotton crop to any producer who is not cooperating in the cotton program under the agricultural adjustment act, nor will any loans be made on the 1935 crop to any producer for an amount of cotton in excess of his allotment under the Bankhead Act.

UNIFORM GAS TAX BILLS APPROVED

Wide Variation in Tax Over State to be Brought To One Figure

Montgomery, Ala., May 20.—Both of the Reynolds Uniform Gasoline Tax bills have been favorably reported and will go to the house calendar for passage on the next legislative day.

The measure creating what is in effect a gasoline tax code for municipalities was approved by the ways and means committee and the proposed constitutional amendment to prevent future local gas taxes was also favorably acted upon, without an opposing vote.

Alabama has wider variation in gasoline taxation than any other state, because of its numerous special local acts and ordninances. Only six states permit local taxation of motor fuel and Alabama is the only one that appears to be drifting into unrestricted local taxation of this character.

The immediate passage of the Reynolds bills is being urged by the gasoline division of the state tax commission to avod confusion and effect a more equitable distribution of the gasoline tax funds.

A popular feature of the bill is that which provides for the "distribution of the tax to all incorporated municipalities where the tax is collected in the corporate limits and police jurisdictions of such municipalities; and that the balance collected in the county, go to the 67 counties in equal shares each month as the tax is collected." Representative J. B. Reynolds, of Ozark, author of the two bills, has been assured by capitol leaders that this needed legislation will be adopted and approved by the governor.

Clanton's Airport Is A Challenge To Foresight In Preparing For Future

[AN EDITORIAL]

The facts recited in the communication of Dr. Gragg this week, it seems, should make a lasting impression upon officials and citizens of Clanton and Chilton County.

We of today have the responsibility of gathering visions of things that will be of importance to our community at the right time, else the opportunity will be lost.

From the letter of Dr. Gragg an interesting comparison is drawn between Clanton and our neighbor town of Columbiana in the matter of building an airport and community center.

It appears that Columbiana people, led by their hustling Mayor, Harry Gordon, have realized the full scope of their present duty and opportunity to make such development in their midst.

Likewise, it appears that Clanton and Chilton County people have not aroused themselves to the full importance of our own effort to develop and establish an airport and community center.

Dr. Gragg and our county officials recently made a visit to Columbiana, from which they returned with the feeling that Clanton and Chilton County people ought to take a leaf out of Mayor Gordon's book, and get busy at once to gather unto our community all possible assistance and push forward to a complete development of our airport, with all available recreation facilities.

Soon the new works program of the federal government will be released and set into motion. In it there will be a chance for us to get together, work together, and secure the aid necessary to make us able to develop our project completely and fully.

It is hoped and urged by those who have the vision of the future importance of this project that our officials will act promptly and that their action will have the sanction, backing and hearty support of all our citizens. We should be ready to strike when the iron is hot again.

BALL TEAM AT ALABAMA MILLS

Mr. Mahaffey, at Alabama Mills here, announces that a full-fledged baseball team has been organized among the employees, and they are now ready for engagements with other teams.

Mr. Mahaffey reports that facilities for recreation on the premises of the mill will be considerably improved in the near future. Arrangements for football and basket ball will be made by the time season for those games arrives.

RUDOLPH MOATTS BARN BURNED TUESDAY WITH HEAVY DAMAGE

A large barn with all its contents was destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon at the farm of Mr. Rudolph Moatts, about two and a half miles northeast of Clanton.

The fire of undetermined origin, is said to have started in the hayloft, where it was first discovered by the little son of Mr. Moatts.

The loss was heavy, including a vast amount of hay, corn, feed stuff, three pigs, a calf and a bull.

The barn having a metal roof is said to have been the means of saving the Moatts residence and other buildings from being destroyed. A high wind aggravated the flames and made a serious threat to all buildings nearby.

W. E. TURNIPSEED HURT IN ACCIDENT WITH TRACTOR

Mell Martin's ambulance was called to Maplesville late last Thursday afternoon to take W. E. Turnipseed age 28, to a hospital in Selma for treatment of severe injuries sustained in an accident with a tractor.

The young man was engaged in plowing with a tractor in the fields of Dr. C. N. Parnell, near Maplesville. When the big machine ran into a soft place it mired down and stalled. The driver gave it the juice in an effort to pull out of the mire. The back end went further down as the front end stood straight up, and the machine came backwards pinning the driver underneath.

Samuel Martin, who carried the injured man to King Memorial Hospital in Selma, stated that he was severely injured, and suffered frequent convulsions while on the way to Selma.

WEAR A POPPY NEXT SATURDAY

Legion Auxiliary To Offer Flowers for Sale to Help Veterans

Complete plans for the observance of Poppy Day here on Saturday, May 25th, have been announced by Mrs. Ethel Downs, poppy committee chairman of the Chilton County unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, following a special meeting of the committee. Organization of a corps of volunteer workers to carry out the distribution of the memorial poppies throughout the county was completed and leaders appointed to direct the work in the various areas.

"The American Legion Auxiliary poppies will be distributed entirely by volunteer workers," said Mrs. Downs. "The response to our call for volunteers has been very gratifying from both our senior and junior members, and we will be able to give everyone in the county an opportunity to wear a poppy on poppy day. As the workers will serve entirely without pay or commission, every penny contributed in exchange for the flowers will go for the welfare activities of the Legion and Auxiliary.

"The enthusiasm of our women for the Poppy Day project is due to the two great purposes which the little memorial flower achieves. First, it pays tribute to those gallant young men who sacrificed their lives in defense of American ideals on the poppy-studded fields of France and Belgium. Second, it raises funds for the relief and rehabilitation of the living victims of the war, the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead. We are hoping that the people of Chilton County will understand the significance of the poppy and give us their support on poppy day."

THE NIXES VISITING

Dr. H. M. Nix of Maplesville will be out of his office from May 24th to May 29th. He and his family will be in Gulfport attending the graduating exercises of the Gulf Coast Military Academy, where their son, H. M. Jr., graduates.

COUNCIL APPROVE NEW ORDINANCES

Street Is To Be Paved In Front of New City Hall Building

At the meeting of the Town Council Tuesday night a number of important matters engaged the attention of the body, disposition of which is of interest to our citizens.

It was determined to install a water cooling system in the new city hall, with a drinking fount on the outside for the convenience of the public, and another inside for the use of the occupants of the building.

Favorable consideration was given by the council on the proposed paving of that part of Second Avenue which is between the city hall property and the county property on the opposite side of the street. This proposal will be carried out by cooperation between the town and county.

An ordinance was passed making it a violation of the law for drivers of automobiles or trucks to turn on the railroad crossing on Second Avenue. Violators of this ordinance will be subject to a fine. It was pointed out that such regulations are necessary for safety of the public, since a number of serious accidents have been narrowly averted.

Another traffic ordinance passed Tuesday night establishes a parking limit of one hour for cars and trucks on Seventh Street between first and third avenues. This action was taken at the request of business houses along that portion of the highway through the business district.

BILLINGSLEY SERVICE STATION OFFERS FIRESTONES ON TERMS

A dignified plan of easy payments on new Firestone tires and tubes is being announced this week by the Billingsley Service Station, local Firestone dealers.

This plan is known as the budget plan of buying automobile tires and tubes with payments as low as 51 cents per week, according to W. C. (Curtis) Billingsley, proprietor of the Billingsley Service Station.

"We are thoroughly sold on the idea," Mr. Billingsley stated, "and feel a great deal of pride in being the first to offer this dignified budget plan to the people of this section."

This plan will be fully explained to anyone calling at the Billingsley Service Station. It is being used extensively all over the country and fast becoming a popular method of purchasing automobile tires and tubes by making small, regular payments.

The Billingsley Service Station is one of the most popular service stations in Clanton. Located directly on the Birmingham - Montgomery highway and also at the intersection of this main road and the Selma highway, it has become widely known to tourists through this section due to its attractiveness, cleanliness and prompt service.

Mr. Billingsley is a great believer in the use of good advertising and through this medium and others, is pushing Firestone tires and tubes and genuine Texaco gas and oil products. The Billingsley Service Station is a certified Texaco station with all the accessories that go to make a modern station for tourists.

GROUP OF CLANTON CITIZENS VISIT COLUMBIANA AIRPORT

Mr. Editor:

You know it is a fine thing to visit your neighbor once in a while and see what he is doing. If it had not been for seeing the other fellow making progress, and becoming enthused enough to put forth a progressive effort ones self, where would the world be today? There would be no telephones, telegraph, steam, gasoline, or electric power, nor any of the many things made possibe thereby, such as the railroad train, steamship, automobile, airplane, radio and millions of other things. Were it not for the desire to be progressive, we, today, probably would not have reached the ox-cart and wooden plow stage.

But, be that as it may, last Wednesday several people from Chilton County went up to Shelby to visit our neighbor and see what progress he was making. We were aiming to visit Columbiana, Calera and Montevallo, making Columbiana the first of the three. Some of us flew over there and some drove over.

The first arrivals looked up Harry Gordon, the mayor, and asked him if he had anything worth our looking at. Harry smiled and said, "Why in H . . . didn't you let me know you were coming and come early. We can't have time to show you half of it. How many are there? I'll order dinner now." And over our protest and assurance that we were going to the other places before mentioned, he ordered dinner for ten.

Well, he took us out to the airport, an "eye opener." A hangar that cost $10,000, a field consisting of 176 acres with runways up to 2,700 feet in length, on which 250,000 yards of dirt had been moved, and which has cost $65,000; and he says it is just started. He showed us where they were going to construct a swimming pool, supplied with water from bored wells, and equipped with showers for use before and after swimming; also an indoor basket ball court where they can play day or night; a club house with all modern conveniences; a golf course and other things that I cannot remember.

He also took us over to his CWA-built ball park that would do credit to a much larger city. Then Harry had us served with a most excellent dinner. Well, it was agreed that it was too late to visit the Calera and Montevallo airports and we returned home.

I was just thinking how much I had wished that we had a community center in Clanton. We could have a good flying field that would accommodate passenger and mail and express ships and not be passed up, especially when our sister county can have three in a row. I had hoped for the swimming pool, the ball ground, club house and a golf course, so that our folks could have a place to go without leaving home.

However, I had thought the greatest good to be derived from such a community center would be to have a place where our farmers could hold annual meetings, county fairs, and, in fact, all sorts of get-together meetings where people from all over the entire county could meet and be comfortable, cool in summer, warm in winter; a sheltered, get-together central meeting place for the people from country and town to call their own.

In Columbiana, they had to cut down mountains to make level ground for their field, but they had a mayor equal to the occasion, and he is accomplishing an undertaking that will be a monument to him, and by which the rising generation of Shelby County will be improved and benefitted many years to come.

All praise to Harry Gordon.—V. J. Gragg.

Farmers In Meeting At Washington Are Urged to Back the AAA Cotton Program

"Get up on your hind legs and fight for what you know is simple justice," was the advice Secretary of Agriculture Wallace gave a group of farmers, representatives from 26 southern and western states, who congregated in Washington recently to ask for the continuance of the AAA program.

"Your united stand for the cause of agriculture was never more necessary than at the present moment," he continued. He warned his listeners that the next few weeks will be crucial ones, but if they will stand firm behind President Roosevelt they can rest assured that the farmers of this nation will be taken care of as in the past.

Four thousand five hundred farmers from 26 agricultural states gathered in Washington last week to protest against efforts that have been under way to undermine the governmental agricultural program; 217 of this number was from Alabama, representing everyone of its 67 counties.

County Agent J. W. Fant, J. N. Dennis, Senator Earle Thomas, and Irby Deramus were Chilton County's representatives.

This county is wholeheartedly behind the program, and more than half of the farmers within its limits have joined with those seeking to prevent the destroying of its aims and purposes. Two thousand cotton farmers have voted in meetings held in the county within the past few weeks for the continuance of the cotton processing tax, which provides the funds for the maintenance of the cotton program and other phases of the AAA. This is more than 50 per cent of the farmers in the county, Mr. Fant stated; out of this number only one man attempted to voice any opposition to the program, he said.

Farmers throughout the nation are realizing that this is the first time they have ever really been given any recognition, and it stands to reason that those who seek to crush this recognition will find strong opposition—opposition that will be ready to fight for ther rights.
